The Afternoon of Life

Finding Purpose and Joy in Midlife

ELYSE FITZPATRICK

With humor, transparency, and biblical wisdom, Elyse Fitzpatrick shows that God uses the challenges of middle age—often the most difficult time in a woman’s life—to glorify himself and sanctify us. Drawing on Scripture and the stories of friends, she shows that when we cling to him as the source of our joy, peace, and blessing, we can laugh at the days to come.

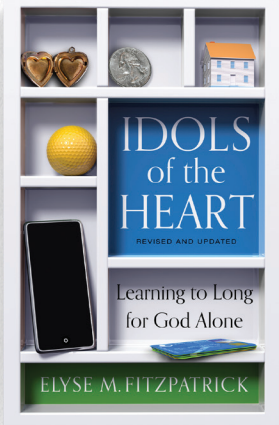

“Reading The Afternoon of Life is like pulling up a chair alongside a lifelong godly and wise friend and spending the afternoon in a deep and open conversation.”

Making Sense of the World

How the Trinity Helps to Explain Reality

VERN S. POYTHRESS

Poythress demonstrates how we can use various threefold perspectives as complementary ways of looking at creation, without reducing it to any one perspective. To understand our Trinitarian world in a non-reductionistic manner, we must employ a multiperspectival approach—specifically a triperspectival one: that’s the key contribution of this book.

Poetry of Redemption

An Illustrated Treasury of Good Friday and Easter Poems

LELAND RYKEN

The works of poets and hymnists unite with the poetic testimony of Scripture in this anthology. Forty meditative readings present their work alongside literary explanations from author Leland Ryken. Accompanied by beautiful images produced by artists through the ages, they are designed to fix our thoughts on God and the spiritual life and to awaken our religious affections. Rather than merely recreating the events, these psalms, hymns, and poems lead us to analyze their spiritual meaning and prompt us to respond with heartfelt praise and adoration.
