Patents provide a level of protection for your novel ideas, but the steps that get you from an idea to a patent are significant. Prior-art analysis, design, drawings and technical write-ups are common elements. Sometimes in the development of a patent, the need to challenge the validity of a prior art may be necessary. Later, after your patent has been granted, you may need to defend it from unauthorized use. That may entail the need of expert witnesses.

Profile Services has assisted clients in all these aspects of intellectual property creation and defense.
