

Raised in Petaluma, I'm dedicated to building a vibrant, stable future and preserving this truly special place for many generations to come.

We feel the external pressures to adapt to a rapidly shifting future, and strongly connected to our culture. We've brought our heritage forward, each generation contributing to what has become a richly vibrant tapestry worth protecting.

The challenges ahead pose big questions with long-term consequences. As we adapt to Climate Change, strengthen fire preparedness, address transportation issues, and secure adequate housing, there will be tensions. Let's slow down to allow for deeper, more robust conversations that ensure our direction reflects our community.

I'm committed to creating housing that working families can afford, addressing traffic on D Street and around our Historic Downtown, and protecting our rich natural beauty.

The only way we move forward is by working together and taking the time to listen and think things through. With the skills and experience developed as a Petaluma Planning Commissioner and a California Senate Legislative Consultant, I will work diligently alongside you to meet our future with courage, creativity, and thoughtfulness.

Among others, I'm honored to have endorsements of Congresswoman Lynn Woolsey (former), Petaluma Councilmember Dennis Pocekay, and Petaluma School Board Member Mady Cloud.
