

Following God's Calendar

2023 AD / 5986-87 AM Calendar of the Festivals of the Lord

Calculations are based on virtual "sightings" of the new moon using astronomy program Redshift 7 as viewed from Jerusalem. The standard is that the moon must set behind the sun by at least 12 degrees. The modern dates on the "Jewish" calendar are not based on the sighting of the new moon and also may differ for the following reasons:

1. The Modern Jewish calendar has the Passover Seder on Nisan 15, but the Scripture places it at the beginning of the 14th (See Leviticus 23:5). This is the date that the early Christians observed Passover.

2. The modern Jewish calendar does not provide the correct date for "Firstfruits" (which is the anniversary of Jesus' resurrection), Leviticus 23:10-11 states that this festival occurs on "the day after the Sabbath" following Passover, which we interpret as the weekly Sabbath, thus always placing Firstfruits on the first day of the week. But the modern Jewish interpretation considers the first day of Unleavened Bread (Nisan 15) to be an additional "Sabbath" referred to in this passage. So on the modern Jewish calendar "Firstfruits" is always on the 16th of Nisan regardless of weekday. But the careful student should notice that if this method is followed, then Pentecost will not always be the 50th day as required by Leviticus 23:15-16, thus exposing the flaw in this interpretation. The changes were intentionally made long ago in order to disassociate the feasts from any connection with Jesus Christ. This is not the work of the true Jewish/Hebrew people of God. This would be what we call today "Zionists", the secular Satan worshiping, group that is vying for world control and destruction.

3. Because of the change of Firstfruits, the modern Jewish calendar does not always place Pentecost on a Sunday as Scripture requires, because they changed the starting day for the countdown of the 50-days, defined as 7 full Sabbaths + 1 day = 50 days.
