UPDATES: Defensible Space & Home Hardening Grants - this fiscal year, MWWPA has awarded 216 resident grant applications totaling $498,658 to residents. Residents have spent approximately $3.3 million in additional dollars on home hardening and defensible space actions. Generally, for every $1 of Measure C funds invested, an additional $6.65 was spent by residents to amplify this work. Combined with the applications currently under review (totaling approximately $194,013), resident grant funds will be exhausted soon -to accommodate residents who have completed or planned work after program funds were exhausted, a waitlist application has been opened through November with an explanation that funds may not be available to award until FY 2024/2025. Chipper Day program - the 2023 season began in mid-May (ends mid-Nov) and has completed 4,153 pickups with 13,415 cubic yards of material removed thus far. October 31st – Fairfax Halloween. I was honored to be able to serve as a crossing guard for the Haunted Grove with members of our Chamber of Commerce!

November 1st – Regular Town Council Meeting.

November 9th - Cal Cities Roundtable Webinar: Best Practices for Zoom Disruptions. “There has been an uptick in racist, hateful, and sometimes violent public comments during remote public meetings. These incidents interfere with the public’s right to weigh in on important issues, slow routine business, and can take a mental toll on city officials, staff, and the public. This webinar explored best practices and legal tools for addressing disruptions and hate speech in public meetings—with an eye towards protecting free speech while managing attempts at organized disruption of the public’s business. This webinar was useful in light of the “hate-bombing” that took place at our November 1st Council meeting.

November 9th – Marin County Council of Mayor’s and Councilmembers Committee on Homelessness Meeting. We discussed the use of the VISPDAT (Vulnerability Assessment and Coordinated Entry) instrument. The VISPDAT is a validated questionnaire that allows social workers to use an objective index score to assess the relative vulnerability of an individual in preparation for placing them for housing. People who score 8 or above on the 17-point index are prioritized for permanent supportive housing. People who score lower may need less-intensive measures to get back on their feet. It is likely that all Fairfax campers have been assessed, but we are not allowed to find out about their vulnerability scores because there is a privacy issue due to the sensitivity of the questionnaire topics. The County is working on an updated tool that will allow them to do a more fine-grained assessment with some input from individuals with lived experience of homelessness.

The County is housing 10-12 people per month, but there are more people who need housing than there is affordable housing available for them. The County has housed over 1,500 people since 2017 including both long-term (chronic) and short-term homeless. There will be another point-in-time count of homeless individuals in late January. Good News: The South Eliseo Project Homekey Site is now open and providing 43 units of permanent supportive housing in Greenbrae. In addition, Homeward Bound’s Veteran’s Housing in Novato will open next spring and provide 24 units of permanent supportive housing. 5. November 28 – toured parts of the Greater Ross Valley Shaded Fuel Break. The Greater Ross Valley Shaded Fuel Break (GRVSFB) will create a 38-mile shaded fuel break running along the backyards of about 1,700 parcels. The fuel reduction zone includes about 1,300 acres from Fairfax to Corte Madera. The project is designed to slow the spread of wildfire to give firefighters time and space to suppress the flames. This project would reduce fire risk to several communities in the wildland urban interface (otherwise known as the WUI) while improving forest and ecosystem health by reducing non-native plant cover. Much but not all of the Fairfax section has been completed. This is a project of the Marin Wildfire Prevention Authority, of which Fairfax is a member.

November 30 – The Harvard Joint Center for Housing Studies webinar on housing older adults. “Over the next ten years, the US population over the age of 75 will increase by 45 percent, from 17 million to nearly 25 million. The growth is widespread, across urban, suburban, and rural communities, and sharpest among the baby boomers who will begin entering their 80s in this decade. As the population of older adults swells, so too does demand for housing that is both affordable and able to accommodate their changing needs. Millions of older adults are cost burdened, and homelessness is on the rise.” Fairfax in particular has a large over-60 population. We need to be looking at the current and future housing and mobility needs of older adults in our community.
