Subject: RE: Planning & Zoning Commission Training
Importance: High

Dear Rick:

Good morning. I am tendering my resignation from the planning and zoning commission, effective immediately. I believe the time is right and works in your favor. With luck, you can find a replacement, get them approved at the next city council meeting, and trained on the 11th. That's a big win. For me, I'm 75, my wife passed last year, I want to read and write, and even though my role was small, I managed to continue our family's history of service to the city and county and that makes me feel good.

My great-grandfather, George A. Cammack, was tax assessor and has his name on the courthouse cornerstone. My great-grandfather Ollie Wilson was here so long you'll find his name all over title work because when the courthouse burned, they had to reconstruct things from memory. His son, my grandfather, was born here, as was his son, my dad. Now my wife is buried here, and I will be, too, one day.

And with that I wish everyone all the peace and blessings the lord sees fit to bestow, which have been considerable to date.

And if I can ever be of any assistance, however small, please call.

Cheers,

John W. Wilson
