Good day LPS Community. We will be finishing up on our lesson about concepts of human geography. Also, we will be learning about the differences between limited government and unlimited government. Make sure to check Google Classroom for upcoming assignment and valuable notes about our lessons.

Science: Brent Knudtson bknudtson@lpsfrisco.com

We recently completed our first 3-week assessment, focusing on science lab practices and the tools of science. I am pleased to inform you that every student did terrific job. Currently, we are diving into the fascinating world of matter. Our lessons are centered around exploring the properties of matter and understanding its various characteristics. I would like to express my appreciation to all the parents who were able to attend our recent Curriculum Night. It was a pleasure getting to meet you and answering some of your questions. Habit 1 of The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People is about "Being Proactive." I believe that being proactive as a parent can positively impact your child's education. By taking the initiative to learn and engage with your students' educational journey, today's parents can actively support their students' academic growth and personal development.

For those who couldn't make it, I will be emailing a copy of the Curriculum handout I shared during the event.
