In honor of Paris Moore

Paris Moore graduated from Beacon High School in 2018. He was born with sickle cell disease and requires monthly blood transfusions to reduce pain, the risk of infections, and stroke. 100,000 people nationwide suffer from this disease of which 98% are African Americans. Despite dealing with daily pain and its toll on his health and well-being, Paris remains full of life. Please donate blood to honor him and all those battling sickle cell anemia.
