

ELAR: Trina Moody tmood@LPSFrisco.com

We are now in full swing with our study of Informational Text, and we will soon be combining this genre with a novel study. If you haven't already, please purchase A Long Walk to Water (Grade-Level Students) and The Giver (Advanced Students) for your child for our upcoming novel study!

Math: Erick Liu cylu@LPSFrisco.comFor advanced grade 7:

Our 7th graders are exploring dilations and the properties of reflections, translations, and rotations on the coordinate plane. They're learning how these transformations change figures while preserving their shape and proportions.

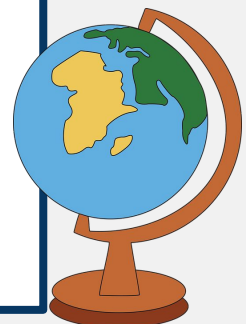

For on-level Grade 7:

Our 7th graders are exploring experimental probability (what actually happens in an experiment) and comparing it to theoretical probability (what we expect to happen). Encourage your student to share their findings from classroom experiments, like rolling dice or flipping coins, and how they're using math to predict outcomes!

Thank you for your support!

Texas History: Joe Yankovich jyankovich@LPSFrisco.com

In Texas History we will continue our study of Texas as a Republic and how and why it became a state in the United States. On January 27 through the 30 we will take a couple of days to explore the Holocaust and its impact on the world.

Science: Jody McDonald jmcdonald1@LPSFrisco.com

In Unit 6, students will be investigating and describing the physical properties, location, and movement of various celestial bodies in our Solar System. They will be expected to analyze and describe how gravity governs motion and how the characteristics of Earth allow life to exist.

Electives

PE: Alex Percival apercival@LPSFrisco.com

In PE, students will be learning some of the basic skills of flag football and playing some small sided fun and competitive games. In health, students will be continuing on with their new year's resolution SMART goals, and learning about how to stay healthy during the cold and flu season.

Band: Michael Stone mstone@LPSFrisco.com

Band has started their Annual Fundraiser through 99 Pledges. So far, the band has raised $3,065.00 toward our eventual goal of $7,000.00. Contact any band member to join in on the fun!

Theatre: Brianna Lewallen blewallen@LPSFrisco.com

Students will continue their learning of technical theatre and stage craft. This will lead us into a more in depth study of a chosen play.

Art: Brooklynn Houston bhouston@lpsfrisco.com

Principles of Human Services: Lakisha Forbes lforbes@lpsfrisco.com

We'll explore how human development theories have influenced early childhood care and education. You'll learn to identify children's needs, interests, and abilities, and examine their physical, emotional, and social needs alongside their cognitive development. Let's dive into understanding young learners!
