ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS APPLICATION & FILING INSTRUCTIONS

Please note that the deadline for submission of a zoning variance application is the 1st Wednesday of the month in order to be considered eligible for the following month's agenda. The Zoning Board of Appeals meets on the 1st Tuesday of every month unless otherwise directed by the Board. The applicant or their duly authorized representative must appear and be heard at the Zoning Board of Appeals meeting.

APPEALING FOR A VARIANCE

After a building permit has been denied because the intended construction cannot conform to the zoning ordinance, an appeal from the Building Inspector's decision may be brought before the Zoning Board of Appeals. The most common method of providing relief from the provisions of a zoning ordinance is through the granting of a variance. This is an authorization to use land or to construct or maintain a building in a way that would otherwise be prohibited by the zoning ordinance. There are two types of variances:

1. AREA VARIANCE: This type relates to the arrangement of structures on the land, including yard requirements and density regulations. Area variances are granted on grounds of practical difficulty, that is, the owner cannot comply with the zoning regulations because of the property's peculiar size, shape grade or other physical features. In assessing practical difficulty, the Zoning Board of Appeals will consider such questions as: How substantial is the requested variance? Does an applicant have means other than a variance for overcoming the difficulties? Would granting this variance have a substantial negative impact of the surrounding properties? These questions are intended to bring out the facts in each case, and assist the Board in coming to a decision. The burden of proof is on the applicant, not on the Board of Appeals. The applicant must demonstrate that the relief requested (the variance), is necessary and should be allowed.

2. USE VARIANCE: This type permits a use of land, which the zoning ordinance does not allow in a district. Use variances can only be granted in cases of unnecessary hardship. An applicant must demonstrate factually that:

- 1) He/she cannot realize a reasonable rate of return (stated in dollars and cents), under existing permitted use, and
- 2) The use to be authorized will not alter the essential character of the locality. The purpose of the hearing before the Zoning Board of Appeals is to gather facts, which it will use to make a decision. You will have an opportunity to make a statement before the Board as to your needs. Interested parties such as neighbors, architects, or contractors may speak in support of your application. The Board will also hear interested parties who may be opposed. After discussion of your application in public, the Board will vote to either grant or deny the variance. In some cases, the Board will postpone a decision to the next meeting if further study is needed.

APPLICANTS FILING FOR A VARIANCE MUST SUBMIT THE FOLLOWING:

1. One copy of the Notice of Disapproval issued by the Building Inspector.
2. A properly completed & notarized original Zoning Application, including a complete list of all previously filed zoning variance applications regarding the subject property and their respective dispositions.
