

I am currently 15 years old and a high school student. My family speaks Spanish so I grew up bilingual. I would love to use this ability to give back and help others. I am also currently on my 5th year of learning French. I love the process of learning a language and think it would be great to help someone on their own journey. Through clubs and programs at school I have gained experience tutoring others, specifically in math. I am able to properly explain and teach others specific material and adapt to their individual learning needs.
