

Senate Bill 1383

Edible food recovery requirements

PREPARE

Since January 1, 2022, large commercial edible food generators (e.g., grocery stores and supermarkets $\geq 10,000$ sq. ft.) have been required to donate their excess edible food to food recovery organizations and/or food recovery services that would have otherwise been disposed.

COMPLY

Create contracts or written agreements with food recovery organizations and/or food recovery services to donate your business' excess edible food.

RECORDKEEPING

Maintain a copy of contracts or written agreements with food recovery organizations and/or food recovery services. Keep records of your food donation activities.

QUESTIONS?

Contact syoura@townoffairfax.org or scan the QR code above for more information.

Help feed the most vulnerable communities in Fairfax while reducing methane emissions!

Save money by reducing waste and donating your excess edible food!

