Hail to the King

Hail to the King! All hail the King of Heaven! Let us laud the Lord of glory and praise the Prince of peace! At this and every hour, to salute the living Saviour, Defier and Conqueror of death. Him alone we do applaud Who fiercely fights for us. Magnate of the ages, Who approved of our great station and appointed our good course, Who paved our path Himself and personally pointed the way, Yahshua, our Messiah, oh wondrous warrior, Chaste and poor, Obeyer of Elohim, and protector of men, ever and always we acclaim You, calling on Your holy Name. May the Cross, as Your life's quest be our life's object also. And as Your earthly pilgrimage brought You to perfect age, allow, oh Lord, by our own earthly journey, that we too with You may be made perfect. Proven Victor in your finest hour at the stake, crushing satan's power through Your purely sacred crusade, may we there be made overcomers with You, and all our moments become that day. Then and there we pray and promise and prove our mettle as holy Christian soldiers in service of the First Knight. We Ryders in Your vanguard, oh most noble Christ, shall give our all for Your just war, engaging Your Majesty's enemies in pitched battle for the souls of all the saints upon the heights of Zion. Lead us, oh Lord, wherever You will and unto whatever ending maybe... By all paths to black Golgotha, down all roads to Dark Calvary, where e'er You go we follow, where e'er You stop we stay. And we will hold our ground on that most holy Hill. There we stand with our Dread-sovereign, where time itself stands still. We, the YAH-sworn, we the faithful, Your fellow-soldiers in the place of a skull. So we kneel to the Crown at the foot of the cross, here at the center of centuries where we live and die and Rise anew, and from this moment and from this mountain, we shall not be moved. Here we stay! Here we stand! Us with Elohim, and Elohim with us. All hail Emmanuel! All hail King Jesus! Hallelujah!

Prayer for Prisoners

Bless the chains and those who wear them. Ease the burdens of all who bear them. Help those in pain and fear, those far from home, know YOU are near. The lost and lonely, broken and bound may everyone hear mercy's sound. For all who rot in iron cage who know not hope but only rage, May grace be there to greet them and may one and all find freedom.

Second Prayer for Prisoners

Oh, YAHWEH, Lord of liberty and Author of Law, You Who lift up the downtrodden, loose the bonds of the bedeviled, and love the desperate and despised. Remember the prisoners in Your mercy, we pray, be they devils or angels enchained, and have regard for their helpless estate. In your boundless compassion, oh Lord, care for the incarcerated, for all those under sentence, and all who are bound. See the guilty received justice without prejudice, the innocent set free without hindrance, and the wronged rectified without delay. Judge of all the earth, we appeal to you for the prisoners, for the hungry, lonely, lowly captives, and ask that you would show them kindness when their case comes before You in that other worldly court. In Your high heaven, may Your grace rain down on the repentant, Your right hand be heavy on the miscreant, and Your retribution bring swift ruin on all who knowingly, willfully, and maliciously wreck lives and abuse the vulnerable and unfortunate. And as always, for the sake of Your NAME, nature, and saving justice, comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable. For Messiah's sake. Amein.

Prayer for Fasting

Blessed is YAHWEH, Eloheinu , KING of the Universe, WHO has blessed us beyond all comprehension, WHO has bestowed upon us HIS boundless compassion, and WHO cared for us faithfully as all who came before. We praise YOU, oh LORD, for leading us thus far, for letting us see life once more this day, and for YOUR promise to love us always for the sake of YOUR Son,. Though we have nothing of value not already YOURS, and though we ourselves are wretched and sinful, let our hearts be brought before YOU, broken and shattered and ready to serve YOUR NAME. May our sacrifice this day be a multiplied many times and made so much more than mere self denial, but moreover turned to forgiveness of sins, deliverance of slaves, redemption for the oppressed, food for the hungry, clothes for the naked, and shelter for the wandering poor. Let this be the fast YOU have chosen and this YOUR acceptable day.

Prayer For Light

YAHWEH, LORD of light and righteousness, grant us light in this dark world; YOU WHO said, "let there be light," in the inception of all things, let there be light now in our time and teach us to live by it... To behold it, and to behold All things by it, and to be that light ourselves, so others bound in blackest night may no longer be blind but see. Thank you, LORD of fire for the flames that light up the darkness when the sun no longer shines on us, for the warmth and wonder they provide, our saving grace, our sense of hope, our promise till dawn. Be with us, we pray and may YOUR NAME Light our way. By day and by night, oh, LORD be our light, our fire, our warmth, our day till night is no more. Amen.

Prayer For Forgiveness

I hear by forgive forgive my enemies both murderous and mild. I forgive their urges and choices. I forgive their debts and sins. I forgive their trespasses and offenses against me and all I cherish. I forgive them because they are broken. I forgive them because they're fools. I forgive them because I am them... And I desire mercy for myself That final day. Judge of all the earth, do as you desire... Bless the just. Curse the wicked. And show grace for Christ sake to all whom you will. Take the darkness from my heart, and the dagger from my hand. Turn my rage to Grace oh Lord and replace my wrath with peace...

Prayer for Performing a Mitzvah

Blessed are you YHWH, Eloheinu, King of the Universe, for bringing together the Mitzvot. May the Holy One WHO is Blessed and HIS Holy Spirit, be united in love to the One Who is hidden in the Name of all Israel.

Blessing For the Stars

Lord of every heaven above, we give You our most humble thanks for our small place in Your great creation. As Your crudest, meanest creatures, made of meagre dust and subject to die, ever grateful for Your gentle graces, for giving us eyes to see all Your wonders, for sustaining all our days against the ever devouring grave, for preserving our perfect world within the endless void, and for loving us like nothing else, ourselves less than nothing in the light of Your bright stars, we lift up holy hands in prayer and bless Your Sacred NAME. May our lowly hopes and hollow voices be raised up before Your lofty throne, riding the worship of Your burning ones beyond the sky. And in harmony with the song of Constellations, together shining the light You gave us, may we join the celestial bodies in the chorus of the cosmos to proclaim your praise from age to age. Amein.

Blessing For Time

YAHWEH Olam, Undying, everlasting Lord, great maker of endless time, we, Your temporal, mortal creatures come to offer humble thanks. Immutable, imminent Master, Maker of our every moment and of the life of the whole world, to You we give all praise in faith for allowing us awareness, we who are but once and future dust. For our life, however lowly, we love You, and for our being, however brief, we bless Your NAME. As shifting shadows, finite and fading away, whatever our lot, whether we live or die this day, may we worship You for all that You are and ever do Your will with a noble heart, come what horrors may. Amein.

Second Prayer for Time

Oh, YAHWEH, from unbounded now, where movements and measurements have no meaning, how grateful we are for our few hours in which we give You praise. Eternal Father, for sun and moon to mark the passing months and years, we say thank You and worship Your NAME from age to age. You Who were and are and will be forever, from then to now You have never changed. As all our fathers before us, we call on You to care for us and trust You completely to provide and to save. Both centuries and seconds are all the same to You, oh Ancient of Days. Birth to death, in You we rest and work to do Your will on earth, knowing always You will never be otherwise than You are and were for our most far off forebears. All our times are in Your hands, oh Lord, and every event unto the end. Should we be blessed to live and see tomorrow and should we be so honored to be offered the grace of yet one more day, may we receive it only in righteousness and with an attitude of gratitude and give due glory to You alone, the Mighty One Who gave us all our yesterdays. Amein.

Prayer For the Valley

In this valley we were born, oh Lord Almighty, by Your mercy, and in the dread shadow of these heights, we have journeyed all our days. In Your loving kindness we are climbing from this combe, and for Your glory we are going by only lonely righteous paths. Walking always rightly as we rise up from this gully, may we be found ever wholly and fully pleasing to Your NAME.

Should we ever lose our way within the depths of this dark dell, we shall rely upon Your gracious Light to restore us and show the way out of this ravine. And when we fear the evil and death that stalks us through this bowl, guide us, Father, by your goodness in this glen, and may Your comfort delight our soul. As You lead us, dear YAHWEH, ever ascending, we trust that all our treading will bring us rest as we are tiring, having carried us from this Canyon, through the dale to dwell in the home You've been preparing and preparing us for all the while in the Vale. Amen.

Prayer For the Plane

Go with us, good Lord Almighty, as we traverse this terrestrial plane. We mortal time-bound beings humbly ask You not abandon us, but that You stay by our side as we attempt and strive, remain with us, YAHWEH, righteous King, our constant companion in our calamity and a comforting refuge in raging chaos. Be a Mighty One nearby when we need Your guidance, and be not far off when we are afraid. Lead us in the way of a lasting, and we shall walk forever in Your NAME. Hold fast to us that we may be holy, and carry us higher that we may live where You dwell. Amen.

Prayer for the Mountain

On the heights of Your holy Heaven, oh YAHWEH, El Shaddai, look down upon this mountain and have mercy for us mortals ever rising yet always doomed to die. As we climb to Your abode of light above, allow us a glimpse of Your glory from the summit. Step by step, may our ascent take us farther from all lowly, loathsome things we've left behind, and may the path we tread further up and further in bring us nearer to the place in which You dwell, to the home we hope to find. Great and Mighty One of every mountain high, You Whose NAME does stand supreme upon that lofty peak of Zion, see that all our efforts lead us to Your Temple mount where Your Shekinah did reside and where Your Son was crucified, and there may we behold at last your face forevermore. Amen.

Prayer for the Unborn

Holy Father, You Who see us all from eternity and have known us each by name for always, bless this unborn child of Your heart, with health, hope, and happiness for uncountable days to come. And may he (she) be a blessing to others for more hours than have ever been before under the sun. Oh, YAHWEH Roie, You Who sees the unseen, who fashioned this new person for Your glory and hold his (her) whole future in Your hands, conduct this one in safety into the light of life, and make him (her) a mighty warrior in the world, to ever work Your will with a noble soul, and worship Your holy NAME with all his (her) being. Teach him (her) to know Your 'Son', to obey Your commandments, and to always be true to Your sacred Way. And bring him (her) at last till the life everlasting where all are born anew. Amein.

Prayer for the Dead

Oh , YAHWEH, Shalom, our peace and promise of life eternal, give rest to those who've died in Your mercy and a blessed resurrection on that final day. For all who sleep in the dust of the earth, we say thank you. For the faithful, we are grateful for the good they did in their day, and for the fiends, we find joy in knowing no good comes their way. Bless the righteous in their slumber, and may the wicked remain restless and writhing in the grave. Oh, Lord, let not the memory of Your holy ones be forgotten by the living and have mercy upon all of them when they stand before You, face to face. May our lives mirror their loving deeds as we look for the day when they rise to meet us in the light of eternity. While we yet live, let us remember the dead and do our level best to honor them with acts of charity cherishing the harsh reality that as we are now so they were once as well and as they are now so shall we soon be ourselves. Since we too are truly destined to die today or tomorrow, help us to be mindful of our mortality, to be generous with your mercy, and to keep the coming judgment every moment before our eyes while we have sight and time and life. Amein.

Prayer for Snow

Lord of life and warmth, You Who brought forth all things from the frozen wastes of space, Who made life from death and built into Your beautiful world the perfect cycle of birth, death, and resurgence of life again, we who once were not, are now, and one day will cease to be, until You call us forth again from oblivion, do humbly bless Your NAME with each new snowfall which every winter brings. As those fresh white flakes cover over the carcass of our grey, bleak world, we pray too that the barren wastes of our souls may so be lost in the cold and caring love of Your 'Son's' shed blood that washes us whiter than snow, hides all imperfections, and leaves all the earth clean and bright. Amein.

Prayer for Rain

Creator of all things, YAHWEH, Our provider, You who made all our world from the primal waters, Who divided them above and below to build the heavens, and who brought their abundance crashing over the earth to flood the world for sins against Your NAME, bring now Your abundant blessings from there above to here below, shower upon us Your many mercies falling upon all worthy and wicked persons alike without prejudice; Sustainer and Sovereign of all life, we pray, send the rain. Like You are Amazing Grace, let it fall upon us all to quench our thirst, care for our crops, satisfy the dry land, and serve to give us bread. Thank You, YHWH, Lord of waters, thank you for the deluge, for the driving rain, and dark clouds which, menacing though they may be, become the source of our daily salvation from drought. Amein.

Prayer for Storms

Stay with us, we ask You, oh YAHWEH, our Shalom, and be our strong Defender against the terror of the tumult. While all about is raging, hide us in the eye of the hurricane, keep us safe until The Tempest is past, and carry us through the wild weather with Your grace to guard us from the wind and all it sends our way. YAHWEH Almighty, Maker of storm and our stalwart stronghold, abandon us not as we face Your nature's fury but faithfully shield us in Your sheltering hand from the fearsome forces of thunder, lightning, rain, and rising floods. And may we remember all the while, always and forever after how much mightier You are than any maelstrom we could imagine or which could ever come our way. Amein.

Prayer for Traveling

Lord of all creation, everywhere at once, we ask You guard all travelers this day and guide those on the roads going both away and home. Bring them in Your safety from there to here and here to there, oh YAHWEH Shammah, He Who Is always there. Thank You for our ability to move about Your world with liberty, limited though we may be to be able to range far and wide and free. Help all who are lost to find their way and all those who wander to never be lost. By land, sea, and air, we ask You watch over all pilgrims on their journeys, and be with us all as we make our way through this earth, bound for the Promised Land. In Your loving care look after us. Let Providence protect us, we pray and provide for all who are longing for somewhere to belong. Amein.

Prayer for Wind

As Your Divine Spirit hovered over the primal waters protectively sheltering all that one day would be, and as Your holy Breath indwelt us in the inception, that we should be endowed with life from humble clay, so now in this hour, oh YAHWEH, our good Lord, of air and sky, we thank You for the winds of the world which blow about us every day. For light breezes that cool us in summer, and for the great gales that give us power and weather and rain, we pray we remain ever grateful and give You all do honor and praise. Please help us be ever mindful of Your presence when the wind blows and to bless Your NAME always with all the breath in our lungs. Amein.

Prayer for Light

YAHWEH, Lord of light and righteousness, grant us light in this Dark World; You who said, "let there be light," in the inception of all things, let there be light now in our time and teach us to live by it ... To behold it, to behold all things by it, and to be that light ourselves, so others bound in blackest night may no longer be blind but see. We thank you, Lord of fire, for the flames that light up the darkness when the sun no longer shines on us, for the warmth and wonder they provide, our saving grace, our song of hope, our promise till dawn. Be with us, we pray and may Your NAME light our way. By day and by night, oh Lord be our light, our fire, our warmth, our day till night is no more. Amein.
