About The MFL: The Minor Football League (MFL) has been in existence since 1993 and has continued to grow since inception to now hold 16 franchise teams in America and 16 franchise teams in Africa. The league's franchises are split into four different divisions. Two divisions in each conference. Each division contains eight franchises.

The Chief Executive Officer, Chairman, and Founder of the league is Richard Myles, Sr., a native Washingtonian and former player at Arizona State University. Mr. Myles previously played professionally as a member of the New England Patriots.

The MFL is a professional minor league like minor league baseball, hockey or the G League in NBA basketball. At the grassroots levels, all MFL players are required to partake in community service, a key component of the league's mission. The MFL is known as "the laboratory of change" and provides "integrity, commitment, and excellence in all we do."
