“In many Native communities, everyone has a role and purpose to ensure that our children grow up in safe, healthy, and spiritually strong communities that are free from abuse and neglect. Native youth are often given a huge role in learning traditional knowledge and envisioning what they want their tribal communities to look like in the near future. NICWA has ensured that Native youth can fulfill this role by recognizing that they are not only impacted by the policies that organizations and communities uphold but also protecting their voices when it comes to issues important to them.

I believe in prioritizing our youth's voices in work that impacts their peers and communities. I am proud that NICWA takes steps to make this happen.”

Empower youth voices and protect their right to determine their future by making a gift today.
