Ben is a junior at The Bronx High School of Science and is thrilled to be part of Aprendalo! Ben is very passionate about current events and history. He is currently the varsity director of his school's Model United Nations team. Ben has been learning Spanish for years through both his mother and his teachers at school. He recently cofounded a club at his school devoted to debating in Spanish, and hopes to transition the club into a team for Spanish debate. He is also a member of his school's investment club and plays for the ultimate frisbee team! Outside of school, Ben is an avid reader and New York City sports fan.
He roots for the Mets, Jets, Knicks, and the Mexican national soccer team.
