

Rob Davies is a Boston based landscape photographer who is inspired by the always changing light of New England's seasons gliding across its timeless scenery. His photographs capture and showcase the fleeting moments when light and nature come magically together to create scenes of tranquil contemplation or energetic excitement. Rob's style is vibrant in color, clean and streamlined in composition, immortalizing those moments of the day when the light is often at its finest – dawn or sundown.

As a Native Old Englander, Rob came to the United States in 1995 and worked for over 20 years as a Medicinal Chemist in the Pharmaceutical industry. He was always most energized by the creative phase of the research, generating new ideas to tackle the cure for difficult diseases.

Rob left the pharmaceutical field in 2017 and continued to feed his yearning for a creative outlet by pursuing his newly found passion for landscape photography. As a professional photographer, Rob has held many workshops locally, had panoramic work commissioned for a large national retail company and his art has been selected by several offices for large scale display. In 2019 Rob was named by Peerspace as one of the top 8 Landscape photographers in Boston, an unexpected honor considering the number of talented artists in the region.

Rob travels to all parts of New England, enjoying the wide array of photogenic opportunities the area offers. His New England interests include lighthouses, the lake and mountain regions of NH and VT, the rocky shoreline of Maine and the wonderful foliage season across the area.

Outside of fall season, Rob is seldom happier behind the camera than when photographing water. He is fascinated by the infinite variety of images offered by oceans, rivers and waterfalls depending upon the conditions and the mood of the photographer.

Always excited to explore new places, Rob's interests expand beyond New England and his recent work has included photography excursions to England, Scotland, France, Norway, and the beautiful state of Colorado.

So many places and so little time!
