

PERHAPS AROUND 3

Expelled from my life
You didn't know why
But how was I going
Going to get by?

Universe ignored me
Or so I thought
Day in and day out
You were closely about

Then I heard
That you moved far out
Now you're not near
Now I'm without

What's done is done
I guess now true
You're happy now
Yet I'm still blue

Not seeing you every day
This is for the best
This scar will heal
Just like the rest

I really did care for you
In an odd sort of way
You did nothing wrong
My imagination ran away

You see I'm a dreamer
And I dreamed of you
I had no business doing this
But sometimes I just have to

For this you can be sure
I don't look back in anger
Until my heart mends
I can't speak your name

Universe, I thank you
For taking this away
All things must end
And I know what you'd say

“Everything is temporary
Situations never meant to be
You will laugh again
Perhaps around 3”

From the bottom of my heart
I wish you the best

I HOPE THIS EXPLAINS

But my heart needs a rest

You really are a beautiful
An amazing human being
Full of beautiful light
So much more to be seen

I know you'll do well
I know you'll be true
Wonderful thing
I expect from you

POEM: PERPHAPS AROUND 3

WRITTEN BY: CARRIE TEMPLEMAN

WRITTEN ON: 23 MAY

BOOK: BRIDGE MARK