Devon Brouse

Head Coach/Director of Golf Operations
13th Season

Devon Brouse, a 1971 Purdue graduate and 2009 GCAA Hall of Fame inductee, is in his 13th season as head coach and director of golf operations for the Boilermakers.

Brouse became the Boilermakers' coach in 1998 after leading North Carolina to 19 NCAA Championship appearances in 21 years. During his tenure, Brouse has guided the Purdue program into the forefront of collegiate golf.

An eight-time conference Coach of the Year (three times in the ACC and five times in the Big Ten) and a two-time National Coach of the Year (2006, 2010), Brouse has led teams to 15 top-10 finishes at the NCAA Championships. Most recently, he guided the Purdue women's team to the first NCAA title in school and Big Ten history in 2010.

While at Purdue, Brouse has coached five Big Ten Player of the Year honorees and seven Big Ten Freshman of the Year recipients.

In addition to his coaching duties with both the men's and women's golf teams at Purdue, Brouse is also responsible for overseeing operations at the Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex. The 36-hole masterpiece features two distinctly challenging courses - the Ackerman Hills and Kampen layouts. The latter was designed by the legendary Pete Dye and was the site of the 2008 NCAA Men's Golf Championships. The complex features state-of-the-art practice facilities and ranks among the finest in college golf.

A class "A" member of the PGA, Brouse first joined the University of North Carolina in 1973 as the golf director and superintendent of facilities following two years as assistant director of the Indianapolis municipal golf course system. In 1977, he became an assistant coach to Mike McLeod and was named head coach one year later when McLeod retired.

Head Coach Devon Brouse

Brouse immediately experienced success as North Carolina's head coach, leading the Tar Heels to a second-place finish at the ACC Tournament and a fifth-place showing at the NCAA Championships. Named ACC Coach of the Year three times, Brouse built UNC into one of the premier golf programs in the nation. All told, Brouse led North Carolina to six ACC team titles, 16 top-five conference finishes and 10 top-10 NCAA finishes, including a second-place showing in 1991 and a third-place effort in 1993.

In addition to building the Tar Heels and Boilermakers into two of the nation's most respected golf programs, Brouse was also instrumental in the development of several individual players who achieved success at both the collegiate and professional levels. Brouse has mentored two individual NCAA champions, 78 all-conference selections, a Fred Haskins Award winner, a Ben Hogan Award winner, two Palmer Cup participants and two Walker Cup selections. Three of his pupils, including Davis Love III, have won titles on the PGA Tour.

Brouse has also coached 10 World Amateur selections and 79 collegiate individual medalists, while his teams have won 91 collegiate tournament titles.

In January of 2006, Brouse won the Labron Harris Sr. Award, presented by the GCAA. The Harris Award is bestowed upon the college or high school coach and PGA professional whose support of the game through teaching, coaching and involvement in the community has helped ensure the continued growth of the game.

In 2009, Brouse's place among the legends of the game was cemented when he was inducted into the GCAA Hall of Fame.

A native of Indianapolis, Ind., and a 1967 graduate of Decatur Central High School, Brouse earned a B.S. in agronomy from Purdue in 1971 and was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Brouse and his wife, Kathy, have two sons, Matt and Brent, a daughter, Ashley, and a grandson, Scott David.

Associate Head Coach Greg Robertson

Greg Robertson

Associate Head Coach
Ninth Season

Greg Robertson is in his ninth season as Purdue's associate head golf coach.

His duties include recruiting and instruction, while aiding in organizing team practices, scheduling and team travel. He also assists in budgeting and fundraising for the Boilermakers' men's and women's golf programs.

Robertson has helped guide the men's team to two top-three finishes at the Big Ten Championships in the last four seasons.

In 2005, Robertson was honored with the Jan Strickland Assistant Coach of the Year Award, given annually by the Golf Coaches Association of America.

Robertson played collegiate golf at Oklahoma State, where he graduated with a bachelor's degree in sports science in 1997.

After redshirting his freshman season, Robertson played three years for the Cowboys.

During his tenure in Stillwater, OSU captured four conference crowns and won the 1995 NCAA title.

A native of Roswell, N.M., Robertson earned his bachelor's degree from Oklahoma State before transferring to New Mexico, where he competed as a senior and began work on a master's degree in sports administration.

Robertson competed professionally from 1998-00, playing on the Canadian Tour and participating in the PGA Tour's Nissan Open in Los Angeles, Calif., in his final year as a pro.

In 2001, Robertson competed in numerous state tournaments before returning to Stillwater to serve as a volunteer assistant coach at Oklahoma State.

Robertson and his wife, Ashlee, reside in West Lafayette with their son, Michael.

Assistant Coach Caroline Haase

Caroline Haase

Assistant Coach
First Season

Caroline Haase is the newest member of the Purdue coaching staff, but she is no stranger to West Lafayette, Ind.

Haase, who was hired in September 2010 as an assistant coach, played four seasons for Purdue, from 2003 to 2007. The Culver, Ind., native graduated in May 2007 with a classical studies degree and a minor in philosophy.

"I couldn't be more excited to come back to Purdue," Haase said. "With such a talented group of players, my main goal is to make the transition as seamless as possible so that we can focus on another successful season. I know firsthand that the academic and golfing opportunities offered to our Purdue student-athletes are second to none. It's an honor to be part of such a prestigious program."

Haase's duties include recruiting, instruction, organizing team practices, scheduling, team travel and assisting with golf camps.

Most recently, Haase served as a staff professional at the Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail at Capitol Hill in Prattville, Ala. She started her career as a golf professional at the Randall Oaks Golf Course in West Dundee, Ill., in June of 2008.

Haase won the Indiana State Open during the summer of her sophomore year at Purdue. She was the Indiana state high school golf champion in 2001, runner-up in 2000 and earned all-state honors all four years at the Culver Academy. Haase spent the first year after graduation from Purdue as a faculty intern at her high school alma mater.

Dan Ross
Head Golf Professional

Dan Ross is in his eighth year as the head golf professional at the Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex.

A graduate of Taylor University, Ross was team captain and the No. 1 player on the golf team during his junior and senior seasons.

Ross began working in the golf business as an assistant professional in 1992 and worked at Harrison Lake Country Club for Master Professional Tony Clecak until 1997. While there, he became a member of the PGA in 1995. In 1997, he became the head golf professional at Walnut Creek Golf Course in Upland, Ind., his home golf course in college. After two years at Walnut Creek, Ross was named the head golf professional at Edgewood Country Club in Anderson, Ind., where he worked for five years.

Ross and his wife, Luci, have been married since 1997 and have two children, Ally and Jackson.

Jim Scott
Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex Superintendent

Jim Scott is in his 17th year as the superintendent of the Kampen and Ackerman Hills golf courses on Purdue's campus.

In 1995, Scott joined the Purdue athletics department with the challenge of directing all facets of construction on the Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex. Since then, he has brought about the completion of the 18-hole championship Kampen Course, formerly known as the North Course, as well as major landscape changes to the 18-hole Ackerman Hills Course, formerly known as the South Course.

Prior to the reconstruction of Purdue's courses, Scott helped design 18-hole courses at the Wellington Golf Club in Wellington, Fla., and the Juday Creek Golf Club in South Bend, Ind.

Scott graduated from Purdue's School of Agriculture in 1987 with a bachelor's degree in turfgrass science.

First-Class Travel

The Purdue golf team will compete in eight different states during the 2010-11 season. In addition, the Boilermakers host a tournament in Rio Grande, Puerto Rico.

One of the most prestigious tournaments in collegiate golf, the Puerto Rico Classic is held at the Westin Rio Mar Resort and features many of the top teams in the country.

When traveling, Purdue goes first class. The Boilermakers periodically fly to tournaments aboard one of the university's planes.

The Boilermakers depart for tournaments directly from the Purdue Airport, located on campus.

Purdue planes allow the Boilermakers to visit with teammates or work on academics.

Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex

Purdue University features two 18-hole championship golf courses on its West Lafayette, Ind., campus. The courses are much different in character, but each promises a challenging test of golf.

The Ackerman Hills Course features a beautifully contoured layout over hilly, forested terrain with greens that are well-protected by trees and bunkers. The narrow fairways and numerous obstacles demand accurate shot-making.

The anchor of the Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex is the 7,467-yard, par-72 Kampen Course. It served as the site of the 2001 NCAA Women's Central Regional, 2003 NCAA Women's Championship, 2004 NCAA Men's Central Regional and the 2008 NCAA Men's Championships.

Pete Dye, one of the most influential and creative golf course designers in the history of the sport, masterminded the redesign of the Kampen Course.

Anyone who has played Brickyard Crossing, Crooked Stick, PGA West or any of the dozens of courses that bear his stamp appreciates the special challenges Dye presents to the golfer. The Kampen Course demands not only skilled shot-making, but also an intellectual approach to the game. The combination of both courses on campus offers Purdue students one of the finest golf facilities in the United States.

A native of Indianapolis, Ind., Dye took turf management classes at Purdue during the 1950s and is known as much for his sensitivity to the environment as he is for his imaginative and creative course layouts.

The Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex is situated on the north side of the Purdue campus. It serves not only the Purdue golf teams, but also students, faculty, staff and the public. The complex provides the Purdue men's and women's golf teams with rewarding opportunities to play and practice on one of the region's most beautiful golf courses.

"This is one of the top facilities in college golf," says Devon Brouse, who is Purdue's director of golf operations, in addition to coaching the men's and women's teams. "The tradition at Purdue should flourish with the commitment we have with these new facilities."

"Nothing has ever been built that is comparable to this course," Dye says. "You walk the Kampen Course and you feel like you're in another world."

The $8 million renovation to the golf complex included a new clubhouse named in Dye's honor, new irrigation system, driving range and the Turfgrass Research and Diagnostic Center. The first comprehensive turfgrass research facility in the country, the center functions as a living laboratory for teaching and research activities in a variety of academic disciplines, including agronomy, entomology and forestry.

Consistent with Dye's commitment to environmentally-sound golf, more than 6,800 trees have been planted on the Kampen Course. Alice's Oak Forest, named after Dye's wife, runs from tee to green on the ninth hole, and trees have been planted so densely that wildlife eventually will flourish.

The Kampen Course

Hole 1, Par 4, 392 Yards

Tee shot sets up left to right with a large, shallow bunker covering the right side of the driving area. There is a generous collar adjacent to the right side of the green.

Hole 2, Par 3, 185 Yards

Water runs along the entire right side of the green. An errant shot to the left will leave the player a difficult pitch from the adjacent bluegrass rough back toward the water.

Hole 3, Par 4, 482 Yards

A deep bunker runs along the right side of the fairway. A player avoiding the bunker that guards the right side of the fairway might find a blind shot from the left rough. The green opens right to left, and there is an ample bailout area to the right of the green.

Hole 4, Par 5, 534 Yards

This short par 5 sets up right to left, opposite of hole No. 3. The player will have strategic options for the second shot—lay up short on the upper plateau, or go for it and favor the left side of the green.

Hole 5, Par 3, 230 Yards

Due to a highly elevated tee, everything is in front of you on this long par 3. The view of the bog to the left of the green is magnificent.

Hole 6, Par 5, 600 Yards

Both the tee shot and the second shot set up left to right on this long par 5. Stay left throughout this hole. The bog runs along the right side.

Hole No. 7 has a bunker running down the middle of its fairway.

Hole 7, Par 4, 365 Yards

This short par 4 with two fairways is split by a bunker running down the middle.

Hole 8, Par 4, 406 Yards

Drive sets up left to right on this short par 4. There is plenty of room to play, however the tee shot must stay left of the massive waste bunker along the right side. The green opens right to left.

Hole 9, Par 4, 478 Yards

This long par 4 has little or no margin for error with waste bunkers on the left and a huge greenside bunker as you approach the clubhouse and the turn.

Hole 10, Par 5, 607 Yards

The back nine opens unmercifully with a very long par 5. A waste bunker guards the entire right side of the driving area. There is room to the right for your second shot. A bunker and water come into play to the left of the green.

A par five, No. 6 wraps around a celery bog into a heavily guarded green.

Hole No. 9 is a par four with trouble along the left side of the fairway and right side of the green.

The Kampen Course

The Kampen Course hosted the 2003 NCAA Women's Golf Championships and the 2008 NCAA Men's Championships.

A statue of Emerson Kampen overlooks the tee boxes on hole No. 1.

Hole 11, Par 4, 483 Yards

There is a slight margin for error to the right on the tee shot. The green is one of only a few on this course that is guarded by bunkers on both sides.

Hole 12, Par 4, 477 Yards

A severe waste bunker lines the right side of this long par 4 with a beautiful view to the southwest. The green sets up right to left.

Hole 13, Par 3, 183 Yards

The picturesque green on this par 3 is completely guarded with water along the entire front and left sides.

Hole 14, Par 4, 385 Yards

This short par 4 plays right to left off the tee, with plenty of open room to the right. However, water lines the entire hole on the left side. The green opens right to left, with the fairway sloping into the green.

Hole 15, Par 4, 362 Yards

This short par 4 presents the golfer with an uphill tee shot. The fairway narrows substantially between the waste areas to the left and right. The green opens left to right with some room for error to the left.

Hole 16, Par 5, 608 Yards

This extremely long par 5 has a tee shot that sets up right to left and a second shot that sets up left to right. The large green is elevated with a deep bunker guarding the front.

Hole 17, Par 3, 206 Yards

This long par 3 has water lurking just to the right of the green, but has a generous landing area left of the green.

Hole 18, Par 4, 484 Yards

The final hole on the Kampen Course is also the most difficult. This very long par 4 sets up right to left from the tee. There is a large bunker guarding the left side of the driving area. Hitting the fairway is a must, as the approach shot to this green is by far the most difficult on the course.

The par-3 13th has water along the entire front and left side of the green.

No. 14 is a short par 4 with a bog along the left side of the fairway and green.

Tom Spurgeon Training Center

An undulating indoor putting green, a swing-analysis video computer system and multiple heated hitting bays are just three of the features of the $3 million indoor golf training center at Purdue's Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex. The center was dedicated Oct. 1, 2005.

The 11,400-square-foot facility is named the Tom Spurgeon Golf Training Center, after lead donor Tom Spurgeon.

Athletics Director Morgan Burke says the indoor training center is the "jewel in the crown" of Purdue's 36-hole Birck Boilermaker Golf Complex. The Kampen and Ackerman Hills courses have undergone more than $12 million in improvements since 1996.

Other areas of the facility include team locker rooms, a lounge, coaches' offices, a pro shop and a classroom. The architectural design is similar to the clubhouse and other facilities at the complex. The center is open to the public when not in use by Purdue golf teams.

Head men's and women's golf coach Devon Brouse says the facility is a great help in training and teaching.

"From a technology standpoint, this takes us right to the forefront of college golf," Brouse said. "We already have outstanding golf courses, and this facility only complements those."

The state-of-the-art computerized video swing analysis lab helps players work on perfecting their swings.

"We want to seize the momentum of strong finishes in the recent NCAA national golf championships and keep attracting the best student-athletes here," Brouse said.

Boilermaker Practice Facility

The Boilermaker golf teams practice in a 15-acre complex directly adjacent to the Kampen Course.

The practice area features a private driving range, complete with instructional equipment and more than 15,000 square feet of tee areas. The tees are composed of both bluegrass and bentgrass areas and are designed to enable the golfers to practice against any wind direction. The tees were renovated in the fall of 2004.

The tee area faces a range with target greens, giving the golfers a multitude of distances to hone skills with the scoring clubs.

Two greens and four bunkers give the Boilermakers their own area to work on their short game. Wedge shots up to 110 yards can be hit to the chipping green.

"The whole practice complex makes a nice impression on a recruit," says coach Devon Brouse. "It's an opportunity, obviously, for our players to get their work done individually, or whatever they need to do. We've got lots of short-game practice areas, and we've got a great amount of green space. This area, along with the indoor facilities, puts us right up with the very best facilities in the country."

1961 National Champions

The 1961 men's golf season was supposed to be a year of rebuilding for Purdue. The Boilermakers were a team of all underclassmen, having lost nine letter-winners in the previous two years. Gone from those teams were veterans Gene Francis and John Konsek, who propelled the Boilermakers to three-consecutive Big Ten titles and runner-up showings at the NCAA championships in both 1959 and 1960.

After posting a regular-season mark of 24-7, the 1961 Boilermakers took fourth-place honors at the Big Ten Championships. Competition at the 1961 collegiate championship came next, hosted by Purdue on its North and South courses.

Purdue was never favored to do much at nationals. Many considered Houston the heavy favorite, winning five-straight crowns from 1955 to 1960 and being led by two-time individual champion Richard Crawford.

On the first day of competition, Purdue came out of the gate strong. Boilermaker Mark Darnell paved the way on the South Course by posting back-to-back 34's for a first round 68. He led Ohio State's Jack Nicklaus by a stroke.

The conditions were not ideal, with rain in the forecast and winds gusting upwards of 26 miles per hour, making the flatter North Course much more difficult. Only 15 golfers shot par or better, including two Boilermakers, Mark Darnell and Jerry Jackson. Ohio

State was the only university to match Purdue's feat of two men under par. With the steady play of Steve Wilkinson and James Farlander, the Boilermakers finished day one at the top of the leaderboard with a five-stroke advantage over Oklahoma State.

By the start of the second day, Houston—down eight strokes to the Boilermakers—was still thought by many to be the best team on the course, managing national titles by only a single stroke in both 1956 and 1957.

Darnell led the way into day two but slipped just slightly and posted a 73 to give him 141 for the championship. That was not quite good enough, with the more consistent Jack Nicklaus shooting a 70-70—140, and forcing Darnell to take a one-stroke loss as well as runner-up honors for low individual scorer.

As the end of the final day neared, Arizona State and Southern California charged up the ranks as the rest of the frontrunners fell back. Still, Purdue finished steady with rounds of 288 and 295. Heavily favored Houston collapsed, and the five-time national champs finished 26 strokes behind Purdue.

The Boilermakers held off the last of the late surges as Jackson finished in the top 10, and both Wilkinson and Farlander matched their day one efforts to secure the victory. The title, only the sixth for a Big Ten team, was the first NCAA national championship for Purdue in any sport.
