

Applications Workshop

Reinforcing and building upon the Fundamentals of GD&T, Applications Workshop participants work through component parts for a given assembly.

Through discussion, participants determine assembly and individual component functionalities.

From there, the participant determines appropriate datum feature selections and controls, followed by determination of the most appropriate way to control every feature on the individual workpiece.

This course is most appropriate for design and quality-assurance personnel.