Manual Route Planning Can Make Anyone Crazy

Planning routes is complicated.

It'd be bad enough if all you had to do was figure out which roads your drivers should take to reach your customers.

On top of all that, you also need to account for traffic, construction, weather, customer availability, and other factors.

That can take hours, and it's easy to make mistakes.

The Cost Of Poor Route Planning

A single route planning mistake can lead to a significant loss of revenue.

Inefficient/inaccurate routes will make it difficult for your drivers to show up on time consistently. That'll inspire your customers to abandon your service for one that's more punctual.

There's A Better Way!

Save Time And Make More Money

There's no reason to plan routes manually. You can use final mile delivery software instead.

With software, route planning takes seconds instead of hours. All you need to do is plug in the addresses of your customers, and then you're good to go.

Route planning software also provides your drivers with more efficient routes.

That allows your drivers to visit more customers every day, so you can expand your business without the financial burden of hiring more employees.

Keep An Eye On Your Drivers

Of course, optimized routes won't make your drivers more efficient if your drivers don't actually follow the routes you give them.

That's why you must make sure that the final mile delivery software you invest in has a GPS tracking feature.

GPS tracking will show you where your drivers are and how fast they're going in real-time. Whenever you want, you can check in on a driver and confirm that they're sticking to their route and staying on schedule.

Satisfy Your Customers And Expand Your Business

Route planning software helps your drivers show up on time more often. Your customers will love that!

They'll love it so much, in fact, that they'll naturally recommend your service to their friends and family. This is much more persuasive than blatant print, radio, and TV advertising. It's the absolute most effective way to attract new customers to your business.
