RELATIONSHIPS DONE RIGHT AND WRONG

Aimee Byrd started Why Can't We Be Friends? with a bold goal in mind: "I wrote this book because I want us to be biblically faithful in a very important area: our relationships." Our relationships—with our fellow believers, our friends, our spouses, our children, and our God—are critical to the shape of our lives. It's no wonder so many of our recent releases make relationships the focus of their wise insight and practical advice.

Why Can't We Be Friends?* (Aimee Byrd p. 7)

Can men and women be friends? If you're alive and reading this, you probably have an opinion shaped by many factors, including your own experiences. When Aimee Byrd comes at this question, she upends it. Why ask if we can be friends when Christian men and women are already brothers and sisters in Christ? Instead, we need to ask what biblical brotherhood and sisterhood looks like and how we can model it in our own lives. Byrd challenges thinking on all sides as she holds this critical issue to the light of Scripture.

For the Love of Discipline* (Sara Wallace p. 4)

For parents who want to have a good relationship with their children, discipline can feel like painful intrusion. But in Sara Wallace's positive view, parents can use moments of obedience or disobedience as wonderful opportunities to train and teach their children—even when their children are very small. Saturated with scriptural wisdom, Wallace's practical suggestions are empowering and easy to implement right away. I've been telling people about "word bundles" for months!

Loving Your Friend through Cancer* (Marissa Henley p. 5)

We all wish no one had to read this book, but Marissa Henley was the perfect person to write it. During her battle with a rare form of cancer, Henley was blessed by the love and care of her friends. She's put that to practical use by writing a book to help you to help others, whether they're close friends or distant acquaintances. She'll answer questions that you may hesitate to ask, and she'll guide you in not only avoiding common mistakes but making a real difference. I was pleased to find that her insights transfer well to other situations, such as helping a friend with a chronic illness.

Domestic Abuse: How to Help and Domestic Abuse: Recognize, Respond, Rescue* (Darby A. Strickland p. 8)

What do we do when our closest relationships become a source of oppression and pain? It's been encouraging to see a renewed concern for women—and men—who experience abuse, but even so, wise and godly intervention is fraught with difficulty. Moreover, if you're wondering if you're experiencing some kind of abuse, how can you be certain?

Darby Strickland is an experienced biblical counselor who has worked with the abused, and their abusers, for years. She doesn't blame the oppressed for their oppression, nor does she want us to be misled by the manipulation of abusive individuals. Her two booklets are packed with a wealth of information to bring clarity and guidance to suffering people and those who want to help them. Don't overlook these excellent resources.

The Life of Moses* (James Montgomery Boice p. 16)

We have so many other exciting new releases that I could name, but I'll close with this.

I'm currently teaching a class of exuberant eight-year-olds about the Israelites' exodus from Egypt and ensuing wilderness wanderings. It's a tale that truly merits the use of the word epic, and I'm delving into it with richer insight after reading The Life of Moses by James Boice.

Preparing this book for publication was an epic undertaking in its own right, and it owes a good deal to Mrs. Linda Boice, who carefully edited a manuscript that had never before appeared in print. The Life of Moses is a testament to Boice's much respected, pastoral exposition, but it is also a testament to the labors of the people whose lives he touched. They made this book possible.

For the Love of Discipline When the Gospel Meets Tantrums and Time-Outs

SARA WALLACE

Is discipline something you do to your kids—or something you do for them?

Biblical discipline is holistic; its ultimate goal is a child's growth in the Lord. That means that the gospel does much more than plug nicely into a discipline program. The gospel is true discipline's driving force, turning parental instruction and training into a rich, transformative part of daily life. And that doesn't happen just by accident.

Written by a mom on the front lines, For the Love of Discipline takes short chapters to work through typical discipline issues from a gospel perspective. Along the way, Sara offers personal examples, teaches practical strategies, and shows how to pursue "discipline skills" every day. Moms will stop spinning their wheels in quick fixes and behavior management and find renewed strength in God's own gracious shepherding and love.

Sara Wallace is author of the Bible study The Gospel-Centered Mom and has written articles for The Gospel Coalition and RELEVANT magazine. She and her husband have five sons.

Loving Your Friend through Cancer

Moving beyond "I'm Sorry" to Meaningful Support

MARISSA HENLEY

"It's cancer."

When you hear the two words you dread most from someone you care about, you know at once that your friend's life has been turned upside down.

Whether she's a good friend, a best friend, or just an acquaintance, you want to be supportive. But how can you understand what she's going through enough to know what she needs? What can you say besides "If you need anything—anything at all . . ."?

Marissa Henley is here to help show you the way. A cancer survivor herself, she lets you in on what having cancer feels like and what your friend truly needs. She prepares you to support your friend with both knowledge and compassion. And she offers specific action steps and practical support resources to help you show love in the day-to-day details.

Cancer is a life-altering challenge—but Marissa will equip and empower you to walk alongside your friend with love and support.

Marissa Henley is a cancer survivor who writes and speaks about faith, friendship, God's character, and suffering. She lives in Arkansas with her husband, three children, and one disobedient dog. She would love to connect with you at www.marissahenley.com.

Endorsements

Streams of Mercy Prayers of Confession and Celebration

BARBARA R. DUGUID
EDITED BY IAIN M. DUGUID

Have you taken time lately to consciously taste of God's mercy? This can be difficult, because in order to seek God's mercy we must admit that we need it—and we don't like to admit that we need anything, much less forgiveness! But exposing the specifics of our struggles with sin regularly points us back to the good news of the gospel and our forgiveness through God's grace. It leads to celebration!

A helpful addition to the previous collection Prone to Wander, Streams of Mercy provides prayers that confess specific sins in response to scriptural calls to confession and then close with an assurance of our pardon in Christ.

Inspired by the Puritan classic The Valley of Vision, these prayers are ideal for use in church services or personal devotions.

Barbara R. Duguid holds an advanced certificate in biblical counseling from the Christian Counseling and Educational Foundation in Glenside, Pennsylvania. She is a counselor and ministry assistant at Christ Presbyterian Church (ARP) in Glenside, a pastor's wife, and the mother of six children.

Iain M. Duguid (PhD, University of Cambridge) is professor of Old Testament at Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. He has written numerous works of biblical exposition, including Esther & Ruth in the Reformed Expository Commentary series, Ezekiel in the NIV Application Commentary series, and Numbers in the Preaching the Word series.

Endorsements

"Here we learn how to pray God's Word back to him, as we first confess our violations of the Ten Commandments and then celebrate his grace in so many areas of our lives. I recommend it strongly for individual and family devotions."

—John Frame, Professor of Systematic Theology and Philosophy Emeritus, Reformed Theological Seminary

"Helping us face our need for and the provision of our Savior with scriptural precision, personal creativity, heart sensitivity, and gospel hope is the wonderful blessing of this book."

—Bryan Chapell, Pastor, Grace Presbyterian Church, Peoria, Illinois; Author, Christ-Centered Preaching

"Confession is a much-overlooked discipline in the modern church . . . [but] the contrition that comes from confession leads to true worship. . . . Barbara and Iain Duguid have provided a unique resource for individual and corporate prayer."

Why Can't We Be Friends?

Avoidance Is Not Purity

AIMEE BYRD

The church stands firm against culture on many issues of sexuality . . . but misses this one!

Society says we are merely sexual beings and should embrace this, and in the church we use this same view as an excuse to distrust and avoid each other! We shy away from healthy friendship, and even our siblingship in Christ, in the name of purity and reputation . . . but is this what we are called to do?

Aimee Byrd reminds us that the way to stand against culture is not by allowing it to drive us apart—it is by seeking the brother-and-sister closeness we are privileged to have as Christians. Here is a plan for true, godly friendship between the sexes that embraces the family we truly are in Christ and serves as the exact witness the watching world needs.

Aimee Byrd is a Bible study teacher and speaker who also blogs about theology and the Christian life. A cohost of The Mortification of Spin podcast and the author of several books, she lives with her family in Maryland, where she is a member of New Hope Orthodox Presbyterian Church.

"If we will be siblings in the kingdom, it's time we accepted our future for the sake of our present. This is the best book I have seen on this subject."

—Scot McKnight, Julius R. Mantey Chair of New Testament, Northern Seminary, Lisle, Illinois

"I can't think of a more countercultural message . . . than a church marked by men and women who trade the fear of adultery for the freedom of appropriate sibling friendships. . . . Aimee shows us this better way."

—Jen Wilkin, Bible Teacher; Author of Women of the Word and None Like Him

"Aimee Byrd's plea for a recovery of [coed] friendships in the church . . . is timely. A provocative but irenic breath of fresh air on a contentious topic. . . . Highly recommended."

—Carl R. Trueman, Professor of Biblical and Religious Studies, Grove City College

Diehard Sins

How to Fight Wisely against Destructive Daily Habits

RUSH WITT

Not committing murder: check! Not committing adultery: check!

Not being lazy. . . . Not being gluttonous. . . . Not being inconsiderate or insensitive. . . . Come on! Everybody does those! What does God really expect?

He expects us to be killing sin, or it will kill us—both the big, obvious sins as well as the commonplace, familiar sins. And those subtle, elusive sins often slip most easily into our character without our knowing it—making them the hardest to kill of all.

Here pastor and counselor Rush Witt introduces you to this problem of diehard sins and provides a helpful doctrine of sin in general, before laying out a method for change. Learn how you can enter into your struggle against destructive daily habits, understand your needs in the fight, and bring Christ and his provisions to bear upon your beliefs and desires—equipping yourself to gradually kill the slippery sins that seem so unkillable.

Rush Witt (MDiv, DMin, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary) is lead pastor of Paramount Church in Bexley, Ohio, and a certified counselor.

Endorsements

"A careful and refreshing resource that every Christian should read."

—R. Albert Mohler Jr.

"Offers more practical ways to meditate on the gospel than any book I have read in a long time. . . . Diehard Sins will repay the time you invest with a rich harvest of ways to grow in daily godliness."

Help for the New Pastor Practical Advice for Your First Year of Ministry

CHARLES MALCOLM WINGARD

Your first year of ministry brings brand-new challenges—often with inadequate preparation and little time to adjust. How do you moderate meetings, manage a church budget, and counsel struggling congregants, all while preparing sermons every week?

The new pastor's time is also inundated with something else—advice! Too much of it! Where do you begin? What you need during your make-or-break first year is practical, realistic preparation for ministry. Drawing from more than three decades of his own experience, Pastor Wingard gives essential help for navigating the principal duties of the minister.

Find the tools you need to get established in your ministry and lead with confidence.

Charles Malcolm Wingard (MDiv, Vanderbilt Divinity School; DMin, Greenville Theological Seminary) is associate professor of practical theology at Reformed Theological Seminary in Jackson, as well as senior pastor of First Presbyterian Church (PCA) in Yazoo City, Mississippi.

Journeys with Jesus

*Every Path in the Bible
Leads Us to Christ*

DENNIS E. JOHNSON;
ABRIDGED BY RICHARD B. RAMSAY

This is an abridged edition of Walking with Jesus through His Word (P&R, 2015).

The Bible's sixty-six books form one overarching story—the story of a Hero and his heroic mission. And this story is personal, focusing on the relationship of God and his people in the past, present, and future.

On this eye-opening journey through the Old and New Testaments, Dennis Johnson shows how pervasive, recurring themes are always pointing us to Jesus Christ, the fulfillment of all God's promises and all humanity's hopes and longings. He shows us how to read on the alert, paying attention to the clues, examining their context, and interpreting them correctly.

The story of Christ is the most important story of all. Meditate on the beautiful unity of God's redemptive plan, and let your heart be kindled to flame with love for the Lord who came to serve us in love.

Dennis E. Johnson taught New Testament and practical theology at Westminster Seminary California for more than thirty-five years. He is an ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church in America, and the author of a number of books and commentaries.

Endorsements

Knowing and the Trinity

How Perspectives in Human Knowledge Imitate the Trinity

VERN S. POYTHRESS

Every human being has a distinct perspective and experiences truth from this viewpoint. If God exists in three persons, as the Bible teaches, is it possible to discern epistemological perspectives that originate from this mystery? Once we understand that God is Trinitarian, we can see numerous reflections of his Trinitarian character in general and in special revelation.

Vern Poythress is one of a growing number of theologians who have developed and used perspectival triads to further our knowledge of God. This book explores the relationship between numerous triads and God's Trinitarian character, and shows that many triads reveal analogies to the Trinity. Understanding these analogies will help readers perceive the fundamental connections between our Trinitarian God, the Bible, and our created world.

Vern S. Poythress (MLitt, University of Cambridge; PhD, Harvard University; DTh, University of Stellenbosch, South Africa) is professor of New Testament interpretation at Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. He is also the author of Understanding Dispensationalists; Science and Hermeneutics; Implications of Scientific Method for Biblical Interpretation; Symphonic Theology; The Validity of Multiple Perspectives in Theology, and The Shadow of Christ in the Law of Moses.

Endorsements

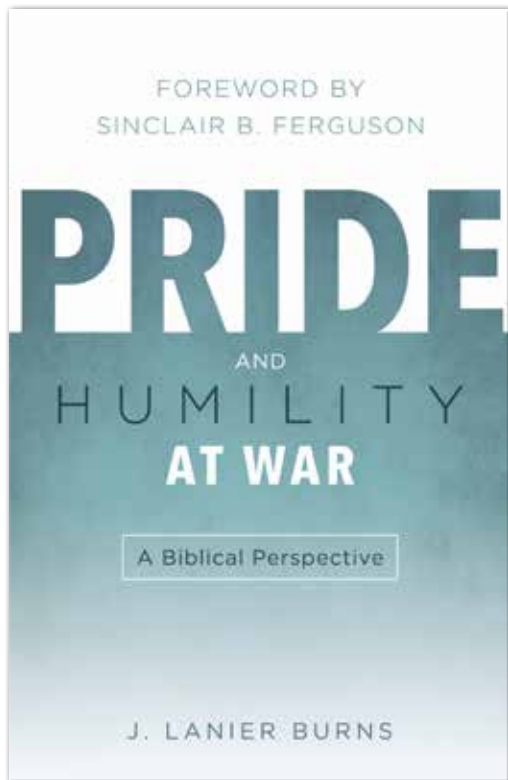

"It is a privilege to serve as the doorman to welcome readers into the remarkable world of reflections that Dr. Vern Poythress provides for us in this substantial work. . . . [He] undertakes the task of helping us to see the sheer wonder of God as we reflect on his self-testimony. . . . We want to be able to say with Jeremiah, 'Let him who boasts boast in this, that he understands and knows me, that I am the Lord' (Jer. 9:24). In Knowing and the Trinity, Vern Poythress helps us to do precisely this. . . . I bid you to explore and enjoy!"

—Sinclair B. Ferguson, Chancellor's Professor of Systematic Theology, Reformed Theological Seminary

"In this fascinating and highly accessible book, Dr. Poythress puts his perspectival method to work in a wide-ranging exploration of Trinitarian theology. Underlying his discussion is the conviction that while this is a mystery surpassing our capacities, God has revealed himself in creation and grace, his triune fingerprints evident wherever we turn. Any discussion of the doctrine of God should take Poythress's important contribution into serious consideration. I know of nothing else quite like it."

—Robert Letham, Professor of Systematic and Historical Theology, Union School of Theology (formerly Wales Evangelical School of Theology)

Pride and Humility at War

A Biblical Perspective

J. LANIER BURNS

Is pride a necessary tool to achieve significance? Is humility a form of self-hatred? In contrast to the world, the Bible consistently presents humility as the supreme virtue, while pride is the underlying depravity behind specific sins. Pride and humility are at war . . . and humility, not pride, has the advantage.

Humility's surprising essence is God-centeredness—living for the glory of God rather than self. On the basis of this biblical principle, Christ's example, and the contemporary need, J. Lanier Burns argues for an unfamiliar connection between true significance and a humble dependence on the Lord.

J. Lanier Burns (ThM, ThD, Dallas Theological Seminary; PhD, University of Texas, Dallas) is senior research professor of theology at Dallas Theological Seminary. Since 1973, he has also served as the president of the Asian Christian Academy in Bangalore, India.

Endorsements

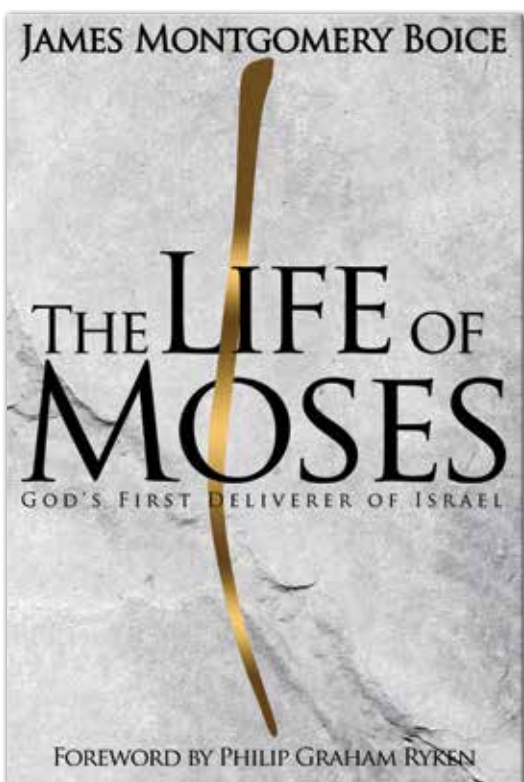

"Professor Lanier Burns has come to our help in this splendid biblical-theological and pastoral-theological study. . . . He invites us to grow in grace with him—growing downward into the presence of God so that we will grow upward in likeness to Christ. This book is a love gift to the church and breathes the spirit of an author who comes to us saying, 'The Lord Jesus has given me this to share with you.' May the 'loaves and fishes' he brings here be blessed, broken, and multiplied in our lives!"

—Sinclair B. Ferguson, Chancellor's Professor of Systematic Theology, Reformed Theological Seminary

"Dr. Lanier Burns, along with Dr. Howard Hendricks, has been one of the most sought-after professors at Dallas Theological Seminary. His integrity, his spiritual maturity, and his biblical insight make him more than qualified to pen Pride and Humility at War. . . . While his professional and academic credentials are without question, I would like to commend him to you as one who genuinely practices what he preaches—with humility."

The Life of Moses God's First Deliverer of Israel JAMES MONTGOMERY BOICE

Moses is renowned as a great lawgiver, prophet, friend of God, and deliverer of his people. The events of his life, spanning four books of the Bible, resound throughout Scripture. In this epic undertaking, James M. Boice delves into the narrative to uncover its rich meaning and gospel application to our lives today. We can learn a lot from Moses about faithfulness, prayerfulness, meekness, and good leadership—we can even learn from his sins and failure! But Boice shows how we can also look beyond Moses and the Israelites to the awesome power of God and the promise of a much needed, much greater Deliverer.

James Montgomery Boice (BA, Harvard; BD, Princeton Theological Seminary; ThD, University of Basel) was the pastor of historic Tenth Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia for more than three decades.

Endorsements

“Dr. James Montgomery Boice was first and foremost a preacher. He preached with authority because he had a profound sense of the binding and compelling truthfulness of God’s Word. And because Scripture is the very word of God, Boice had a profound sense of drama. We see this clearly in these never-before-published lessons on the life of Moses. Here we find astounding moments and breathtaking scenes. Here we find ourselves standing on holy ground. Here we learn from Moses that we must trust God, obey God, and focus on God to the exclusion of all else. And here Dr. Boice continues to teach us of our ultimate calling: to worship God in the splendor of his glory.”

—Stephen J. Nichols, President, Reformation Bible College; Chief Academic Officer, Ligonier Ministries

“Dr. Boice teaches us about more than the life of Moses. He teaches us why we can trust the God of Moses and how we are to hold fast to God’s Word. Through the life of Moses, Boice teaches us about the life of faith in our Redeemer. Once again, Boice’s pastoral care in his writing makes this book a great resource for laypeople to use during their devotional time.”

—Aimee Byrd, Author, Why Can't We Be Friends? and No Little Women; Cohost, Mortification of Spin podcast

“Dr. Boice had an eye for the many close connections between the Old and New Testaments. With Moses, those connections are especially abundant. The result is an exposition that frequently displays Jesus Christ in his atoning sacrifice and resurrection glory. . . .

Everyone who reads this life of Moses will have the rare and genuine pleasure of hearing Dr. Boice’s strong voice again. By the grace of God, the message in its pages will bring fresh blessing to the church of Jesus Christ.”

Theological English

An Advanced ESL Text for Students of Theology

PIERCE TAYLOR HIBBS
WITH MEGAN REILEY

Are you a non-native English speaker who plans to study theology in English at an advanced level?

With thirty lessons covering the major genres of theology (apologetics, biblical studies, church history, systematic theology, and practical theology), Theological English invites you to develop your English skills while actively putting them to use.

- Build your skills in reading, listening to, speaking, and writing English
- Reinforce your skills through relevant tasks and activities
- Explore answers to important biblical and theological questions

Drawing on the latest language-acquisition research, Theological English provides practical and effective activities in a Reformed theological context. Shaped and validated by student feedback over years of use, it is a sure guide to a complex subject—and one that will take you far in your studies.

Pierce Taylor Hibbs (MAR, ThM, Westminster Theological Seminary) is associate director for theological curriculum and instruction in the Theological English Department at Westminster Theological Seminary.

Megan Reiley (MA in Linguistics, University of Pittsburgh) is Westminster Theological Seminary's theological English instructor, as well as an adjunct ESL instructor at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Whole Counsel of God

Vol. 2, The Full Revelation of God

RICHARD C. GAMBLE

Richard Gamble's three-volume Whole Counsel of God explores the relationships between exegesis and hermeneutics, and between biblical, systematic, and historical theology for the glory of God and the enrichment of his church. Gamble, an authority on Calvin, engages the writings of theologians across disciplines and through church history—from Calvin, Turretin, Witsius, and à Brakel, to Bavinck, Vos, Frame, and many more—to assist him in the task.

His first volume concentrated on the Old Testament; this second volume examines the nature of New Testament revelation and introduces the New Testament authors and their writings. In following sections, he covers the doctrine of God, soteriology, ecclesiology, and anthropology, concluding with a brief presentation of the biblical philosophy of life and corresponding defense of Christianity.

"A ground-breaking piece of biblical scholarship," writes Anthony Selvaggio in Reformed Presbyterian Witness. "Dr. Gamble's work is pioneering. . . . This set will be a must-have for Reformed pastors and many others."

Richard C. Gamble (PhD, Universitat Basel) is professor of systematic theology at Reformed Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh. He previously taught at Reformed Theological Seminary in Orlando, Calvin College and Seminary, and Westminster Theological Seminary.

Endorsements

"In a field dominated by higher-critical methodologies, Gamble's work is a breath of fresh air; his approach is biblically faithful and engaging."

—John MacArthur, President, The Master's University and Seminary

"A remarkably comprehensive analysis of God's New Testament revelation in Jesus Christ. Among the many admirable qualities of this major project are its clarity, historical accuracy, and sustained interaction with the full historical sweep of theology inclusive of the confessional Presbyterian and Reformed traditions. I highly recommend this volume."

—Peter A. Lillback, President, Westminster Theological Seminary

"This volume is a welcome return to respect for God's Word—and not in part, but the whole. . . . This wonderful volume will help move Scripture's glorious, life-changing testimony from the printed page to the minds and hearts of all who consult it."

Reformed Expository Commentaries

Zephaniah, Haggai, Malachi

IAIN M. DUGUID AND
MATTHEW P. HARMON

To the people of Judah, distressed by changing political realities, it seemed that God had lost control of the situation.

Zephaniah warned of imminent judgment and pointed to hope close at hand: God is both Judge and a Refuge from judgment.

Haggai declared that God's struggling people needed to reorder their priorities and invest in building the Lord's house so that God's renewed presence in their midst would bring renewed blessing.

Malachi, when doubt of the Lord's love and watchfulness led the people into sin and distress, addressed their concerns and failings one by one. God would not abandon those who feared him, despite a history of rebellion against him.

Practical, devotional, and expository, this commentary delves into the ways these three prophets point us to the sufferings of Christ, the forgiveness of God, and anticipated glories to come.

Iain M. Duguid (PhD, University of Cambridge) is professor of Old Testament at Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. He has written numerous works of biblical exposition, including Esther & Ruth in the Reformed Expository Commentary series, Ezekiel in the NIV Application Commentary series, and Numbers in the Preaching the Word series.

Matthew P. Harmon (MDiv, ThM, Westminster Theological Seminary) is pastor of Christ Presbyterian Church (ARP) in Grove City, Pennsylvania.

A Daughter's Devotion to Her Father Part 2

Is Sunday School Enough?

by Melissa Urban Craig

My father was a gifted Bible teacher. But that was not always the case during his student years at Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. Dad used to recount, with a self-deprecating chuckle and a twinkle in his eye, what his preaching professor Dr. Edmund Clowney once told him: "Mr. Urban, of all my students, you have shown the least amount of progress!" Dad studied under the legendary old guard of WTS: Van Til, Murray, Clowney, Woolley, Young, and Stonehouse. After graduating, God led my dad into many adventures, including Wycliffe language school, foreign missions, and living with aboriginal headhunters in the remote mountains of Taiwan (his only guide being a tiny, tribal woman with tattoos etched across her face!). God used these experiences to bring life and vibrancy to Dad's storytelling and Bible teaching. He could hold a classroom of rowdy boys spellbound as they learned the whole counsel of God. I was blessed to be one of his students in a Bible class, every day in a Christian school!

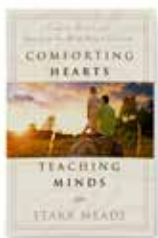

The blessing of a daily Bible class is not found in secular schools, but I discovered that my fellow homeschoolers were also missing a huge opportunity. I woke up to this fact while speaking to parents at a homeschool conference. My topic was P&R's Classics for Young Readers series and the importance of Christian classic literature in a child's education. When my presentation ended I polled the group, asking how many of these families had a daily Bible class as part of their homeschool curriculum. Not one person raised their hand, and I saw many puzzled faces. "Isn't that what Sunday school is for?" someone asked.

Our Children Need Bible Literacy

Sunday school provides an opportunity for Christian nurture within covenant community. However, it is the brevity of Sunday school that limits its effectiveness in a major way. Less than one hour each week is spent on a Bible lesson. If you are counting on Sunday school programs alone to impart Bible literacy to your child, you are in for a rude awakening. We can easily see that a child is ill served when assigned only one math problem a week in order to gain math proficiency. That would be malpractice! But neither will one Bible story per week give your child biblical literacy. When we as Christians have Bible literacy, our knowledge of the whole Bible allows God to speak into our lives with authority. God's Word makes our

God's Plan for Bible Literacy—Psalm 78:1-7

Give ear, O my people, to my teaching; incline your ears to the words of my mouth! I will open my mouth in a parable; I will utter dark sayings from of old, things that we have heard and known, that our fathers have told us.

We will not hide them from their children, but tell to the coming generation the glorious deeds of the Lord, and his might, and the wonders that he has done. He established a testimony in Jacob and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers to teach to their children, that the next generation might know them, the children yet unborn, and arise and tell them to their children, so that they should set their hope in God and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments.

conscience alive to the Holy Spirit in the choices we make. Equipping your child with spiritual wisdom and discernment is the goal.

God's command to pass down biblical literacy to our covenant children involves the sacrifice of our time and the exercise of spiritual wisdom through interpersonal dialogue. Deuteronomy 6:4-9 says, "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one. Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength. These commandments that I give you today are to be on your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. Tie them as symbols on your hands and bind them on your foreheads. Write them on the doorframes of your houses and on your gates."

Our Children Need Reformed Teaching

David and Sally Michael woke up to the blessing of Reformed teaching when they heard Rev. John Piper preach at Bethlehem Baptist Church (a Reformed congregation in MN). Instead of moralism, a new, powerful, Christ-centered view of the Bible took hold of them—and they desired to impart that teaching to their children. The cost? God asked them to sacrifice their time, talent, and treasure for a new children's ministry. Dave declared to his wife, "I will teach nothing before we will continue teaching what we've been teaching our kids! Can you write something?" The spiritual fruit of their sacrifice turned into a ministry for children known as Truth: 78, based on Psalm 78:1-9.

P&R publishes Sally Michael's Making Him Known series, an 8-volume Bible study for children ages 3-9. According to Sally and Dave, "The teaching is Christ centered, not man centered. It inspires worship of the triune God, not moralism that depends on man's fallen, sinful will." This is the core of Reformed theology that awakens us to a proper view of God, fallen man, and God's redemption. These volumes are designed for homeschool Bible teaching and for non-homeschooling parents who desire greater Bible literacy for their children. Each colorfully illustrated book contains twenty-six lessons with study questions. One volume per semester will cover 1st - 4th grade.

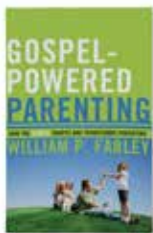

Our Children Need Our Time

I pray that the Holy Spirit is nudging you awake! Read Psalm 78:1-9 and consider this: You will never get a do-over as a parent. Never. Each precious year of your child's life marks milestones that will not return. You cannot go back and hold them on your lap, tuck them into bed, or teach them a Bible memory verse or children's catechism lesson. Their high school and college graduations will arrive in the blink of an eye! You will not audibly hear a booming voice shout, "Time's up!" but the reverberation will echo in your mind, heart, and soul forever in that persistent question, "Where did the time go?"

God has given us precious promises that are "for you, and for your children" (Acts 2:39). How will you take responsibility for the spiritual formation of your children? Start by prioritizing Christ-centered and Reformed Bible literacy each day.

MAKING HIM KNOWN

Series for Bible Literacy

The Bible Is Powerful

Have you ever wished you could just say something and it would happen? What would you say? Would you say, "Room, be clean!" or "Ice cream sundae, appear!"? Wouldn't that be great! But that really doesn't happen... or does it?

It doesn't happen for us, but it does happen for God. God is all-powerful, so His words are powerful—both the words He speaks and His words in the Bible.

Do you remember how God created the world? He just spoke... and the world was created! He said, "Let there be light," and there was light. God spoke, and the sun, moon, and stars were created. God said, "Let the earth bring forth living creatures," and there were horses and dogs, alligators and frogs, cows and hogs. God's Word is powerful. It created the whole world.

Jesus and His disciples were in a boat on the sea when a big storm came. The disciples were afraid, but Jesus just stood up and said, "Peace be still!" All Jesus did was speak, and the wind and the waves stopped! Everything was calm. God's word is powerful! Even the winds and the waves obey the word of God.

But God's Word is also powerful in another way. His Word has the power to change hearts. It can show people their sin and cause them to repent or turn away from their sin. This is what God's Word did in David's heart.

David loved God, but David still had a sin nature, and one day he sinned terribly. He took another man's wife and treated her like his own wife. Then he had the man killed! This made God angry and sad. What David did was very wrong.

But God loved David. So He sent the prophet Nathan to speak for Him. Nathan brought God's Word to David by telling a story about two men. One man was rich and had many sheep and cattle. The other one was poor and had only one little lamb.

The poor man took good care of the lamb. It was like a pet. The lamb grew up with the man's children. It shared the man's food, drank from his cup, and even slept in his arms.

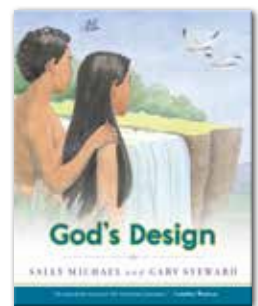

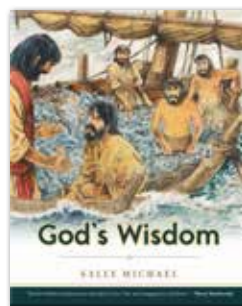

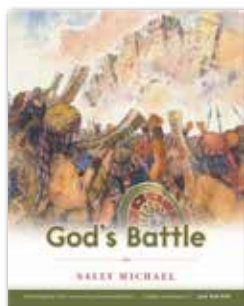

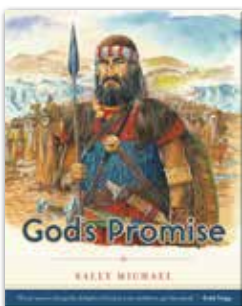

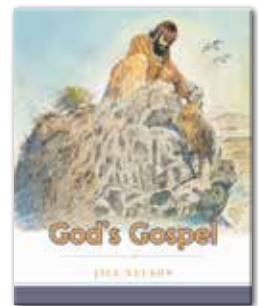

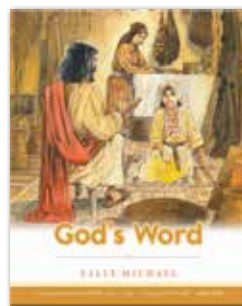

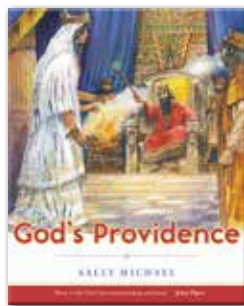

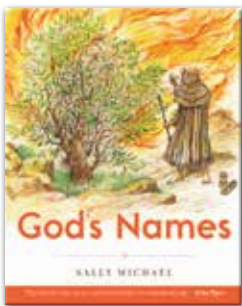

One day the rich man had a guest. The rich man didn't want to take one of his many sheep or cows to serve for supper. So instead he took the one little lamb that belonged to the poor man; he stole it, and he and his guest ate it for dinner! The story made David angry! He said to Nathan,

As the Lord lives, the man who has done this deserves to die, and he shall restore the lamb fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity. (2 Samuel 12:5-6)

SKIP THE RELIGIOUS PLATITUDES

Edited excerpt from Loving Your Friend through Cancer by Marissa Henley.

The most common response heard by suffering people is something along the lines of “All things work out for good in the end.” This is true. It is straight out of the Bible—in fact, it is one of my favorite verses. Romans 8:28 says, “And we know that for those who love God all things work together for good, for those who are called according to his purpose.” Romans 8:28 is true. Romans 8:28 is good. But, when your friend is suffering, it is not the time for Romans 8:28. At that moment, Romans 8:28 will feel like a fake “happy Jesus stamp” placed on something that feels difficult, sad, and scary for your friend. As I’ve talked about this with believers who have suffered and heard these words, I’ve noticed three reasons why Romans 8:28 and other religious platitudes aren’t just unhelpful but can actually damage our relationship with the hurting friend and our attempts to comfort her.

1. Your friend will think you think that she doesn’t know this.

Many of my friends who have walked this road told me that when people said these things, it hurt because it implied that the suffering person didn’t already know it. What they heard was, “Clearly you’ve forgotten that God is in charge. Your tears and grief tell me that you aren’t trusting the good Lord’s good plans for you.”

We need to be open to the Lord’s guidance and speak truth when he calls us to. But when he calls us to comfort, we can do just that. We can leave the correction to him and his timing. We can trust him to use all things for our friend’s good—even her struggles to believe.

2. It will feel like you’re dismissing her pain or wanting her to hurry up her grief.

We desperately want to fix our friend’s sadness, fear, or anger. This drive to fix is so deeply ingrained that we often don’t realize how powerful a motivator it is. We think that if we can correct her thinking, we can take away some of her pain. But we’re wrong. Cancer is painful no matter how convinced you are of God’s sovereignty.

The truth of God’s character keeps us from being crushed by our circumstances, but it doesn’t take away our pain and sadness. When we understand this truth about suffering, we give our friend the freedom to take the time she needs with her emotions. We won’t rush her. We won’t try to correct her doctrine in an attempt to move her from sadness to joy in the midst of heart-breaking circumstances.

3. It will not accomplish your goal of communicating compassionate support to your friend.

If our purpose is to show empathy and support, then we should use words and Scripture that fit with our purpose. Every single cancer-fighter and caregiver I’ve talked with has told me that platitudes such as “God has a plan,” “God is sovereign,” and “God will use this for good” don’t make them feel understood or loved. They don’t bring comfort to their hurting souls.

In my experience, verses reminding us of God’s presence with us are comforting and reassuring. Look for psalms that speak of God as our refuge and strength, such as Psalm 46. Encourage your friend with Scriptures that convey God’s peace, comfort, help, and faithfulness.

Let’s use words and Scripture that are a balm to our friends’ souls. Let’s use our words to show that we understand their heartbreak and pain, not to diminish it. Let’s tell our friends with cancer that we’re sorry for their suffering, we love them, and we support them.
