

We expect these puppies to be large, active dogs about seventy to eighty pounds. They will be white or cream colored with curly, dense fur, dark eyes and noses. They have their complete tails and dewclaws like all Komondors. Their coats can be corded or kept trimmed. They will be warm in cold parts of the country. They will bark at strangers and noises outside like a Komondor. We expect these puppies to look a lot like our Komondoodle sisters. They will have their first puppy shots, be wormed and have a vet wellness check at eight weeks which will be the middle of February 2022. They won't be shipped but can be seen in northeastern California close to Reno, Nevada or close to Susanville, California. You can contact the owner-breeders at lynnrfuller@gmail.com and arrange to visit these puppies. Below are pictures of the new Komondoodle pups at 6 weeks and our Komondoodle sisters at 3 years sporting GPS collars for off-lead wilderness runs.
