

Camp Fire: Handling of Deceased Large Animals and Livestock

If you find that your large animals or livestock did not survive the fire, please refer to the guidelines outlined below to handle the remains in a manner that is safe and environmentally responsible. Owners may take animal remains to an approved disposal facility or bury them on-site.

Taking your animal remains to the Neal Road Recycling and Waste Facility: 1023 Neal Road, Paradise CA

Emergency guidelines for the Camp Fire incident allow for the Neal Road Waste and Recycling Facility to accept animal remains until December 31, 2018.

- The Neal Road facility accepts animal remains from 7:00 am to 3:30 pm daily.
- Call the facility scale house at (530) 879-2397 thirty minutes before arrival.
- Transportation may be provided either by licensed operators or by individuals.
- The driver must be prepared to unload the animal(s) without assistance.
- All loads must be tarped.
- Cash or local check is required (no credit cards).

The following local companies are licensed by the California Department of Food and Agriculture to haul carcasses. Please contact for availability and pricing:

- One Last Ride | (530) 990-2231
- Into the Sunset | (530) 570-8859
- JM Livestock Hauling | (916) 300-9744
- Animal Carcass Removal | (866) 487-3323

Cost for Animal Disposal:

Large Animals (horses, cattle, sheep, goats, etc.)	$60 burial fee + $42.11 a ton
Small Animals (dogs, cats, rabbits, chickens, etc.)	$10 single animal fee (remains must be bagged). Large loads: $42.11 a ton and subject to $60 burial fee.

On-Site Burial of Livestock Remains

Please follow these guidelines for on-site burial of your large animals or livestock:

- Disposal at least 150 feet downslope of the nearest domestic well
- Do not dispose of animals in saturated soils or swales
- 5 feet of cover over top of animal
- Flag location for homeowner