FLORIDA-BASED SINGER MAX SUAVO, PAYS HOMAGE TO DENNIS BROWN WITH NEW EP "MORE THAN FRIENDS!"

At the start of his career, Max Suavo did renditions of Dennis Brown songs at school events and club gigs. The reception was always positive and he continued to perform them when he resumed singing 10 years ago.

This year, the Florida-based artist compiled songs he has recorded since 2017, for an EP titled More Than Friends. It contains covers of songs made famous by the Crown Prince of Reggae who died in 1999 at age 42. Suavo puts his spin on If I Follow My Heart, Funny Feeling and Money In My Pocket, big hits by Brown that helped define the lovers rock genre. The title song and In Love Again, both originals, complete the mini set.

"It was my idea to use D Brown covers. These are (my) personal favorites, produced by me independently. At first Blue River Records offered to help with production but are now focusing on gospel, so production of the EP is independent but it was not officially released," Suavo explained.

The fans are overwhelmed by the astonishing execution by the singer par excellence Max Suavo. He has come up with infectious beats in the reggae number 'Just For You'. In my opinion, it is a classy performance by the Kingston reggae artist Max Suavo. As a teenager, the singer has been part of bands like 'The Classiques' as a lead singer and enthralled his fans singing cover songs by greats like Bob Marley, Denis Brown, Ini Kamoze and Barrington Levy. He is also the owner of an avant-garde production house called 'JonFX' that has futuristic facilities. The Jamaican singer can be accessed by logging on to his Facebook profile and Twitter handle.

While attending Tarrant High School, Max Suavo carved out an enviable niche, copping several medals for pursuits in track and field, including gold medals at the ISSA Boys and Girls' Athletics Championships.

Now, several years later, he hopes to score similar success in music. The singer, who is originally from Eastwood Park in St Andrew, and who now resides in the US, says through music, he wants to positively impact lives.
