

Julia Robinson
Mathematics Festival

One morning of math @ Yale: infinite possibilities!

Join us at Yale University, on May 15, from 9am to 12pm for a mathematics festival sponsored by the Julia Robinson Mathematics Festival.

WHO: 6th-12th grade students & parents.

WHEN: Sunday May 15, 2016, 9am-12pm.

WHERE: TEAL Center, 17 Hillhouse Ave.,
New Haven, CT.

COST: $10 per person, online registration at tinyurl.com/JRMFYale2016. Fee waivers available. Space is limited, registration is first come, first served.

PARKING: Most Yale lots are free to the public on weekends. Check signage. Metered street parking is available on Hillhouse, Trumbull, College, Temple & Prospect Streets.

CONTACT: maria.parente@yale.edu with any additional questions.

HOW IT WORKS: During the festival, students can join any table and work collaboratively with Yale scientists and mathematicians, spending 30-45 minutes at each activity/game. Fun prizes, free raffle tickets & light snacks will be provided to all participants! Information and videos of the Festival at jrmf.org.
