Dear Barry,

Please provide the following link to an article in the Press Democrat about California redwood trees and climate change to our Planning Commissioners. I urge the Planning Commission to adopt stringent language regarding the protection of these "carbon sponges." Language in the General Plan to protect California Redwoods could offset the increased green house gases created by General Plan 2040. Please consider stronger language to protect our California Redwood trees.

Please confirm receipt and distribution to Planning Commissioners.

Thank you,
