PEOPLE

Hello Streetsboro,

The heart of our town beats strongest in the lush parks and well-kept sports fields, all thanks to the hard work of our city park's grounds team. These folks pour their hearts into making our living spaces better for everyone. They do more than just keep the grass trimmed and get the sports fields ready; they put love into every inch of our community.

The people who take care of our grounds are proud to turn empty spaces into places bursting with life, where families can relax, kids can have fun, and athletes can play their hearts out. Their work isn't just about looking after the grass or picking up litter; it's about creating a place where we all feel we belong together. Seeing everyone having a good time, hearing the laughter and cheers—it's what keeps them going. They're happy to craft the places that bring us all together without anyone noticing.

Thanks to them, a park is more than just some grass and trees: it's a living space that shows how much we all care about our town. So whenever you're out enjoying a park or rooting for your kid's team, just think of those hardworking people with dirt on their hands and smiles on their faces. They're quietly looking after our shared joy.

Best,
Greg Mytinger

SENIOR CENTER

Highlighting our Seniors

About eight years ago, Lucy regularly visited the senior center to play cards before she paused to resume her professional life. Known locally as the expert for customizing sports apparel through silk screening and embroidery at her shop, L&M Novel-T's, previously situated in Streetsboro Plaza, Lucy has now entered retirement. This year, she rejoined the center, actively participating in a range of events from Line Dancing and fitness classes to Bingo and group outings. She's relishing the experiences, particularly rekindling past friendships and establishing new ones. We're genuinely pleased to welcome Lucy back and see her making the most of her retirement.

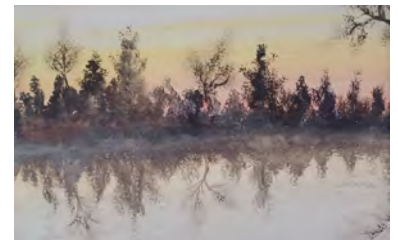

Leona Corbin recently joined our Senior Center after moving to Streetsboro to live near her family who oversee her well-being. Formerly from Louisville, Ohio, Leona is a proud parent to five children, with seven grandkids and five great-grandkids. Now retired from Ohio's Unemployment Department, she actively contributes to her new community by helping with chores and staying involved in various activities at the center. Leona thrives on the bustling life at the center, enjoying bingo and group lunches, and looks forward to participating in more events in the upcoming facility, encouraging fellow seniors to get involved. An interesting fact about Leona is that she has an twin brother. We're delighted to welcome Leona to our center.

"Morning Mist on the Lake" Winner

Highlighting the triumphs of our members is a joy, and Tom Toths' latest achievement is a source of great pride. Tom honorably served in the U.S. Army, deployed to Korea between 1965 and 1966. Although retired from a career in systems engineering and modest about his artistic skills, Tom felt compelled to capture the tranquil beauty of Liberty Park's Tinkers Creek on canvas during a leisurely morning stroll. His painting, dubbed "Morning Mist at Dawn on the Lake," was spontaneously submitted to a veterans' art contest and, to his astonishment, was selected as one of 30 pieces from almost 120 entries.

The show, a collaboration between The Ohio Department of Veterans Services and The Ohio Arts Council, was displayed at the Vern Riffe Center for Government and the Arts in Columbus until December 8th. Tom is cherished for his gentle spirit here among us. We offer him our heartfelt congratulations on his well-deserved recognition.
