Message from the Mayor

Dear Friends,

The City of Kettering is known as “The City of Volunteers” and with that legacy comes great responsibility. As Mayor, I not only believe in the amazing power of volunteers, but I have seen that power firsthand. Currently, there are over 1,000 active volunteers who give their time and talent in our City offices each day. Every City department utilizes volunteers to help with day-to-day operations. Last year, our volunteers saved the City $800,000. We are also very fortunate to have service clubs and churches in Kettering that believe in giving back to their community.

It is because of our volunteer tradition, and the fact that our volunteers always help when asked, that I didn't hesitate to pledge to find creative ways to utilize the time and talent of volunteers to address our City's greatest need, neighborhood revitalization. I was excited to join my fellow mayors from around our nation to become an active member of the Cities of Service initiative.

Our first event was held on our annual Make A Difference Day, October 27, 2012. The City has participated in this annual day of giving for 20 years. Typically, we have hundreds of volunteers completing multiple projects to make a difference in our community, so it only made sense to kick off our Cities of Service project on this day. Our goal was to use service to connect, assist and clean up our neighborhoods.

We call our initiative Kettering Cares. For our first effort, we received a national award from USA WEEKEND Magazine, Points of Light and Newman's Own. I was so very proud to accept this award, but then I know we have the greatest residents in the country! Our Kettering Cares program was, and will continue to be, comprised of projects that will revitalize our neighborhoods through the energy and expertise of volunteers to make positive changes in our city. We will continue to use service to make Kettering the best place to Live, Work, Play and Volunteer ... one neighborhood at a time!

Sincerely,

Executive Summary

In July 2012, the City of Kettering officially joined the national Cities of Service coalition, thereby making a strong commitment to engage and empower volunteers to address the urgent needs of Kettering neighborhoods.

For years, the City of Kettering has participated in USA WEEKEND Magazine and Points of Light national Make A Difference Day through its Kettering Cares initiative. Cities of Service allows Kettering to extend Kettering Cares and its annual Make A Difference Day tradition into a yearlong initiative to tackle our City's most pressing need, neighborhood revitalization.

As the "City of Volunteers", Kettering thrives on service. Many have worked endless hours to impact our aging community. It is important that we continue to grow and expand our Kettering Cares initiative to invigorate, further sustain and improve our community.

Kettering Cares* will focus on this specific challenge: Neighborhood Revitalization

- ▶ Volunteers need to be used strategically to address the City's most pressing need within neighborhoods.
- ▶ Neighbors and residents need to positively interact with each other resulting in community cohesion and sustainability.

Kettering Cares invites residents to convene and connect with their neighbors, service participants and city staff to create a more united, vibrant Kettering. Specifically, Kettering Cares calls on residents to take ownership of and pride in their neighborhoods and embrace the call for social vibrancy.

Kettering Cares* has two important goals:

- ▶ Assist residents to take ownership of their neighborhoods and build a sense of pride in their surroundings through neighborhood revitalization projects.
- ▶ Create and elevate volunteer opportunities to increase resident interaction.

This document serves as a comprehensive service plan and coordinated strategy focused on matching volunteers and established community partners to the area of greatest need, neighborhood revitalization.

Kettering, Ohio is proud to be one of the 160 cities in the nation that are Cities of Service coalition members and one of only six Ohio cities (including Akron, Dublin, Hamilton, Toledo and Cincinnati).

"This is a slam-dunk for Kettering.
Pairing the City of Volunteers with Cities of Service.

We can really make a difference."

Kettering: a Tradition of Service

Make a Difference Day 2014

The City of Kettering, Ohio (named after Charles F. Kettering) has always been on the forefront of volunteerism, and is known as the “City of Volunteers”. In fact, the City’s flower is the marigold. Why? The marigold is a flower that comes up “voluntarily” year after year.

Thirty-four years ago, Kettering started a city government volunteer program, becoming one of the first cities in the nation to do so. Since then, it has strived to set the standard in local government volunteer programs.

Currently, there are over 1,000 active volunteers who give their time in the City offices each day. Every City department utilizes volunteers to help with day-to-day operations. Volunteers are also essential in helping with special projects and events sponsored by the City. We are also very fortunate to partner with service clubs, schools, universities and churches who believe in giving back to their community.

The City of Kettering has been participating in the national Make A Difference Day for 20 years, and it is a staple in our community. When Make A Difference Day 2012 rolled around, Kettering timed it so the event kicked off our Cities of Service initiative.

We believe that this pairing is what helped us win the City Award from USA WEEKEND Magazine, Points of Light and Newman’s Own on April 25 in Washington D.C. for Make a Difference Day 2012. With the award came a $10,000 grant provided by Newman’s Own, which will be used for future Make A Difference Day activities.

When staff attended a Cities of Service session at the 2012 Points of Light National Volunteer Conference, it seemed like joining Cities of Service was the natural thing to do. Addressing the city’s most critical needs with service ... we can do that! It is what our community lives for!

Methodology

All Cities of Service coalition members receive technical assistance and support from Cities of Service to develop high-impact service plans. Much of this support follows a methodology outlined in the Cities of Service Playbook.

For Kettering, the Volunteer Office and Planning and Development Department act as the driving forces of the Cities of Service initiative. They met with the Mayor and City Council, City Manager and each Department Director to discuss specific challenges throughout the city that could be addressed through service. It was unanimously agreed upon that neighborhood revitalization should be our service initiative.

In 2012, the Planning and Development Department met internally to find the top ten neighborhoods most in need of revitalization using a neighborhood evaluation model. This model includes analyzing the number of property maintenance violations, frequency of violations, trends in housing values and vacancies. They also met with the Police Department to gather crime statistics.

Many types of analysis were conducted with community organizations to identify both the challenges the City would address through our initiative and the resources available to support the effort.

The analysis included:

- ▶ Focus groups of key stakeholders. (These included representatives from nonprofit organizations, colleges/universities, local businesses, service organizations, K-12 schools and churches.)

- ▶ Interviews with local and national leaders, including volunteer managers who were members of Cities of Service.
- ▶ National level Cities of Service staff.
- ▶ Completed surveys by K-12 school personnel and City residents.

After completing the analysis, the City of Kettering developed an initiative to address the challenges. Next, the City developed metrics to gauge the progress of the milestones and operations plans for implementation. A neighborhood was chosen based on the greatest need and the greatest potential for impact.

After the neighborhood was selected, potential community service projects were identified and residents were invited to participate in Kettering Cares.

Residents of the neighborhood had an opportunity to share concerns and assist in developing strategies to socially reinvigorate the neighborhood. It is at this time we reached out to the community and City staff to form our service, educational and technical teams.

The initiative began on Make A Difference Day in our first neighborhood and continued until summer. We wrapped up the initiative for that neighborhood, the analysis begins again and a new neighborhood will be chosen!

"Small acts of everyday heroes bring communities together and help individuals through difficult times. If Americans, and especially our young people, do their part and answer the call to service, cities across this country will support their efforts and help them contribute to the greater good."

– Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa, Los Angeles, CA

Our Initiative: An Overview

Twenty years ago, the City of Kettering began participating in the National Make a Difference Day; as many as 350 volunteers have participated in many different projects to benefit the community.

The Cities of Service program allows us to take this single day of service and develop an ongoing initiative. It will use service as a strategy to tackle our most pressing need — neighborhood revitalization and sustainability.

Our initiative, Kettering Cares, follows the Cities of Service “Love your Block” blueprint. The Mayor’s Office engages community members in revitalizing their neighborhoods one block at a time and helps homeowners perform simple renovations to improve their homes.

We hope to encourage community pride in a low income neighborhood by assisting residents in improve their community through general cleanup, home repair, landscaping, energy conservation, weatherization, education and participation. The City will assist in organizing and encouraging community groups to create a community spirit that will lead to an engaged community. By using community resources, providing grants and coordinating City services, we can achieve measurable impact and strengthen our community at little cost.

“The world hates change, yet it is the only thing that has brought progress.”

— Charles F. Kettering

Specific Challenges

Our initiative, “Kettering Cares” will address neighborhood revitalization. Kettering is an aging community, both our residents and housing stock. The majority of our city was built in the 1950’s. Young parents came to Kettering to buy their first home and raise their families. Our community was once a booming, affluent suburb; we can’t make that statement today.

Our housing stock is at least 50 years old and is in need of upkeep and repair. Those young parents have aged and still remain in their homes. Many are not able to maintain their residences. Our region relied on manufacturing jobs to maintain its tax base and thousands of those jobs have been lost. Combine the loss of income with the aging population, and you have neighborhoods decaying and teetering on disrepair.

Our first neighborhood represented the very kind of neighborhood we wanted to revitalize. We chose Richman Heights for our first initiative because it is a low-income neighborhood, with 319 single-family properties. The neighborhood has vacant properties, property maintenance violations, a city-owned lot that was contaminated, did not have a neighborhood watch program, and has not won a Neighborhood Pride award in years. The neighborhood borders the largest city in our county and the residents feel a slight disconnect from Kettering. Most of the residents that received help were low-income or seniors. This neighborhood also lies in the zip code with the most under-utilized help for county public assistance. One of our challenges will be building the community involvement we need to make this initiative successful.

Possible Risks

We believe there are a few large risks involved with this initiative. The first is the risk of liability. We have processes in place to help with this risk in our regular volunteer program, but we realize it will be much different when volunteers are coming to help for a few hours. We will need to assure each volunteer signs a Release and Waiver of Liability form.

We realize there is the issue of background checks. We will address this by always making sure our volunteers are working in pairs and instruct them to remain on the exterior of residents’ homes.

Another risk we will encounter is the risk of injury. We will provide the necessary training to avoid serious injury. We will make sure we have trained staff on site during our days of service to assist volunteers. We will review the scope of work that will need to be done ahead of time and have trained captains at each site.

A Priority of the Mayor

Mayor Patterson has been in office for a total of 14 years, eight as Council Member and six as Mayor. When he ran for office, his initial platform was based on property maintenance. He saw the need to revitalize our neighborhoods and housing stock. He still believes that it is the largest challenge our city faces today.

When elected, he went to work immediately on two new programs: hiring additional property maintenance inspectors and improving our property maintenance code. Making changes in the property maintenance code has made finding resolution to property maintenance violations quicker and easier for property owners. Mayor Patterson also formed a Property Maintenance Board.

He sees the Cities of Service initiative as another tool he can use to help achieve his goal. Mayor Patterson actively speaks on the importance of maintaining our neighborhoods so we will continue to be a vital community in our region.

He encourages block parties, neighborhood watch, neighborhood pride awards and all events that will engage our neighbors in their neighborhood.

He not only encourages those activities, he personally attends the events. In addition to his goal of improving property values, he also understands the importance of volunteerism and service. More importantly, he understands in order to have a vibrant community you need residents who are engaged in that community!

Goals and Timelines

Initiative Goals

The basic goals of Kettering Cares are to improve our neighborhoods, improve our property values, and have an engaged community with citizen involvement. Kettering will offer education, grants, staff assistance and service to help homeowners reach these goals in our neighborhoods.

The home repairs will be made to correct property maintenance violations, help with general upkeep, and take conservation measures. Accessibility grants, energy audits, and bulk trash pick-up will be offered. This goal will be measured by tracking the number of homes that undergo repairs. A comparison will be made of property maintenance violations issued and compliance to previous years.

Another goal is to build community spirit. We want to encourage our residents to be a part of the community and help one another. This goal will be measured by how many residents register with the neighborhood watch program and by surveying each neighborhood by the end of the year. Engaged communities are far less likely to let their neighborhoods fall into poor conditions and can act as a powerful force in preventing crime. We will compare crime reports in the neighborhood over previous years. The City has a Senior Resource Manager who assists our elderly on difficult issues. We will gauge her responsibilities in our neighborhoods as well.

Lastly, the City conducts a Neighborhood Pride Award program each summer. For example, our first neighborhood, Richman Heights, has not won an award in years; we hope that will change in 2013!

Our Process

After the neighborhood is chosen and all analyses are complete, the Kettering Cares team will plan three major events:

Education Days: City staff will arrange for outside agencies to come to a neighborhood location throughout the year and speak about energy efficiency and water conservation.

Community Service Project Days: Beginning with Make a Difference Day and continuing throughout the year, community service days are meant to create energy and enthusiasm in the project neighborhood. These days include projects such as litter cleanup, yard debris cleanup, alley cleanup, housing repair projects, and garage sales.

Celebration Event: The initiative is culminated with a block party celebration complete with free food, games, a raffle, kids activities, a survey, and recognition by the Mayor and Council of the partners' efforts. It is also an opportunity for neighborhood families and Kettering Cares partners to bond and celebrate the revitalization efforts.

Property Maintenance staff will re-evaluate the neighborhood.

City staff will conduct a follow-up 10-point housing assessment of the neighborhood.

The Police Department will review crime statistics over the past year.

City planners will compile all results, draft a final report, and report results to the City of Kettering Mayor and Council, City Manager, and Department Directors.
