

Fake News: Journalism & Disinformation in the Digital Age

Are you unsure what the term “fake news” even means? You’re not alone!

Join media studies scholar Melissa Zimdars as she works toward defining the term fake news, exploring how fake news relates to problems in contemporary journalism, and addressing the many pitfalls and possibilities of different proposals to prevent the circulation and influence of both misleading and outright false information.

Thursday, January 25th ~ 7:00pm

Register at 978-774-0554 or danverslibrary.org

Melissa Zimdars specializes in media studies as an assistant professor of communication at Merrimack College. She maintains OpenSources.co—a project that navigates fake and misleading “news” websites—and is the author of two forthcoming works of nonfiction.

PEABODY INSTITUTE LIBRARY, DANVERS

15 Sylvan Street, Danvers - 978-774-0554 - danverslibrary.org