The city's "Founding Fathers" were known as "Directors" serving voluntarily in an unofficial capacity from inception until the first election was held. Unfortunately, there was no recordkeeping in the early days as there was no secretary and no City Hall; moreover, directors/"founding fathers" met at people's homes. Directors/Founding Fathers were: Miguel de Luna, Juan G. Garza, Jose Rolando Pena, Rodolfo Rodriguez, Robert Rodrique Jr., Mario Saenz, and Ramiro Vela.

The City of Palmview name was derived from two business establishment in the early 1970's known as Palmview Fruit Stand and thereafter Palmview Drive In established by Roberto Garza Sr. The Garza Family also had numerous businesses in the early 1970's known as Ricky's Auto Sales, Becky's Hair Fashions, and Robert's Western Wear that was also located adjacent to a building along our current Frontage Road - that served as City Hall in the 1970's.
