OVERVIEW

The Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and is authorized by Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended. The purpose of the CDBG Program is to benefit low to moderate-income households by developing viable communities through the attainment of three objectives:

1. Decent housing;
2. Suitable living environment; and
3. Expanded economic opportunities.

To meet these objectives, HUD provides "blocks" of funds to state and local communities that may be spent on specified activities.

BACKGROUND

The Community Development Block Grant program was established by Congress in 1974 with passage of the Housing and Community Development Act and is administered by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). This program provides funds to municipalities and other units of government around the country to develop viable urban communities. This is accomplished by providing affordable, decent housing, a suitable living environment and by expanding economic opportunities principally for low and moderate income persons. Although local units of government develop their own programs and funding priorities, all activities must be consistent with one or more of the following HUD national objectives:

- Principally benefits low- and moderate-income persons
- Prevents or eliminates slum or blight
- Addresses an urgent need or problem in the community (e.g., natural disaster)

As an entitlement City under the CDBG program, The City of Jackson receives annual funding allocations from the federal government to fund activities to address these national objectives.

As a funding recipient, The City of Jackson is required to submit an Annual Action Plan that describes how the Urban County will utilize federal funds to address the national objectives in a manner that will produce the greatest measurable impact in the city's communities. The lead agency responsible for submission of this Plan to HUD is the City of Jackson Office of Housing and Community Development.

The statutes for the federal formula grant programs set forth three basic goals against which the Plan and the City's performance under the Plan will be evaluated by HUD. The City must state how it will pursue these goals for all community development programs.

Organizations interested in applying for CDBG funds must adhere to the directives that COJ has provided.
