

I am a first-generation Brazilian American college student who is passionate about working with people. I appreciate interacting and forming connections with others, especially other students in the work that I do. Aside from school, I enjoy reading and drawing (a fan of digital art).