Branded under my nickname, Salty Beard Bikepacking, has gained a great deal of traction in a short period of time by creating honest and engaging content featured on YouTube, Instagram, and more recently my website. This content ranges from multi-episode adventure series to reviews on gear that I use & abuse during races, tips or on my daily commutes. My goal is to provide followers with clear, unbiased information to help them make educated purchases, or inspire them to adventure beyond their own boundaries. I would enjoy talking about how Salty Beard can be part of your successful product marketing strategy.
