Holiday Hawk Shop Is Coming!

Please send in any gently used household items for students to purchase during Holiday Hawk shop. This is an opportunity for students to use their SOAR bucks to buy gifts for family and friends for the holiday season.

Send items in to room 23. Thanks!

Ms. Kohls

Our Choc' 'n Lit Club keeps growing! We have finished "The Truth as Told by Mason Buttle" and voted Kevin Sands' "Children of the Fox" for our next read. We will discuss pages 1-208 on Tuesday, 11/29, 8 a.m., in Rm. 45.

GML - Part 2

"Uh, hello?" Jonnah was suddenly torn from his thoughts.

"Yeah, sure. Sorry..." he replied.

As the boy sat down, the boy introduced himself. "I'm Charles. I assume you go to Perfyn too?" Jonnah looked down at his uniform and chuckled.

"Yeah, are you new there?" Jonnah asked.

"Yep. Came from London," replied Charles. For some reason that Jonnah didn't understand, he felt a connection with this new kid.

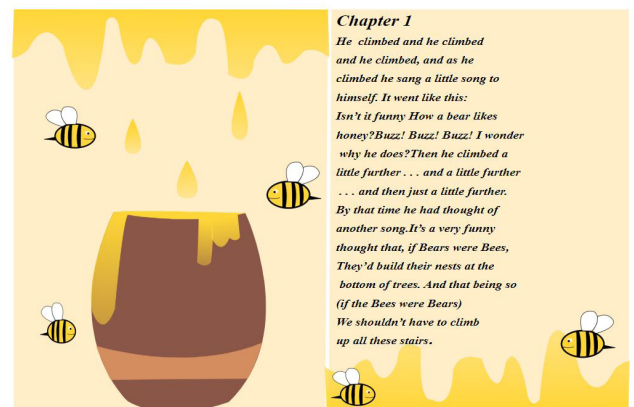

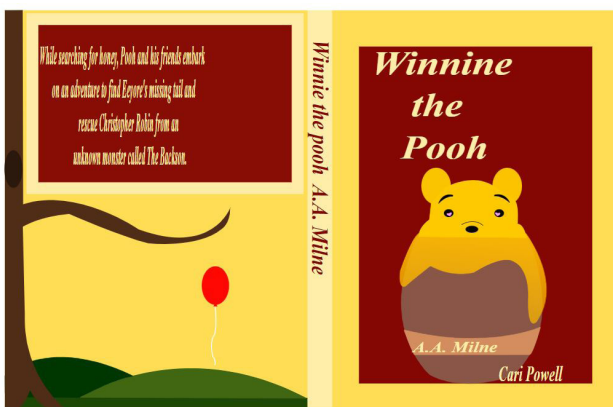

"I thought so," he replied. "I mean, your accent sorta gives it away." Charles chuckled now, making Jonnah smile as well.

After a moment of silence between just the two of them, Jonnah kept talking, trying to keep the conversation going. "Anyways," he started. "Sorry again about spacing out earlier. I'm just not used to having people ask to sit with me."

Charles looked at him, confused as to why no one would want to join him on the bus. "Why not?" he asked.
