Economic Development Director

Salary: $70,703 to $90,645

The Opportunity

The City of Staples, Minnesota, is seeking a collaborative and forward-thinking Economic Development Director to lead the City's economic and community development efforts. This position plays a key role in supporting business growth, housing development, downtown vitality, and long-term community prosperity.

The Economic Development Director serves as the Executive Director of the Staples Economic Development Authority (SEDA) and works closely with City leadership, elected officials, businesses, developers, and community partners.

About the Staples Economic Development Authority (SEDA)

The Staples Economic Development Authority (SEDA) was established by City Council resolution in 1992 to promote the economic, commercial, housing, and industrial development and redevelopment of the City of Staples.

SEDA is overseen by a seven-member Board comprised of the Mayor, two City Council Members, and representatives from education, health care, retail/commercial, and industrial sectors.

SEDA actively works to attract, retain, and support businesses of all types, including retail, commercial, industrial, manufacturing, and entrepreneurial ventures. Efforts include business start-ups, relocations, expansions, redevelopment initiatives, and housing development.

Community Highlights

Over the past several years, the City of Staples has made strategic investments in infrastructure, commercial development, housing, and downtown revitalization to support sustainable economic growth. The community offers shovel-ready development opportunities, an engaged business community, and strong partnerships focused on long-term success.

Staples is home to award-winning healthcare at Lakewood Health System, a strong K-12 school district (Staples-Motley Schools), advanced training opportunities at Central Lakes College, a skilled workforce, and a wide range of recreational and cultural amenities.

Located at the junction of U.S. Highway 10 and Minnesota Highway 210, Staples sits on the border of Todd and Wadena Counties and is within convenient driving distance of the Twin Cities, Duluth-Superior, and the Fargo-Moorhead area. With approximately 3,000 residents, the community serves as a regional employment and service hub.
