Mayor's Report
February 22, 2021

The hot topic of February has been the Arctic temperatures with ice and snow for about two weeks. Thankfully, we are warming back up and ice and snow are melting but not before wreaking havoc on streets, utilities, and city services. All of our departments have been stretched to serve our citizens and customers during this time and have performed marvelously. From locating water meters and repairing water main leaks, removing ice and snow from streets, to making emergency calls, our employees have weathered the storm. From a heart of gratitude, I say THANK YOU!

Due to dangerous road conditions, there was no trash pick-up last week. Waste Pro will be picking up this week and if your trash is overflowing, place the overflow next to the can and they will pick this up as well. Please make sure that all your overflow is bagged. They will be running a regular schedule. Thank you for your patience and understanding during these extreme conditions.

There has been an erroneous rumor that the City of Munford Water supply was compromised and had potential contamination in the system, this rumor is likely related to the "precautionary water boil advisory" for the Memphis area. Please be assured that our water system is safe, and no advisory is in effect for the Munford water customers. The Munford water system is independent from Memphis Light Gas and Water. Munford produces our own water.

We are asking for your input regarding our Parks and Recreation facilities, programs, and future plans. Please follow the link and participate in this important Public Input Survey. This is part of our Parks and Recreation Master Plan that is now underway.

Sales Tax revenues remain strong for the City of Munford and I thank you for shopping local, supporting local small businesses. Small business is the lifeblood of the American economy and local support is essential for our success. Thank you for your continued patronage.

City Hall opened to the public today for the first time in quite a while. Though we were closed to normal day-to-day traffic, our drive through has been open and our employees have been working from home. We are thankful to be back and offer the full customer service you deserve.

It is my pleasure and my honor to serve as Mayor and work with our Aldermen to continue to make Munford "My Kind of Town."

Warm regards,

Dwayne Cole, Mayor
