LIFE-LONG LEARNER

As an Educator, I have a natural love for perpetual growth and find learning independently or by collaborative efforts a great fulfillment. Most recently using ChatGPT with my programmer son to go deep on conversations is very enlightening, to this end. However, it's not enough just to learn something, you need to use it, refine it, and share or teach to others. Learning, if treated like a sport, can become a competitive event that will lead to great knowledge. Discipline and mentoring can also play a powerful role in an individual's ability to achieve their true potential and goals.
