RENT A FALCON, SAVE YOUR VINEYARD! THE NEW AIRBORNE SECURITY GUARDS

00:00

61:26

F

alcons are smart, fast and lethal—but they can also be a farm's greatest defense against losing an entire harvest. Master falconer Alina Blankenship tells us about protecting fields of grapes and blueberries with her flock of highly-skilled birds, from the falcon that operates like a jet-fighter to the hawk that patrols crops like a bouncer. Plus, Kim Severson reports on Gen Z's "milk shame" and what the dairy industry is trying to do about it; Alex

Aïnouz pursues perfect creme brûlée; and we learn to make a vegetarian Carbonara where you won't miss the meat.

Questions in this episode:

"Do you have any tips for making granola bars that keep their shape?"

"How do you incorporate fresh fruit into homemade ice cream without it getting icy?"

"Do you have recommendations for what to cook with inchelium red garlic?"
