YELLOW JACKETS ON THE AIR

Georgia Tech Sports Properties from IMG College

"Sports Radio 790 The Zone" (WQXI-AM) is the Atlanta flagship station for Georgia Tech basketball. The FM flagship for Yellow Jacket basketball is WYAY-FM (106.7). "Atlanta's True Oldies" features a 75,000-watt signal that covers metro Atlanta and most of north Georgia.

Wes Durham is in his 16th year as the play-by-play "Voice of the the Yellow Jackets." A six-time Georgia Sportscaster of the Year, Durham also serves as Tech's Director of Broadcasting and is in his seventh season of the play-by-play voice of the Atlanta Falcons.

WXIA-TV (11Alive) sports personality Randy Waters returns for his 17th season on the network. Waters, an Ohio native, has been in the Atlanta area more than 25 years and has been honored several times with local and regional Emmy awards.

Former Tech basketball player Jon Babul will also provide analysis during the season on select games. Alex Vispoli is in his first year at the network host of Tech basketball.

Game engineer and producer Miller Pope, in his 15th season, is a longtime fixture of the network, having worked games in the 1980's with Brad Nessler and Al Ciraldo.

Pre-game coverage begins 30 minutes prior to tipoff. For a complete list of radio affiliates carrying the games, visit Tech's official athletics website, Ramblinwreck.com. Tech games are also available on XM Satellite Radio, Channels 190-193.

Paul Hewitt Radio Show

Head coach Paul Hewitt's weekly radio show begins in December and will typically air on Thursday's from 12-1 p.m., live from STATS in the Luckie-Marietta district. "790 The Zone", will air the show live, and it will be replayed on 106.7 FM, later that night.

Georgia Tech Basketball with Paul Hewitt

Georgia Tech Basketball with Paul Hewitt is co-hosted by Wes Durham. The half-hour show is available regionally on SportSouth and CSS. The show is produced by IMG College in conjunction with VectraScope.

JUST GEORGIA TECH, PLEASE

The Georgia Institute of Technology is the official title, but Georgia Tech will work fine, or just Tech (unless you're in Virginia or Texas). We would appreciate it if you would use our name in those ways. Georgia Tech University is incorrect. Thank you.

Media Information

Interview Guidelines

Georgia Tech's practices are closed to the public and the media, but the Yellow Jackets' players and coaches are available to the media prior to practices twice a week, either in the Zelnak Center lobby or outside the team's locker room. The daily practice schedule varies, and media sessions will be scheduled and announced weekly.

TV stations occasionally will be allowed to shoot B-roll during a portion of practices following these media sessions.

Interview requests with players that need to be conducted at other times of the day must be made through the media relations office at least 24 hours in advance. These interviews will be conducted at the media relations office, generally around lunch time, subject to the players' availability and class schedule.

Media are asked not to contact players directly either by phone or e-mail. Every effort will be made to make players available when necessary. Players are off-limits on game days until after the game. Freshmen players are not available for interviews until after Tech's first regular-season game.

Interviews with Coach Hewitt

Media wishing to speak with Coach Hewitt at times other than after practices are asked to set up an appointment in advance through the media relations office. He also is available each week on the ACC Teleconference, and other teleconferences may be scheduled as demand warrants.

Releases/Photos via E-mail

All Georgia Tech basketball releases, game notes and media advisories are distributed via e-mail to a list maintained by the media relations office. Media wishing to be added to this list should send a request to Mike Stamus. Photographs are available on request.

Ramblinwreck.com/Social Media

Georgia Tech's official website, Ramblinwreck.com, is continuously updated with all of Tech's releases, statistics, game notes, biographies and other information. Game notes and bio updates are generally posted at least 24 hours prior to each game, while updated statistics and box scores are posted following each game.

Updates on the activities of the Tech basketball team can also be followed on Georgia Tech's official Facebook and Twitter pages (see addresses at right). Feature stories and other news on Tech basketball can also be found in Tech's daily e-mail newsletter, Sting Daily.

Media Credentials for Home Games

Press credentials are issued to accredited members of the working media only. Working space is limited, and children, spouses and other non-workers will not be granted credentials or access to media areas. Requests for credentials should be made in writing, via e-mail or fax, at least 24 hours in advance of each game to Mike Stamus. These requests are accepted from sports editors and sports directors only. Credentials can be mailed if time permits. Those not mailed will be left at the Will Call window at Gate 1, on the 10th Street side of the arena.

ACC Coaches' Weekly Teleconference

The 12 ACC head basketball coaches will be featured on nine Monday teleconferences during the 2010-11 season. The weekly teleconferences begin January 3 and continue through March 7. Each coach will have 10 minutes to make an opening statement and answer questions. There will be an instant replay of each teleconference on the Conference's internet site TheACC.com each Monday afternoon. Please call Brian Morrison at the ACC Media Relations Office for the phone number and access code.

TheACC.com

ACC basketball information is updated daily with standings, statistics, notes and more – including a daily ACCtion page which serves as a round up of the previous day's games. The site is home to replays of the weekly ACC basketball coaches teleconferences, updated on Monday afternoons following each call during the season. Other highlights include ACC Basketball Tournament Central and the site's columns, special articles and video features. Links to all 12 ACC schools are also available.

TheACC.com's ever-growing media services section is a central location for key items of special interest to the media. It is the home to ACC championship logos and coach and player headshots for select sports. The section is the home to credential information for all ACC Championships and a media-simplified list of ACC links.

To access the media services section, log on to theACC.com and click on the media services link under ACC Links on the left-hand navigation bar. Contact the ACC Media Relations Office for logon information.

For Georgia Tech men's basketball coach Paul Hewitt, it is not a question of "if" his team can build off of last year's 23-13 record, ACC Tournament championship game appearance, and NCAA Tournament bid.

Rather, for Hewitt, it is "where" the team's production will be focused, as a fresh-faced, perimeter-oriented group of Yellow Jackets, including seven scholarship sophomores and freshmen, compete to take over the scoring duties from the likes of the departed Derrick Favors and Gani Lawal.

Early indications are that the answer to that question will be much different—but no less exciting—than it was when the team last took the court in late March against Ohio State in the second round of The Big Dance.

No longer featuring the inside presence provided by Favors, Lawal, and Zachery Peacock, the Yellow Jackets must replace three of their four leading scorers with a roster that includes no experienced players taller than 6-7, which means the team's focus will shift from the paint to the perimeter.

Hewitt welcomes such a transition, representing a return to a familiar style of play for the 13-year head-coaching veteran, with a compilation of backcourt talent the likes of which, he believes, has not been seen on The Flats in quite a while.

"I think you have to go back a long time to find a group of talented and experienced guards like we have on this team," said Hewitt, entering his 11th season at Georgia Tech with a record of 177-144.

"I'm really going to get back to my roots with this team. It's similar to what I inherited at Siena and to what we had here when I started—tremendous three-point shooting, a lot of scrapping and hustling from the perimeter guys."

Leading the squad in terms of both experience and production is 6-5 junior guard Iman Shumpert, from Oak Park, Ill., who averaged 10.0 points and 4.0 assists last season, and will likely split time at the point and wing.

Additionally, Hewitt touted Shumpert, who averaged 1.9 steals per game as a sophomore, as one of the best defensive players in the ACC, and perhaps the country.

A pair of sophomore guards, in Brian Oliver and Glen Rice, Jr., may be the early favorites to share the scoring load with Shumpert.

"I'm confident both of these guys can become major players for us," Hewitt said. "They're both talented enough. It's just a matter of raising their conditioning level so they can sustain their level of play throughout [and] maintain their ability to make plays effectively."

Oliver, a 6-6 sharpshooter from Glassboro, N.J., placed himself near the top of the ACC standings for three-point percentage by making 38 percent of his 166 attempts as part of a freshman campaign during which he averaged 7.1 points per game.

Rice, Jr., 6-5 from Marietta, Ga., averaged 5.4 points per game as a freshman, making 46.7 of his shots from behind the arc while taking only one-third the attempts of his teammate Oliver.

The unknown value in the scoring equation may be incoming freshman Jason Morris, a 6-5 guard from Hephzibah, Ga., who has already garnered rave reviews in his short time at Georgia Tech.

"What I've heard from our players in summer games is that we have no one like him in terms of his athleticism and versatility," Hewitt said. "He shoots both with his right and left hands very well, which we saw when we recruited him. He's probably the best leaper we've had here since Jeremis Smith or Ismail Muhammad."

The Yellow Jackets guard corps is further strengthened by an experienced pair primed to make an impact at point guard in Mfon Udofia and Maurice "Moe" Miller.

IMAN SHUMPERT

MOE MILLER

MFON UDOFIA

Udofia, a 6-2 sophomore from Stone Mountain, Ga., made a strong first impression at The Institute, starting the first 25 games of his freshman season and averaging 5.9 points per contest, before "hit[ting] the freshman wall," according to Hewitt.

Conversely, Miller, a 6-2 senior from Memphis, Tenn., came on strong in the last month of his junior campaign, including an impressive performance in the ACC championship game against Duke. He averaged 3.9 points and 2.3 assists per game.

Senior role players Lance Storrs, a 6-5 shooter from Decatur, Ga., and Nick Foreman, a 6-3 defender from Bellaire, Texas, round out the guard rotation.

Filling the shoes of Favors, Lawal, and Peacock—who were the top three rebounders on last year's squad—will be Daniel Miller, Kammeon Holsey, and Nate Hicks.

"When I look at our inside guys, I see guys that are willing to do some of the little things. Maybe they don't give us as big a punch off the bat offensively," Hewitt said. "As the year goes on, they'll get better."

However, Hewitt also noted that he will not hand out playing time to the 6-11, 6-8, and 6-10 respective trio of freshmen based solely upon height.

He pointed out that Anthony McHenry, the starting power forward on the Yellow Jackets' 2004 Final Four team, came to the team as a point guard: "So you could see us go to a somewhat unorthodox lineup."

Miller, from Loganville, Ga., redshirted last season, earning valuable practice time against the departed trio of NBA-caliber big men.

"He's a smart player with good athleticism and good hands. His conditioning level needs to improve, and I think it has," Hewitt said.

Holsey also redshirted after suffering a torn ACL on Aug. 1 that cost highly-touted signee from Sparta, Ga., the 2009-10 season.

"This kid is a big-time rebounder," Hewitt said. "I don't think we've had a guy who can rebound the ball like he can and have the ability to put the ball on the floor and make passes."

Hicks, from Panama City Beach, Fla., is a true freshman who inked with Georgia Tech in mid-July after being granted a release from a letter-of-intent he had previously signed with Tulane.

"For a young man that size, he's an outstanding athlete," Hewitt said. "He has the ability to defend the basket, block shots, rebound. And he can really run."

To best suit this lineup offensively, Hewitt has reinstalled a four-out, one-in motion offense, much like the one used by the Yellow Jackets during their national semifinal run seven seasons ago, when 7-footer Luke Schenscher was the team's only starter over 6-7.

"We're going to play more motion, play a more open, penetrating style," Hewitt said. "I think we have a chance to put a lot of pressure on perimeter defenders, because we have guys with the ability to take the ball to the basket, so the floor will be a little more open."

Defensively, the head coach said that where last season's team relied on its size to contain the floor and protect the basket, the season's squad will be more likely to rely on its quickness to pressure opponents.

"Our field goal percentage defense may suffer, but I would imagine we'll get more turnovers and more run-out baskets," he said.

Away from the floor, Georgia Tech will also have two important new faces on its bench for the coming season.

In June, Hewitt added Robert McCollum, former head coach at both Western Michigan and South Florida, to his staff.

"I've known Robert for a long time. I met him back in the mid-1990s when he was on the staff at Florida," Hewitt said. "I wanted somebody with a lot of experience on the staff. I think he will be a great addition."

McCollum brings seven years of experience as a head coach and 20 more as an assistant to fill the void left by former assistant John O'Connor, who left to accept a head coaching position at Holy Family University in Philadelphia.

Additionally, waiting in the wings to crack the playing rotation in 2011-12 will be reigning Sun Belt Conference Freshman of the Year Brandon Reed.

Reed announced his intentions to transfer from Arkansas State in June, as well, and must sit out a year in accordance with NCAA rules.

Last year, the 6-3 local product of Whitefield Academy in Mableton, Ga., averaged 15.1 points per game, breaking the Red Wolves' 38-year-old record for points scored in a season by a freshman.

Overall, considering what they have lost and gained over the course of the past offseason, the reasons for optimism on The Flats remain many as a new group of Yellow Jackets take to the hardwood at Alexander Memorial Coliseum this November.

"It's going to be a fun group to coach," Hewitt said. "This should be a team that takes very good care of the ball and plays a very fast-paced, high-scoring, exciting style of basketball."

Paul Hewitt says ...

Your team is quite a bit smaller and more perimeter-oriented than the last couple of teams you've had. How would you characterize your team and the makeup of your roster?

"I think you have to go back a long time to find a group of talented and experienced guards like we have on this team. We have a guy like Iman Shumpert who is one of the best defenders in the ACC, and maybe in the country. Moe Miller is a senior, Mfon Udofia, Glen Rice and Brian Oliver are sophomores, and then we have Jason Morris, a very talented freshman.

"This should be a team that takes very good care of the ball and plays a very fast-paced, high-scoring, exciting style of basketball."

Your 2004 Final Four team had a 7-footer in Luke Schenscher and no one else taller than 6-7. How much does this group remind you of that one or ones before that?

"I haven't thought about that comparison, but I really like the fact that we have experienced guards. When I look at our inside guys – Daniel Miller, Kammeon Holsey, Nate Hicks – I see guys that are willing to do some of the little things. Maybe they don't give us as big a punch off the bat offensively, as the year goes on, they'll get better. They're a core of guys who will screen more, facilitate things more, and as the year goes on, they'll become more of a presence scoring the ball."

Does that automatically mean Daniel Miller or Holsey must start?

"It doesn't automatically mean that. Anthony McHenry was our starting four-man on the Final Four team, and he came here as a point guard. So you could see us go to a somewhat unorthodox lineup."

How does the makeup of your squad change what you plan to do on offense and defense?

"It changes a lot. Offensively, we're going to play more motion, play a more open, penetrating style. I think we have a chance to put a lot of pressure on perimeter defenders, because we have guys with the ability to take the ball to the basket, so the floor will be a little more open.

"Defensively, we'll get back to pressuring a little bit more. When we were as big as we were, you want to keep the floor a little more contained and protect the basket. It worked, because we were one of the best defensive teams in the country last year. Our field goal percentage defense may suffer, but I would imagine we'll get more turnovers and more run-out baskets."

You spent practice sessions in the spring re-installing the 4-out, 1-in motion offense. How did that exercise go?

GLEN RICE, JR.

BRIAN OLIVER

"I thought it went well. We couldn't spend as extensive amount of time as I would have liked because of the time constraints we're under, but I felt it was good just to get them immersed in the idea of how this team is going to be different. Guys like Glen Rice and Brian Oliver are so versatile that, in a motion-type offense, you can create matchup problems either scoring from the outside or posting up."

You have plenty of experience among your perimeter players, particularly your primary ball handlers – Shumpert, Miller, Udofia. How advantageous is that for your team?

"It's a great luxury, especially when you think about how important guard play is in college basketball. I thought last year we made great strides. This year, I'd like to see us turn those strides into consistent play. At the end of last year, Moe and Iman were playing very well. Mfon got off to a great start, and then hit the freshman wall, but we saw what he's capable of doing early in the year."

How much of the scoring AND playmaking work falls on the shoulders of Shumpert?

"It shouldn't all fall on his shoulders. Mfon and Moe can both create scoring opportunities and make some plays. Then you've got Brian and Glen who have proven to me that they can put up big numbers. Then you've got a wild card of sorts in Jason Morris. What I've heard from our players in summer games is that we have no one like him in terms of his athleticism and versatility. He shoots both with his right and left hands very well, which we saw when we recruited him. He's probably the best leaper we've had here since Jeremis Smith or Ismail Muhammad. I'd put him in that category just in his ability to get off the floor. Whether he's ready to guard at this level, fight through screens and things like that, remains to be seen. But he has some natural gifts that are unique to this team."

Miller provided a relatively steady hand off the bench late in the year. What do you need from him in the coming year?

"I give him a lot of credit. He hung in there, and over the last 12 to 15 ballgames, he was a difference-maker for us. In the ACC Championship game against Duke, he made some big plays down the stretch to get us back in that ballgame. He fought through some adversity and the competition that he got from Mfon, and he's a better player for it.

"He needs to keep playing with the confidence level he displayed at the end of last season. His talent level has never been in question. He just needs to play through adversity, which is what you expect from an upperclassman. He can be a guy who can really help control the ballgame for us."

LANCE STORRS

NICK FOREMAN

Conversely, Udofia began the year on a roll and then diminished as the ACC schedule came on. What have you asked him to work on this off-season?

"He's worked all summer on his flexibility. He needed to work on his ability to change direction, whether on offense or defense. He has worked hard all summer with our strength and conditioning coach, Scott McDonald, and our athletic trainer, Richard Stewart, as well as our yoga instructor, in order to try and make him a more flexible, quicker athlete and improve his balance on the floor. When people take away something from him, he needs to be able to adjust and do the next thing that needs to be done.

"There is one thing I know about that young man. He's an unbelievable competitor. He took what happened to him at the end of last year and used it as great motivation this summer."

Your two wing players, Rice and Oliver, were great contributors to your team last year without drawing a lot of attention. What do you expect from them?

"They've got to become prime-time contributors this year. I'm confident both those guys can become major players for us. That means getting into shape to play 25 to 30 minutes a game. They're both talented enough. It's just a matter of raising their conditioning level so they can sustain their level of play throughout, maintain their ability to make plays effectively."

Is Oliver your best shooter?

"That's a good question, because Glen Rice proved that he's a very good three-point shooter last year. Iman is a very good three-point shooter, and Moe Miller started to shoot it very well at the end of last year. If you had to point to one strength on this team, I think it is the ability to shoot the three. Is Brian the best? We'll see. The key difference between a good shooter and a bad one is taking good shots."

What's your evaluation of Daniel Miller in practice during his redshirt season and in the spring?

"It was a wise decision on his part to redshirt. Practicing against the big guys we had really helped him. It was an adjustment from playing high school ball to playing against two guys who were poised to play in the NBA. He's a smart player with good athleticism and good hands. His conditioning level needs to improve, and I think it has."

Holsey is fully recovered from his knee injury and participated in post-season practices? What did you see from him, and what do you expect this year?

"He's a versatile player who rebounds the ball well. I don't think we've had a guy who can rebound the ball like he can and have the ability to put the ball on the floor and make passes. This kid is a big-time rebounder."

Last year's team was a tremendous rebounding team. Is that a concern with this team?

"We can be as good a rebounding team, but obviously don't have as dynamic a rebounder as Favors and Lawal both were. As a group, we can do a good enough job, and even a better job. It can be a complete and total team effort."

You have seen Jason Morris play and recruited him very hard? What does he add to this team?

"Tremendous athleticism. He's a very good all-around player who is a big, strong kid. He's a guy who can contribute immediately in the ACC, because physically, he will not be overmatched. He can slash and get to the basket. He's shooting the ball better. At a private school like the Hotchkiss School, he has a lot of opportunity to go in the gym and get shots up when he had down time. Over the time we recruited him, he really developed a better-looking shot, more fundamentally sound. He has the ability to shoot with either hand when he gets in the lane. That's another example of how much time he had to get in the gym and work on things."

Conversely, Nate Hicks is a late add. What can you tell us about him?

"For a young man that size, he's an outstanding athlete. You look at his 100 times, 200 times, his high jump, and watching him on tape. He has the ability to defend the basket, block shots, rebound. And he can really run."

What's your attitude about this team?

"It's going to be a fun group to coach. I'm really going to get back to my roots with this team. It's similar to what I inherited at Siena, and to what we had here when I started. Tremendous three-point shooting, a lot of scrapping and hustling from the perimeter guys. It should be an exciting, high-scoring team."

You have a new member of your staff in Robert McCullum, a former head coach at two schools. What does he add to your program?

"I've known Robert for a long time. I met him back in the mid-1990s when he was on the staff at Florida. We both have someone who is very influential in both our careers in George Raveling. He comes highly recommended because he's been around for a long time. I wanted somebody with a lot of experience on the staff. I think he will be a great addition."

2009-10 Game Summaries

Georgia Tech 100, Florida A&M 59

Nov. 14, 2009 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Iman Shumpert scored 18 points and capped a decisive run in the first half, and No. 22 Georgia Tech showed off its freshmen in its 100-59 win over Florida A&M in the season opener for both teams.

Derrick Favors, the biggest name in Georgia Tech's heralded freshman class, started and had 10 points and eight rebounds. Another freshman, Brian Oliver, had 12 points, all in the second half.

Junior Gani Lawal added 16 points and 12 rebounds. Shumpert, a sophomore guard, led the Yellow Jackets (1-0) in scoring despite playing only 19 minutes.

Georgia Tech led 16-8 before pulling away with the 14 unanswered points. Shumpert had the final four points in the run. A basket by Lawal pushed the lead to 30 points at 46-16 late in the first half.

The first sign of Georgia Tech's new look came when senior Zachery Peacock didn't make the opening lineup. Peacock, a 6-foot-8 forward, started every game last season. Favors and Lawal were the starting forwards in coach Paul Hewitt's three-guard lineup.

Peacock finished with eight points.

Favors was joined by another freshman, point guard Mfon Udofia, in the starting five.

Udofia had nine points. Rice, the son of the former Michigan star and 15-year NBA veteran, had seven.

Dayton 63, Georgia Tech 59

Nov. 19, 2009 - San Juan, Puerto Rico

Paul Williams hit the go-ahead 3-pointer and went 4 for 4 from the free throw line in the last minute to seal the Flyers' 63-59 comeback win over No. 21 Georgia Tech in the opening game of the O'Reilly Auto Parts Puerto Rico Tip-Off.

Williams finished with 13 points for Dayton (2-0), which got 47 points from its backups, including 19 from Chris Johnson.

The Yellow Jackets (1-1) trailed the Flyers 31-22 at the half, but rallied with a string of dunks and layups by Derrick Favors and Gani Lawal.

A 3-pointer by Brian Oliver gave Georgia Tech its first lead of the second half at 49-47 and a layup by Zachery Peacock on an offensive rebound with 4:37 to play gave them a 57-50 lead.

The Flyers had 22 turnovers, but scored 27 points off 26 Georgia Tech turnovers.

Maurice Miller and Favors led Georgia Tech with 10 points apiece, and Lawal had eight rebounds in helping the Yellow Jackets rebound Dayton 34-26.

In the first half, Dayton took control with an 8-0 run capped by Chris Wright's breakaway dunk that gave the Flyers a 30-20 lead three minutes before the break. Luke Fabrizius also scored two 3-pointers during the run and finished with 12 points.

Georgia Tech 70, Georgia Tech 62

Nov. 20, 2009 - San Juan, Puerto Rico

Gani Lawal and Derrick Favors each scored 18 points and added three blocks apiece to lead the Yellow Jackets (2-1) to a 70-62 victory over George Mason on Friday in the consolation round of the O'Reilly Auto Parts Puerto Rico Tip-Off.

Favors scored six of his points in a 13-0 run, capped by one of his dunks, that gave the Yellow Jackets a 43-23 lead with 15 minutes to play. The Patriots (2-2) got no closer than six points the rest of the way.

Georgia Tech tallied 12 assists and coach Paul Hewitt said his team made fewer mistakes compared with its first-round performance in a 63-59 loss Thursday to No. 18 Dayton.

George Mason led 17-9 on a 3-pointer by Andre Cornelius with 9:54 left in the first half, but the Yellow Jackets then went on a 15-0 run that featured two dunks from Favors and one from Lawal. Georgia Tech led 27-19 at halftime.

The Patriots were coming off a 69-68 loss to No. 5 Villanova 69-68 in the first round, and Larranaga said the fast pace of that game left his team tired.

George Mason mounted a late rally and with less than 30 seconds to play Luke Hancock made a layup to cut Georgia Tech's lead to 66-60. But Favors and D'Andre Bell each converted a pair of free throws to seal the victory.

Georgia Tech 85, Boston University 67

Nov. 22, 2009 - San Juan, Puerto Rico

Senior forward Zachery Peacock had 22 points to lead No. 21 Georgia Tech to an 85-67 victory over Boston University in the fifth-place game of the Puerto Rico Tip-Off on Sunday.

Peacock finished 10 of 11 from the field. Gani Lawal added 17 points and 13 rebounds, and Mfon Udofia scored 15 points for the Yellow Jackets.

Georgia Tech (3-1) led 42-40 at the half, but the Terriers' inability to take care of the basketball and stifling defense eventually took its toll.

John Holland scored a game-high 23 points for Boston University (1-4). He had 11 points and four rebounds in the first half.

Georgia Tech lost 63-59 to No. 18 Dayton in the first round Thursday, but beat George Mason 70-62 in Friday's second round.

GAME 5

Georgia Tech 85, Mercer 74

Nov. 27, 2009 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Freshmen Derrick Favors and Mfon Udofia each scored 16 points, and Georgia Tech withstood a scare for the second straight year from Mercer in an 85-74 win on Saturday.

Gani Lawal finished with 15 points and 10 rebounds for the Yellow Jackets (4-1), who have won three straight.

James Florence scored a career-high 40 points for the Bears (3-3), who have dropped two straight.

Georgia Tech struggled with Mercer last season in Macon, Ga., before forcing overtime and escaping with an 82-76 win.

The Bears, despite losing by 39 to Florida State last weekend, were nearly as much trouble again for the Jackets, cutting the lead to two when E.J. Kusnyer hit a 3 early in the second half.

But the Yellow Jackets went on a 25-11 run that took nearly 10 minutes and ended with freshman Brian Oliver's 3-pointer from the right wing and a 73-57 lead with 7:59 remaining.

GAME 6

Georgia Tech 74, Siena 61

Dec. 2, 2009 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Freshman Mfon Udofia scored a career-high 26 points and Georgia Tech beat Siena, 74-61.

Derrick Favors, who is also a freshman, finished with 16 points and eight rebounds for the Yellow Jackets (5-1), winners of four straight. Gani Lawal added 15 points and nine rebounds.

Clarence Jackson led Siena (4-3) with 19 points. The Saints, who have dropped two of three, never led and had no other players score in double figures.

Udofia, a point guard from nearby Miller Grove High School in Stone Mountain, also had seven rebounds. His 10-foot runner with 4:06 remaining gave Georgia Tech a 68-54 lead.

Favors, a 6-foot-10 forward from nearby South Atlanta High, hit a layup to put the Yellow Jackets up 54-47 with 8:44 left in the game.

GAME 10

Florida State 66, Georgia Tech 59 (ot)

Dec. 20, 2009 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Ryan Reid scored a career-high 17 points, and Chris Singleton hit the go-ahead basket with 1:05 left in overtime to help Florida State beat No. 22 Georgia Tech 66-59 in the Atlantic Coast Conference opener for both teams.

The Seminoles (10-2, 1-0 Atlantic Coast Conference) won their fourth straight and stopped Georgia Tech's seven-game winning streak.

Zachery Peacock scored 17 for the Yellow Jackets (8-2, 0-1 ACC). Mfon Udofia added 12 points, and Derrick Favors pulled down 12 rebounds as Georgia Tech lost its fourth straight ACC opener.

Reid scored on Florida State's first two possessions of overtime before Singleton banked in a one-handed runner to make it 61-59 and put the Seminoles ahead to stay.

Peacock, whose 17-footer forced a 54-54 tie with 33 seconds left in regulation, hit a 3-pointer to begin OT and give the Yellow Jackets their first lead since his runner made it 37-36 at the 9:47 mark of the second half.

But Georgia Tech ended the game with a 32.9 percentage on 70 attempts from the field. Gani Lawal scored a season-low four points on 1 for 7 shooting, and Brian Oliver went 1 for 6 on 3-point attempts.

GAME 12

Georgia Tech 78, Winston-Salem State 43

Dec. 29, 2009 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Mfon Udofia scored 17 points, and Derrick Favors had 13 points and 11 rebounds as the two freshmen helped Georgia Tech earn its second straight win, 78-43 over Winston-Salem State.

The Yellow Jackets (10-2) have won eight of 10.

With a starting lineup that included guards Udofia, D'Andre Bell, Maurice Miller, Georgia Tech had the pressure it needed to force 31 turnovers, a season high for the Rams (2-8).

Miscues by Winston-Salem State led to 34 points for the Yellow Jackets. The Rams failed to score a second-half point until the 12:56 mark, when two free throws by Brian Fisher cut the lead to 50-20.

Zachery Peacock had 13 points and seven rebounds for Georgia Tech, which dropped out of the Top 25 poll after a home loss to Florida State on Dec. 20.

Georgia Tech 76, Charlotte 67

Jan. 2, 2010 - Charlotte, N.C.

Gani Lawal had 29 points and rescued Georgia Tech from a late collapse as the Yellow Jackets overcame 31 points from Derrio Green in a 76-67 victory over Charlotte at Halton Arena.

After squandering a 15-point second-half lead, Lawal hit several key free throws and had a big block in the final minute and Georgia Tech (11-2) recovered to win its third straight to move within one victory of last season's total.

Green hit seven 3-pointers in his career-best night for the 49ers (10-3), who trailed by 12 with 8 minutes left before a 17-4 run put them ahead 66-65 with 2:38 left.

But D'Andre Bell answered with a 3-pointer and Lawal hit two free throws. Up 70-66, Lawal rejected Chris Braswell in the lane and later put it away at the line.

Lawal hit 17 of 20 free throws and added 10 rebounds. Iman Shumpert added nine points in his first game back from knee surgery.

GAME 14

Georgia 73, Georgia Tech 66

Jan. 5, 2010 - Athens, Ga.

Trey Thompkins scored 20 points, Ricky McPhee hit two key baskets near the end and Georgia pulled off its first big win for new coach Mark Fox, knocking off No. 20 Georgia Tech 73-66 at Stegeman Coliseum.

Georgia Tech (11-3) was trying to match its victory total from last season. Instead, the Yellow Jackets failed to break a long drought at Stegeman Coliseum, where they haven't won since Nov. 26, 1976.

With Georgia (8-5) clinging to a 53-52 lead, Thompkins got loose inside, made the basket and was fouled by Gani Lawal. A free throw completed the three-point play. After Lawal missed at the other end, Georgia took off running, Thompkins drew a foul and made both free throws for a 58-52 lead with 1:51 remaining.

With Georgia Tech pressing all over the court, McPhee got loose on the wing and swished an open 3-pointer for a 61-54 lead with 1:23 remaining. He followed with another basket off a drive, banking it in high off the backboard for his only two-point hoop of the game. Twelve of his 16 points came on 3-pointers; he added two free throws in the final minute to help seal the win.

Lawal scored 21 points but the Yellow Jackets went 3-of-12 from beyond the arc while managing only eight assists and committing 20 turnovers.

GAME 15

Georgia Tech 71, Duke 67

Jan. 9, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Gani Lawal scored 21 points, including a crucial shot with just over a minute remaining, and No. 20 Georgia Tech bounced back from a dismal loss with a 71-67 upset of the fifth-ranked Blue Devils.

The Yellow Jackets avoided an 0-2 start in conference play and made up for Tuesday's 73-66 loss to state rival Georgia.

Lawal worked the boards hard, putting back two straight misses during one pivotal stretch, and Georgia Tech (12-3, 1-1 ACC) went ahead for good on yet another hustle play. Zachery Peacock grabbed an airball under the basket and flipped in a shot that put Georgia Tech ahead 62-60 with 1:52 remaining.

After Kyle Singler missed again for Duke (13-2, 1-1) on a 3-pointer - the junior forward was 2 for 13 from the field - Lawal knocked down an awkward turnaround jumper from about 10 feet to give the Yellow Jackets some breathing room.

The Blue Devils were stymied by a miserable performance beyond the arc (6 for 28 on 3-pointers), had their slim depth exposed by foul trouble and didn't provide star Jon Scheyer much help.

The Blue Devils had a 20-12 rebounding edge in the opening half, but Georgia Tech dominated 26-12 after the break. Lawal led the Yellow Jackets with nine rebounds, including back-to-back plays that gave the home team a big boost.

2009-10 Game Summaries

GAME 16

Virginia 82, Georgia Tech 75

Jan. 13, 2010 - Charlottesville, Va.

Sylvan Landesberg scored 22 points and Virginia used a 16-4 run late in the second half to surge past No. 20 Georgia Tech 82-75.

Virginia (10-4, 2-0 Atlantic Coast Conference) won its sixth straight game, its longest winning streak since it won seven in a row in the 2006-07 season. Georgia Tech (12-4, 1-2), coming off a victory against Duke, shot better than 50 percent from the field, but struggled mightily at the free throw line, missing 8 of 11 attempts.

The Cavaliers, conversely, were 23-for-26, including 14 of 15 in the final 8 1/2 minutes.

Mustapha Farrakhan added 15 points and Mike Scott 12 for Virginia. Zachery Peacock led Georgia Tech with 19 points and Iman Shumpert had 15.

Virginia trailed 55-51 until Sammy Zeglinski hit a 3-pointer from the left corner, only the third of the game for the Cavaliers. It sparked the big run that gave the home team a 67-59 lead, the biggest of the game for either team, and whipped the crowd into a frenzy.

Georgia Tech scored on its next two possessions, both times on turnaround jumpers by Gani Lawal, but Landesberg hit two free throws in between. Virginia got three chances the next time down court and chewed up plenty of clock before each shot. Finally, after Landesberg rebounded a missed free throw by Jerome Meyinsse, Zeglinski hit a contested 3-pointer with the shot clock running down, making it 72-63 with 2:08 left and giving Virginia a cushion.

All Virginia had to do the rest of the way was make its free throws.

GAME 17

Georgia Tech 73, North Carolina 71

Jan. 16, 2010 - Chapel Hill, N.C.

Georgia Tech overcame everything-a blown 20-point lead, the ear-ringing screams of North Carolina's blue-clad crowd and a second-half scoring barrage from Will Graves-to prove it has plenty of fight to go with all that talent.

Zachery Peacock made the go-ahead shot with 25.7 seconds left to rescue the 20th-ranked Yellow Jackets, who shook off that blown big lead and held off the 12th-ranked Tar Heels 73-71.

Iman Shumpert finished with a career-high 30 points to lead the Yellow Jackets (13-4, 2-2 Atlantic Coast Conference), who figured out a way to pull out a win after falling behind in the wild final minutes. Peacock managed just six points with one second-half field goal, but that shot in the lane rolled around the rim before dropping through to give Georgia Tech its first win in Chapel Hill since 1996.

North Carolina's comeback seemed perfectly tailored for the program's storied history, but the Yellow Jackets regrouped and kept the pressure on the Tar Heels (12-6, 1-2), refusing to let the game slip away.

After Graves buried a 3-pointer to give North Carolina its first second-half lead at 64-63, Brian Oliver responded by knocking down an off-balance jumper from the right side. D'Andre Bell answered Marcus Ginyard's hanging layup with a jumper of his own. Then, after freshman Travis Wear put the Tar Heels up 71-70 on a short hook shot with 41.4 seconds left, Peacock answered with what turned out to be the game-winner.

GAME 18

Georgia Tech 66, Clemson 64

Jan. 19, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Zachery Peacock made two free throws with 3.2 seconds remaining and No. 19 Georgia Tech knocked off another ranked team, beating No. 17 Clemson 66-64.

Georgia Tech (14-4, 3-2 Atlantic Coast Conference) is off to its best start since 2006-07 and has won back-to-back games over ranked teams for the first time since its run to the Final Four in 2004. The Yellow Jackets have beaten three Top 25 teams over an 11-day span, also knocking off Duke and North Carolina before edging the Tigers (15-4, 3-2).

Both teams turned the ball over in the final seconds, squandering chances to win. Finally, Georgia Tech inbounced to Peacock with 5.1 seconds left. He drove toward the free throw line and lost control of the ball, but the officials called a foul on Trevor Booker. Peacock calmly sank both foul shots on a night the Yellow Jackets made just 11 of 22 at the line.

Georgia Tech got big production from its two big men. Derrick Favors had 17 points and 14 rebounds, while Gani Lawal contributed 16 points and 10 rebounds. But it was Peacock, a former starter who now backs up those two, stepping up to provide the winning points.

The game was hardly a masterpiece by either team. Georgia Tech shot just 39 percent from the field, including a dismal 3 of 17 from 3-point range. Clemson was even worse-a mere 37 percent shooting-and only 10 of 20 at the line.

GAME 19

Florida State 68, Georgia Tech 66

Jan. 24, 2010 - Tallahassee, Fla.

Chris Singleton scored a career-high 23 points and Solomon Alabi made two go-ahead free throws with 22.8 seconds left, giving Florida State a 68-66 victory over No. 19 Georgia Tech and a sweep of the season series.

Alabi finished with 14 points and was perfect in six trips to the foul line for Florida State, (15-4, 3-2 ACC), which has won its last five against Georgia Tech. Deividas Dulkys added 11 points for the Seminoles.

Alabi's free throws made it 67-66, and Brian Oliver missed a 3-point try and Gani Lawal and Iman Shumpert both missed opportunities to tie the game for Georgia Tech. Jordan DeMercy added a free throw in the closing seconds for the final margin.

Freshman Brian Oliver hit six 3-pointers and scored a career-best 20 points for the Yellow Jackets (14-5, 3-3 ACC), while Derrick Favors added 10 points and a game-high 10 rebounds.

Aside from Alabi, both teams shot poorly from the free-throw stripe. Florida State was 16 of 27 and Georgia Tech was 11 of 22.

In addition to 20 lead changes, there were 10 ties in the game, including 34-34 at halftime.

It was a game of runs by both schools in the opening half with the lead changing eight times and the score tied another five occasions.

GAME 20

Georgia Tech 79, Wake Forest 58

Jan. 28, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

D'Andre Bell led a balanced offense with 16 points, Derrick Favors blocked five shots and No. 22 Georgia Tech pulled away early in the second half for a 79-58 rout of Wake Forest.

Coming off a tough loss at Florida State, the Yellow Jackets (15-5, 4-3 ACC) ripped off a 19-4 run to break open a tight game. Georgia Tech did its best work at the defensive end, holding the Demon Deacons (14-5, 4-3) almost 19 points below their scoring average.

Wake Forest shot just 33 percent from the field and had only two players in double figures: Al-Farouq Aminu with 15 points and Ishmael Smith with 12.

Georgia Tech spread the offense around. Gani Lawal had 14 points and Brian Oliver added 13, while Iman Shumpert and Favors chipped in with 11 each. Favors and Lawal also had nine rebounds apiece, leading the Yellow Jackets to a 43-34 edge on the boards.

After the Deacons scored the first two baskets of the second half to close a six-point deficit to 35-33, Georgia Tech took control.

Lawal got it started, hitting a shot on the inside, drawing a foul on Aminu and knocking down the free throw to complete the three-point play. Shumpert followed with a 3-pointer, then swished a smooth jumper. Just like that, Georgia Tech had its first double-digit lead of the night, 45-35.

The Yellow Jackets wound up shooting 54 percent (29 of 54) to easily win their sixth straight over the Demon Deacons in Atlanta.

Georgia Tech 98, Kentucky State 50

Jan. 30, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Glen Rice Jr. scored 15 points, D'Andre Bell added 14 and No. 22 Georgia Tech breezed to a 98-50 victory over Kentucky State.

The Yellow Jackets (16-5) have won four of five and improved to 11-1 at home, dipping out of the Atlantic Coast Conference to take on a Division II school from the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

After Kentucky State's Troy Johnson cut the lead to 17-15 with a 3-pointer, the Yellow Jackets went on a 48-14 charge that ended on Iman Shumpert's dunk with 18:12 remaining. Georgia Tech coach Paul Hewitt pulled his starters a few minutes later with the lead at 32.

Jarrod Gay had 16 points to lead the Thorobreds, (4-13) who hit just 28.3 percent from the field. Tony Johnson added eight for Kentucky State after shooting 2 for 11.

Gani Lawal and Lance Storrs each finished with 11 points for Georgia Tech, which outscored the Thorobreds 33-9 on the fastbreak and 24-9 off turnovers. Kentucky State committed 21.

Rice, a reserve guard, was 6 for 6 from the field, including three 3-pointers.

Lawal, a junior forward who's considered a potential late first-round NBA draft pick, became the 16th Georgia Tech player to score 1,000 points.

Reserve center Brad Sheehan pulled down a game-high 10 rebounds for the Yellow Jackets.

GAME 23

Georgia Tech 73, NC State 71

Feb. 6, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Zachery Peacock scored 22 points, freshman Derrick Favors added 16, and No. 21 Georgia Tech held off NC State 73-71.

The Yellow Jackets (17-6, 5-4) improved to 12-1 at home, and they have won four of six in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Georgia Tech struggled to hold off the last-place Wolfpack, however, despite leading by 16 points with 5:01 remaining.

Switching to a full-court press late in the game, NC State (14-10, 2-7) frustrated Georgia Tech into committing several turnovers and possession arrow miscues before Julius Mays stole D'Andre Bell's backcourt pass and hit a layup to make it 70-69 with 2:09 remaining.

After Dennis Horner's two free throws cut the lead to 73-71, the Yellow Jackets again failed to make an accurate inbound pass from the baseline, and N.C. State had a chance to tie or win the game.

But Javier Gonzalez missed a jumper, and Mays' straightaway 3-point attempt bounced off the front of the rim at the buzzer.

Tracy Smith scored 22 points for the Wolfpack, who have lost four straight in the ACC.

Iman Shumpert, who added 14 points for Georgia Tech, hit a straightaway 3 to give the Jackets their biggest lead, 66-50.

Miami 64, Georgia Tech 62

Feb. 10, 2010 - Coral Gables, Fla.

James Dews made a 15-footer at the buzzer to give Miami a 64-62 victory over No. 20 Georgia Tech.

Dews missed the front end of a one-and-one with 19 seconds left, and Iman Shumpert sank a layup for Tech to tie the game with 10 seconds to go. That capped a comeback by the Yellow Jackets, who trailed by 14 early in the second half.

The Hurricanes (17-7, 3-7 Atlantic Coast Conference) won for only the second time in the past eight games. Georgia Tech (17-7, 5-5) fell to 1-4 on the road in the league, while Miami improved to 11-1 at home this season.

The Hurricanes fell behind 8-0, then outscored Georgia Tech 41-19 the remainder of the first half. They won despite shooting 32 percent in the second half.

Tech went to a press in the second half and that threw the Hurricanes out of their offensive rhythm. Oliver sank a pair of 3-pointers during a 13-2 run by the Yellow Jackets that cut the deficit to 52-50.

The Hurricanes rebuilt the lead to 60-52, and Collins' dunk made it 62-58. But Shumpert sank two free throws with 20 seconds left for Tech, then hit the layup for the tie.

Dwayne Collins had 13 points and 11 rebounds for Miami. Adrian Thomas scored 12, all on 3-pointers, and Malcolm Grant had 11, all in the first half. Reserve Reggie Johnson added 10 points and seven rebounds in 16 minutes.

Brian Oliver scored 19 points off the bench for Georgia Tech, and junior Gani Lawal had 17 points and a career-high 18 rebounds.

Wake Forest 75, Georgia Tech 64

Feb. 13, 2010 - Winston-Salem, N.C.

Al-Farouq Aminu had 19 points and 10 rebounds and Wake Forest beat slumping No. 20 Georgia Tech 75-64 to move into sole possession of second place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Ishmael Smith had the clinching hoop with just over a minute left for the surging Demon Deacons, who won their fourth straight game.

Gani Lawal had 15 points and 12 rebounds, and freshman Glen Rice Jr. added 14 points for Georgia Tech, which dropped to 1-5 in ACC road games and failed to complete a season sweep of Wake Forest.

The fast-paced, bruising game featured a couple of shoving matches and was full of momentum swings and streaky play. Then it ended with a 15-2 Wake Forest run.

Smith's runner and Tony Woods' tip on consecutive possessions snapped a tie and put Wake Forest ahead 66-62 with 4:28 left.

The Yellow Jackets fell behind early by 10 points, only to claw back in it by hitting six of their first seven 3-point attempts. Even Maurice Miller, who entered the game 2-for-22 from 3-point range, drained one early.

Then the Yellow Jackets promptly missed six straight 3-point shots, while Aminu scored 16 first-half points for Wake Forest.

Freshman Derrick Favors, who was without a field goal for nearly 29 minutes, had consecutive buckets inside as Georgia Tech went ahead 62-60 with 8:50 left. It turned out to be Georgia Tech's last field goal.

GAME 26

Georgia Tech 68, North Carolina 51

Feb. 16, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Freshman Derrick Favors shook off a scoring slump with 13 points and Georgia Tech beat North Carolina 68-51 on Tuesday night in the Tar Heels' lowest scoring game in the Roy Williams era.

North Carolina's previous scoring low in Williams' seven seasons as coach came in a 64-54 loss to Duke on Feb. 10. The Tar Heels also set Williams-era lows for points in a half after trailing 41-21 at halftime.

Georgia Tech (18-8, 6-6 Atlantic Coast Conference) ended a two-game losing streak and completed its first regular-season sweep of the Tar Heels since 1995-96. The Yellow Jackets are 5-1 at home, but 1-5 on the road in ACC games.

North Carolina (14-12, 3-8) fell to 2-8 in its last 10 games, with its only wins in that span coming against N.C. State.

GAME 27

Maryland 76, Georgia Tech 74

Feb. 20, 2010 - College Park, Md.

Reserve guard Cliff Tucker buried a 3-pointer as time expired, and Maryland pulled out a 76-74 victory Saturday to remain unbeaten at home in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

After Derrick Favors gave Georgia Tech the lead with a follow-up basket with three seconds left, Maryland got the ball to midcourt before calling a timeout. The Terrapins got the ball to Tucker, whose shot from the left corner found the bottom of the net, setting off a celebration at the sold out Comcast Center.

The wild finish overshadowed a milestone performance by Maryland senior Greivis Vasquez, who scored 18 to become the sixth player in school history to reach the 2,000-point mark.

Eric Hayes scored 15 for Maryland and Jordan Williams had nine points and 12 rebounds. The victory gave the Terrapins (19-7, 9-3) sole possession of second place in the ACC.

Favors had 21 points and 18 rebounds, both season highs, and Iman Shumpert scored 17 for the Yellow Jackets (18-9, 6-7).

Hayes hit a 3-pointer with 1:19 left to give Maryland a 71-68 lead. After Favors made a layup, Dino Gregory botched a layup for the Terrapins. Favors pulled down his 17th rebound for the Yellow Jackets, who took a timeout to set up a play.

D'Andre Bell scored on a drive with 24.5 seconds remaining and Vasquez followed with a shot in the lane before Favors scored, setting up Tucker's game-winner.

Iman Shumpert scored 24 points, including nine straight late in the second half, and Derrick Favors added 14 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 73-68 victory over Boston College.

Tech (19-9, 7-7 Atlantic Coast Conference), improved to 14-1 at home. The Yellow Jackets had lost three of four.

Boston College (14-14, 5-9) was led by Joe Trapani with 26 points. Reggie Jackson added 13 points and Corey Raji had 12 for the Eagles, who had their two-game winning streak snapped.

Clemson 91, Georgia Tech 80

Mar. 2, 2010 - Clemson, S.C.

Trevor Booker closed out his home career at Clemson with 21 points to lead the surging Tigers to a 91-80 victory over Georgia Tech.

Demontez Stitt added 20 points as Clemson (21-8, 9-6 Atlantic Coast Conference) won for the fifth time in six games and all but cemented a spot in the NCAA tournament.

The Tigers used a 25-7 run that spanned the halves to take control of what had been a 41-41 game. The Yellow Jackets (19-10, 7-8) could not respond and now are in desperation mode, needing to beat Virginia Tech on Saturday simply to finish .500 in the league.

Glen Rice Jr. had 17 points and Derrick Favors 16 for Georgia Tech.

GAME 30

Virginia Tech 88, Georgia Tech 82

Mar. 6, 2010 - Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Malcolm Delaney tied a season high with 32 points and Jeff Allen had 17 points with 10 rebounds to help Virginia Tech win its second straight game with an 88-82 victory over Georgia Tech.

The Hokies (23-7, 10-6 Atlantic Coast Conference) are assured of a first-round bye in the league tournament next week in Greensboro, N.C. They stayed in a tie for fourth with Florida State.

A foot injury to Virginia Tech guard Dorenzo Hudson kept the Hokies' second-leading scorer on the bench in street clothes as he missed his first game in three seasons.

Gani Lawal and Derrick Favors scored 18 apiece as the Yellow Jackets finished below .500 in the ACC regular season for the sixth straight year.

GAME 31

Georgia Tech 62, North Carolina 58

Mar. 11, 2010 - Greensboro (N.C.) Coliseum

ACC Tournament

Derrick Favors had 18 points and nine rebounds to help Georgia Tech hold off North Carolina 62-58 in the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

Gani Lawal added 12 points for the seventh-seeded Yellow Jackets (20-11), who had to fight the entire way to earn a needed victory for their shaky NCAA tournament chances. Georgia Tech trailed by 13 points in the first half against a team it had swept during the regular season, but rallied early in the second half to tie the game before finally pushing ahead in the final 4 minutes.

Favors had a huge game, hitting his first seven shots while coming up with a key block of Tyler Zeller's lay-up attempt to tie it with about 2 minutes left.

Zeller had 17 points and 10 rebounds to lead the 10th-seeded Tar Heels (16-16).

GAME 32

Georgia Tech 69, Maryland 64

Mar. 12, 2010 - Greensboro (N.C.) Coliseum

ACC Tournament

Iman Shumpert scored 14 points and made the key defensive play that lifted Georgia Tech past No. 19 Maryland 69-64 in the Atlantic Coast Conference quarterfinals.

Maurice Miller added 13 points for the seventh-seeded Yellow Jackets (21-11). They blew most of a 19-point lead and had 25 turnovers, but for the second straight night, they did just enough to advance-this time, to the semifinals for the first time since 2005.

Greivis Vasquez had 17 points on 6 of 21 shooting for the second-seeded seed Terrapins (23-8). They had the ball and were within one possession of the lead six times in the final 4:30 and didn't score on any of those possessions.

The last chance came when Maryland trailed 67-64 and Vasquez pulled up for a long 3-pointer with about 6 seconds left. Shumpert knocked the ball from his hands, took off downcourt and was fouled. He and Derrick Favors each hit one free throw in the final 3.7 seconds to seal the Yellow Jackets' first victory in the series since 2004.

Favors finished with 11 points and 11 rebounds and Zachery Peacock added 11 points for the Yellow Jackets.

The Terrapins, who trailed 41-22 in the final minute of the first half, got themselves back in the game with a 22-5 run. Adrian Bowie started the rally with a three-point play with 1.7 seconds left before the break, and capped it with a layup that made it 46-44 with 13:41 to play. In between, Maryland forced 10 turnovers on Georgia Tech's first 13 possessions of the half.

GAME 33

Georgia Tech 57, NC State 54

Mar. 13, 2010 - Greensboro (N.C.) Coliseum

ACC Tournament

Derrick Favors had 17 points and eight rebounds, and Georgia Tech held off North Carolina State 57-54 to reach the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament championship game.

Gani Lawal added 12 points and 10 rebounds for the seventh-seeded Yellow Jackets (22-11), who advanced after a frantic finish to face top-seed and No. 4 Duke.

The 11th-seeded Wolfpack's hopes of being the lowest-seeded team to reach the final were dashed thanks to poor late-game execution. Javier Gonzalez had a chance to atone for a key turnover and intentional foul in the final 2 minutes, but he missed a game-tying 3-pointer in the final seconds.

Tracy Smith had 15 points for N.C. State (19-15), which shot 31 percent but used its pressure defense to rally from a 10-point halftime deficit.

The Yellow Jackets reached the final for the first time since losing to Duke in 2005.

GAME 34

Duke 65, Georgia Tech 61

Mar. 14, 2010 - Greensboro (N.C.) Coliseum

ACC Tournament

Kyle Singler scored 20 points and Jon Scheyer hit a critical 3-pointer with 18 seconds left to help No. 4 Duke beat Georgia Tech 65-61 in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament championship game.

Scheyer finished with 16 points for the top-seeded Blue Devils (29-5), who let an 11-point lead with 6 minutes slip all the way to one before Scheyer's big shot. Nolan Smith also had 16 points to help Duke earn a league-record 18th tournament title, breaking a tie with rival North Carolina.

In a tournament filled with upsets, it took a gritty effort from Duke's high-scoring "Big Three" to hold off a determined comeback from the seventh-seeded Yellow Jackets (22-12), who were trying to become the first team in tournament history to win four games in four days.

Freshman Derrick Favors had 22 points and 11 rebounds to lead the Yellow Jackets, who were trying to become the lowest-seeded team to win the tournament. Georgia Tech fell behind 8-0 and trailed 52-41 after Scheyer's 3-pointer with 6:19 to play. But the Yellow Jackets ran off nine straight points to get within 60-59 on Favors' dunk with 47.9 seconds left.

But Scheyer - who was just 1 of 8 from behind the arc to that point - lost Glen Rice Jr. around a screen and swished a 3 from the right side to push the lead back to four points. Then, after a driving basket from Iman Shumpert, Singler knocked down two free throws with 9 seconds left to make it a two-possession game and essentially seal the victory.

Georgia Tech 64, Oklahoma State 59

Mar. 19, 2010 - Milwaukee, Wis.

NCAA Tournament

Gani Lawal scored 14 points, Derrick Favors came within a rebound of a double-double and the free throw-challenged Yellow Jackets scored their last 13 points at the line Friday night to hold off seventh-seeded Oklahoma State 64-59 in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

It was a disappointing finish for James Anderson and the Cowboys (22-11). Anderson, the nation's third-leading scorer, was just 3 of 12 for 11 points while Obi Muonelo had 10 points on 4-of-11 shooting. The Cowboys were one of the nation's best 3-point shooting teams, averaging better than 35 percent. But they were just 6 of 22 from long range, including Anderson's 0 for 6.

The 10th-seeded Yellow Jackets will play the winner of UC Santa Barbara-Ohio State on Sunday. The Buckeyes may be the No. 2 seed in the Midwest, but Georgia Tech has to like its chances. Its victory Friday moved them to 5-0 in NCAA tournament games at the Bradley Center.

One thing's for sure, the Yellow Jackets' cell phone lockdown will continue for at least two more days.

Georgia Tech (23-12) is best known for defense and its monster front line of Favors and Lawal. Free throws? Not so much. The Yellow Jackets came into Friday night's game shooting less than 65 percent. But they made them when it counted most.

Held without a field goal the last 8 minutes of the game, Georgia Tech got it done at the line with Favors, Iman Shumpert and Maurice Miller going 6 of 6 in the last two minutes. Georgia Tech finished 24 of 25 from the line.

GAME 36

Ohio State 75, Georgia Tech 66

Mar. 21, 2010 - Milwaukee, Wis.

NCAA Tournament

Evan Turner shook off one of the worst shooting nights of his career by coming within an assist and a rebound of his third triple-double of the season, lifting Ohio State to a 75-66 victory over sloppy Georgia Tech in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Turner, a leading candidate to add national player of the year to his Big Ten honors, finished with a game-high 24 points.

Jon Diebler added 20 points and David Lighty had 18 for the Buckeyes.

ACC Freshman of the Year Derrick Favors, who played just 5 minutes in the first half after picking up two quick fouls, keyed an 11-0 run that cut Ohio State's lead to 65-61 with 1:47 to play. Turner made two free throws, Lighty converted both of his after an intentional foul and the Yellow Jackets (23-13) never threatened again.

Beating the Buckeyes might have been a tall order anyway, but Georgia Tech (23-13) had no chance with Gani Lawal and Favors, their two leading scorers and rebounders, in foul trouble for much of the game. Favors, who finished with 10 points and four rebounds, fouled out in the last minute. Lawal, who had three fouls before halftime, had 11 points.

Meet the Yellow Jackets

3 Maurice "Moe" Miller

Guard | 6-2 | 188 | Senior (3 letters)

Memphis, Tenn. | Raleigh-Egypt High School

Career Notes

> Point guard with good understanding of how to run a team and an improving outside shot ... Unselfish player who can score, but puts a priority on creating opportunities for others.

> Developed into a solid floor leader and scorer for the Jackets over the final half of his freshman season, but struggled to achieve that level of play as a sophomore ... Regained some of that over the last month of his junior season, becoming Tech's first point guard off the bench.

> Deaf in his right ear ... Wore braces his entire Tech career until the first week of February last season, when they were removed.

> Ranks 17th on Tech's career assist list (267).

> Gave Tech an enormous lift off the bench over the 12 games, averaging 5.7 points, 2.5 assists and 18.2 minutes ... Shot 44.4 percent from the floor and 50 percent from three-point range in that stretch.

> Had four double-digit scoring games over the final 12, including two in the ACC Tournament, in which he averaged 7.0 points and 2.0 assists, went 10-for-20 from the floor and 6-for-10 on threes.

> Saw action in 12 ACC regular-season games ... Played a total of 39 minutes in the first six, 103 in the last six.

> Shot just under 50 percent from the floor in his limited ACC action (10-of-21 from the floor, 5-of-11 from three-point range) ... Hit 84.2 percent (16-for-19) of his free throws in conference games.

> Made his only start of the season against Winston-Salem State, scoring eight points (3-7 FG) with five assists and three steals.

> Committed just 54 turnovers in 491 minutes, and just 16 in 12 ACC games (141 minutes) ... Had more than two in any one game only seven times ... 0 turnovers eight times.

> Had two double-digit scoring games early in the season - 10 each against Dayton and Chattanooga.

> Struggled with his shooting most of the season until the last 10 games ... Hit just 38.2 percent for the season overall, 31.7 percent from three.

> Averaged 6.0 points and made 10-of-14 free throws in the Puerto Rico Tip-Off ... Turned the ball over just twice in 55 minutes.

2008-09

> Sustained two concussions early in the season, and missed seven games after suffering a broken nose on Dec. 14 (UIC game) ... Had successful surgery to reset the fracture on Dec. 17, returned to practice on Jan. 7 ... Also is deaf in his right ear.

> Returned to the starting lineup as Tech went back to a three-guard lineup at Clemson on Jan. 25 ... Started 11 of the last 13 games.

> After his return from injury, averaged 5.4 points and 3.8 assists per game with five scoreless games ... Shot 33.3 percent from the floor, 31.6 percent from three-point range.

> Went 12-for-38 from three-point range after returning from his injury, 0-for-21 before ... Snapped his string of 21 straight misses by going 3-for-3 against Duke.

> Averaged 8.3 points and 3.0 assists over his last four regular-season games, but scored just five points total in two ACC Tournament games.

> Notched his fourth double-digit scoring game of the season with 10 points (3-3 FG, 2-2 on threes) Mar. 7 at Boston College ... Scored 11 points with five assists and just one turnover in 24 minutes against Clemson on Feb. 22.

> Played his best game since the season opener against Boston College on Jan. 20, with 13 points, six assists and seven rebounds.

> Was third in the ACC in assist average (5.7 pg) and fourth in steals (2.2 pg) at the time of his injury ... Had a 34-13 assist-turnover ratio at that time, 64-55 after his return.

> Missed the Arkansas-Pine Bluff game due to a mild concussion suffered when he ran into a backcourt pick in the second half at Mercer.

> Flirted with a triple-double (17 points, 10 assists, 7 rebounds) in the season opener against Winston-Salem State ... Went 5-for-8 from the floor and scored 12 of his points after intermission.

> Averaged 13.4 points and 3.8 assists over Tech's last eight games (did not start against Clemson because of Senior Night) ... Averaged a team-high 15.0 points and 4.5 assists in two ACC Tournament games.

> Poured in a career-best 29 points at Virginia Tech (7-13 FG, 13-14 FT) with five assists and just two turnovers in 31 minutes.

> Visited the free throw line frequently in his higher scoring games ... Was 50-of-57 from the line in his 10 double-digit games, 23-of-34 in the rest.

> His overall assist average of 3.3 per game was second-best among ACC freshmen, and finished just out of the ACC top 10 overall.

> Averaged 10.0 points with three double-figure efforts during the holiday break ... Scored then-career-high 15 points Jan. 9 at Georgia.

> Did not play in any of Tech's games in the Paradise Jam after injuring his back (bone bruise on lower back) the day before the Jackets' first game there.

> Hit 80.2 percent of his free throws, third-best on the team.

High School

> Class AAA (largest classification) Mr. Basketball and Gatorade State Player of the Year for the state of Tennessee from Raleigh-Egypt High School ... All-state performer as a junior and senior for head coach Jimmy Adams, and helped Raleigh-Egypt to a 128-15 record and four state tournament appearances in four seasons.

> Averaged 19 points, three rebounds, four assists and 2.5 steals per game while shooting 62 percent from the field as a senior ... As a junior, averaged 15.4 points, 8.3 assists and 5.4 rebounds.

> Ranked as high as No. 65 among senior prep players by Hoop Scoop, No. 78 by PrepStars.com, No. 90 by Rivals.com and Scout.com ... Four-star prospect rated No. 15 among point guards.

> Played in the 2007 Nike Hoop Summit in Memphis and the Charm City Classic in Baltimore.

> Carried a 4.6 grade-point average, graduated in the top 10 of his class and was a member of the National Honor Society.

Personal

> Full name is Maurice Anthony Miller, and answers to the nickname "Moe" ... Born March 8, 1988 in Toledo, Ohio ... Has also lived in Cleveland ... Son of Maurice and Monica Miller ... Has two older sisters, Marceia and Moenicia ... Enjoys playing dominoes and cards ... Interested in coaching as a career ... Majoring in Management.

Meet the Yellow Jackets

10 Lance Storrs

Guard | 6-5 | 225 | Senior (3 letters)

Decatur, Ga. | Columbia High School

Career Notes

> Big, strong perimeter player who can shoot the basketball well from long range ... Played sparingly in ACC games as a freshman, usually coming in for defense, developed into Tech's top option off the bench as a sophomore, then played less last season in favor of freshmen Brian Oliver and Glen Rice, Jr.

> After spring semester of 2009, spent a weekend at John Lucas' camp in Houston, then a week in the Bahamas with a traveling college team.

> Hit a couple of threes and had three steals against Florida A&M, but saw his playing time diminish in the Puerto Rico Tip-Off (12 minutes in three games, no points).

> Averaged more than 10 minutes in the six games Iman Shumpert missed while sidelined with an injury (3.3 ppg, 7-for-16 FG) ... Played in only five games after Shumpert returned at the beginning of January.

> Shot the ball well when he had the chance, hitting 11-for-24 threes (45.8 pct.).

> Notched his only double-digit game of the season against Kentucky State (11 points, 3-of-5 on threes, two assists), and the third of his career.

> Averaged 7.0 points and hit 5-of-7 shots from the floor (4-of-6 on threes) in wins over Kennesaw State and Winston Salem State ... Scored eight points against Kennesaw State (3-4 FG, 2-3 on 3s, 2 assists) and Florida A&M.

> Among ACC players, had the second-highest in per game improvement in minutes (+12.8, +12.6 mpg in ACC games) over the previous year ... Played in excess of 20 minutes in 20 games, and averaged 19.5 in ACC games.

> Made at least one three-point basket in 21 of 31 games (made a total of four as a freshman in 25 games) ... For the season, shot 35.3 percent from three-point range, 31.1 percent from inside the arc.

> Averaged just over four field goal attempts per game, never more than eight in a game.

> Pulled down a career-best seven rebounds at Florida State and six at Virginia Tech.

> Had just six turnovers in his last 10 games (202 minutes), and his 2.2 turnovers per 40 minutes was the third-best rate on the team behind Nick Foreman and Brad Sheehan.

> Started three games, two in the absence of Moe Miller (before Lewis Clinch returned) and a third time at Maryland when Zachery Peacock couldn't play due to a stomach ailment.

> Had his first career start against Arkansas-Pine Bluff, logging career highs in rebounds (4), assists (4) and steals (3) ... Also started against Jacksonville and responded with 10 points (3-4 FG) ... Played a career-high 30 minutes at Maryland (1-for-4 from the floor, 3 assists).

> Achieved career highs in points (14) and field goals (4) in Tech's season-opener against Winston-Salem State, and hit 3-of-4 from behind the three-point stripe ... Went 3-for-5 with two assists against UIC.

> Played only one minute in Tech's first five ACC games, but played in 12 of the last 13 games primarily as an additional perimeter defender (7.0 mpg) ... Played in 24 games altogether, double-digit minutes in eight.

> Helped in Tech's defensive effort that limited Virginia's Sean Singletary to 11 points (5-19 FG) in 41 minutes on Jan. 27, and knocked down a three-point basket at the end of the first half ... Did not score after that (0-for-6 FG).

> Played a season-high 15 minutes Dec. 22 vs. Centenary, reaching season highs of eight points and three assists ... Scored seven points (5-5 FT) in 13 minutes at Vanderbilt.

> Did not play at Indiana due to a back injury ... Caught an elbow in practice on Dec. 10 that broke his nose, and played and practiced with a facemask until the Centenary game.

Meet the Yellow Jackets

ACC All-Tournament
(2nd team) - 2010

1 Iman Shumpert

Guard | 6-5 | 212 | Junior (2 letters)

Oak Park, Ill. | Oak Park-River Forest High School

Career Notes

> Versatile guard who has the skills to play both the point and the wing ... Excellent defender on the perimeter ... Known as a gym rat with a high basketball IQ.

> Missed six games last year due to a knee injury, but has started 60 of the 61 games for which he has been healthy ... Played an average of 30.9 minutes per game in his two seasons.

> Has reached 16th place on Tech's career list for assists (274) and 17th in steals (122) ... Surpassed 500 career points against NC State on Feb. 6 ... Has 28 double-digit games in his career.

> Started every game of his career until Dec. 5 against USC ... Underwent arthroscopic surgery to repair a damaged meniscus in his right knee on Dec. 3 and missed Tech's next six games.

> Brilliant offensively at times after his return on Jan. 2 at Charlotte, but inconsistent ... Followed two straight scoreless games against Wake Forest and North Carolina with 17 points at Maryland and 24 against Boston College.

> Had five double-digit games in the final 10 games, including two in the ACC Tournament (14 vs. Maryland, 12 vs. Duke).

> Named to the ACC All-Tournament second team after averaging 10.5 points, 4.8 rebounds and 3.8 assists in four games.

> Had double-digits back-to-back at Virginia (15) and North Carolina (career-high 30) in mid-January, as well as in games against Florida State (10) and Wake Forest (11) in late January ... Then scored 31 total points in the next six games before Maryland.

> Tech's third-leading scorer overall (10.0 ppg), and in ACC games (11.1 ppg).

> Scored in double digits 12 times, eight of them in ACC play.

> Performance at UNC was the best of his career, including 10-of-17 shooting from the floor, 3-of-5 on threes, 7-of-9 from the foul line.

> Eighth in the ACC in assist average for conference games only (4.1 pg) and eighth for all games (4.0 pg).

> Second in the ACC in steals (1.9 pg) for all games and for conference games only (1.9 pg).

> Averaged a team-high 30.1 minutes, 30.4 in ACC games.

> His knee injury affected his performance early in the year ... Scored a game-high 18 points in 19 minutes against Florida A&M, but only 6.4 per game (31.5 FG pct.) in the next five until he had his surgery.

2008-09

> Tech's fourth-leading scorer for the season, both overall and in ACC games ... In ACC games, he averaged 10.5 ppg, hitting 34.5 percent of his three-point attempts.

> Had 16 double-figure scoring games ... Went scoreless once at North Carolina (0-for-6 FG, 4 assists) on Feb. 28.

> Averaged 11.0 points, 5.0 rebounds and made 8-of-14 shots from the floor in two ACC Tournament games.

> Tied for first in the ACC in steals (2.1 pg) ... Had 22 in his last seven games, including a career-best six against Clemson on Feb. 22 and six in two ACC Tournament games.

> Scored a career-high 22 points Jan. 17 at NC State, and scored 18 points on two occasions (Vanderbilt, Virginia).

> Fourth in the ACC and 45th nationally in assist average (5.0 pg) ... Had three double-digit assist games, 12 vs. Penn State, 11 vs. Georgia State, 10 vs. Alabama, as well as six other games with six or more.

> Third among ACC freshmen in scoring average, first in assists and second in minutes played ... Second on Tech chart for minutes played (31.6 overall, 32.3 in ACC games).

> His 154 assists were Tech's 20th-best mark for a single season.

> Hit the game-winning and game-tying baskets in the final 19 seconds of Tech's 76-74 victory over No. 6 Wake Forest on Jan. 31.

> ACC Rookie of the Week on Dec. 8 for his performances against Penn State and Vanderbilt ... Key figure in win over Vanderbilt with 18 points and six assists (11-of-14 FT).

> His 12 assists against Penn State were the most for a Tech player since Jarrett Jack's 12 vs. Arkansas-Pine Bluff in 2002 ... Also scored 14 points against the Nittany Lions for his first career double-double.

> Played a team-high 43 minutes in Tech's OT victory at Mercer, scoring 11 of his 13 points after halftime ... Played 42 minutes in OT loss at NC State.

High School

> Named to play in the McDonald's All-American game, the 16th Tech player to do so, and was a third-team Parade magazine All-American ... Two-time, first-team all-state performer in Illinois.

> First-team all-state player at Oak Park and River Forest High School who also was one of the nation's top 30 seniors ... Rated No. 15 among the nation's senior players by Scout.com and No. 26 by Rivals.com ... Helped OPRF to three conference titles and was named conference MVP as a junior and senior.

> Averaged 15.3 points, 6.7 rebounds and 3.1 assists as a senior ... Also played in the Jordan Capital Classic (7 points, 5 assists, 3 steals, 19 minutes) and won the event's slam dunk contest with a perfect score.

> Averaged 15 points his junior season before missing the latter part of the season recovering from a broken elbow.

> Al Allen, Shumpert's high school coach, said in a Chicago Sun-Times report, "I never saw a kid improve so much between his sophomore and junior years. Iman has an uncanny ability to shoot the three-point shot. But he'd rather win games and pass the ball and not shoot so much. I have to push him to shoot more."

> Grew from 5-7 as a freshman to 6-2 as a sophomore, and made a similar leap from being an unheralded guard to a top national prospect in the last year.

Personal

> Full name is Iman (pronounced ee-MON) Asante Shumpert ... Born June 26, 1990 ... Son of Odis and L'Tanya Shumpert ... Mother is an adjunct professor of art and design at Columbia College in Chicago, father is an insurance broker ... Likes creative writing and broadcast journalism ... Majoring in Sociology.

Meet the Yellow Jackets

4 Nick Foreman

Guard | 6-3 | 210 | Junior (2 letters)

Bellaire, Texas | Bellaire High School

Career Notes

> Tough, physical guard who joined the team as a walk-on at the beginning of the 2008-09 academic year ... Earns his playing time as a good defender who hustles and can jump, and takes care of the basketball.

2009-10

> Played a lot early in the season, but less once Tech got into the ACC schedule.

> His 15 minutes at Virginia Jan. 13 were a season high, and he played in 10 of Tech's ACC games.

> Made the most of his limited time on the court (6 points, 3-4 FG, 3 assists in 15 minutes at Chattanooga; 9 points, 4-5 FG, 1 assist in 10 minutes vs. Kennesaw State; 4 points, 2-3 FG, 1 steal in 6 minutes vs. Winston-Salem State).

> Committed only nine turnovers in 397 minutes (best ratio per 40 minutes on the team) last year, and only three turnovers in 122 total minutes this year.

> Established career highs for points (9) and field goals (4-for-5) against Kennesaw State.

> Took advantage of the absences of D'Andre Bell, Lewis Clinch and Moe Miller early in the season to earn playing time ... Played in all 31 games, averaging 12.8 minutes.

> Started Tech's games against Wake Forest (Feb. 18) and Clemson (Feb. 22) in place of Moe Miller ... Did not score in those games, but went 2-for-2 with a three-pointer at North Carolina on Feb. 28.

> Played just seven minutes in Tech's victory against No. 6 Wake Forest on Jan. 31, but played a big role in defending Demon Deacons' leading scorer Jeff Teague, denying him the ball in key possessions in the final minute.

> Committed just nine turnovers in 397 minutes (best ratio per 40 minutes on the team), and was 6-for-15 on three-point attempts ... Scored in 17 of 31 games.

> Key figure in Tech's rugged win over Vanderbilt, getting five rebounds and two steals in 22 minutes ... Scored a career-high eight points with two threes against UIC.

High School

> Played his final two years of high school at Bellaire High School for head coach Bruce Glover, serving as team captain his senior year ... Helped the Cardinals to a pair of district championships in 2007 (22-9 record) and 2008 (25-6 record).

> Averaged 10.8 points, 7.4 rebounds, 2.4 assists and two blocked shots per game as a senior.

> Played one year at James Madison High School, where he earned all-district honors in 2006 and helped lead the team to a district title.

> Once scored 46 points in a game.

Personal

> Full name is Nicholas McMillan Foreman ... Born January 6, 1990 in Houston ... Son of Willie and Marcella Foreman ... Father is self-employed emergency medical technician who played for the Fresno Stars in the Western Basketball Association and the Harlem Globetrotters between 1978-83 ... He also was an assistant basketball coach at Texas A&M from 1983-87 ... Also has lived in Miami, Fla., Brussels, Belgium, and Fairfax, Va. ... Enjoys traveling ... Majoring in History.

Meet the Yellow Jackets

41 Glen Rice, Jr.

Guard | 6-5 | 206 | Sophomore (1 letter)

Marietta, Ga. | Walton High School

Career Notes

> Wing player who is characterized as a "point-forward" by head coach Paul Hewitt ... Excellent feel for the game learned from being around the game and his ultra-successful father from an early age ... Has good court vision and an improving jump shot.

2009-10

> Very active and heady player off the bench who made his presence felt in various ways on both ends of the court ... Also succeeded in the classroom, earning a spot on the ACC All-Academic team for 2010.

> Started Tech's last 11 games, averaging 7.4 points, 4.6 rebounds, 2.4 assists and 1.6 steals in those games.

> Scored a career-high 17 points at Clemson on Mar. 2, matching his high for rebounds (8) and dishing four assists with no turnovers in a career-high 33 minutes.

> Missed only one game this season (Georgia), averaging more than 18 minutes a game overall ... Averaged more than 20 in ACC games.

> Able to score in a variety of ways, and was a threat at times from long range, hitting 46.7 percent of his threes, 43.8 vs. the ACC in the regular season, 5-for-11 percent in the post-season.

> Scored in double digits in five games after the end of January (six for the season), including a career-high 17 points at Clemson on Mar. 2.

> Averaged 6.3 points and shooting 43.8 percent from three-point range in ACC games.

> Became the third different Tech reserve to lead the Jackets in scoring when he netted 15 against Kentucky State on Jan. 30 (6-for-6 FG, 3-for-3 on threes, three assists, four rebounds).

> First exhibited his famous father's shooting touch in back-to-back wins over Chattanooga and Arkansas-Pine Bluff, hitting 5-of-7 threes.

> Sparkled for Tech in his collegiate debut, scoring seven points with seven rebounds (five offensive) with two steals in 13 minutes against Florida A&M.

High School

> All-state guard who played four years at Walton High School in Marietta, Ga., for coach Joe Goydish, serving as team captain two years ... He finished his career as the Raiders' all-time leader in points (1,783) and assists (353).

> Led team to a state title in 2009 and was named to the all-state team ... Averaged 21.4 points, 6.7 rebounds and 5.4 assists per game, while also recording 2.1 blocks and 3.1 steals per contest.

> Following his senior year, played for the South team in the Academic All-American Classic in Ontario.

> Averaged 25.6 points and 6.4 rebounds a game as a junior, earning Cobb County Player of the Year honors by the Marietta Daily Journal and third-team all-state by the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

> Ranked as high as No. 48 in the nation by Rivals, No. 10 among shooting guards.

Personal

> Full name is Glen Anthony Rice, Jr. ... Born January 1, 1991, in Miami, Fla. ... Son of Glen Rice and Tracey Starwood ... His father became the all-time leading scorer at Michigan who went on to play 15 years in the NBA ... Helped Michigan win a national championship in 1989, and the Los Angeles Lakers win an NBA title in 2000 ... Began playing basketball at age 9 at the suggestion of his football coach ... Chose Tech because it is close to home, is in the ACC and the academic programs ... Enrolled in Management.

Meet the Yellow Jackets

0 Mfon Udofia

Guard | 6-2 | 193 | Sophomore (1 letter)

Stone Mountain, Ga. | Miller Grove High School

Career Notes

> Point guard known for his toughness and basketball IQ ... Excellent speed and quickness with or without the ball ... Can change speed and direction well and dribble with either hand, though is predominantly left-handed ... Reads defenses well ... Good on-ball defender.

2009-10

> Started Tech's first 25 games at the point, but moved to the bench Feb. 16 against North Carolina in favor of Glen Rice, Jr. ... One of three primary ballhandlers the Jackets used along with Iman Shumpert and Moe Miller.

> Endured a difficult stretch offensively to finish the year, scoring just 31 points in his last 20 games and hitting just 11-of-48 shots from the floor ... Did not score in the ACC Tournament.

> Reached double digits in three ACC games, averaging 3.9 ppg while hitting 12-of-34 threes (35.3 pct.) ... Made just two threes in nine attempts after Jan. 24.

> Last scored in double digits against Duke on Jan. 9 (13) and Virginia (10) back-to-back ... Up through the Virginia game, had scored in double digits nine times.

> Only two turnovers in his last 10 games ... Had 15 games with no turnovers, 21 with two or less.

> Averaged 11.4 points through the end of December, 3.0 per game after.

> Set a new scoring high in three straight games in late November/early December - 15 vs. Boston U., 16 vs. Mercer, 26 vs. Siena ... Part of a stretch in which he scored in double digits in five straight games.

> Named ACC Rookie of the Week on Dec. 7 after scoring a career-best 26 points against Siena and 11 against USC.

> His effort against Siena was the third-highest game by a freshman in the conference ... Set career highs in nearly every statistical category against Siena (9-16 FG, 5-8 on threes).

> Averaged 9.3 points and 3.3 assists in the Puerto Rico Tip-Off, and hit 45 percent of his field goal attempts ... Scored 15 with five rebounds and five assists against Boston U.

> Attacked the basket often early in the season, but shot only seven free throws in his last 13 games, and he tried just 17 in ACC games.

High School

> All-state guard who played four years at Miller Grove High School in Stone Mountain, Ga., for coach Sherman White, serving as team captain four years ... Third-team Parade All-American ... Led Miller Grove to the class AAAA state title in 2009, was named AAAA player of the year ... Also named DeKalb County player of the year.

> Averaged 20.1 points, 4.4 rebounds and 5.5 assists as a senior ... Shot 54 percent from three-point range, 48 percent from the floor overall.

> Ranked as high as No. 36 among all prep seniors by Rivals, No. 48 by ESPN.com and No. 53 by Scout ... Ranked as high as ninth among senior point guards.

> Played in the Reebok All-American All-Star Game.

> Also played baseball at Miller Grove, was the first person to hit a home run in the history of the school.

> Graduated in the top 10 percent of his class.

Personal

> Full name is Mfon Kokoete Udofia ... Born August 1, 1990 ... Son of Kokoete Udofia and Glory Edem ... Says baseball was his favorite sport to play until he began playing basketball ... Majoring in Management.

Named Georgia Tech's 12th head basketball coach on April 6, 2000, Paul Hewitt was given the task of restoring its basketball program to the level it achieved in the 1980's and early 90's with 10 NCAA Tournament appearances and three Atlantic Coast Conference championships. After six post-season bids, a chance at an NCAA Championship and an average of 17 wins in 10 seasons, prevailing time and time again against the nation's top teams in the nation's top conference, Hewitt has done just that.

The results are indisputable. In 10 seasons under Hewitt, Tech has been to the NCAA Tournament five times, played for a national championship, played for two ACC championships, advanced to the Post-season NIT quarterfinals and won the Preseason NIT. He has restored a national profile to Tech basketball with traditional values, instilling in his program the importance of strong defense, teamwork and sharing the basketball, individual skill development and mental preparation.

"In the NBA, it used to be, growing up, the Knicks (his favorite team) vs. the Bullets, the Bucks vs. the Celtics," he said. "Now, it's Shaq vs. Yao Ming. That's not basketball, that's tennis. The guys who saved the NBA, Bird and Magic, they did it with the pass, they didn't do it with the shot. Everybody thinks the game is about the shot now. The guys who kept the league alive and really put college basketball in there, they did it with the pass."

Testimony from his players demonstrates that those values work, even in today's game.

"Coach has always preached about being ready to play," said Marvin Lewis, a senior starter on the Yellow Jackets' 2004 national runner-up team. "It doesn't really matter whether you're starting or coming off the bench. You'll get a chance to contribute. One of the great things about this team is that everyone understands and accepts their role."

Recognized as one of the rising stars of the coaching profession early on, Hewitt has a record of 177-144 at Tech, and his overall record as a head coach is 243-171, with eight post-season appearances in 13 years. Given a new six-year contract in the spring of 2004, Hewitt has continued to expand his experience by twice serving as an assistant coach for USA Basketball's Under-18 team at the FIBA Americas Under-18 Championship, helping the U.S. win a gold medal each time. Hewitt, who earned his 200th career victory Jan. 6, 2008 against Presbyterian, ranks third among active coaches in the ACC in games coached and fourth in career victories. He ranks 18th in career victories all-time.

Born in Jamaica and reared on New York's Long Island, Hewitt and his coaching staff have consistently built the overall level of talent to be on par with the best teams in the nation.

His five NCAA teams at Georgia Tech had a common thread, experienced upperclassmen who played key roles, whether as starters or reserves, and talented young players.

He has received his highest accolades for guiding the Yellow Jackets to the NCAA in his very first season in 2001, and for taking them within one win of a national championship three years later in 2004. That season, Hewitt went to work with a team that had lost its two best rebounders, including Chris Bosh, who left Tech after one season to play in the NBA. Despite preseason predictions that had Tech finishing no better than seventh in the ACC, the Yellow Jackets started 12-0 and finished 28-10, tying a school record for victories in a season.

Along the way, Tech won the Preseason NIT, and in the process defeated a team ranked No. 1 in the country (Connecticut) for the first time in 11 years. Tech achieved its highest ACC regular season finish in eight years (a tie for third at 9-7).

The Yellow Jackets, who posted a 9-6 record against Top 25 teams, defeated Duke at Cameron Indoor Stadium to end a 41-game homecourt winning streak for the Blue Devils, and won at Wake Forest to snap a 24-game streak at home for the Demon Deacons.

Tech's success led to Hewitt receiving the Fritz Pollard Coach of the Year award by the Black College Coaches Association. He also was listed at No. 71 among the nation's 101 top minorities in sports by Sports Illustrated. Only 15 figures in college athletics, and only four men's basketball coaches, made that list.

Though Tech dealt with a number of injuries to key players the following season, Hewitt again guided the Yellow Jackets to a strong finish, tying for fourth place in the regular season and advancing to the championship game of the ACC Tournament, a first for the Jackets under Hewitt. Tech earned its third NCAA bid under Hewitt, and fourth post-season bid overall, and won its first-round game before being eliminated by Louisville. He guided Jackets back to the Big Dance in 2007 despite losing the team's top scorer in December.

This past season, despite a strong reliance on four freshmen in his eight-man rotation, Hewitt guided the Jackets to their fourth NCAA Tournament, winning 23 games overall. Tech won three games in the ACC Tournament and lost a close game to Duke in the finals, and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional.

In his very first season on the Flats, Hewitt demonstrated his abilities. Disproving the prevailing pre-season opinions that had Tech finishing no better than eighth in the ACC and gave the Jackets little chance for a winning record, Hewitt guided a veteran squad with five seniors to an 8-8 record and a fifth-place finish in the nation's toughest conference. Tech's 17-13 record marked its first winning season since 1998, and the Jackets won their first ACC Tournament game and earned their first trip to the Big Dance since 1996.

Hewitt was recognized as the ACC Coach of the Year, only the second time in league history that a first-year coach had won the award. He was also named District 5 Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) and was a finalist for the Naismith College Coach of the Year Award.

Emphasis on Player Development, Fundamentals

Tech's on-court accomplishments have been possible because Hewitt demands a high level of physical conditioning and intensity, and his players deliver. He teaches a style of basketball that is fast-paced, but is grounded in sound fundamentals.

His commitment to individual player development and instruction have paid dividends not only for the Yellow Jackets as a team, but for all the Tech players as individuals. His philosophy of up-tempo offense combined with a pressure defensive attack in both the full-court and half-court, has helped bring back the excitement to Tech basketball.

"We put a strong emphasis on teaching guys how to play the game," said Hewitt. "When you play a high-scoring, fast-paced style, situations come up that your players need to know how to react to. You can't stop and call every play and diagram every cut. If you play the style that we play, you've got to teach people how to play the game.

"WHAT WE NEED TO ALWAYS DO IS THINK OF THE STUDENT-ATHLETE, FIRST, LAST AND ALWAYS. WE SHOULD MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE TO GET A QUALITY EDUCATION AND ENJOY THE UNBELIEVABLE EXPERIENCE OF PLAYING COLLEGE BASKETBALL."

"The system we play is important, but I believe what is most important to achieving success is emphasis on individual player instruction and physical development."

Five of his players have earned first- or second-team All-ACC honors, including Jarrett Jack (second team in 2005), B.J. Elder (second team in 2004), Bosh (second team in 2003), Tony Akins (second team in 2002) and Alvin Jones (first team in 2001).

The recruiting efforts of Hewitt and his staff also have resulted in strong contributions from Tech's players early in their careers as well. Three Tech players have been named ACC Rookie of the Year, including Derrick Favors in 2010, Chris Bosh in 2003 and Ed Nelson in 2002. Seven players have all been named to the league's all-freshman team under Hewitt.

Several Tech players under Hewitt have gone on to play basketball professionally, including first-round draft picks Chris Bosh, an NBA lottery choice in 2003 who has become a star for the Toronto Raptors; Jack, a first-round pick in 2005 now a point guard for the Toronto Raptors; Thaddeus Young (Philadelphia) and Javaris Crittenton (Memphis), first-round choices in 2007; and Alvin Jones, a second-round choice in 2001 who spent time with the Philadelphia 76ers. Will Bynum and Luke Schenscher, seniors in 2005, have both spent time in NBA rosters, while four-year players Mario West and Anthony Morrow are currently active. Others like Akins, B.J. Elder, Shaun Fein, Anthony McHenry and Isma'il Muhammad continue to play pro basketball abroad.

"Right from the day I got the job, we were able to take advantage of what Bobby Cremins did here to make this program a national name," said Hewitt. "I can go back to my first press conference where I talked about why I like this place and the reasons why I came here, and all those reasons have held up. When I go out recruiting, talking to parents or to a young man, I can say 'great school, great city, great conference.'"

Hewitt's abilities as a coach and leader have also been borne out in the qualities and expertise of his staff. Two of his assistant coaches became head coaches -- Dean Keener at James Madison and Cliff Warren at Jacksonville -- while two players became assistants (Jon Babul at James Madison, Darryl LaBarrie at Campbell, East Carolina and Georgia Tech).

HEWITT WAS INVITED BACK TO HIS ALMA MATER, ST. JOHN FISHER COLLEGE IN NEW YORK, TO GIVE THE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS LAST SPRING.

Community and National Involvement

Off the court, Hewitt has involved himself in the Atlanta community. He conducts an annual golf outing and auction to benefit the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society and the Boys and Girls Clubs of Atlanta. He also serves on the board of directors for Hearts Everywhere Reaching Out for Children (H.E.R.O.), which organizes activities and benefits HIV-infected children, and Camp Twin Lakes, which works with children with serious illnesses and special needs.

In the spring of 2009, Hewitt became part of a coalition of representatives of all levels of basketball - NCAA, NBA, AAU, WNBA, USA Basketball, among others - that began an initiative to improve the quality of youth basketball in America. He is the only NCAA Division I coach on the panel. In May of 2007, he was named to the 27-member panel of the NCAA's Academic Enhancement Group, which is charged with developing strategies to improve academic performance and graduation rates in Division I men's basketball.

In the summer of 2006, Hewitt served as an assistant coach for the USA Under-18 national team which won a gold medal at the FIBA Americas U18 Championship.

In 2004, he conducted the Paul Hewitt Teamwork Summit, bringing together prominent figures in sports and Atlanta business circles to teach and promote leadership techniques. He serves on the board of directors for the Black Coaches Association, and frequently participates in public forums on issues facing college basketball and the student-athletes that participate in the sport.

Tech's players are solid citizens and students off the court as well because Hewitt demands it. No fewer than eight players on the Final Four team made the Dean's List at one time or another in their careers. Of the 24 seniors Hewitt has coached, all but five have graduated or are on track to do so soon after their professional basketball careers come to a close. All four seniors on the Final Four team received their degrees by the end of the 2004 calendar year, and three of five seniors on the 2004-05 squad have received theirs (two are still playing professionally overseas).

Siena Success Raised Profile

Tech's success under Hewitt should come as no surprise. Prior to his arrival in Atlanta, he posted a 66-27 mark as the head coach at Siena. At the Loudonville, N.Y., school, Hewitt revived a program that had been dormant since the mid-90's and molded it into one of the best in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference and among the best in the Northeast.

In three seasons at Siena, Hewitt developed one of the nation's highest scoring teams. Siena ranked third nationally in scoring each of his last two seasons there, and in three seasons the team averaged 85.6 points per game while shooting 38.1 percent from three-point range and 77.8 percent from the foul line.

Following a three-year stretch in which Siena won just 22 games, Hewitt guided a young Saints team to a 17-12 overall record in his first season, including a 10-8 mark in the MAAC and the school's first-ever berth in the MAAC Tournament title game. In his second year, Siena went 25-6 and earned the school's first-ever MAAC Tournament Championship and its first appearance in the NCAA Tournament since 1989.

Hewitt guided the Saints to their first-ever outright conference regular-season title in 2000. Siena finished the season with a 24-9 overall mark and a MAAC-best 15-3 slate. He directed the Saints to their third consecutive MAAC Championship game appearance, and second consecutive postseason berth with a bid to the NIT.

From Journalism to Coaching

Hewitt came to Siena from the venerable Big East program at Villanova, where he spent five seasons (1992-97) as an assistant to head coach Steve Lappas. During his final season in Philadelphia, Hewitt was promoted to associate head coach. While there, Hewitt helped lead the Wildcats to four straight 20-win seasons, three consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament, and an NIT Championship in 1994. In 1997, Villanova was the No. 4 seed in the East Region, finishing the season with a 24-10 record.

In his time at Villanova, he helped the Wildcats land four top-20 recruiting classes from 1993 to 1997. Included in those classes were Tim Thomas, the nation's top-ranked high school senior in 1996, as well as Alvin Williams and Malik Allen, all of whom are active in the NBA.

Prior to his stint at Villanova, Hewitt served as an assistant coach at Fordham for two years (1990-92), when the Rams posted a 45-18 mark. During those two seasons, the Bronx school won two straight Patriot League regular-season championships and made the NCAA Tournament in 1992.

He moved to Fordham after spending a year under George Raveling at Southern California, where he served as a graduate assistant. Hewitt's first collegiate job came as an assistant coach at C.W. Post on Long Island during the 1988-89 school year. He helped guide the Pioneers to the ECAC New York State Division Championship that season.

Hewitt spent three years as the junior varsity head coach at his alma mater, Westbury High School on Long Island (1985-88), following his graduation from St. John Fisher College in Rochester, N.Y.

Born on May 4, 1963, in Kingston, Jamaica, Hewitt and his family moved to Queens, N.Y., when he was eight years old. He attended Westbury High School, and earned a bachelor of arts degree in journalism and economics from St. John Fisher in 1985. Hewitt was a four-year letterwinner and served as the Cardinals' captain as a senior. He also worked toward a post-graduate degree in counseling and high school guidance at Long Island University and C.W. Post during the early stages of his coaching career.

Hewitt and his wife, Dawnette, have three daughters, Olivia, Danielle and Kayla.

April 6, 2000

2001

Tech invited to the NCAA Tournament in Hewitt's first season after the Jackets defeat nationally-ranked Virginia three times, including the first-round of the ACC Tournament in Atlanta. Named ACC Coach of the Year.

2002

Tech rallies from an 0-7 ACC start to finish 7-9, missing an NIT bid by one win. Ed Nelson is named ACC Rookie of the Year.

2003

Tech wins 16 games and advances to the third round of the NIT behind ACC Rookie of the Year Chris Bosh.

2004

Tech begins 12-0, ties the school record with 28 wins and makes it to the NCAA Championship game, where it falls to No. 1 Connecticut. Tech captures the Preseason NIT crown after defeating the same Huskies.

2005

Tech wins 20 games for the second straight year and advances to the second round of the NCAA Tournament after reaching the ACC Tournament finals.

2007

The Jackets earn their fourth NCAA bid and third 20-win season in seven years.

2010

Tech knocks off four top-25 teams, wins 23 games, reaches the finals of the ACC Tournament and advances to the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional.

Coaching Staff

Peter Zaharis

Assistant Coach | 11th Season at Tech

New York University '87

After four years at Georgia Tech's director of basketball operations, Peter Zaharis became an assistant coach in April of 2004, filling the position left vacant when Dean Keener was named head coach at James Madison.

This is Zaharis' third college assistant coaching assignment, having spent three seasons as an assistant coach at Villanova and one at New York University. He has helped coach four teams to post-season play, including two of Tech's four NCAA appearances.

"Peter is a bright basketball coach with a great future, and he does a tremendous great job," said head coach Paul Hewitt. "He is very well organized and has done a lot of things behind the scenes for us that are important to everyone in our program - players, coaches as well as administrators. He is an outstanding recruiter and floor coach for us."

Zaharis, 44, joined the Villanova staff as administrative assistant in 1996-97, when Hewitt was in his final year on the Wildcats' staff. He became an assistant coach beginning with the 1997-98 season through 1999-2000.

In his three seasons as an assistant coach, Villanova went 53-41 with a pair of 20-win seasons with one appearance each in the NCAA Tournament and NIT.

Zaharis began his coaching career in 1992 on the high school level, spending three years as an assistant coach at Holy Trinity High School in New York.

From there, Zaharis made the jump to the collegiate level, earning a spot as an assistant coach at NYU. While at his alma mater, he handled recruiting, scouting, and assisted in the planning of practices. In addition, he served as the head coach of the junior varsity program. During his tenure at NYU, the Violets advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Zaharis earned his bachelor's degree in 1987 from NYU and then added his MBA from the school in 1989. Prior to entering the coaching ranks, Zaharis worked for five years at Citibank in New York City as a financial analyst.

Zaharis, a native of Jamaica, N.Y., is married to the former Ritsa Demetriades, and the couple has a daughter, Anastasia.

Robert McCullum, a college basketball veteran of 27 years, seven as a Division I head coach, will become an assistant coach on the Georgia Tech basketball staff, head coach Paul Hewitt announced Tuesday.

A former head coach in the Mid-American Conference at Western Michigan and in the Big East at South Florida, McCullum also has served as an assistant coach at South Alabama, Samford, Southern Illinois, Kansas State, Florida, Illinois, San Francisco and Central Florida, helping lead those schools to eight post-season bids.

He brings experience recruiting the South, Midwest and Eastern seaboard regions of the United States, has raised money for his programs to help finance foreign trips at both his head coaching stops, and has built an excellent reputation for player development. Between 1993 and 2006, five of his post players were signed by NBA teams.

"I first met Robert back in 1993-94 when he was an assistant coach at Florida on a team that went to the Final Four," said Hewitt. "I respect his professionalism and his many accomplishments throughout his coaching career. I'm looking forward to having a coach with his experience on our staff. Our player development program has helped several of our players sign NBA contracts over the last 10 years, and his track record is strong in that area."

At both Western Michigan and South Florida, he implemented class attendance policies and procedures that results in dramatic improvements in academic performance, earning both schools recognition on the conference level for highest team grade-point average and individual academic achievement. In seven seasons as a head coach, 18 of the 23 players he recruited into his programs finished their eligibility and graduated within five years.

"I'm extremely excited to join the Georgia Tech men's basketball program. I've had the opportunity to get to know Coach Hewitt and watch his teams over the past 10 years. Along the way, I've developed a great deal of respect for him as a person who cares deeply for his players both on and off the floor, as well as for the intensity with which his players compete. I look forward to joining the staff and help maintain the level of excitement in the Tech program that the fans and alumni have come to expect."

McCullum spent 18 years as an assistant coach before landing his first head coaching position. He served two stints as an assistant at South Alabama (1982-83 and 1984-87) and one year at Samford (1983-84). He moved on to Southern Illinois from 1987-89, where he helped the Salukis to a 20-win season and the school's first post-season bid in 11 years. He then joined Lon Kruger's staff at Kansas State (1989-90), where the school made an NCAA Tournament appearance in 1990, at Florida (1990-96), where the Gators made two NCAA appearances, including a run to the Final Four in 1994, and went to the NIT Final Four in 1992, and at Illinois (1996-2000), which won a Big Ten title and played in the NCAA Tournament three times.

He was named the head coach at Western Michigan, where he spent three seasons (2000-03) building the program into one of the best in the MAC and leading the Broncos to 20 wins and an NIT berth in 2003. From there, he served as the head coach at South Florida (2003-07), overseeing the Bulls' transition from Conference USA to the Big East.

Since then, he has spent one season each as an assistant coach at San Francisco (2007-08) and Central Florida (2009-10). In 2007, McCullum was named the head coach of the Nigerian Senior Men's National Team, which posted a 5-1 record at the All-Africa Games.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., McCullum graduated in 1976 with a bachelor's degree in physical education from Birmingham Southern, then earned his master's degree in secondary education in 1980 from Alabama State. He and his wife Cheryl have two children, Richelle and Rashid.

Darryl LaBarrie

Georgia Tech '01

Darryl LaBarrie, who played and later served on the basketball staff at Georgia Tech, joined the Yellow Jackets' staff as an assistant coach on September 1, 2009.

LaBarrie, 32, spent the past two seasons as an assistant coach at East Carolina, working primarily with the Pirates' perimeter players during the season while also serving as the program's recruiting coordinator. Under LaBarrie's coaching, the Pirates produced the top two 3-point shooting seasons in school history, and ranked first or second in Conference USA in that category in his two seasons. During the 2008-09 season the Pirates made a school-record 261 triples, breaking the record established a year earlier.

He replaced Charlton Young, who became the head coach at Georgia Southern.

"I'm excited to have Darryl back at Georgia Tech," said Hewitt. "As a Tech graduate, he gives our program someone who knows very well the challenges a student-athlete at Tech faces, both as a student and as a basketball player. He has developed into a fine basketball coach, technically and as a recruiter."

A 2001 graduate of Georgia Tech, LaBarrie spent the 2006-07 season as an assistant coach at Campbell University. Prior to joining the Fighting' Camels' staff, he served as a coach with the highly regarded Atlanta Celtics AAU program. He also worked as a regional NBA scout for Marty Blake's Court Report as well as serving as assistant coach at Stone Mountain (Ga.) High School.

While pursuing his master's degree in sports administration from Georgia State, which he received in 2005, LaBarrie spent two years as a graduate assistant at Tech. He worked one year in general athletics administration (2003-04), then the following campaign with the men's basketball program (2004-05).

As a graduate assistant on Hewitt's staff, LaBarrie was involved in many facets of the operation of the program, including coordinating on-campus recruiting visits, supervising the student manager staff, and assisting with team travel, equipment orders and practice preparation. He also assisted in the monitoring of team academics and community outreach as well as pre-and post-season conditioning, player development and game preparation.

LaBarrie earned three letters at Georgia Tech, playing two years under former head coach Bobby Cremins, and one for Hewitt. He helped lead the Yellow Jackets to the 2001 NCAA Tournament and received his B.S. in management that year. He began his collegiate career at Florida A&M, where he earned Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference All-Rookie Team honors as a freshman before transferring to Tech.

A native of Decatur, Ga., LaBarrie was named first-team all-state and DeKalb County Player-of-the-Year as a senior when he led Tucker High School to a state title.

LaBarrie and his wife, Aisha, are the parents of two daughters, Sydney Ayele and Kai Marie.

Willie Reese

Georgia Tech '89

Reese File

Full Name:
Willie Rayford Reese

Birthdate:
December 6, 1966

Family:
Wife, Subrina; son, Willie, and daughter, Jasmine

Education: B.S. in Industrial Management (1989), Georgia Tech

Playing Experience:
Four-year letterman at Georgia Tech (1986-89)

Coaching Experience: Head coach, Landmark Christian Academy (1994-99); assistant coach, Georgia Tech (1999-2005); director of operations, Georgia Tech (2005-present)

Joined Tech Staff:
May, 1999

Former Georgia Tech basketball player Willie Reese is in his fourth year as director of operations for the Tech basketball program following six seasons as an assistant coach for the Yellow Jackets. Reese is responsible for team travel and numerous other administrative duties for the basketball program.

"The greatest thing Willie brings to our program is that he is a constant reminder of what Georgia Tech is all about," said head coach Paul Hewitt. "He is a graduate from here and played on some of the best teams in Tech history."

As a coach, Reese was instrumental in the development of center Luke Schenscher, who came from Australia in 2001 as a raw, skinny 214-pounder and became one of the nation's most reliable pivotmen, and was a key factor in recruiting the players that have brought the Yellow Jackets' program back to national prominence.

Before returning to Georgia Tech to join Bobby Cremins' staff for the 1999-2000 season, Reese spent the previous five years as the head coach at Landmark Christian Academy, compiling an 87-35 record and a .713 winning percentage at the Atlanta private school.

Under Reese's direction, Landmark Christian improved from a 3-18 record during his first season in 1994-95, when he became just the second coach in the school's history, to a 24-3 mark and the subregion championship in his second year. After that first season, Reese won nearly 79 percent of his games, compiling a four-year mark of 84-23. Two of Reese's players earned Division I scholarships in Greg Clark, who signed with Chattanooga, and Leigh Gayden, a member of the 1999 Atlanta Journal-Constitution "Terrific Ten" who signed with Tennessee Tech.

Also the cross country coach at Landmark Christian, Reese guided his squad to state titles in 1995 and 1996. He was named the region and state Coach of the Year for cross country in 1996 by the Georgia Athletic Coaches' Association as well as the Atlanta Track Club's cross country Coach of the Year in 1995 and 1996.

Reese, 44, was recruited to the Tech program by Cremins in 1984 and was redshirted during the Rambling Wreck's 1984-85 Atlantic Coast Conference championship season. He went on to earn four letters as a frontcourt reserve from the 1985-86 through 1988-89 seasons, helping the Jackets compile a four-year record of 85-42 while earning four trips to the NCAA Tournament. During his career, Reese played with many of the great names in Tech annals, including Mark Price, John Salley, Bruce Dalrymple, Duane Ferrell, Tom Hammonds and Dennis Scott.

Named the basketball team's outstanding scholar-athlete his junior and senior years, Reese earned a bachelor's degree in Industrial Management from Georgia Tech in 1989. After graduation, he spent five years in private business before beginning his coaching career in 1994.

Reese, who attended Carver High School in Atlanta, and his wife, Subrina, reside in Jonesboro and have a son, Willie, and a daughter, Jasmine.

Dan Radakovich

Indiana (Pa.), '80

Now in his fifth year as Director of Athletics, Dan Radakovich has helped take a Georgia Tech program rich in athletic tradition to a higher level of excellence and national respect.

Since Radakovich arrived on The Flats in 2006, Georgia Tech has competed for conference and national championships across the board, Yellow Jacket student-athletes have excelled in the classroom and Tech's facilities rate among the finest in the nation.

Radakovich signed a new five-year contract in June of 2010.

The 2009-10 academic year was one of the most successful campaigns in nearly 120 years of Georgia Tech athletics:

- Yellow Jacket teams combined to produce a won-loss record of 213-80 (.727), the highest winning percentage at Georgia Tech in modern history.
- Georgia Tech participated in NCAA postseason play and/or bowl games in football, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's tennis, volleyball, baseball, softball and golf.
- Tech was the only school in the country to play in a BCS bowl game (Orange Bowl), host an NCAA baseball regional and advance to the second round of the NCAA men's basketball tournament.
- The Yellow Jackets won four ACC championships – in football, golf, softball and women's tennis.
- Academically, Georgia Tech's Academic Progress Report (APR) scores improved significantly for the third consecutive year. Five Yellow Jacket teams were recognized nationally by the NCAA for producing an APR score that ranked among the top 10 percent in each respective sport.
- The football team won the ACC championship outright for the first time since 1990, played in a bowl game for the 13th straight year, two Yellow Jackets were taken in the first round of the NFL draft, and Paul Johnson became the first coach ever to be named ACC Coach of the Year in his first two seasons in the conference.

The men's and women's basketball teams both won 23 games and both earned NCAA Tournament bids. Coach Paul Hewitt's team advanced to the championship game of the ACC Tournament.

- The baseball and softball teams both earned top-eight national seeds and hosted NCAA regionals. Women's tennis also hosted NCAA 1st- and 2nd-round matches.
- The baseball team produced a school record-tying 10 draft picks.
- The ACC champion golf team advanced to the final eight of the NCAA championships.
- The volleyball team, under first-year coach Tonya Johnson, earned the program's first NCAA bid since 2004.
- Men's swimming (Gal Nevo) and men's track and field (Alphonso Jordan and Steve Marcelle) produced some of the most successful and most decorated athletes in those sports' history at Tech.

The construction of new facilities or upgrades to existing ones has been a focus of Radakovich's tenure.

This past year, Radakovich began laying the groundwork for a proposed basketball replacement facility that will eventually be one of the top basketball complexes in the ACC. The previous year, Shirley Clements Mewborn Field, home for Tech's softball program, was unveiled prior to the start of the 2009 season and was ultimately showcased on ESPN when the Yellow Jackets hosted an NCAA Super Regional.

The Zelnak Center, a practice facility for Georgia Tech basketball, was in place prior to the start of the 2009-10 season. Bobby Dodd Stadium continues to receive cosmetic and functional upgrades, including a new video board last fall. Other facility upgrades under Radakovich include the transformation of Tech's former football locker room on the ground floor of the Edge Athletic Center into a new Technology Center, which benefits academic support services for all Yellow Jacket student-athletes.

In 2008-09, first-year head coach Paul Johnson and Georgia

Tech surprised the experts by winning nine games, tying for the ACC Coastal Division title and playing in a 12th consecutive bowl game. The Yellow Jackets, who beat 13th-ranked Georgia and two other ranked teams in November, played in the Chick-fil-A Bowl and were ranked 22nd in the final national polls. The women's basketball team registered its third straight 20-win season and earned an NCAA Tournament bid for the third consecutive year. The baseball team finished ranked in the top 25 and hosted an NCAA Tournament Regional. The softball team swept the ACC regular season and tournament titles, won 46 games and hosted its first NCAA Super Regional.

The golf team captured the ACC championship, advanced to the NCAA Championships and finished ranked seventh nationally. The men's swimming and diving team enjoyed its best NCAA Championships finish ever (19th) and the women's team broke 10 school records. Women's tennis finished ranked eighth nationally and advanced in the NCAA Tournament round of 16. In men's track, Jerome Miller (high jump) and Steve Marcelle (shot put) turned in record-breaking performances en route to earning All-American honors.

The 2007-08 academic year featured the hiring of Johnson as head football coach, women's basketball emerging as one of the top programs in the South, baseball advancing to the NCAA Regionals and women's tennis advancing to the Elite Eight of the NCAA Tournament. Individually, Amanda McDowell won the NCAA singles title in women's tennis.

The 2006-07 year was highlighted by Tech's women's tennis team capturing the Institute's first-ever NCAA championship and its third straight Atlantic Coast Conference title. The football team won the ACC Coastal Division and went to its 10th straight bowl game, the men's basketball team earned its third NCAA Tournament bid in four years, the women's basketball team posted its finest season with 21 wins and a berth in the NCAA Tournament, and the golf team won a share of the ACC title for the second straight year.

Outside the competition venues, Radakovich has directed an overhaul of the annual giving and donation structure for Tech athletics, anchored by the TECH Fund, which establishes minimum giving levels tied to season tickets in various seating areas of Bobby Dodd Stadium and Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Radakovich also initiated the Athletic Director's Initiative Fund, started in June, 2006, which has raised in cash and pledges more than $12 million. A recent gift from the Henry F. McComish, Jr., family for the renovation of Alexander Memorial Coliseum, could be worth up to $15 million toward that project.

Named Georgia Tech's Director of Athletics on February 22, 2006, Radakovich came to Georgia Tech after five years as senior associate athletics director at LSU (2001-06). He previously served as the Athletics Director at American University in 2000-01. That followed stints as associate athletics director at South Carolina (1994-2000) and Long Beach State (1989-94) as well as two years as the athletics business manager at Miami (FL) (1983-85).

Just the seventh Director of Athletics in Tech history, Radakovich was named by then-Institute President Dr. Wayne Clough to succeed Dave Braine, who retired after nearly nine years in the post. Radakovich also follows in the footsteps of storied names such as John Heisman, Bobby Dodd and Homer Rice.

A graduate of Center High School near Aliquippa, Pa., and a member of its Alumni Hall of Fame, Radakovich, 52, became a football letterwinner and student coach at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated in 1980 with a bachelor of science degree in finance. He was enshrined into the Beaver County Sports Hall of Fame in April, 2008, and was recognized as a Distinguished Alumni from IUP in March, 2009.

Radakovich added a master's degree in business administration from Miami (FL) in 1982. He also completed the Sports Management Institute's executive education program in 1992.

He is married to the former Marcie McDonald, and the couple has two children, Christian (20) and Grant (16). Christian is a junior Industrial Engineering major at Georgia Tech.

Dr. G.P. "Bud" Peterson

Institute President

Kansas State, '75

In April 2009, following a unanimous vote by the University System of Georgia Board of Regents, Dr. G. P. "Bud" Peterson became the 11th president of the Georgia Institute of Technology. In this capacity he oversees a top-ten public research university with more than 19,000 students and more than $500 million in sponsored funding.

Throughout his career, Peterson has played an active role in helping to establish the national education and research agendas, serving on numerous industry, government, and academic task forces and committees.

A distinguished scientist, Peterson was selected in 2008 by President George W. Bush to serve on the National Science Board through 2014. The Board oversees the National Science Foundation (NSF) and advises the President and Congress on national policy related to science and engineering research and education.

Peterson earned a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering in 1975, a bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1977, and a master's degree in mechanical engineering in 1980, all from Kansas State University. He also earned a doctorate in mechanical engineering from Texas A&M University in 1985.

In 1981 and 1982, Peterson served as a visiting research scientist at the NASA Johnson Space Center. In 1985, he joined the faculty of the Mechanical Engineering Department at Texas A&M, where he conducted research and taught courses in thermodynamics and heat transfer.

In 1990 he was named the Halliburton Professor of Mechanical Engineering and in 1991 was named the College of Engineering's Tenneco Professor. In 1993, Peterson was invited to serve as program director for the NSF's Thermal Transport and Thermal Processing Division, where he received the NSF Award for Outstanding Management.

From June 1993 through July 1996, he served as head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at Texas A&M University and in 1996 was appointed executive associate dean of the College of Engineering, where he also served as associate vice chancellor for Engineering for the Texas A&M University System. Previous leadership positions Peterson has held include provost at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y. and chancellor of the University of Colorado at Boulder.

He also has served as a member of a number of congressional task forces, research councils, and advisory boards, including the Office of Naval Research, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Department of Energy, the National Research Council, and the National Academy of Engineering.

Most recently, Peterson served as a member of the Board of Directors and vice president for Education for the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA). He is currently serving on a number of national accreditation agencies including the American Association of Colleges & Universities, the Middle States Commission on Higher Education, and the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, with a focus on improving and assessing outcomes for higher education.

A fellow of both the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) and the AIAA, Peterson is the author or co-author of 14 books or book chapters, 165 refereed journal articles, and more than 140 conference publications. He also holds eight patents. Having served as editor or associate editor for eight different journals, he is currently serving on the editorial advisory board of two others. He is a member of Pi Tau Sigma, Tau Beta Pi, Sigma Xi, and Phi Kappa Phi.

Professional society awards include the Ralph James and the O. L. "Andy" Lewis awards from ASME, the Dow Outstanding Young Faculty Award from the American Society for Engineering Education (ASEE), the Pi Tau Sigma Gustus L. Larson Memorial Award from ASME, the AIAA Thermophysics Award, the ASME Memorial Award, the AIAA Sustained Service Award, and the Frank J. Malina Award from the International Astronautical Society.

Peterson was born September 1, 1952, in San Francisco, California, and raised in Prairie Village, a suburb of Kansas City, Kansas. He and his wife, Val, have four adult children.

Dr. Sue Ann Bidstrup Allen

Faculty Athletics Representative

Dr. Sue Ann Bidstrup Allen, a professor in the School of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering at Georgia Tech, was appointed as the Yellow Jackets' Faculty Executive Assistant in July, 2009.

Dr. Bidstrup Allen received her B.S. in Chemical Engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1981. She then attended the University of Minnesota and received her Ph.D. in the field of Chemical Engineering in 1986. After a postdoctoral appointment in the Electrical Engineering Department at MIT, Dr. Bidstrup Allen joined Georgia Tech as an assistant professor in the School of Chemical Engineering in 1988, was appointed to the position of associate professor in 1994 and to the position of professor in 2000. She served as the Associate Chair of the School of Chemical Engineering from 2004 to 2005. In 2005, she was named Faculty Executive Assistant to the President by Dr. G. Wayne Clough and continued to serve in this position under Interim President Gary B. Schuster and President G.P. "Bud" Peterson until August 2009.

Dr. Bidstrup Allen's main research focus is in the area of new materials and processes for micro-electromechanical systems (MEMS) and for advanced interconnects for integrated circuits. She has advised nine postdoctoral fellows and has graduated 19 Ph.D. and 14 M.S. students. During her career, she has published approximately 100 refereed articles and has been issued eight patents.

Dr. Bidstrup Allen is a recipient of the National Science Foundation Presidential Young Investigator Award, the DuPont Young Faculty Award, the 2008 American Society for Engineering Education (ASEE) Sharon Keilor Award, and the 2008 Council of Chemical Research (CCR) Diversity Award. She also received the Faculty Leadership Award from Georgia Tech in 1995 and the Packaging Research Center Educator of the Year Award in 2000. She is a Fellow of the Society of Plastics Engineers and is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, the American Chemical Society, the Electrochemical Society and the American Society for Engineering Education.

Dr. Bidstrup Allen is married to Mark G. Allen, a professor in the School of Electrical and Computer Engineering at Georgia Tech. They have two children, David and Sarah.

1960 (1-1) - Midwest Region

Freedom Hall, Louisville, Ky.

1st round: Tech 57, Ohio University 54

Ohio University, an upset winner over Notre Dame in the first round, jumped to a 19-6 lead at the 10:26 mark of the first half and still led by 12 points with 13 minutes left in the game. Eighth-ranked Tech, which had received a first-round bye, used its full-court pressure defense to get back in the game, taking the lead at 49-48 on a pair of free throws by Roger Kaiser with 4:55 left. Kaiser, who led Tech with 25 points, scored 16 of the Jackets' final 23 points, including several critical free throws, as Tech survived, 57-54, and advanced to the Elite Eight.

2nd round: Ohio State 86, Tech 69

Ohio State, featuring future NBA stars Jerry Lucas and John Havlicek, had compiled a 22-3 record and a No. 2 national ranking. The matchup with Tech was a contrast in styles between the Buckeyes' whirlwind pace and the more deliberate pace of the Jackets. Ohio State led 41-35 at the half and threatened to run away in the second half, but Tech, though physically overmatched, stayed within striking distance, trailing 66-56 with 8:53 to play, before the eventual national champions pulled away for the 86-69 victory.

1st round: Tech 65, Mercer 58

Yvon Joseph led all scorers with 19 points and nine rebounds and Bruce Dalrymple had a double-double with 13 points and 11 boards as Georgia Tech defeated Mercer, 65-58, in the Yellow Jackets' first NCAA Tournament game in a quarter of a century. Tech saw an 18-point lead crumble to just six points with 1:35 to play before Mark Price, who finished with 14 points, delivered the clinching basket with a layup with just 27 seconds left.

2nd round: Tech 70, Syracuse 53

Mark Price scored 18 points and Bruce Dalrymple delivered his second straight double-doubles with 10 points and 10 rebounds as Georgia Tech knocked off Syracuse, 70-53, to advance to the Sweet 16. Tech held Syracuse to just 39.6 percent shooting from the field and outrebounded the Orangemen 38-24.

Providence Civic Center, Providence, R.I.

Regional Semifinal: Tech 61, Illinois 53

Mark Price connected on nine of 12 field goal attempts for 20 points to lead Georgia Tech over Illinois, 61-53, and into the Final Eight for the first time in school history. Tech built a 52-37 lead with 7:02 left in the game, but Doug Altenberger kept Illinois in the game with 24 points. He scored 10 unanswered points to cut the Tech lead to 55-51 before fouling out with 1:34 to play.

Regional Final: Georgetown 60, Tech 54

Top-seeded Georgetown ended Tech's Cinderella season with a 60-54 victory in the East Regional Final. All-America center Patrick Ewing scored 14 points and had four rebounds despite playing just 25 minutes due to foul trouble, while Bill Martin and Reggie Williams each had 12 points for the Hoyas. The bigger, more physical Hoyas outrebounded Tech 32-23 and harassed the Jackets into shooting just 40 percent from the field, including an uncharacteristic 3-for-16 performance by Mark Price. John Salley led Tech with 15 points and five rebounds while Bruce Dalrymple added 13.

1st round: Georgia Tech 68, Marist 53

Mark Price scored 20 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 68-53 victory over No. 15-seed Marist in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. After the Red Foxes had gone ahead 36-35 with 15:35 to play, Price responded with three straight long range jumpers during a 5-for-6 second half. Rik Smits led Marist with 22 points, but he picked up his fourth foul with 14:33 to go. Tech's John Salley completed a three-point play for a 40-38 lead that the Jackets would not relinquish.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 66, Villanova 61

Sixth-ranked Georgia Tech managed just one field goal during the final 12 minutes of the game but hung on for a 66-61 victory over defending national champion Villanova. Tech led by as many as 18 points in the second half, and Duane's Ferrell's tip-in of a missed shot at 12:01 put the Jackets ahead, 54-40, but that was Tech's last basket until John Salley's short jumper with just 1:44 left. After Ferrell's tip, Villanova whittled away at the Tech lead, pulling within 59-57 with 2:26 left before the basket by Salley, who finished with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Mark Price led Tech with 20 points, including 10-12 from the free throw line, and Ferrell added 14 points and eight rebounds.

Regional Semifinal: Louisiana State 70, Tech 64

LSU's Don Redden (27) and Derrick Taylor (23) combined for 50 points as the Tigers made their final eight field goals to pull away from Georgia Tech, 70-64. Tech appeared to have seized the momentum, taking a 56-52 lead with 6:19, to play, but Taylor tied the score with a driving layup, followed by a 19-foot jumper. Redden hit a crucial 21-footer with 4:05 left to put LSU ahead 60-58, and then his layup with 2:36 to play capped a 10-2 run that put the Tigers up 62-58. From there, Tech was forced to foul but managed only two more field goals. Mark Price led Tech with 20 points, and the Jackets shot 58 percent from the field to LSU's 41 percent, but 17 turnovers negated the good shooting as Tech attempted only 48 field goals.

1st round: Georgia Tech 90, Iowa State 78

Tom Hammonds scored a career-high 33 points and Dennis Scott added 23 to lead No. 5 seed Georgia Tech to a 90-78 victory over Iowa State. The Cyclones led 41-38 at halftime, and the game was tied at 72 with 4:50 left to play, but the Jackets scored nine straight points and finished the game with an 18-6 run. Tech hit 36 of 42 free throw attempts, including Hammonds' school record 19 free throws on 21 tries. Meanwhile, Iowa State was cold from the floor in the second half, hitting just 16-42, including 0-12 from three-point range.

2nd round: Richmond 59, Georgia Tech 55

Led by Peter Woolfolk's 27 points, 13th-seeded Richmond upset Georgia Tech, 59-55. The Spiders held Tech to 18 points in the first half and led the entire game, but the Jackets had a chance at the end. Dennis Scott nailed a three-pointer with 35 seconds to play to cut the Spiders' lead to 57-55, but Benjy Taylor hit two free throws to seal the victory. Richmond, which had stunned fourth-seeded Indiana in the first round, held the Jackets to 33 percent shooting from the floor and limited Tech's high-scoring duo of Tom Hammonds and Duane Ferrell to a combined 17 points. Scott and Brian Oliver led Tech with 15 points apiece.

1st round: Texas 76, Georgia Tech 70

Eleventh-seeded Texas, making its first NCAA appearance in a decade under first-year head coach Tom Penders, knocked off No. 6 seed Georgia Tech, 76-70. The Longhorns, who entered the tournament as the nation's fourth-highest scoring team, were held almost 20 points below their average but led the entire game. Travis Mays (23 points), Joey Wright (17), Alvin Hegggs (17) and Lance Blanks (13) scored all but six of the Texas' points. Brian Oliver led the Jackets with 24 points.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 94, Louisiana State 91

Dennis Scott scored 30 points, including two free throws with seven seconds left, to lift Tech to a 94-91 victory over LSU. The Yellow Jackets advanced to the Sweet 16 despite a combined 40 points, 29 rebounds and eight blocked shots, from LSU seven-footers Shaquille O'Neal and Stanley Roberts. The Jackets missed 15 of their first 19 shots and fell behind 22-5, but Tech managed to cut the deficit to just 41-40 at the half. The teams traded leads throughout the second half until Kenny Anderson's basket with 1:35 put the Jackets ahead 92-91. LSU held for a final shot, but Maurice Williamson's drive to basket came up empty, and Scott's free throws sealed the outcome. Anderson had 26 points for Tech while Brian Oliver scored 18.

Regional Semifinal: Georgia Tech 81, Michigan State 80 (ot)

Regional Final: Georgia Tech 93, Minnesota 91

Dennis Scott poured in 40 points to lead Georgia Tech over Minnesota, 93-91, and into the NCAA Final Four for the first time. Kenny Anderson had 30 points and Brian Oliver added 19 as "Lethal Weapon 3" produced 89 of the Jackets' 93 points. Tech rallied from a 12-point deficit late in the first half to trail just 49-47 at the intermission. The Jackets built a five-point advantage early in the second half, but the teams traded leads until Oliver put Tech ahead for good at 84-83 with a pair of free throws with 3:50 left. Minnesota had a chance to tie or win the game when Anderson missed the front end of a one-and-one with six seconds left, but Kevin Lynch's three-point attempt was no good. Tech made 27 of 35 free throws, while the Gophers were only 5-11.

FINAL FOUR - McNichols Arena, Denver, Colo.

National Semifinal: UNLV 90, Georgia Tech 81

Georgia Tech's magical run through the NCAA Tournament came to an end at the hands of UNLV, 90-81, in the national semifinals. Tech led 53-46 at halftime, but a three-pointer by Anderson Hunt put UNLV on top 56-54 with 16:23 to play and the Rebels held off the Jackets the rest of the way. UNLV's pressure defense held Tech without a field goal during the first six minutes of the second half. Dennis Scott scored game-high 29 points, while Brian Oliver scored 24, and Kenny Anderson finished with 16 points and eight assists.

University of Dayton Arena, Dayton, Ohio

1st round: Georgia Tech 87, DePaul 70

Kenny Anderson had 31 points, five assists, and four rebounds to lead No. 8 seed Georgia Tech over DePaul, 87-70. Jon Barry added 22 points while Malcolm Mackey scored 12 with eight rebounds. Tech shot 58.6 percent from the field to 43.5 percent for the Blue Demons.

2nd round: Ohio State 65, Georgia Tech 61

Perry Carter had 19 points and 18 rebounds and Jimmy Jackson contributed 16 points, eight rebounds and eight assists for top-seeded Ohio State. Kenny Anderson led Tech with 25 points, but made only eight of his 28 field goal attempts, and Malcolm Mackey was the only other Tech player in double figures with 10 points and a career-high 19 rebounds. Tech shot 37.5 percent from the field but still had a chance at the end. The Buckeyes, who made just two field goals in the final nine minutes, led 58-56 when Anderson hit a free throw with 32.4 seconds left, but he missed the second and Tech was forced to foul. Ohio State made seven of eight free throws in the final 30 seconds.

1st round: Georgia Tech 65, Houston 60

Trailing 58-54 with four minutes to play, Georgia Tech finished the game with an 11-2 run to secure a 65-60 victory over Houston. Tech held the Southwest Conference champions to 35.4 percent shooting from the field while Jon Barry paced the Jackets with 17 points.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 79, Southern California 78

James Forrest's desperation three-pointer at the buzzer gave the Yellow Jackets 79-78 victory over No. 2 seeded Southern Cal. USC's Rodney Chatman drove the baseline past Forrest for a basket with just 2.2 seconds that put the Trojans ahead by two. Matt Geiger's inbound pass from under the basket, intended for Jon Barry, was tipped away, and with just 0.8 seconds on the clock, Geiger inbounded from midcourt to Forrest near the sideline, and the Tech freshman threw in the first three-pointer of his career from about 25 feet. All five Tech starters scored in double figures, led by 20 from Barry and 16 each from Malcolm Mackey and Travis Best.

1st round: Southern 93, Georgia Tech 78

Just five days after a stunning run through the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, No. 4 seed Georgia Tech was upset in the first round of the NCAA Tournament by Southern, 93-78. Tech led by as many as 15 points in the first half and still led 44-39 at the half, but the Jaguars, who led the nation with a 97.9 scoring average, scored the first six points of the second half and took their first lead, 45-44, with 18:50 remaining. A three-pointer by Darius Mimms with 12:33 to play gave Southern the lead for good at 64-61. Jervawn Scales paced Southern with 27 points and 18 rebounds. Malcolm Mackey led Tech with 27 points and James Forrest added 24 points, but the Jackets committed 23 turnovers, 16 in the second half.

Stephon Marbury poured in a career-high 29 points, hitting 10-for-12 from the field including 6-for-7 from three point range, to lead Georgia Tech over Boston College, 103-89, and into the Sweet Sixteen. Marbury also tied his career high with nine assists and had four steals and no turnovers. He led a balanced scoring attack that featured all five starters in double figures, including 20 points by Matt Harpring. The Jackets shot a season-high 61 percent from the field and set an NCAA Southeast Region record and tied the school record with 16 three-pointers en route to their highest scoring output in an NCAA Tournament game.

1st round: St. Joseph's 66, Georgia Tech 62

After trailing by 18 points early in the second half, eighth-seeded Georgia Tech rallied to pull within three in the final two minutes before falling to No. 9 seed and 23rd-ranked St. Joseph's, 66-62. Tony Akins' two free throws pulled Tech within 63-60 with 1:12 to play, and then the Hawks missed the front end of one-and-one attempts by Damian Reid and Jameer Nelson. But Yellow Jackets came up short on two scoring chances as Tony Akins' shot spun out of the basket and Alvin Jones missed an alley-oop dunk, although both players appeared to be fouled. Nelson hit two foul shots to keep St. Joe's ahead 65-60 with 29.7 seconds left. Akins led Tech with 16 points, including 7-of-7 free throws, and Darryl LaBarrie tied his career-best with 15 points. Jones finished with eight points and 10 rebounds after being held scoreless in the first half. Marvin O'Connor led the Hawks with 21 points, and Nelson added 13. St. Joe's took a 56-28 lead early in the second half before Tech scored 15 of the next 17 points to get within 48-43 with 11:47 remaining.

Bradley Center, Milwaukee, Wis.

1st round: Georgia Tech 65, Northern Iowa 60

B.J. Elder hit a pivotal jumper with just 1:06 left on the clock to seal the win as Georgia Tech outlasted Northern Iowa in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Tech, the No. 3 seed, started off strong, leading by as many as 17 before taking a 12-point lead into halftime. The Panthers started the second half with an impressive 15-2 run to lead by one. Elder answered with a jumper with 15:47 remaining in the game to give Tech the lead, which the Jackets would hold for the remainder of the game.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 57, Boston College 54

Jarrett Jack made a key steal and dunk in the final six seconds of the game as Georgia Tech advanced to the Sweet 16. The Jackets jumped out to an 11-point lead in the second half before a Boston College run put the Eagles ahead by one. Jack made two free throws to put Tech ahead by with only 25 seconds remaining, then stole an inbounds pass and drove the length of the floor for the game-clinching dunk.

Regional Semifinal: Georgia Tech 72, Nevada 67

Following an injury to Tech's leading scorer B.J. Elder just two minutes into the game, senior Marvin Lewis had one of the best games of his career, scoring 23 points and pulling down five rebounds against the Wolf Pack to keep Tech's NCAA run alive. With just over 65 seconds remaining in the game, Will Bynum drove the baseline for a layup to give Tech the lead for good at 69-67 and lift Georgia Tech to the regional finals for just the third time in school history.

Regional Final: Georgia Tech 79, Kansas 71 (ot)

After Will Bynum hit a three-pointer to break a 71-71 tie in overtime, Jarrett Jack went 4-for-4 from the line in the final 47 seconds to finish with a career-high 29 points and lead Georgia Tech to its first appearance in the Final Four since the 1990 season. Luke Schenscher scored 15 points and Clarence Moore tied a season high with 14 of his own in the contest.

FINAL FOUR - Alamodome, San Antonio, Texas

National Semifinal: Georgia Tech 67, Oklahoma State 65

Will Bynum drove to the basket around a screen by Luke Schenscher to score on a layup with 1.5 seconds remaining, lifting Georgia Tech past Oklahoma State after the Cowboys had rallied from a six-point deficit in the final four minutes to tie the game at

65. Bynum finished the game with 11 points and scored the game-winner for Tech for the third straight game. Schenscher scored 19 points (with 12 rebounds) to lead four Yellow Jackets in double figures, including 15 from senior Marvin Lewis, who canned five three-pointers in the first half.

National Championship: Connecticut 82, Georgia Tech 73

Connecticut left no chance for a Georgia Tech miracle in the national championship game, building a 41-26 halftime lead and expanding the margin to as many as 25 before the Yellow Jackets got hot in the final 10 minutes. Tech shot 29.4 percent in the first half and made just 4 of 11 free throws to dig itself a hole from which it could not recover. Emeka Okafor scored 24 points with 15 rebounds for the Huskies, and Ben Gordon added 21. Will Bynum led the Jackets with 17 points off the bench.

All-St. Louis Regional: Jarrett Jack (MVP), Clarence Moore

All-Final Four: Will Bynum, Luke Schenscher

2005 (1-1) - Albuquerque Region, No. 5 Seed

Gaylord Entertainment Center, Nashville, Tenn.

1st round: Georgia Tech 80, George Washington 68

Four Tech players scored in double figures, led by Jarrett Jack with 20 (six rebounds, six assists, 7-9 FG). Will Bynum scored 17, and B.J. Elder added 15, giving Tech's starting guards 52 of the Yellow Jackets' points in the game. Anthony McHenry added 10, his third double-figure game in seven NCAA Tournament contests. Tech shot 50 percent from the floor, going on a 12-0 second-half spurt to put the game away. The Jackets made 17 of 22 free throws and seven three-point shots.

2nd round: Louisville 76, Georgia Tech 54

Louisville employed an active zone defense to stifle Tech offensively, and hit eight of its first nine shots on offense to quickly build a double-digit lead. Led by Francisco Garcia, who hit three triples and scored 18 first-half points, the Cardinals led by 15 at the break. Tech, behind Luke Schenscher (13 points), whittled its deficit to nine points (52-43) with 9:43 remaining, but Taquan Dean canned three triples on consecutive possessions to open the Louisville lead back to 20 points. The Cardinals shot 52 percent for the game and made 10 three-point shots.

2007 (0-1) - Midwest Region, No. 10 Seed

United Center, Chicago, Ill.

1st round: UNLV 67, Georgia Tech 63

UNLV made six three-point shots in the first half to take a seven-point lead into intermission, then withstood a second-half rally by Tech to capture the victory in the first meeting between the two teams since the 1990 national semifinals. The Runnin' Rebels prevailed despite making just 31.7 percent of their shots from the floor, but held Tech's leading scorers, freshmen Javaris Crittenton and Thaddeus Young, to eight points each. Anthony Morrow and Alade Aminu led the Jackets with 11 apiece.

2010 (1-1) - Midwest Region, No. 10 Seed

Bradley Center, Milwaukee, Wis.

1st round: Georgia Tech 64, Oklahoma State 59

Gani Lawal scored 14 points, Derrick Favors came within a rebound of a double-double and the Yellow Jackets scored their last 13 points at the line 7th-seeded Oklahoma State 64-59 in the first meeting between the two teams since the 2004 national semifinals in San Antonio, Texas. James Anderson, the nation's third-leading scorer, was just 3 of 12 for 11 points. Held without a field goal the last 8 minutes of the game, Georgia Tech got it done at the line with Favors, Iman Shumpert and Maurice Miller going 6 of 6 in the last two minutes. Georgia Tech finished 24 of 25 from the line.

Bradley Center, Milwaukee, Wis.

2nd round: Ohio State 75, Georgia Tech 66

Evan Turner shook off one of the worst shooting nights of his career by coming within an assist and a rebound of his third triple-double of the season, lifting Ohio State to a 75-66 victory. Turner, a leading candidate to add national player of the year to his Big Ten honors, finished with a game-high 24 points. ACC Freshman of the Year Derrick Favors, who played just 5 minutes in the first half after picking up two quick fouls, keyed an 11-0 run that cut Ohio State's lead to 65-61 with 1:47 to play. Turner made two free throws, Lighty converted both of his after an intentional foul and the Yellow Jackets (23-13) never threatened again.

AP-UPI through 1990-91, AP-USA Today beginning in 1991-92.

NOTE: Georgia Tech ranks fourth all-time in wins vs. AP No. 1-ranked teams behind UNC (12), UCLA (10) and Maryland (9). Duke also has eight.

Tech 59, Kentucky 58 - Jan. 8, 1955

Joe Helms' jump shot with 11 seconds to play gave Georgia Tech a stunning 59-58 upset over No. 1-ranked Kentucky at Memorial Coliseum, ending the Wildcats' 129-game home winning streak. Kentucky had not lost a Southeastern Conference game in 16 years and were riding a 32-game winning streak, but trailed 26-23 at the half and 38-30 in the second half. Still, the Wildcats led by three with 1:14 left. After Kentucky missed a pair of free throws, Tech's Bobby Kimmel was fouled on the rebound and hit two free throws to pull the Jackets within one. With Kentucky's Bill Evans trying to run out the clock, Kimmel tied him up and Helms snatched the ball and then let fly with the winning shot.

Tech 65, Kentucky 59 - Jan. 31, 1955

Just 23 days after stunning No. 1 Kentucky on its home court, Georgia Tech again downed the mighty Wildcats, 65-59, at Heisman Gym. Tech's backcourt of Bobby Kimmel and Joe Helms combined for 44 points, and the Yellow Jackets connected on 25 free throws to just five for the Wildcats. Tech never trailed in the game, jumping to a 15-8 lead in the early going. Kentucky pulled within 18-16 but could get no closer as the Jackets took a 32-24 lead into the intermission. In the second half, Tech went ahead by as many as 14 points, leading 58-44 with six minutes to play.

Tech 76, Kentucky 67 - Jan. 4, 1964

Kentucky native R.D. Craddock scored 25 points as Georgia Tech shocked the top-ranked Wildcats, 76-67, at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Charlie Spooner added 16 points and Mick Stenftenagel 15 for the Jackets as Tech head coach Whack Hyder recorded his ninth victory over Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, including three wins over No. 1-ranked Kentucky teams. Craddock, who was 5-for-8 from the field and 15-for-17 from the foul line, scored 19 points in the second half as Tech rallied from a 32-30 halftime deficit to lead by as many as 13 points. Leading 48-43, Tech scored seven straight points on field goals by Craddock and Jim Caldwell and three free throws by Bill Edison, to go up 55-43 with 10:35 to play and then held off the Wildcats with free throw shooting, hitting 17 in a row in one stretch.

Tech 80, Duke 79 - Jan. 10, 1993

Freshman Drew Barry came off the bench to record 11 points, five assists and four steals, as No. 10 Georgia Tech knocked off No. 1-ranked Duke, 80-79, at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, ending a 23-game winning streak for the defending national champions. Barry and freshman Martice Moore combined for 15 of Tech's 19 points during a second half stretch in which the Jackets took a 76-74 lead with 1:04 to go. Tech began the game with a 12-0 run and led by as many as 14 in the first half before Duke pulled within 44-37 at the half. The Blue Devils led 60-59 when Moore's three-pointer put Tech ahead 62-60 with 8:47 left. Duke tied the score three times after that but never led.

Tech 77, North Carolina 75 - Mar. 14, 1993

James Forrest had 27 points and 10 rebounds to lead Georgia Tech to a 77-75 victory over top-ranked North Carolina in the championship game of the ACC Tournament at the Charlotte (N.C.) Coliseum. The Tar Heels led by one point midway through the second half when Forrest ignited an 11-0 run that put Tech up 66-58 with six minutes to play. Forrest hit 11 of 19 field goals against the Heels as he averaged 26.7 points and shot 69 percent for the tournament.

Tech 89, North Carolina 69 - Jan. 12, 1994

Travis Best had 27 points, nine assists and only one turnover and James Forrest added 22 points as Georgia Tech downed its third straight No. 1-ranked team with an 89-69 upset over North Carolina at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. After leading by as many as 13 in the first half, Tech held a 38-35 advantage at the intermission. The score was tied at 44-44 with 16 minutes to play when Fred Vinson came off the bench to hit three three-pointers and another long jumper, helping Tech build a 66-56 lead with 8:03 remaining.

Tech 96, North Carolina 89 - Feb. 12, 1994

Fred Vinson scored a career-high 26 points, 24 of them on eight three-pointers, and James Forrest added 25 points and 17 rebounds as Georgia Tech knocked off a No. 1 ranked team for the fourth straight time with a 96-89 win at North Carolina. Tech hit a school-record 15 three-pointers in defeating a top-ranked Tar Heel team for the third time in less than a year. Tech trailed by 15 points in the first half and stayed close only by nailing nine treys, five by Vinson. Trailing 48-41, Tech opened the second half with three straight threes. Travis Best gave Tech the lead for good, 85-84, with 1:54 left when he drained a 15-footer as the shot clock expired, and the Jackets hit nine of 10 free throws in the final minute to seal the win.

Tech 77, Connecticut 61 - Nov. 26, 2003

In the semifinals of the Preseason NIT in Madison Square Garden, Georgia Tech made the most of its pressure defense to create turnovers and fastbreak opportunities to create the runaway victory. B.J. Elder and Isma'il Muhammad led the way with 22 points each, while the Yellow Jackets held the Huskies' All-Americans, guard Ben Gordon and center Emeka Okafor, to 22 total points between them. UConn managed to shoot just 37.9 percent from the floor, made just 1 of 10 three-point attempts and 10 of 30 free throw tries. Tech finished the first half with a 7-2 run for a 42-35 lead, then extended the advantage to as many as 19 in the second half while holding the Huskies to just 26 points after intermission.

Fantastic Finishes

Georgia Tech 62, Kentucky 60

Jan. 30, 1961

All-America guard Roger Kaiser nailed a baseline jumper as time expired to give Georgia Tech a 62-60 upset over Kentucky at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

After Kentucky's Carroll Burchett tied the score at 60-60 with a tip-in with 30 seconds left, Kaiser took the ball and dribbled most of the clock away. With time running out, he drove to the baseline, shook off two defenders, and fired from the left corner as the buzzer sounded.

Despite playing with a broken thumb on his shooting hand, Kaiser connected on 7-of-15 from the field and 15-of-19 from the free throw line for a game-high 29 points, leading Tech to its third victory in four games over Kentucky.

Georgia Tech 86, Kentucky 85 (2 OT)

Jan. 5, 1963

Mike Tomasovich scored the winning points on a pair of free throws with seven seconds left in the second overtime as Georgia Tech upset sixth-ranked Kentucky, 86-85, at Memorial Gymnasium in Lexington, Ky.

Kentucky tied the score at 70-70 on a basket by Roy Roberts with 20 seconds left in regulation, and then Scotty Baesler's shot with 1:09 left in the first overtime tied the game at 76. In the second extra session, Tech's R.D. Craddock hit two free throws to put Tech ahead, 84-81, with 19 seconds left. After a tip-in pulled the Wildcats within one, Tomasovich sealed the win with two more free throws.

Georgia Tech 76, St. Bonaventure 71 (2 OT)

Mar. 25, 1971

Rich Yunkus' field goal tied the game with less than a minute left in regulation, and then Georgia Tech survived two potential game-winning free throws with no time left in the first overtime to defeat St. Bonaventure, 76-71, in double overtime in the National Invitation Tournament semifinals at Madison Square Garden.

With the score tied at 67-67 in the first overtime, Tech guard Jim Thorne missed the front end of a one-and-one with nine seconds left. St. Bonaventure's Paul Hoffman launched a desperation shot at the buzzer that missed, but the Yellow Jackets' Frank Samoylo was called for a foul, giving Hoffman a pair of free throws with no time left. Hoffman missed both shots, forcing the second extra session.

DOUBLE-OT

KAISER PERMANENTE

IN ONE OF TECH'S THRILLING VICTORIES OVER KENTUCKY, ROGER KAISER NAILED THE GAME-WINNING SHOT AS TIME EXPIRED (SEE BALL COMING THROUGH THE NET) TO LIFT THE YELLOW JACKETS OVER THE WILDCATS, 62-60. KAISER SCORED 29 POINTS DESPITE PLAYING THE GAME WITH A BROKEN THUMB.

Thorne, who finished with a game-high 27 points, scored Tech's first basket with 3:09 left in the second overtime, and the Jackets coasted to a 76-71 victory. Yunkus added 19 points and 12 rebounds for Tech.

Georgia Tech 64, Maryland 58 (OT)

Mar. 11, 1983

Freshmen Mark Price and John Salley combined for 31 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 64-58 overtime victory over Maryland in the opening round of the 1983 ACC Tournament in The Omni in Atlanta.

Price, who managed 15 points and eight rebounds, and Salley, who chipped in 16 points, combined to score 11 of Tech's 12 points in the overtime session as the Jackets captured their first-ever victory in the ACC Tournament.

Jan. 7, 1984

Petway's shot gave the Jackets their first lead since the red-haired forward had scored the game's first points. After Wake's Anthony Young missed the front end of a one-and-one with 1:05 left, Salley grabbed the rebound. Tech ran the clock down to 11 seconds before calling a timeout. Petway was supposed to get the ball to either Mark Price, who had 19 points and six assists, or Yvon Joseph, but when both were covered, Petway dribbled to the left baseline and drilled the shot.

Tech trailed 52-42 with 14:42 remaining but fought back to within two, 62-60, on Mark Price's 19-footer at 6:07, and baskets by Joseph tied the score at 64 with 2:50 left and then at 66 with 1:11 on the clock.

Georgia Tech 72, Virginia 71 (3 OT)

Jan. 23, 1984

Georgia Tech's John Salley hit a pair of free throws for a four-point lead with 59 seconds left in the third overtime and then the Yellow Jackets survived a three-point play by Rick Carlisle and a last-second missed shot by Othell Wilson for a 72-71 victory over 19th-ranked Virginia at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Tech scored eight straight points in the second half to take an eight-point lead with 12:37 left in regulation, but the Cavaliers responded with a 13-2 run to take a 46-45 lead with 6:36 to play. From there, the lead changed hands almost every possession until Tech, with the score tied at 51-51, held the ball for more than four minutes for the last shot. But Carlisle fouled Scott Petway with 10 seconds left and Petway missed the front end of the one-and-one. At the other end, Wilson and Jim Miller missed shots as time expired.

Fantastic Finishes

After the two teams failed to score in the first overtime, Tech fell behind by five in the second session, trailing 60-55 with 1:28 left. But the Jackets called timeout and then scored the next four times down the floor, including two free throws by Yvon Joseph with 10 seconds left to force the third overtime.

Bruce Dalrymple scored Tech's first basket of the third overtime, and his only field goal of the night, for a 65-63 lead the Jackets would not relinquish. After Petway fouled out, Anthony Byrd came off the bench to make four straight free throws, but his charging foul with 36 seconds left led to Wilson's final shot, which bounced off the back of the rim at the buzzer.

Georgia Tech 71, Maryland 70 (2 OT)

Feb. 4, 1984

John Salley completed a three-point play with eight seconds left in the second overtime to give Georgia Tech a three-point lead as the 18th-ranked Yellow Jackets knocked off No. 9 Maryland, 71-70, in double overtime at the Thrilledome.

After Maryland's Jeff Adkins tied the score at 68-68 with a pair of free throws with 1:23 left in the second overtime, Tech ran the clock down until Mark Price drove to the basket with about 14 seconds left. He found Salley alone under the basket, and Tech's 7-0 center put the ball off the glass and drew a foul from Herman Veal. After two Maryland timeouts, Salley hit the free throw, rendering meaningless a field goal by the Terps' Keith Gatlin with four seconds left.

Tech fell behind by as many as 11 points in the second half and trailed 62-55 after Veal's jumper with 6:01 left, but the Jackets held Maryland scoreless for the remainder of regulation and Anthony Byrd hit the tying basket with a foul line jumper with 1:57 left. Byrd again tied the score with a jumper with 1:06 left in the first overtime to force the second extra session.

Georgia Tech 66, NC State 64

Dec. 16, 1984

Mark Price's 20-foot jump shot with one second left gave 12th-ranked Georgia Tech a 66-64 victory over No. 9 NC State in the Rambling Wreck's first win at Raleigh since joining the ACC.

Tech fell behind by 13 points in the first half and did not lead until six minutes into the second half. The Jackets held State to just two points in the final four minutes, and with 24 seconds left and the score tied, Tech took the ball away as Yvon Joseph forced a jump ball with Ernie Myers to set up Price's heroics.

Tech trailed 29-16 with 6:42 remaining in the first half before scoring eight straight points in a 73-second span late in the half to pull within 37-30 at the intermission.

Georgia Tech 70, Maryland 69

Dec. 28, 1984

Mark Price hit a driving layup with three seconds left to give 10th-ranked Georgia Tech a 70-69 victory over Maryland and the championship of the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Maryland's Adrian Branch, who scored 27 points, had given the Terps a one-point lead with a 20-foot baseline jumper with 41 seconds to play and had another chance to be the hero in the closing seconds. After Price's shot went in, Maryland's Jeff Adkins tried to inbound the ball from midcourt to Len Bias with two seconds left, but Tech's Scott Petway deflected the pass. Branch grabbed the ball in mid-air and shot a desperation 25-footer than rimmed out.

March 8, 1986

Sophomore forward Duane Ferrell's steal, drive and dunk with just one second remaining gave Georgia Tech a dramatic, 64-62 win over Maryland and sent the Yellow Jackets into the finals of the ACC Tournament for the second straight year at the Greensboro Coliseum.

Tech had fought back from a 45-37 second half deficit to forge a tie at 62-all. But Tech's all-America guard Mark Price committed a turnover with five seconds remaining to give the ball to Maryland. But Ferrell stepped in and stole the inbounds pass at midcourt, then drove the length of the floor for the dunk and the win.

Georgia Tech 78, Georgia 77

Dec. 5, 1987

In one of the most dramatic endings of this classic rivalry, reserve forward Anthony Sherrod made the play of his career, scoring off a missed shot at the buzzer to give Georgia Tech a stunning 78-77 win over arch-rival Georgia at The Omni.

Georgia had come from 14 points down in the second half to take a 77-76 lead on a shot by Milt Blakely with seven seconds to play. Tech called time and Sherrod inbounded the ball to Dennis Scott, who had 23 points, at the far end of the floor for the final shot. Scott's shot, though, was off, but Sherrod, who had hustled the length of the floor, beat his man to the glass and the ball, putting the rebound shot through as the horn went off.

Georgia Tech 62, Louisville 61

Jan. 6, 1988

Tom Hammonds' 12-foot jumper gave Georgia Tech a one-point lead with seven seconds left and then the Yellow Jackets withstood a final shot by Louisville for a 62-61 victory at Freedom Hall.

Down 59-57, freshman Dennis Scott hit a three-pointer at 1:12 to the Jackets a one-point lead. Louisville answered 39 seconds later with a 12-foot jumper by Mike Abrams. After a timeout, Hammonds hit nothing but net from the right baseline. Louisville inbounded with seven seconds left and LaBradford Smith drove the length of the floor, but his shot from 16 feet bounced off the rim and fell away.

Georgia Tech 71, DePaul 70

Feb. 6, 1988

Freshman Dennis Scott stunned a national television audience and a capacity Thrilledome crowd with a dramatic three-point field goal at the buzzer to give the Jackets another miracle, 71-70, victory over nationally-ranked DePaul. Scott, who was just 3-for-13 prior to his 28-foot game-winner, had just missed a similar shot seconds before. But a DePaul player missed two free throw attempts, and when given a second opportunity, Scott's shot was true, giving Tech the win as the fans stormed the court.

Georgia Tech 76, North Carolina 74

Mar. 1, 1989

Sophomore Dennis Scott's reputation as a clutch shooter was crystallized as his three-point field goal with just two seconds remaining gave Georgia Tech a stunning, 76-74 upset of North Carolina at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

The game looked out of reach with Tech's Karl Brown at the line for two free throws and the Jackets trailing by three points. But Brown made both charity tosses and when UNC's Kevin Madden attempted to inbound the ball, Scott stole the pass from North Carolina's Scott Williams. Scott, who had a game-high 28 points, then turned and fired up a 23-foot three pointer which hit nothing but net for a 76-74 Tech victory.

Georgia Tech 93, Pittsburgh 92

Dec. 5, 1989

Dennis Scott poured in a career-high 42 points, including the game-winner as time expired to give Georgia Tech a 93-92 victory over Pitt in the ACC-Big East Challenge at Hartford, Conn. With Tech clinging to a one-point lead, Brian Oliver fouled Pitt's Jason Matthews, who made both free throws to put the Panthers ahead by one with nine seconds to play. Tech called timeout with six seconds left to set up a play for Scott, who was scoreless in the final four minutes until his game-winning shot, a leaning, left-hander from about eight feet.

Pitt used a 21-0 run to open a 26-5 lead in the first half, but Tech fought back, closing to within eight points at the half. The Jackets took their first lead at 83-81 with 6:01 left, spurred by three three-pointers by Scott.

Georgia Tech 81, Michigan St. 80 (OT)

Mar. 23, 1990

Kenny Anderson's controversial 20-foot jumper at the buzzer tied the game and Dennis Scott hit the game winner with a 12-foot hook shot with seven seconds remaining in overtime as Georgia Tech knocked off top-seeded Michigan State, 81-80, in the Southeast Regional Semifinal in New Orleans.

With the Spartans leading 75-73, Steve Smith missed the front end of a one-and-one with five seconds left, and Anderson, who had 31 points, took the rebound and raced down the court. The basket was originally called a three, but his foot was just inside the three-point line at the top of the key, forcing the overtime. Scott scored 18 points for Tech, while Smith led all scorers with 32 points.

Georgia Tech 112, Georgia 105 (3 OT)

Dec. 19, 1990

In a game many believe to be the greatest in Georgia Tech history, the Yellow Jackets used a 40-point outing by sophomore guard Kenny Anderson to overcome foul trouble and arch-rival Georgia for a thrilling 112-105, triple overtime victory at The Omni.

Anderson, who tied the game with a shot at the buzzer at the end of the second overtime, netted eight points in the third extra session to lead the Jackets to the win. But Tech, which lost starters Jon Barry, Malcolm Mackey and Bryan Hill to foul trouble, turned to clutch performances from a pair of little-used reserves in guard Brian Domalik and center James Munlyn.

Domalik's three-pointer at the buzzer in the first overtime tied the score at 90-all, while Munlyn scored five points and grabbed five rebounds in the final two OT sessions to lead the Jackets to the emotional victory.

Georgia Tech 88, North Carolina 86

Jan. 27, 1991

Georgia Tech's Malcolm Mackey completed a three-point play with three seconds left for an 88-86 victory at seventh-ranked North Carolina, capping a 16-point, second-half rally by the Yellow Jackets.

With star point guard Kenny Anderson double-teamed, Bryan Hill took the ball with 11 seconds left, drove the length of the floor and into the lane, where he dishd to Mackey for the winning basket. UNC's Rick Fox drove the baseline for an apparent game-tying layup at the buzzer, but the shot was ruled late.

Tech trailed by 16 points when Jon Barry's three-pointer cut the deficit to 56-43 with 16:45 left. Barry hit another trey four minutes later at 12:44 to give the Jackets a 60-59 lead. Hill followed with a dunk to complete Tech's 22-3 run.

Georgia Tech 67, Maryland 65

Feb. 9, 1992

With Georgia Tech and Maryland tied at 65 and just 0.2 seconds on the clock, freshman James Forrest caught an inbounds pass from under the Tech basket and swished the game-winning shot for the 67-65 victory at College Park.

Maryland's Walt Williams tied the score at 65 with a pair of free throws, and Tech, which had trailed by seven points at the five minute mark, took possession with less than 45 seconds to play. After a Tech timeout with 10.8 seconds left, Forrest's shot was swatted out of bounds by Williams, leaving 0:00.2 seconds on the clock. Jon Barry inbounded the ball to Forrest, who leaped in the air from near the foul line, caught the ball and sank a 12-footer at the buzzer.

Georgia Tech 79, Southern Cal 78

Mar. 21, 1992

In a game nicknamed the "Miracle in Milwaukee," freshman forward James Forrest made a miraculous 25-foot three-pointer at the buzzer to give Georgia Tech a stunning 79-78 victory over Southern Cal in the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional at the Bradley Center in Milwaukee, Wis.

USC had overcome an early 12-point Tech lead in this one to take a 39-38 advantage at the half. The Trojans held the lead throughout the second half, but the Jackets, behind guard Jon Barry who had 20 points, Travis Best (16) and Malcolm Mackey (16), tied the game at 76-all.

After USC's Rodney Chatman hit a six-foot jumper with 2.2 seconds remaining for a 78-76 advantage, Barry had the ball knocked out of bounds near midcourt by a USC player with just eight tenths of a second remaining. But on the inbounds pass, Tech's Matt Geiger barely found Forrest open, and the Atlanta freshman let fly with a 25-foot heave that swished through the net, advancing Tech to the Midwest Regional semifinals in Kansas City.

Sophomore James Forrest sank another miracle shot by connecting for a three-pointer at the buzzer to give the Yellow Jackets a thrilling 87-85 victory over Louisville in the first basketball game played in the Georgia Dome before 28,885 fans, the largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game in the state of Georgia.

Forrest, who led all scorers with 27 points, negated a Cardinal comeback that had seen Louisville grab the advantage-only its second lead of the second half-on a pair of free throws by Greg Minor with 2.7 seconds remaining. Tech's Malcolm Mackey inbounded to Bryan Hill at midcourt, where he called timeout with 1.9 seconds left. The intended shooter, freshman Martice Moore, was denied, but Hill found Forrest at the top of the key. Forrest turned and fired from 23 feet as Minor flew at him.

Georgia Tech 71, St. John's 69

Dec. 29, 1993

Center Ivano Newbill's layup with just 3.6 seconds left barely beat the shot clock and gave Georgia Tech a 71-69 victory over St. John's and the championship of the ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

With the shot clock winding down and the ball in the hands of Tech point guard Travis Best, St. John's center Shawnelle Scott went to the three-point arc to prevent a shot by Best, who then found Newbill alone under the basket for the game-winner.

Stephon Marbury hit a 12-foot turnaround jumper in the lane with 12 seconds left in overtime for the winning basket in Georgia Tech's 73-71 victory over Duke at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Duke's Ricky Price sent the game into overtime with a three-pointer at the end of regulation, capping a 12-5 run by the Blue Devils.

Dec. 3, 1996

A three-pointer by Matt Harpring, followed by two more treys by Michael Maddox ignited a 14-point spurt as Georgia Tech rallied from 11 points down in the final four minutes for a 62-61 victory over Georgia in the Bulldogs' first visit to Alexander Memorial Coliseum since 1980.

Trailing 59-48, Tech began its run with a steal by Jon Babul and a hard foul on Kevin Morris by Georgia's Derrick Dukes on the ensuing fast break, inciting the crowd. Morris hit both free throws to pull Tech within eight with four minutes to go.

Harpring nailed his trey at 3:41. Back-to-back three-pointers by Maddox followed, the second of which put Tech ahead, 60-59, with 2:27 to play. Maddox, who had a career high 18 points, knocked away a pass by Georgia's Jon Nordin, leading to a pair of Harpring free throws and a three-point lead with 2:05 left. Georgia's G.G. Smith hit two free throws to cut the Jackets' advantage to one, and after a Tech turnover, the Bulldogs had the ball back with just over a minute to play but never managed to get a shot off.

Georgia Tech 84, Georgia 79 (OT)

Dec. 13, 1998

Jason Collier had 22 points, 11 rebounds and five blocked shots as the Yellow Jackets rallied from a 15-point second-half deficit for an 84-79 overtime victory over arch-rival Georgia at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Georgia built a 65-50 advantage with 10:33 left in the second half, but would not score another field goal in regulation. Tech still trailed 72-65 when Collier hit a three-pointer to cut the deficit to four points with 1:40 to play. Then Tony Akins stole the ball and fed Collier for a layup that made the score 72-70. On Tech's next possession, Akins pounced on a loose ball and was fouled, and his free throws tied the game with 34.6 seconds left. Georgia had a shot to tie, but G.G. Smith's final shot was blocked by Collier.

Collier scored the first basket of overtime to give the Jackets their first lead since 9-7. Akins added a field goal and four free throws to help seal the win. Tech hit 12 of its last 14 shots from the field, including all four in overtime.

DOG-EAT-DAWG

AFTER THE TEAMS PLAYED 14 STRAIGHT YEARS AT THE OMNI, TECH AND GEORGIA MOVED THEIR SERIES BACK TO THE CAMPUSES IN 1995. THE FIRST TWO MEETINGS AT ALEXANDER MEMORIAL COLISEUM SAW THE YELLOW JACKETS RALLY FROM DOUBLE-DIGIT DEFICITS IN THE SECOND HALF TO WIN. IN 1996, MATT HARPRING AND MICHAEL MADDOX LED A THREE-POINT FLURRY TO BRING THE JACKETS BACK FROM 11 POINTS DOWN TO WIN 62-61 (LEFT PHOTO). IN 1998, JASON COLLIER HAD 22 POINTS, 11 REBOUNDS AND FIVE BLOCKS IN HIS TECH DEBUT AS THE JACKETS RALLIED FROM 15 POINTS BEHIND TO DEFEAT GEORGIA IN OT.

Georgia Tech 111, Florida State 108 (2 OT)

Feb. 11, 1999

Georgia Tech's front line of Jason Collier and Alvin Jones combined for 58 points, 27 rebounds and five blocked shots as the Yellow Jackets outlasted Florida State, 111-108, in double overtime at Tallahassee, Fla. Collier had a career-high 30 points and 10 rebounds, while Jones went 10-for-12 from the field for a career-best 28 points, including 10 points in overtime, along with 17 rebounds. After FSU's Adrian Crawford sent the game into overtime with a running jumper with 4.6 seconds left, Jason Floyd rescued the Jackets with a three-pointer with 32.9 seconds left in the first overtime. The Seminoles, who had five players foul out, nearly forced another overtime, but Crawford's three-point attempt at the buzzer rolled off the rim. With 111 points, Tech set a school record for points in an ACC game and recorded its highest point total since the 1994-95 season. The combined 219 points was the highest score in an ACC game since Duke beat Maryland, 114-110, in overtime in 1990.

Dec. 9, 2000

Shaun Fein's 10-footer off the left baseline with 1.3 seconds remaining gave Georgia Tech an 86-84 victory over Kentucky in the Delta Air Lines Classic at Philips Arena. Fein's basket, Tech's first since the 7:03 mark, came after the Yellow Jackets had squandered an 83-70 lead in the final 6:03. Kentucky had a 14-0 run to erase the deficit, taking an 84-83 lead on Tayshaun Prince's layup with 1:04 to play. Tech took a timeout with 23 seconds left to set up the game-winning play, on which Fein took a pass in the corner, faked a three-pointer, dribbled and shot.

Fantastic Finishes

Georgia Tech 82, Virginia 80

Feb. 23, 2002

Marvin Lewis got free at the top of the key for the Yellow Jackets' 15th 3-pointer of the game and sank it with a second to go. Virginia missed four consecutive free throws in the last minute when one would likely have been enough, allowing the Jackets to rally from an 80-74 deficit. B.J. Elder hit a 3-pointer with 45 seconds left for the Yellow Jackets to start the comeback. On the final play, Tony Akins dribbled the ball to kill most of the time, then got it to Lewis off a screen at the top of the key, and he nailed it from 23 feet.

Feb. 9, 2003

Freshman point guard Jarrett Jack scored a career-high 20 points, banking in a crucial three-point basket with 39 seconds left after Maryland had crept to within two points. Tech never trailed after going on a 14-0 tear in the first half, leading by as many as 13 points in the game. But the Terrapins chipped away and closed to 82-80 on a three-pointer by Drew Nicholas with 1:12 remaining in the game. With the shot clock running down on Tech's ensuing possession, Jack banked in his three from straightaway to give the Jackets breathing room, then added three free throws to seal the victory.

Georgia Tech 79, Iowa 78

Mar. 24, 2003

With 6.2 seconds remaining, B.J. Elder took an inbounds pass, drove the lane and scored the winning basket over Brody Boyd with under one second showing on the clock, lifting Tech to a second-round victory in the National Invitation Tournament at Iowa City. Tech led by as many as 18 points in the first half and led by seven at the half. But that lead quickly disappeared in the second half when Iowa shot 65.2 percent to lead by four with 4:50 to go.

Georgia Tech 83, North Carolina 82

Mar. 12, 2004

Jarrett Jack hit a game-winning 15-footer with 1.4 seconds to play to save the Yellow Jackets after they had blown an 11-point lead over the final 8:15. Tech trailed 82-81 after Sean May made one of two free throws to put the Tar Heels up with 9.8 seconds left. After a pair of timeouts, Jack inbounded the ball to Marvin Lewis and then scrambled for position on the court. He ended up all alone at the top of the key, where Lewis found him with a crisp pass that Jack fired through the net for the game-winner.

Georgia Tech 67, Oklahoma State 65

Apr. 3, 2004

Will Bynum, who had made game-winning baskets in Tech's two previous NCAA Tournament wins, sent the Yellow Jackets into the national championship game by shaking loose for a layup with 1.5 seconds left to beat Oklahoma State 67-65. Tech led most of the game before John Lucas capped a furious comeback with a 3-pointer that tied it at 65 with 26.3 seconds left. After Lucas' tying shot, the Jackets called timeout. They worked the ball around to Bynum, who drove down the right side of the lane, double-clutched and banked home the winner over the outstretched arms of Ivan McFarlin.

Georgia Tech 102, Wake Forest 101

Jan. 27, 2005

Jarrett Jack came through with two free throws with 4.4 seconds left in overtime to lead the Yellow Jackets over fifth-ranked Wake Forest. Jack had earlier missed two free throws in overtime and had a critical turnover that allowed the Deacons to tie the game in regulation. Wake Forest got the last shot, but Chris Paul missed at the buzzer. Paul had a similar chance at the end of regulation, but that attempt also fell short. Will Bynum scored a career-high 30 points, making five three-point field goals and 11 of 12 free throws.

INSTANT CLASSICS

> Georgia Tech won the only meeting between the two teams last year, a 73-68 decision Atlanta, after the Eagles had swept the regular-season series in 2008-09.

> Ten of the games in the short series have been decided by less than 10 points, seven of them by four points or less, and two by overtime.

> The teams split two meetings in 2005-06, each team winning at home in BC's first season in the ACC, and Tech won single meetings in 2006-07 and 2007-08.

> The four meetings in Boston have been played at three different venues. The Jan. 29, 2005 game was Tech's first visit to the Conte Forum, BC's current home court. The first game in the series on Dec. 31, 1946, was played at Boston Arena, and the teams also played in the Boston Garden on Jan. 19, 1980.

> Prior to the 2005-06 season, the teams met four times on neutral floors, including one outside the United States, a 65-62 overtime win for the Yellow Jackets in the 1986 Suntory Ball in Tokyo, Japan.

> The teams have met twice in NCAA Tournament competition, both of them won by Tech. The Yellow Jackets downed the Eagles, 103-89, in the 1996 Southeast Regional second round in Orlando, and eliminated the Eagles two seasons ago, 57-54 in the second round in Milwaukee.

> This is the oldest and longest-running series the Yellow Jackets have with an ACC member. The 116 all-time meetings are 31 more than Tech has played with any other ACC member. The series dates back to the 1912-13 season, when John Heisman coached the Tech basketball team.

> Clemson is one of two permanent home-and-away opponents on Tech's schedule each year (Wake Forest is the other) since the ACC expanded to 12 schools.

> Clemson has won seven of the last 10 meetings in the series, and the Yellow Jackets trail 34-31 to the Tigers since joining the ACC. The teams split their regular season series in 2009-10.

> Tech and Clemson have split their season series 20 times since the 1982-83 season, and there has been a home-team victory split 16 times. The home team has won 37 of the last 49 meetings.

> The Jackets have swept the season series from the Tigers three times under Paul Hewitt. Clemson has swept Tech twice in that time, and has done so only three times since the 1982-83 season.

> The Yellow Jackets have won 12 of the 21 games between the two teams since Paul Hewitt became Tech's head coach, with a 7-3 record at home and a 4-6 mark at Clemson. Clemson head coach Oliver Purnell is 7-8 vs. Tech.

> Tech has an all-time record of 41-19 against the Tigers at home, including 27-13 record at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. The Jackets have won 21 of 27 against the Tigers at home since 1983.

> Tech is just 15-37 all-time in games played at Clemson, including an 8-30 mark in Littlejohn Coliseum. The Yellow Jackets have lost the last five games at Littlejohn.

> Tech's 111-108 win against the Tigers at Littlejohn Coliseum on Jan. 24, 2001 is the highest scoring regulation game Tech has had with any ACC opponent. The Jackets defeated Florida State by the same score in Tallahassee (in two OTs) on Feb. 11, 1999, and lost to Wake Forest in the 2007 ACC Tournament, 114-112 in double-overtime.

> The Yellow Jackets have won all three ACC Tournament meetings with the Tigers, including a 69-61 semifinal decision on the way to the 1993 conference title in Charlotte.

> Duke has won 26 of the last 29 games in the series. The teams split their regular season series in 2009-10, Tech winning 71-67 in Atlanta and Duke capturing an 86-67 win in Durham. The Blue Devils won the rubber match in the ACC Tournament finals.

> Duke has won 11 of the last 13 meetings at Alexander Memorial Coliseum and has a 21-13 lead over Tech in games played in the Jackets' home court, as well as a 25-16 mark in games played in Atlanta.

> Duke leads the overall series 63-23, and is 50-19 against Tech since the Jackets joined the ACC.

> Tech's best stretch of the series occurred between 1982 and 1989, with 10 wins in 17 meetings. Tech has never won more than two in a row.

> Tech is 19-49 against Duke teams coached by Mike Krzyzewski, 12-17 in games played in Atlanta. Paul Hewitt is 3-18 vs. Duke.

> Tech has won just five of 35 games played at Cameron Indoor Stadium, the first four coming in (1959, 1984, 1987 and 1996). Tech's most recent win occurred on Mar. 3, 2004 in a 76-68 victory, which snapped a 41-game homecourt winning streak for the Blue Devils.

> Tech is 3-7 against the Blue Devils in ACC Tournament encounters. Tech defeated Duke on the way to each of its three tournament titles, including semifinal victories in 1985 and 1990 and a first-round triumph in 1993. The Blue Devils have defeated Tech three times in championship games (1986, 2005, 2010).

Series History vs. All Opponents

> In those 37 games, 19 have been decided by four points or less, 27 by 10 points or less. One of those games went to double-overtime, which the Yellow Jackets won 111-108 on Feb. 11, 1999 in Tallahassee.

> Tech is 9-9 against FSU with Paul Hewitt as its head coach, and is 6-8 against Seminoles teams led by head coach Leonard Hamilton. Tech is 7-87 against Hamilton overall, with a victory over his Miami team in December of 1997.

> Tech is 10-18 in games played in Tallahassee, including a 7-11 mark at the Donald L. Tucker Civic Center, formerly known as the Tallahassee-Leon County Civic Center.

> Tech is 16-14 against the Seminoles in Atlanta, all but one of those games at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

> Tech and Florida State were both members of the old Metro Conference from 1976-78, and the Seminoles won three of those four meetings.

> Florida State has won both ACC Tournament meetings between the schools, including a 64-62 win at the Georgia Dome in 2009.

> Georgia Tech won its 100th game in the series with Georgia, which began in 1906, with a 78-69 win over the Bulldogs on Dec. 22, 2006 at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Tech leads 101-85 and has played the Bulldogs more than any other opponent in its basketball history.

> The series has been played alternately on the respective schools' campus since the 1995-96 season, and the Bulldogs have won eight of those 14 games. Tech has won the last four meetings at home, and six of the last seven games played at Alexander Memorial Coliseum since the series moved back to campuses. The home team has won all but one of the 13 meetings, the exception being Georgia's 75-70 win at Alexander Memorial Coliseum on Dec. 6, 2000.

> Tech last won in Athens on Nov. 26, 1976 (64-43), and has lost 12 straight games in Stegeman Coliseum, including a 79-72 loss last January.

> Before the December, 1995 meeting in Athens, the teams played 14 straight years at the Omni in downtown Atlanta, which was located on the site of the current Philips Arena. Tech went 8-6 against the Bulldogs in the facility, including eight of the last 10 before the neutral series ended. The teams have played on neutral sites other than the SEC or Southern Intercollegiate Championships only one other time, that coming at the 1960 Gator Bowl Tournament in Jacksonville, Fla.

> Twelve of the last 26 meetings have been decided by five points or fewer, or gone to overtime, 20 by 10 points or less. Three games have gone to overtime, one to three overtimes and one to two.

> Georgia Tech snapped a nine-game losing streak in the series with its 69-64 win over the Terrapins in the 2010 ACC Tournament, Maryland had won nine in a row in the series to pull ahead of Georgia Tech all-time.

> Still, Tech's 34-33 record against Maryland since 1979-80 is its best mark against any ACC team since the Jackets joined the league.

> Tech is 5-13 against Maryland under head coach Paul Hewitt, 18 at College Park. Tech is 17-25 vs. Gary Williams-coached Maryland teams.

> Twelve of the 18 games between Tech and Maryland since Paul Hewitt became the head coach have been decided by 10 points or fewer.

> Tech is 17-10 against Maryland in Alexander Memorial Coliseum, 19-10 in games played in Atlanta. The Terps have won their last three games at the Thrillerdome, however, are 11-6 against Tech on its home court under Gary Williams, and are 4-3 in the building against Paul Hewitt-coached Tech teams.

> Percentage wise and in terms of the number of wins, Tech's 11-23 road record vs. Maryland is the second-best it has against any team in the ACC. The Jackets are 1-6 in the Comcast Center, and were 10-17 at Cole Field House.

> Maryland won the first nine games of the series, but Tech turned the tables under head coach Bobby Cremins, winning 28 of 35 meetings (including 10 in a row at one point) through the 1995-96 season. The Terps won the next seven in a row before Cremins' last Tech Jacket team won 69-68 at home on Jan. 15, 2000.

> Tech is 4-4 in ACC Tournament meetings with Maryland. The Terrapins were Tech's first-ever ACC Tournament opponent, a 51-49 overtime win in the 1980 first round in Greensboro. Maryland also was Tech's first ACC Tournament victim, in 1983 at the Omni by a 64-58 score.

> North Carolina has an overwhelming 60-23 lead in the all-time series between the two teams, and a 46-21 advantage since Tech joined the ACC. The Tar Heels have won 20 of the last 29 meetings, but Tech swept the regular-season series in 2010 for the first time since 1996, and added an ACC Tournament victory to make it three wins over North Carolina for the first time since 1985.

> The teams have played 34 times in the city of Atlanta, but only 22 times at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, where the Tar Heels hold an 12-10 lead. Tech has won five of the last six meetings in the Thrillerdome, however, and is 5-2 against UNC in the Coliseum under Paul Hewitt. The top-ranked Tar Heels' 83-82 win during the 2007-08 season was head coach Roy Williams' first win at the Thrillerdome.

> Between 1982 and 1996, the Yellow Jackets played eight of their home games with the Tar Heels at the old Omni arena in downtown Atlanta (2-6 record). Counting ACC and SIC Tournament games played in the city, Tech is 13-21 vs. North Carolina in Atlanta.

> Tech is 9-11 against UNC under Paul Hewitt, but 8-3 in games played away from Chapel Hill, including three ACC Tournament wins. The Jackets are 7-6 against the Tar Heels under Roy Williams, and 7-7 against Williams all-time.

> Tech's win in Chapel Hill in January of 2010 snapped a streak nine straight losses in the Smith Center. Counting regular-season games in Greensboro, Tech is 5-25 on the road against UNC. Tech is 5-17 in the Smith Center.

> In ACC Tournament play, the Yellow Jackets have won five of nine meetings, and Tech has won the last three encounters (2004, 2005, 2010). Two of Tech's five tournament wins occurred in championship games, the 1985 final in Atlanta and the 1993 final in Charlotte.

> Tech's greatest success in its series with North Carolina occurred during the middle 1990s when the Jackets won five of seven meetings, including three straight wins over No. 1-ranked Tar Heel teams during the 1993 and 1994 campaigns.

Under Paul Hewitt: 8-11

> NC State leads the overall series with Georgia Tech, 50-36. The Yellow Jackets won the only regular-season meeting between the two teams in 2009-10 and captured an ACC Tournament meeting against the Wolfpack.

> The Wolfpack have still won nine of the last 14 and 19 of the last 27 meetings in the series.

> Twelve of the last 13 meetings in the series have been decided by 10 points or less.

> Tech is 22-14 against the Wolfpack in Atlanta, including one home-court meeting that was played at the Omni in 1986.

> Tech is 8-11 against NC State under head coach Paul Hewitt, and is 4-2 against Wolfpack coach Sidney Lowe.

> Since i joined the ACC, Tech is 28-37 against NC State, including regular-season and tournament.

> Tech's 77-74 win in 2008 was the 'Yellow Jackets' only at NC State's RBC Center in nine tries. Tech had lost 10 straight games to the Wolfpack on their home court, dating back to Jan. 24, 1996, and has lost 11 of the last 12. The Jackets are 8-28 against NC State in Raleigh, including a 7-18 mark in Reynolds Coliseum, the former homecourt of the Wolfpack.

> Tech is 3-3 against NC State in ACC Tournament games, the last meeting occurring in 2003 in a 71-65 Wolfpack victory in Greensboro. The Jackets won first-round games in 1996 in Greensboro (88-73) and 1990 in Charlotte (76-67).

> Georgia Tech has won eight of the last 13, 12 of the last 18, and 19 of the last 27 meetings with Virginia. But Virginia has won the last two, including an 82-75 win in Charlottesville last season.

> Since Tech joined the ACC, the Yellow Jackets are 36-30 against Virginia.

> Tech has four wins in its last seven trips to Charlottesville, including a 1-2 mark at John Paul Jones Arena. The Yellow Jackets were 10-16 against Virginia at University Hall, the Cavaliers' former homecourt. Tech's best winning percentage on an ACC foe's home court.

> Tech is 11-6 against Virginia under Paul Hewitt, including wins in all three meetings in Hewitt's first season of 2000-01.

> Tech and Virginia have played to overtime seven times since the 1983-84 season, including a 72-71 triple-overtime win for Tech in Atlanta on Jan. 23, 1984, and an 88-85 double-overtime triumph for Virginia in Charlottesville on Jan. 22, 1995.

> The Jackets have won 10 of the last 13 meetings between the two teams in Alexander Memorial Coliseum, but lost the most recent game, 88-84 in overtime on Dec. 28, 2008. Overall, Tech is 21-7 against the Cavaliers in Alexander Memorial Coliseum, 22-9 on all home courts and 24-10 in games played in the city of Atlanta.

> In the ACC Tournament, Tech has won five of nine games, including a 70-61 Jacket victory in the 1990 final in Charlotte.

> Virginia Tech has won 10 of 13 all-time meetings with Georgia Tech, including six of eight as a member of the ACC. The Hokies won the first three games played in Atlanta before the Yellow Jackets captured an 81-70 decision on Jan. 19, 2008.

> Georgia Tech won the teams' only ACC Tournament encounter, a 73-54 victory in the first round of the 2005 tournament in Washington, D.C. Georgia Tech went on to reach the tournament finals.

> Georgia Tech has lost all five previous meetings with Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, including a 76-71 in 2009. The Hokies, led by future NBA star Dell Curry, held off the Jackets and their future All-Americans Mark Price and John Salley, 77-74, in the teams' first meeting at Cassell Coliseum in 1984. It was Georgia Tech's first post-season game in 13 years and a precursor to the ACC Championship season a year later.

> Georgia Tech's first victory over Virginia Tech occurred on Dec. 27, 1962, a 73-72 overtime triumph at the Gator Bowl Tournament that was part of an 11-0 start for the Yellow Jackets. Tech went on to finish the season 21-5. Both teams were ranked in the UPI poll at the time, Georgia Tech at No. 18, Virginia Tech at No. 14.

> Both teams were members of the old Metro Conference, but not at the same time. Georgia Tech was a member for three seasons from 1975-76 through 1977-78 before leaving to join the ACC. Virginia Tech joined the league for the 1978-79 season.

> The Yellow Jackets have won four of the last six meetings, including a split of the 2009-10 regular-season series. Tech won a 79-58 decision in Atlanta, the highest margin of victory for Tech in the history of the series. Tech now trails the overall series, 36-33.

> Tech is 23-9 in games played at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, winning each of the last six meetings.

> The home team has won 28 of the last 36 regular-season games in the series, with Wake Forest winning four times in Atlanta during that span, and Tech winning four times in Winston-Salem.

> Tech has lost 10 of the last 12 meetings at the Joel Coliseum, and is just 5-16 in the building. Tech is 9-23 against Wake Forest on the road, including a 2-3 mark in regular-season games played in Greensboro and a 2-4 mark in games played in Winston-Salem prior to the opening of Joel Coliseum.

> Tech is 30-25 against Wake Forest since 1985, including 12 straight victories from 1985-91.

> Tech is 10-12 against Wake Forest under head coach Paul Hewitt, and 12 of the 22 meetings have been decided by fewer than 10 points (four in overtime).

> Tech is 10-16 against Wake Forest when the Demon Deacons are ranked in the top 25, 12-9 when the Yellow Jackets are in the Top 25, and 3-5 when both teams are ranked.

> Wake Forest has won all four of its meetings with Georgia Tech in the ACC Tournament, including a 75-74 triumph in the 1996 championship game in Greensboro. Wake Forest took the 2007 first round meeting, winning 114-112 in double-overtime, the highest-scoring game in ACC Tournament history and the highest-scoring game for Tech involving and ACC opponent in its history.

ACC Champions • 1985

MARCH 8-10 • ATLANTA, GA.

- Georgia Tech 55, Virginia 48
- Georgia Tech 75, Duke 64
- Georgia Tech 57, North Carolina 54

Georgia Tech, the perennial conference also-ran, accomplished this feat nearly unmatched in ACC history. Inheriting a 4-23 team, Bobby Cremins took a winless ACC squad and transformed it into a first place team within a four-year span.

Nationally, the Jackets (27-8 overall) reached new heights, climbing to their highest ranking ever (5th place tie with Oklahoma-UIP). In all, the Rambling Wreck beat 13 teams that were ranked in the nation's Top 20 at the time of their defeat.

The playing cast for Georgia Tech had limited numbers. So limited that Furman Bisher of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution labeled Tech "The Thin Gold Line." By ACC tournament time, with a knee injury to Ferrell, it was a "Thin Gold Thread." The starting lineup throughout the season was Mark Price and Bruce Dalrymple at guards, Yvon Joseph in the middle and John Salley and Duane Ferrell at the forwards.

The top reserves were senior Scott Petway, who started the final six games for the injured Ferrell, and 7-0 freshman center Antoine Ford.

A deadly outside shooter, Price gave Tech more than just points. Dishing out the ball from his point guard spot, he was largely responsible for Tech's five starters averaging in double figures almost the entire season.

While Dalrymple was listed as a guard, that didn't limit him from mixing it up underneath. A former ACC Rookie-of-the-Year, he was the ultimate triple threat with his scoring, rebounding and passing, and drew the tough backcourt defensive assignments.

Joseph, a 6-11 center from Haiti, provided Tech the muscle in the middle while teaming up with Salley. Ferrell was an instant starter at the small forward position, but he saw limited duty at the end of the season because of strained knee ligaments.

In his place, Petway, a 6-6 forward, gave Tech consistent play as a solid complementary player. He was not called upon to score much and usually aided Tech with his ballhandling, passing and defense.

Tech dropped two of three ACC contests down the stretch, which turned the league race topsy-turvy. In its final league game, Tech rallied to beat North Carolina in the Omni. The victory gave Tech a share of first place with UNC and NC State. In a drawing by the ACC office, the Jackets received top seeding in the tournament.

Price earned MVP honors at the tournament by scoring 50 points in three games, including 20-of-20 from the foul line. Dalrymple was as defensive demon and contributed 43 points and was a choice by many as the tournament MVP.

Against the Tar Heels, Tech trailed the entire game, falling behind by eight points with 14:44 to play before beginning their comeback. The Jackets managed their first lead with just 52 seconds left on a free throw by Yvon Joseph and then held on for a 57-54 win. Price had 24 points against Duke and 16 in the comeback win over UNC.

Tech had never won more than one game in its NCAA tournament history, but the Jackets proceeded to reel off victories over Mercer, Syracuse, and Illinois before earning a date with a top-ranked Georgetown. Tech lost to the Hoyas by six points in the regional final and concluded the record-breaking year.

ACC Champions • 1990

MARCH 9-11 • CHARLOTTE, N.C.

- Georgia Tech 76, NC State 67
- Georgia Tech 83, Duke 72
- Georgia Tech 70, Virginia 61

The “Lethal Weapon 3” trio of Dennis Scott, Kenny Anderson and Brian Oliver carried third-seeded Tech to the title with wins over NC State, Duke and Virginia. Oliver averaged 23.3 points, including 31 in the semis, to claim Most Valuable Player honors. The title sent Tech into the NCAA Tournament on a high note, and the Jackets went on to earn their first trip to the Final Four.

In the quarterfinals, Tech rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit to score a 76-67 win over the Wolfpack. The Jackets again found themselves trailing at the intermission against a nationally-ranked Duke team that would join Tech in the Final Four, but Oliver and Scott, who also had 31 points, led the second-half assault in the 83-72 win. In the title game, Oliver aggravated an injured ankle but still provided the spark down the stretch in Tech’s 70-61 win over the Cavaliers.

Then for the first time in school history, Tech reached the promised land of the “Final Four,” capturing the Southeast Regional with thrilling wins over Michigan State (81-80 in OT) and Minnesota (93-91).

Against the Spartans, Kenny Anderson hit a game-tying jumper dangerously close to the buzzer to send the game into overtime. Dennis Scott hit the actual game-winner, a leaning one-hander with seven seconds left.

There was no doubt in the Minnesota game as the trio of Anderson, Scott and Oliver combined for 89 of 93 points for the victory to send the Jackets to the Final Four. After the game, Cremins said, “This is the best team I’ve ever coached.”

In Denver, the Jackets lost to eventual national champion UNLV in the semifinals to end a dream season with a 28-7 record, the most wins in school history.

Oliver became the first player in Georgia Tech history and only the third ACC player ever to compile 1,500 points, 500 rebounds and 500 assists in his career. For the second year in a row, he led the ACC in rebounding among guards. Beyond statistical input, Oliver was truly the backbone of this 20-win team.

Scott’s creative offensive skills blossomed after his summer training regimen took 20 pounds off of this frame. His ability to score inside the lane or outside the three-point line made him one of the nation’s top 10 scorers. He climbed over the 2,000-point mark in his career and moved into third place on Tech’s all-time scoring list.

Anderson lived up to all the expectations of a highly-touted recruit, and more. He won the ACC Rookie-of-the-Week award an unprecedented 10 times during the season. He recorded a “triple-double” and six near-misses while ranking No.1 in the league in assists and No. 5 in scoring.

Together, they became Georgia Tech’s “Lethal Weapon 3,” a potent combination of scoring, rebounding and passing abilities. Tech’s fastbreak attack was off and running behind this trio, but the Jackets became more than a three-on-three game. The under-rated frontline of Johnny McNeil and Malcolm Mackey developed into a tough combo while super-sub Karl Brown found his role as a defensive stopper.

The Jackets mixed this formula to perfection in the ACC Tournament and its NCAA Tournament run.

ACC Champions • 1993

MARCH 12-14 • CHARLOTTE, N.C.

- Georgia Tech 69, Duke 66
- Georgia Tech 69, Clemson 61
- Georgia Tech 77, North Carolina 75

Like a fighter that gets knocked down but not out, Georgia Tech bounced off the canvas with a vengeance and delivered a knockout punch to the rest of the Atlantic Coast Conference, capturing its third conference title in nine years.

Led by the amazing play of sophomore forward James Forrest, Georgia Tech stunned the ACC by becoming only the fourth sixth seed ever to win the conference tournament. To do so, the Yellow Jackets had to knock off eighth-ranked Duke in the quarterfinals, 69-66; a stubborn Clemson team in the semis, 69-61; and then No. 1 North Carolina in the finals, 77-75.

Forrest averaged 26.7 points and 7.0 rebounds and hit 69 percent of his shots to claim the Everett Case Award as the tourney MVP. He poured in 27 points against Duke, 26 versus Clemson and 27 against UNC, the first player to top 20 points in three consecutive tournament games since Virginia's Wally Walker in 1976.

The Jackets also got a boost from their backcourt tandem of sophomore Travis Best and freshman Drew Barry. Barry broke the tournament assist record with 27 handouts, earning him a spot on the all-tournament first team, while Best struggled with his shooting but handled and distributed the ball well enough to make the second team.

In addition to playing on ACC championship teams in 1990 and 1993, senior Malcolm Mackey broke the Tech career rebounding record early in the season and climbed to eighth in ACC history with a career total of 1,205 boards, along with 1,734 points. The 6-11 center averaged 15.6 points and 10.2 rebounds per game and notched 16 double-doubles on the season.

A pair of freshmen rounded out the Tech starting five in Barry, who joined the lineup midway through the season and provided a spark with his ball-handling and three-point shooting, and swingman Martice Moore, the 1993 ACC Rookie of the Year. After averaging 10.5 points, 4.6 rebounds and 2.1 assists per game, Moore became the seventh Yellow Jacket in the last 11 years to be named the league's top freshman.

Thanks to that stunning victory in the ACC Tournament, the Yellow Jackets entered their ninth consecutive NCAA Tournament in fine fashion, having won seven of nine games. In doing so, Tech transformed itself from a team that many thought was in danger of missing the 64-team field to the fourth seed in the West Region in Tucson, Ariz.

Unfortunately for the Jackets, the roller coaster ride ended on a downward note as Tech was upset by the surprising Southern University, 93-78, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Despite the finish, the Rambling Wreck finished with a 19-11 record while facing the nation's fifth toughest schedule, according to the Sagarin Index.

In addition to earning the school's ninth consecutive NCAA bid—the fourth longest current streak in the nation—the Rambling Wreck twice upended the nation's number one-ranked team with the victories over Duke and North Carolina. Tech toppled a total of five Top 10 foes, posting a 5-4 record in such games along with a 7-7 mark against all nationally-ranked teams.

ACC Regular Season Champions • 1996

Georgia Tech entered the new year with a 6-7 record against a murderous non-conference schedule, but behind the inspired play of first-team all-ACC performers Matt Harpring and Stephon Marbury and second-teamer Drew Barry, the Rambling Wreck rolled through the ACC slate with a 13-3 mark to claim the first regular-season title in school history.

Tech won its final seven ACC games, including heart-stopping overtime wins over Duke and North Carolina and a dramatic showdown with Wake Forest. The Jackets became the first team to sweep both Duke and UNC since Virginia in 1980-81.

Tech made a run at the tournament title but lost a heart-breaking championship game to Wake Forest. The Jackets fell behind 39-24 at the half and still trailed 71-60 with 2:23 to play but pulled within 71-70 with 52 seconds left before last-second shots by Marbury and Barry were off the mark.

Playing the nation's toughest schedule, Tech compiled 24-12 overall mark, a Top 10 ranking in the nation's RPI, a No. 3 seed in the NCAA Southeast Regional, and the school's third trip to the NCAA Sweet 16 in the last seven years.

The resulting honors were many. Sophomore forward Matt Harpring and freshman point guard Stephon Marbury were both named first-team all-ACC, while senior guard Drew Barry earned second-team all-ACC honors.

Marbury, the mercurial point guard from Brooklyn, N.Y., was named ACC Rookie of the Year, Tech's eighth Rookie winner in the last 14 years, and Cremins was honored as the ACC Coach of the Year, collecting his third such honor, but his first since 1985.

At the start of January, 1996, Tech stumbled home to Atlanta after losing to Bradley and Santa Clara in the Cable Car Classic and extending a four-game losing streak that began with a stunning defeat by Mount St. Mary's.

Tech was in dire straits, and Cremins and his young squad, which featured three sophomores and three freshman among its top eight players, knew it.

Three major events occurred - Nobody left, a senior [Barry] took charge, and a talented freshman [Marbury] sacrificed. The end result was a team of beauty.

Beginning with a 98-84 win over Maryland on Jan. 3, the Jackets gained confidence, poise and chemistry with each successive outing and ripped through the Atlantic Coast Conference with an up-tempo offense featuring the passing of Barry and Marbury, three-point shooting unparalleled in school history, and aggressive defense unseen on the Flats since the days of Mark Price and John Salley.

Following the Yellow Jackets' heart-breaking loss in the championship game, Tech advanced to the NCAA's Sweet 16 by defeating Austin Peay State and Boston College in Orlando, Fla., before falling to No. 2 seed Cincinnati in Lexington, Ky.

From a seventh-place pick in the ACC to national finalist, the 2003-04 Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets turned out to be ...

Ask Paul Hewitt about his team's unlikely Final Four run, and he'll probably look at you a little strange.

"I knew we had a special team," Hewitt said. "I saw a group of guys who had matured in a very tough ACC. We didn't pay attention to any of the pre-season prognostications."

Good thing for Hewitt that he didn't, because most publications predicted a seventh-place finish for Georgia Tech in the highly competitive ACC.

All things considered, however, in a conference with the likes of Duke, North Carolina, Maryland, Wake Forest and NC State, why would anyone think Tech would emerge from this group and represent arguably the deepest league in the Final Four?

Despite the losses of back-to-back ACC freshmen of the year from his team, Hewitt "held out hope" that his team would respond positively and be competitive. But making the school's first-ever championship-game appearance? Tying Tech's single-season win record?

"Our success was more of a pleasant surprise than a shock," said Hewitt. "We knew what we had here."

The defining moment seemed to be the Pre-Season NIT, where Tech defeated top-ranked UConn by 16 points before beating Texas Tech by 20 to win the title. That's when analysts took notice of this squad's potential. Hewitt realized his team's worth much sooner.

"Our players thought they were good, and we (the coaches) knew they were good," said Hewitt. "We just needed a platform to show everyone else. The Pre-Season NIT gave us that stage. It confirmed what our guys thought all along. Another thing was that Marvin (Lewis) kept telling us to watch out for Anthony McHenry. He kept calling him the 'X-factor' ... and Marvin was right. We felt all along that if Anthony played with confidence, he'd play well; and he did."

After the Yellow Jackets reeled off 12 straight wins, they lost to Georgia and North Carolina, giving experts some ammunition to discount them as an elite team.

"We lost a very tough game to a good Georgia squad, then we lost to UNC, and all the whispering started," Hewitt said. "People began questioning if we were really that good. We just saw it as UNC being too deep and too talented not to be good, and we didn't play well enough to beat them. Those were two losses against two quality teams. I kept telling everyone, 'Just watch, we'll be fine' ... and we were."

Hewitt, the 2001 ACC coach of the year, described his team's growth as "tremendous."

"We had situations like B.J. (Elder) losing his grandfather that made us come together and depend on each other and work together and just be there for each other," Hewitt said. "All of our guys get along and complement each other on and off the court."

Though Tech's record with Bosh and Nelson was 16-15 during the 2002-03 season, Hewitt was quick to note that this was not a case of addition by subtraction.

"I knew we were going to miss Chris. You can't replace someone like him," he said. "But B.J. got better ... Isma'il (Muhammad) got better ... Theodis (Tarver) got better. We were also fortunate that Clarence (Moore) decided to come back. He's been through a lot emotionally, but he was able to contribute as a leader in the locker room, and he's an outstanding three-point shooter and defender. Center Luke Schenscher added more than 40 pounds to what once was referred to as a 'bean-pole' frame since his first season at Tech, when he averaged roughly five points and three rebounds in 16 minutes per game. After gaining the weight, Schenscher's minutes dropped to 12.5 per game, and so did his points (3.7) and field goal percentage (.587 to .472).

"The weight definitely slowed him down, but it was necessary for his position," Hewitt said. "We knew he'd adjust; it was just going to take some time, and Luke understood that."

Schenscher started 37 of 38 games for the Jackets in 2003-04, averaging career highs in points (9.2), rebounds (6.6), minutes (27.5) and free throw shooting (.687). He ranks fifth on Tech's career blocked shots list.

Schenscher became something of a cult hero, with his Australian accent and curly hair. Teammates donned T-shirts with his likeness and the motto "Luke Schenscher has a posse."

Chants of L-U-U-U-K-E became a game-day ritual at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, a.k.a. "The Thrillerdome."

In an era where big men are becoming more dominant outside versus down low, Hewitt said Schenscher "wants to play in the low post both defensively and offensively." He wound up earning all-Final Four honors, averaging 10.8 ppg on 60.5 percent shooting and seven rebounds in his six NCAA Tournament games.

"His No. 1 asset is he understands the game extremely well," Hewitt said. "He's got very good hands and he runs well. (If) you've got good feet and good hands at 7-1, you're going to make good things happen."

Schenscher's stock soared during his junior season, particularly in the NCAA Tournament. He was once considered just another, not terribly talented big man, but monster games against such players as Kansas' Wayne Simien and North Carolina's Sean May put everyone on notice.

Schenscher tallied 15 points on 5-for-6 shooting and grabbed four boards while holding Simien to 11 points on 4-for-14 shooting in the St. Louis Regional final. On Feb. 10, he held May to nine points, and when the two met again in the ACC tourney, Schenscher had a career-high 17 rebounds and scored 17 points as the team earned a one-point victory.

Point guard Jarrett Jack enjoyed a breakout sophomore season, averaging 12.5 points, 5.6 assists (fourth in the ACC) and 4.9 rebounds. Jack, the only player on his team to start every game during the season, was also the ACC's top rebounding guard.

"He stepped up to the challenge and performed well," said Hewitt of Jack. "He was a big

LETHAL WEAPON

AFTER ALL THE CELEBRATING WAS OVER,
AND THIS TRIO'S PLACE IN TECH HISTORY WAS DETERMINED, KENNY ANDERSON, DENNIS SCOTT AND BRIAN OLIVER CERTAINLY COULD BE CALLED...

A Classic Combination

Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins is talking about chemistry. Not the kind found in the laboratory, but on the hardwood.

"You can't really discuss it," he said. "You can't really dissect it. I've had teams with bad chemistry. Last year, we didn't have it. It comes from the players."

Cremins, creator of the chemistry that brought Tech and its "Lethal Weapon 3" to the Final Four, can only marvel at what inadvertently was wrought.

"I had no idea that Kenny would fit in as well as he has," he said. "How could I know that?"

"Kenny" is, of course, Kenny Anderson, the splendid point guard who came out of Rego Park, N.Y., a working-class neighborhood in the borough of Queens, to become the trigger man for Tech's offense. Anderson joined Brian Oliver, a senior, and a revitalized Dennis Scott, a junior, for a blitzkrieg of the ACC and the NCAA Tournament.

After a mid-season stumble in which they lost three straight ACC games and effectively took themselves out of competition for the regular-season title, the Yellow Jackets recovered and won 16 of 18 games to put them in the Final Four, the first ever in Tech history. It was during the middle of the slump, a 91-90 loss to Clemson, that a television graphic for the first time dubbed the Tech trio "Lethal Weapon 3." The name stuck. Cremins and the Tech players now refer to "Lethal Weapon 3" as if it were a separate entity.

They also refer to the slump as a time when their chemistry was tested, but proved solid.

"Before, if we had gone through three losses, there would have been people pointing fingers, saying so-and-so wasn't doing his job and stuff like that," Scott said. "That didn't happen. Nobody blamed anyone else. We knew we had to pull together and we did."

Pulling together, Tech assembled its late-season run and capped it by defeating North Carolina, Duke and Virginia in the ACC Tournament to win the championship. Then came the four-game sweep of the NCAA Southeast Regional, giving the Yellow Jackets a 28-6 record, the best ever for a Tech team.

During the season, "Lethal Weapon 3" was Tech's offense, averaging 78 percent of its points.

Anderson, Scott and Oliver each averaged more than 20 points a game, a combined 69.6 points. It was the first time in the 36-year history of the ACC that three players on one team averaged 20 or more per game.

In defeating Minnesota 93-91 for the Regional championship in New Orleans, "Lethal Weapon 3" reached its apex. With Scott scoring 40 points, Anderson 30 and Oliver 19, the three accounted for 89 of Tech's 93 points and took 52 of 56 shots.

All season critics wondered when Tech's three-on-five game was going to run out of steam.

It never did, until "Lethal Weapon 3" and its supporting cast met Nevada-Las Vegas for a spot in the national championship game, a scenario few would have believed possible for Tech when the season began.

And those who wondered before the season about the possible clash of egos on the Tech team would never have envisioned the unlikely chorus which rang out over Bourbon Street that week. The day before the Regional final, Cremins ran into his players in the French Quarter. They were on stage at a joint called "The Cat's Meow" offering delighted patrons their version of "Born to Be Wild."

Oliver's last year was 'fun'

Brian Oliver smiles as he remembers how Cremins, who thought this would be a rebuilding year from the team which went 20-12 in 1989, came to him at the beginning of the season and told him he wanted this year to be different from Oliver's other three at Tech.

"He told me he wanted to make this year fun," Oliver said. "He said he didn't want it to be stressful. He didn't want practice to be a job."

Oliver, who was elected team captain and seemed the eye of the emotional storm that is Tech basketball, spoke calmly, but swiftly. He talked of his frustrations with a stress fracture in his left ankle which slowed his game; about a team which he said had matured through adversity.

"It's very frustrating for me to have this injury," Oliver said. "I mean, this is the time when we are going for all the apples."

In Oliver, a 6-4 off-guard who has the bulk at 211 pounds and the heart to play effectively inside, Tech found a talented catalyst largely devoid of ego. Oliver, who played point guard before Anderson's arrival, was less flashy than either Scott or Anderson. He was solid, sometimes spectacular; the glue binding three years of distinct, sometimes seemingly conflicting talents.

"In the beginning of the season, Brian carried the team on his shoulders," said Johnny McNeil, the senior center. "There is great chemistry on this team, but a lot of it is because of the leadership shown by Brian, and later Dennis. We trust each other and that helps a lot."

Oliver's injury, sustained in December and aggravated continually throughout the year, cut into his rebounding, hobbled his usually tenacious defense and took some offensive pop out of "Lethal Weapon 3."

Against Minnesota, although Oliver scored 19, his shots often clanged off the front of the rim, a sign he was not getting his usual elevation. But he went fearlessly inside, drawing fouls and hitting nine-of-12 from the free throw line.

"We need Brian," Cremins said time and time again. And there is no question Tech needed Oliver as much for his stability and knowledge, his calm assurance on the court, as anything.

But there were times when Oliver, for all his bravery, could not be there.

"I forget," Cremins said. "In the Minnesota game, there was a point when his man went right by him and I got on him."

Oliver, who played in constant pain—"I just try to block it out of my head"—responded, "Coach, I'm doing all I can."

Cremins never doubted that, but he had forgotten about the ankle. "I just shut up," Cremins said.

Cremins painted a picture of a Tech team which rarely ran the court as well since Oliver's injury early in the season. The picture, which Cremins recalled almost as a dream, has Anderson leading the break with Scott on the right and Oliver on the left.

In Cremins's version, the picture is completed by Anderson feeding to Scott, who pulls up and takes a three-point shot, while Oliver moves into position to rebound a rare miss.

"That's when Georgia Tech is at its best," he said. "What this injury has taken away from us most is Brian's rebounding. He is a great, great rebounding guard."

Oliver used one word to describe his injury: "frustrating." He was not the type to make excuses, addressing his injury in clinical tones.

"Yeah, I've been slowed," he said. "But we still have great talent on this team. And we know what to do."

At a news conference after the Minnesota win, Oliver, who is usually serious in such atmosphere, reached over and rubbed Cremins' mop of white hair in an affectionate, playful manner. The gesture unleashed laughter and playful banter from Scott and Anderson, who shared the stage.

For a moment, they were more like brothers than coach and players.

"Coach is a lot looser and we feel that," Oliver said. "He trusts us and we trust him. That's where it all flows from."

Anderson arrived in Atlanta riding a wave of hype as high as Stone Mountain. He had been all-everything in high school, a can't miss prospect who was expected to step into the tough ACC and be a starting point guard.

That he did it and directed the Jackets to Denver may have amazed everyone but Anderson.

"Kenny is a bit of an introvert," Cremins said, joking.

So introverted that he suggested early in the season he was the "only pure point guard" in the ACC, bringing down the wrath of the fans of Hurley, Virginia's John Crotty and North Carolina State's Chris Corchiani.

"When we played North Carolina State the first time, Corchiani tried to take Kenny's head off," Cremins said. "But Kenny didn't back off."

Anderson said his words were misinterpreted or he said he never made the remark, depending on who was talking to him. That is similar to his remembrance of the controversial shot at the buzzer against Michigan State during the regional semifinal game. The shot put the Jackets into overtime, where they won 81-80.

About the shot, Anderson had said at different times: "I'm pretty sure I got it off," "I definitely got it off," and "I was within a tenth of a second either way."

He's quiet, but he listens

But such was Anderson's personality that the discrepancies could be attributed to youthful enthusiasm rather than calculating guile. After all, because of his talent on the court, talent so great that no less a player than former Louisville star Darrell Griffith said, "He can play in the NBA right now," people forget Anderson was 19 years old.

Scott, his roommate, called Anderson "Hermit" because he spent so much time sleeping.

"When he got here, he was real quiet," Scott said.

But Anderson listened, which Cremins liked.

"He listens to what I tell him," he said. "He came in here with a lot of buildup, but he never let that stand in the way of him learning the game."

Other players, used to freshmen being freshmen, kept an eye on Anderson.

"I'm glad he has ended up being here," McNeil said. "I mean, I'm a senior and he's a freshman, but I depend on him a lot."

One thing McNeil and freshman forward Malcolm Mackey depend on Anderson for is to get the ball in any other way than rebounding. Although Anderson averaged 20.6 points, he handed out 285 assists, second best in a single season in ACC history. He also had 79 steals, a Tech record.

The hints were that Anderson was different away from the media limelight than in it. He seemed increasingly comfortable with media attention and he was a good interview, irreverent and funny. But some of that stems from Anderson's New York City roots, from growing up on playgrounds where it is often necessary to be able to talk a good game as well as play one.

Scott, who played off Anderson as if they had been together for years instead of months, expressed quiet admiration for his roommate.

"He's not like a lot of those New York guards you see who put it behind their backs and between their legs and never go anywhere," he said.

Adding discipline to talent

Dennis Scott's voice was quiet and soft, much softer than his muscular 6-8, 229-pound body.

For Scott, it was a time of glory. He was a basketball junkie. Unlike many athletes who admit to only being interested in playing the game, Scott had studied basketball.

After winning the regional, he talked about being a kid and watching Griffith lead Louisville to the Final Four. He talked about going to the playground and pretending to be Griffith hitting the winning shot at the buzzer.

"And now to get a chance to actually do that," he marvelled.

Cremins' voice took on a solemn tone when he talked about Scott.

"The maturity of Dennis Scott has been incredible," he said. "He's been a winner, a fighter."

Before the season, Scott was a player with great talent and little discipline. He averaged 15.5 points his freshman year and 20.3 as a sophomore, but seemed to play passively.

"A year or two ago, Dennis would not look to go inside," said Cremins. "Dennis liked to stand around outside and watch."

But Scott came to school this season weighing 30 pounds less than the 259 he played at the year before. In the off-season, he had literally remolded himself and in doing so had made himself into the player his potential had always promised.

With Oliver ailing, the re-made Scott averaged 6.6 rebounds, second highest on the team. He averaged 27.7 points per game.

And then there were those games.

In the regional final against Minnesota, Tech's biggest win ever, Scott played 40 minutes, scoring a point a minute.

"There's no question we look to Dennis Scott," Cremins said.

For the drive to the Final Four, the team looked to Scott more than ever and Scott responded. Following the Michigan State game, Scott walked to the blackboard in the Tech dressing room, wrote "3 More" and drew a circle around it. Three more wins to a national championship.

"Before, Dennis would have never done that," Cremins said.

After the Minnesota win, Scott etched "2 More" on the board.

"Dennis is not selfish," Cremins said. "He's not thinking about himself and the NBA. Since Brian has been hurt, he's really done a lot."

Scott was obviously having fun in his dream-come-true season.

"I asked Dennis at the first of the season to place his game second to the goals of the team," Cremins said.

Strange as it may seem for someone who set the ACC single-season scoring mark with 970 points, Scott played as if team goals were primary.

"How can you be upset with someone who wins games for the team," said McNeil when asked about Scott's scoring prowess, about the 25-footers he launched without hesitation.

Thin Gold Line

Eight players were enough to earn Tech its first ACC Championship and a trip to the "Elite Eight."

Eight Is Enough" had been the title of a television show. In 1984-85, it was the motto of Georgia Tech's basketball team.

"Eight" was the number of healthy basketball players the Yellow Jackets had available to try to win their first Atlantic Coast Conference championship. "Enough" meant they could, and they did.

Furman Bisher, sports editor of the Atlanta Journal, had another name for it — "The Thin Gold Line." Mark Price, John Salley, Bruce Dalrymple, Yvon Joseph, Scott Petway, Antoine Ford, Jack Mansell, John Martinson. All of them played.

By the end of the ACC Tournament in Atlanta, there were an equal number of "coaches" on the Tech bench as reserves. Sitting in street clothes were forward Duane Ferrell, who sprained a knee in the first round of the tournament, and guard Craig Neal, who sat out most of the season with a bad wrist.

Still, despite the fact that Salley, Price and Dalrymple had to play 39 to 40 minutes a game, Tech played three extremely emotional basketball games and emerged with the ACC championship.

Throughout the year, Price and Dalrymple had been iron men at the guards, and Salley the same at power forward. Ferrell and Petway had shared the small forward spot, and Joseph had given Tech all it needed at center. Ford had come off the bench to give some solid help behind Joseph, and Mansell and Martinson provided valuable minutes as well. So the Yellow Jackets were in excellent condition for the task ahead.

Maybe it shouldn't have been such a surprise, for they had already captured a share of the regular-season crown, tying

North Carolina and N.C. State with 9-5 conference records, and been awarded the top seed in the tournament.

Price had given Tech more than just points. His poise and effectiveness at point guard enabled all five starters to average in double figures. Dalrymple, listed as a guard, still found time to mix it up underneath, providing a triple threat with scoring, rebounding and passing. Joseph gave Tech muscle underneath, while Salley became an intimidating shot-blocking force and was Tech's best percentage shooter from the field.

Ferrell, who became the third of four straight ACC "Rookies of the Year," was an instant starter and filled a vital role with his offensive ability, while Petway complemented the entire lineup with his ballhandling, passing and defense. His role became much more important when Ferrell went to the sidelines.

After beating Virginia, 55-48, in the opening round, with Joseph and Salley both in foul trouble and Ferrell on the bench down the stretch, Cremins never let his squad ease up.

"I was scared to death about the fouls, but I told them to keep up the pressure," Cremins told Atlanta Constitution columnist Jesse Outlar. "We couldn't let up, because we won on defense. We didn't do much on offense, but we played with tremendous guts. We gutted it out."

Eight men helped Georgia Tech become the life of the party in the Omni. The new kids on the ACC block. With the same aggressive style, the Thin Gold Line knocked off Duke in the semifinals, 75-64.

Bisher wrote, "Nevertheless, here were these upstarts in the league, treading on the precious ground of the Tar Heels, the Blue Devils and the Wolfpack. Who the hell did they think they were?"

"Then, when the score had become 75-64, Georgia Tech was near the most exulting moment since it pumped up a basketball. The Thin Gold Line had prevailed. Was this to be believed? Georgia Tech in the one game that decides who is the champion of the high, mighty and haughty ACC?"

It was true, but to accomplish the feat, Tech had to meet and beat North Carolina for the third time in a season. No team had done that since N.C. State rolled over the Tar Heels on the way to a national championship in 1974. Against Duke, Salley had fouled out, Joseph had finished the game with four and Price and Dalrymple three each. Against the bigger Tar Heels of coach Dean Smith, eight players would not be enough.

But only one Jacket earned as many as four fouls in the final, and Tech accomplished the dream, downing Carolina, 57-54, in the final. The Thin Gold Line had prevailed again after trailing the Tar Heels throughout, emerging with under a minute remaining in the game to win.

Price won the tournament's Most Valuable Player award, but with only eight players available, who's arguing? All of them could have won a piece of the award in Cremins' mind.

Fortunately for the Jackets, Ferrell returned for the NCAA Tournament, and the Thin Gold Line went all the way to the Final Eight before bowing to eventual champion Georgetown. Twenty-seven wins, eight losses and a No. 6 ranking in the final polls. A golden season to remember.

THE SLAYING OF GOLIATH

David and Goliath of the collegiate basketball world squared off twice during the 1955 season. David walked away without a scratch.

Within a 23-day period, mild-mannered Georgia Tech stunned the nation's top-ranked team Kentucky by ending the Wildcats' 129-game home winning streak in Lexington and then proving it was no fluke with a commanding victory at home.

"This was probably the greatest upset victory by any Georgia Tech team in any sport that I can remember," said Bobby Dodd after Tech's initial shocker.

Atlanta newspaperman Furman Bisher wrote, "I say it was the most incredible event in basketball since Dr. James Naismith discovered the peach basket."

These epic upsets came from a 1955 squad that finished the season with a 12-13 record. The Jackets had lost 67-66 to Sewanee one game prior to venturing to Lexington, the home of Baron Adolph Rupp. The Wildcats had not found themselves on the short end of a Southeastern Conference game in 16 years and were riding a 32-game winning streak.

Only five Tech players stepped on Kentucky's court that January night with Lenny Cohen and Dick Lenholt at the forwards, Bill Cohen (no relation) at center, and Bob Kimmel and Joe Helms at guard. Helms and Lenny Cohen were junior college imports while the remaining three were holdovers from a 2-22 squad dubbed "les miserables" the previous year.

Coach John "Whack" Hyder knew better. "The boys said before the game they were going to win, and they just wouldn't be beat," he noted.

A sluggish Kentucky team appeared to be in serious trouble throughout the contest. Tech trailed early 16-11 before a 15-0 outburst gave the Jackets a 26-23 halftime advantage. Tech pulled ahead 38-30 in the second half before turning cold. Kentucky rallied and its faithful were certain the Wildcats would pull it out.

With 14 seconds left, Kentucky held a three-point lead, but missed a pair of free throws. Kimmel was fouled in the scramble for the rebound and hit his charity tosses to pull Tech within 58-57 with 1:12 left.

Kentucky captain Billy Evans attempted to run out the clock, but Kimmel tied him up in the frontcourt and Helms snatched the ball away. He

From the Associated Press ...

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 8, 1955—A jump shot in the last 11 seconds by little Joe Helms (right) gave Georgia Tech a 59-58 upset over Kentucky Saturday night and stopped the nation's No. 1 collegiate basketball power after 32 straight victories.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 31, 1955—Georgia Tech, tiny outpost in the basketball world, successfully stormed Kentucky's proud citadel Monday night for the second time in less than a month. The score was 65-59.

faked as if driving and then let fly a one-handed, 12-footer for the winning points with 11 seconds left. Two shots missed in Kentucky's last gasp.

"When I saw Joe take off with that ball, I knew we had it made," Hyder said. "He'd been firing them in for us all night and as hot as he was I knew he wouldn't miss."

Helms, who scored a game-high 23 points, said, "I didn't think about a thing. It was all like a dream."

"It's certainly the happiest moment of my basketball career," Hyder said. "Coach Rupp boosted his stock with me when he came over after the game, shook hands and told me that we deserved to win. I know it was a tough one for him to lose, but he didn't have a single squawk."

Fans gathering at Municipal Airport in Atlanta gave the Jackets the "most enthusiastic reception since MacArthur's." The students sang their rendition of the Rambling Wreck fight song, and two police cars escorted Tech back to town.

"We'll never live it down," Rupp said.

Hold that thought, Adolph. For Tech's second triumph over Kentucky could only be described as the Jackets' greatest upset since their first.

Kentucky wanted badly to avenge their only loss of the season while Tech had managed only a 5-10 record. Rupp even brought a special TV crew to televise the rematch. But they witnessed history instead as Tech became the first team to beat Rupp twice in the same season.

Again using only five players with Gary Phillips subbing for the injured Lenny Cohen, Tech led the game from start to finish. The Wildcats missed every free throw attempt in the first half. Meanwhile, Tech took care of business on the boards and Helms and Kimmel combined for 44 points.

The Jackets led by 14 points with six minutes remaining as Kimmel's dribbling put the ball in a deep freeze. When the final 65-59 score flashed, assistant athletic director Tonto Coleman suggested that Tech keep that scoreboard turned on permanently and buy a new one.

"I don't know what to say," remarked Hyder, who received the game ball. "The kids played a whale of a ballgame. We had them from the start."

Rupp said, "That just goes to show you what a team can do when it makes up its mind to win a ballgame. They beat us the same way they did last time—with good backboard play and on the foul line."

And so David slew Goliath. Twice.

Georgia Tech once traveled the "Road to San Francisco" in 1960 in its only NCAA Tournament appearance prior to the streak of nine straight trips reeled off by the Bobby Cremins-coached Yellow Jackets from 1985-93.

Fueled by guard Roger Kaiser and forward Dave Denton, known as the "South's best one-two punch," Georgia Tech demonstrated a valiant effort en route to a 22-6 finish that year and runner-up honors in the Southeastern Conference.

The Jackets' starting five featured Kaiser, who averaged a team-high 22.5 points per game, and Bobby Dews in the backcourt, Denton and Wayne Richards at the forwards and Jim Riley at center.

"I am sure this is the best defensive team I have ever coached at Georgia Tech," said John "Whack" Hyder, as his Jackets yielded only 58.9 points per game.

Entering the NCAA Tournament, Hyder had guided Tech to a No. 8 national ranking in the United Press poll and a No. 13 slot in the Associated Press poll prior to the national tourney. The Jackets received a first-round bye although Hyder downplayed his squad's chances saying they were in "over their heads."

Ohio University upset Notre Dame in the first round to draw Tech in its next game. The Bobcats appeared to be a sleeping giant when they jumped out to a 19-6 lead over Tech at the 10:26 mark in the first half.

Behind center Howard Jolliff, who had 16 points and 15 rebounds in the first half, Ohio maintained a 33-23 halftime advantage. The Bobcats refused to fold and held a 12-point margin with 13 minutes left in the game.

But Tech applied the screws with its full-court pressure defense, taking the lead at 49-48 after a pair of free throws by Kaiser with 4:55 left. The all-America Kaiser proceeded to score 16 of Tech's final 23 points, including several critical free throws, as Tech slipped by Ohio, 57-54.

Seemingly bewildered in the first half, Tech warmed up and wore out the Bobcats down the stretch as Kaiser finished with 25 points and Denton collected 15 points and 11 rebounds. As the Jackets advanced to the NCAA Final Eight, the "Road to San Francisco" got a lot steeper.

Ohio State, certainly one of the nation's premier teams with future NBA stars Jerry Lucas (New York Knicks) and John Havlicek (Boston Celtics), had compiled a 22-3 record and a No. 2 national ranking. The game at Freedom Hall in Louisville, Ky., would be a contrast in styles between the Buckeyes' whirlwind pace and the deliberate, possession pattern of the Jackets.

OSU head coach Fred Taylor singled out Kaiser as a "really great shot and Denton as a fine all-around player" in preparation for the matchup.

Although the physically overmatched Jackets lost 86-69 to Ohio State, which eventually won the national championship defeating California, the newspaper accurately described the grit and effort of Hyder's 1959-60 team.

"A Georgia Tech team of incalculable courage refused to recognize its own human limitations here Saturday night in meeting the greatest offensive machine in the nation head-on, and emerged beaten, but unbowed."

The game stayed tight the first few moments before the 6-8 Lucas gave OSU a lead it would never relinquish. The Buckeyes led 41-35 at half-time, and threatened to runaway in the second half. But Tech stayed within striking distance at 66-56 with 8:53 left before Ohio State flexed its biceps.

True to form, Kaiser led the Jackets with 27 points while Denton chipped in 15. A balanced Buckeye scoring attack featured Lucas with 25, Joe Roberts with 19 and Havlicek with 15.

"They just had too much manpower for us," Hyder said. "They wore us down in the second half."

But that 1960 team blazed a trail not to be forgotten. While the memory of Tech's coveted Final Four appearance in 1990 remains fresh, the performance of Kaiser, Denton and the rest of Hyder's troops should not be overlooked in Tech's first NCAA appearance.

HOOSIER HERO

Indiana native Roger Kaiser comes South and becomes one of Tech's all-time greats

Roger Kaiser was exactly what the movie "Hoosiers" was about. He was an Indiana native with a crew cut, Chuck Taylor high tops and a jump shot that made the net cords dance from any spot on the floor. "It makes me shudder to think what a helluva shooter that Roger Kaiser is," said Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp after his Wildcats, who escaped with an 89-79 victory on national television. "He's murder."

Kaiser almost single-handedly murdered the 'Cats that day at Memorial Coliseum. With blood streaming from a cut over his eye, he poured in a career-best 38 points, the most points any individual had ever scored against mighty Kentucky.

A year earlier, Kaiser had delivered the killing blow in Tech's 62-60 upset of the Wildcats before a packed house at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

With the score tied at 60-60, Kaiser calmly dribbled away most of the final 31 seconds before he made his move. Then he darted to his left and let fly with a twisting one-hander from about 15 feet, over the outstretched arms of Kentucky's Bill Lickert and into the basket as the buzzer sounded.

To add insult to injury, Kaiser performed his heroics with a fractured thumb on his shooting hand.

"Everyone in the place knew that Kaiser was going to shoot," lamented Rupp. "But what could we do about it. Our boy had him covered, but he got it off. It was a difference of one second and two points."

Newspaper accounts speculated that, "Perhaps never in the history of the big bowl on The Flats has one man done so much to win a game as did Kaiser in this tense struggle." Mississippi State head coach Babe McCarthy echoed Rupp's praise.

"That Roger Kaiser is one of the greatest players I've seen and I'm doggone happy I don't have to see him again," said McCarthy after Kaiser scored over half of Tech's points in a 62-61 overtime loss to the Bulldogs. "I've already seen too much of that boy."

A native of Dale, Ind., Kaiser learned how to shoot a basketball by aiming for a hoop that was nailed to the barn behind his house. Later, a full court was built and, according to Kaiser, it was always occupied. His high school girl friend, whom he later married, wanted him to go to school at Indiana, but he chose Tech.

Kaiser became Tech's first all-America as a junior in 1960, when he led the Jackets to their first NCAA Tournament appearance this year and a berth in the Sweet 16. A year later he earned consensus all-America honors in 1960-61 and was named the Southeastern Conference "Player of the Year."

Kaiser was also an all-conference performer in baseball, and no less an authority on Rambling Wreck sports heroes than legendary football coach Bobby Dodd called him "the greatest all-around athlete in Georgia Tech history."

But it was definitely his basketball skills that made Georgia Governor Ernest Vandiver proclaim Feb. 27, 1961 to be "Roger Kaiser Day" in Georgia.

When Kaiser completed his three-year career he held the career records for points scored, scoring average, field goals made, free throws made and free throws attempted. He also held several single-season marks, and his career free throw accuracy rate of 85.8 percent still stands as the Tech record.

Kaiser went on to become a coaching legend in the state of Georgia, retiring in 2000 at the age of 62 after an ultra-successful career highlighted by four NAIA national titles at West Georgia (1974) and Life University (1997, 1999 and 2000). Including a stint at Decatur High, his 34-year coaching record is 754-260 (.743).

DAY TO REMEMBER

TECH'S ALL-AMERICA IS HONORED AT ALEXANDER MEMORIAL COLISEUM ON ROGER KAISER DAY.

"THE BEST BIG MAN ...

... I'VE EVER HAD AT GEORGIA TECH WITHOUT A DOUBT," SAID HIS COACH, WHACK HYDER. YUNKUS' SINGLE-GAME RECORD OF 47 POINTS LASTED OVER TWO DECADES BEFORE IT WAS BROKEN BY KENNY ANDERSON. HIS CAREER MARK OF 2,232 POINTS STILL STANDS.

BENTON BOMBER

Georgia Tech's big man on campus was in a class all by himself.

The big man on campus in 1970 rose to unmatched heights when Rich Yunkus scorched both Furman and North Carolina for 47 points to set Georgia Tech's single-game record and make history.

Nicknamed the Benton Bomber after his hometown in Illinois, the 6-9-1/2 Yunkus' first scoring spree nearly beat Furman single-handedly while the second capped a glorious weekend in which Tech upset fifth-ranked NC State and then seventh-ranked North Carolina.

"He is the best big man I've ever had at Georgia Tech without a doubt," said his coach Whack Hyder. "He is in a class all by himself."

Yunkus' 47-point efforts comprise just a fraction of the 2,232 points he scored as Tech, which still stands as the school record. He earned all-America honors twice and finished sixth in the nation in scoring as a junior at 30.1 points per game.

A newspaper headline captured one of those games simply, "Yunkus' 47, Tech's 41 Nix Hapless Furman's 61." With 10 minutes to play, Yunkus was actually leading the Paladins by himself 41-35 when Hyder sat him on the bench. He returned for another three minutes but couldn't quite defend his lead.

Furman's head coach Frank Selvy, who had once scored 100 points in a game, said, "He was just fantastic."

Hyder said, "I've never seen a player shoot any better than he did tonight. Actually our plan wasn't to look for Rich but to try and open things up from the outside. But he was moving so well that he was open consistently, and we were able to hit him."

Yunkus erased two records with his 47 points, including the Alexander Memorial Coliseum mark of 40 by Pres Judy in 1967 against Florida State and his own school record of 41 that he had set against Tulane in 1969. Yunkus described it as just one of those nights.

"It seems that once a year I just go out there and feel like I did tonight," he said. "Since junior high, I've had just one game a year where I can hit 40."

In 1970, that feeling actually occurred five times. He also netted 41 points against Dave Cowens and Florida State as Seminole assistant coach Bill Clendinen said, "He has to be the best shooting big man in college basketball. Only man I've seen who even comes near him is Kentucky's Dan Issel."

Yunkus also hit for 40 points against Georgia and Georgia State that year, but his most memorable performance came in the North-South Doubleheader in Charlotte, N.C. Tech had been a substitute team for South Carolina and faced a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference heavyweights.

Yunkus scored 27 points and grabbed 20 rebounds in the Jackets' surprising win over fifth-ranked NC State in the opening game. The next night, Yunkus put on a show against the Tar Heels with his school record-tying 47 points.

He sparked Tech to a 53-45 halftime lead with 27 points en route to the 104-95 victory. The Rambling Wreck's sweep is still considered one of the great moments in the school's basketball history.

"I don't think I've ever had a game like this against a team as good as North Carolina," Yunkus said. "I was scoring more from inside tonight than I did against State, but that was because North Carolina played me differently. They were guarding me very closely, which made it better to drive, while State played further back and made me shoot outside."

Yunkus' specialty was a soft left-handed jump shot. "He has the best touch for a man his size I've ever seen," Tech assistant coach Dwane Morrison said. "I don't think he can take a bad shot."

A three-time Academic All-America, he chose Tech because of its academic reputation. As one of the nation's top prep seniors, he got a personal letter from Bill Bradley urging him to go to Princeton, a letter from Bob Cousy encouraging him to attend Boston College, and a phone call prior to an NBA playoff game from John Havlicek praising the merits of Ohio State.

Yunkus' soft touch carried over to other areas. He built model cars as a child and then built a "T" bucket, a 1932 "T" roadster pickup from scratch when he was in college. He also built a scale model of his home from balsa wood and about 2,500 straight pins.

Just about the same number of points he scored at Tech.

THE START OF SOMETHING GOOD

Price-Salley tandem will always remain
“first in Jackets’ hearts”

By THOMAS STINSON

They knew there would be trouble as soon as the team van topped the hill at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. A crowd that had been fermenting there for hours surged toward the vehicle. It was late March the night Georgia Tech had flown so hard into the face of basketball’s aristocracy and won the ACC Tournament.

Here the student body had come to laud the champions. And now inside the van, the players’ mood turned grim.

“Everybody was jumping on the van, chasing behind us when we got over to the coliseum,” said John Salley. “We’re all inside scared to death. I remember that. They’re jumping on the top. You don’t know if they’re drunk or what.”

Mark Price had sensed the danger and slipped away in another car with his parents. The irony of the moment was lost in the darkened streets. After three years of torment, worrying if success would ever come to the emaciated little program on Techwood Drive, here were Salley and Price, frightened by the arrival of that prosperity. In this van surrounded by yowling students, the circle had come complete.

Or had it?

Mark Price and John Salley, the two players who have ridden shotgun during Tech’s return to grace, have maybe one month left as college players. Where before they had wondered if their time would ever come, now they wonder if that time has come too fast. The ACC Tournament this weekend is a silent warning to the two seniors that the dance is almost done.

“There’s only one thing left I want to do,” said Price, who was named to the all-ACC team for the third straight year. “I really think by winning the ACC last year (1985), we’ve really accomplished everything else. Obviously making first-team all-America would be nice. But I’d rather win a national championship.”

From Oklahoma to the Big Apple

If anything that profound came out of Bobby Cremins’ mouth five years ago when he was recruiting Salley out of Brooklyn or Price out of Oklahoma, the Tech coach would have been laughed out of their homes. In his first full year of recruiting, he was looking for a scoring guard and a big man. What he couldn’t know—what college basketball never suspected—was that he’d found the foundation of a national contender.

“I’ve got to give those two the credit for starting the program,” Cremins said. “The way they’ve handled themselves, what they’ve done for me and the program, they are two very, very, very special people.”

Salley, in fact, felt something the same for Price the first time they met in 1982, if for a different reason. He rushed into Price’s room upon arriving at Tech in the middle of the night, woke him up to introduce himself and nearly dropped from shock when a little Caucasian with droopy eyes sat up in his bed. Salley had expected, well, expected something else. Like Michael Jordan maybe.

“My first two years here, especially the first one when we were having such a tough time, there was never a doubt in my mind that we were going to be good, you know, by the end of my career,” said Price. “I don’t know why I felt that way but I knew we had more players coming in. I don’t know. I guess I’m a positive thinker.”

But if these were the worst of times, in some ways they were also the best. With lessened expectations, Cremins was easier on his freshmen. Tech went 0-7 on the road within the conference and no one flinched. This was the year of the infamous three-point basket in the ACC, the ring just 18 feet away from the basket. For Price, that was a layup.

“I’d just catch the ball,” he said, “and look

PRICE AND SALLEY ARRIVED AT A PROGRAM THAT HAD WON JUST FOUR ACC GAMES IN THREE YEARS. THEIR SENIOR YEAR, THEY WERE NATIONAL COVERBOYS (ALONG WITH JUNIOR BRUCE DALRYMPLE) AND RANKED No. 1 down to see where the line was. I had a lot of fun my freshman year. ‘Course, I didn’t know what I was doing.”

Price led the league in scoring with 20.3 a game and spawned a defensive strategy heretofore unseen in the ACC, if anywhere else. Late in close games, opposing guards would play Price from behind, forcing him away from the three-point line, giving up the unobstructed 15-footer for its lessened point value. It was all novel for Salley as well. In his first meeting with Ralph Sampson, the Virginia center blocked eight of his shots. Enraged, Salley clipped him on the chin with an elbow on the way up with a hook shot. Sampson shook his head and blocked that one, too.

“We went to the ACC Tournament and beat Maryland,” said Salley. “And we were garbage.”

But then it’s not easy, being garbage.

Evolution of a Point Guard

We didn’t have a Christmas tournament to go to that year so we had two-a-days for two weeks straight,” Salley said. “It was scrimmage and practice. I was in Burger King every day, and it got so I couldn’t get enough sleep. All we did was practice and sleep. Didn’t have any cars, so we’d walk back to the dorms, sit down and it seems just an hour and a half later it was time to go get taped again. It was the most disgusting thing I’ve ever gone through.”

Said Price, “My toughest year was my sophomore year, when I was being transformed into a point guard. There were a lot of frustrations that came with that. When you’ve played a certain way your whole life and all of a sudden you’ve got blinders put on you, it’s a hard thing to have to handle. It was a tough year, but I guess the Lord was looking out for me because I made all-conference and I didn't even have a good year."

He ended the season being pulled from an NIT game at Virginia Tech, where he'd scored just 13 points while Tech lost by three. Long before the team had finished showering, he was changed and sitting alone in the bus outside, looking into the night.

Bruce Dalrymple had arrived and then Duane Ferrell. But by then the Salley-Price alliance had come to symbolize Tech basketball. Dissimilar not only in background but manner, close when it counted but distant just the same. As a rule, your urban black master-rappers don't hang full time with Oklahoman gospel singers.

"Our friendship?" asked Salley. "Our friendship is that we both made the same commitment to come here when no one else would. We both had the same ideas we were going to make something of ourselves, and it has worked."

"John and I are friends, but we're two different people," Price said. "We've always liked each other, but when we leave the floor we don't see each other much. That's fine with me and that's fine with him. Sometimes it's good to get away from your teammates. You spend half your life with them."

More Than Statistics

As far as player development, Price's game underwent extensive work with virtually no drop-off in performance. As he was his freshman year, Price remains a sound little guard with ICBM shooting range who has a strong chance to play professionally. Conversely, after seasons fraught with inconsistency, Salley may have just found himself within the last month, even though the NBA types have been raving over him for more than a year.

"John, statistically, is no Mark Price," said Cremins. Indeed, while both players had their number retired, Price set 10 school records, Salley set one (blocked shots) and tied another (most fouls in a season). "But John has done a lot. He's recruited these other guys, he's accepted a lot of stuff I've thrown at him, he's started every game since I've been here.

"Offensively, Price has made me look like a great coach because he puts the ball in the basket. But what I really admire about Mark is he could be averaging 30 points for another coach but he's listened to me and he's become our leader. I really admire his sacrifice because the little guy likes to shoot."

They've provided a comfort zone these four years for Tech followers who have come to expect that even 23 feet away from the hoop, just one little sloppy pick means a Price basket. Right now, Salley is producing some of the best basketball of his life.

Both Price and Salley have been nominated for the Wooden Award, Tech the only school to have two candidates. And there's a whole postseason, where the Yellow Jackets were galvanized last year. Possibly, they have nine games left, three in the ACC, six in the NCAA.

But then the coach remembers that with two losses, John Salley and Mark Price will be done at Georgia Tech.

"Yeah, that scares me," Cremins said. "It scares me to death."

When he wasn't reeling in largemouth bass on a secluded pond, Tom Hammonds was landing big points and rebounds for Tech.

Largemouth bass in the local ponds around Atlanta breathed a sigh of relief during basketball season when Tom Hammonds played at Georgia Tech.

He was so busy on the court, becoming the third player in Tech history to score more than 2,000 points in a career and the second to play on three Yellow Jacket teams that won 20 games or more.

"I really miss it," he said during his senior year. "Not just the fishing, but being out there on the lake by myself."

SLAM DUNK

AS QUIET AND UNASSUMING AS HE WAS OFF THE COURT, HAMMONDS WAS FIERCE AND DETERMINED ON THE COURT.

Hammonds, a 6-9 all-America forward from Crestview, Fla., instead reeled in rebounds and baskets. He wound up his career with 2,081 points and 885 rebounds, both of which rank fourth in Tech history. He is second only to Rich Yunkus in field goals made (853) and shot 56.6 percent from the field in his career.

Said Louisville coach Denny Crum following a Tech win over the Cardinals in 1989 in which Hammonds scored 19, "You can't stop a great player like him unless you want to double team, and you're willing to give up something else. Our gameplan was to control him so he wouldn't go crazy and get 30 or 40 points."

Hammonds did go crazy a few times during his senior year, scoring 30 or more in three consecutive games, including a career-best 40 against Georgia State.

Many times, the strong play of Hammonds, a forward who at times had to play center, resulted in opponents double-teaming him or employing trick defenses. Though he would become frustrated, it helped him learn an important lesson.

"The junk defenses would cause me problems," said Hammonds. "I've got to keep a great attitude when I see junk defenses and keep working hard."

Keeping a great attitude was never difficult for Hammonds, a mild-mannered, soft-spoken individual who preferred to keep his ferocious intensity confined to the basketball court.

He is generally credited for changing the way pre-game introductions were made in ACC basketball games. Up until his senior year, players were introduced onto the court alternately from each side, with players from each side greeting one another at mid-court. With Tech playing Duke in a crucial game, Hammonds slapped Danny Ferry's hand so hard that the practice was discontinued.

A product of his upbringing—his stepfather a career Air Force sergeant, his mother also a disciplinarian—Hammonds had developed a deep sense of self-conviction. Six years of weight training brought it out even further.

While he attracted a great deal of media attention for his accomplishments, he never changed his outlook or his priorities.

"I think I've handled it pretty well," he said during his senior year. "I know where I came from and where I want to go."

Just as important to Hammonds while he was at Tech were his studies and his other hobbies, which included his red pickup truck, attending tractor pulls and bass fishing. Those pursuits and his engaging smile made him extremely popular with Tech's student body, which presented him with the "H" from the Tech Tower on the night of his final home game at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

They had lined up the night before the game for tickets, and he wanted to buy pizza for them.

"It was kinda nice," Hammonds said "One guy had a couch and a TV with a VCR. We sat back for a while and watched a Robert Townsend special."

His convictions also served him well in class. Noted for always sitting in the front of the classroom, Hammonds graduated in four years with his degree in management.

As many Tech players have done, he found work in the NBA with several teams and played in the league for 13 years before he retired after the 2001-02 season. Now there is plenty of time to fish.

"Give me a team full of Matt Harpring's"
-Bobby Cremins-

The Hardest Working Player In America...
GEORGIA TECH'S MATT HARPRING FOR ALL-AMERICA

Harpring on HARPRING

His work ethic, determination and all-out hustle often evoked this sentiment from Bobby Cremins.

He scored 2,225 points and pulled down 997 rebounds, grabbed 176 steals and handed out 289 assists. He played 4,472 minutes in a Georgia Tech uniform, but Matt Harpring's career was best characterized in the few minutes after he left the court in the waning seconds of the Yellow Jackets' Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament loss to Maryland.

With just over a minute left in Maryland's 83-65 victory, Tech head coach Bobby Cremins called his senior all-American to the bench.

Harpring had not had one of his better games against the Terrapins, but gradually the crowd rose in appreciation as he made his exit from his final ACC Tournament game. The cheering began in the Tech section, but in a rare display of non-partisanship, the applause spread to every corner of the 24,000-seat Greensboro Coliseum as fans wearing every shade of Carolina blue, NC State red and Clemson orange joined in.

The cheering continued as a dejected Harpring took his seat on the bench, not realizing what was happening. Then, coaxed by Cremins and his teammates, Harpring stood and waved to the crowd.

"It didn't sink in at first because I was still pretty emotional about the loss," Harpring said after the game. "But it was a huge honor and compliment. When I look back on it tomorrow or the next day, after I forget the game, I'll say, 'Wow, that was great.'"

"Unbelievable," agreed Cremins. "I've been in this league a long time, and it's one of the nicest gestures and best compliments I've seen."

Maryland head coach Gary Williams echoed the sentiments of the crowd, saying "you can only go but so far in terms of hard work, and Harpring is right there. At the end of a game, he never leaves anything on the floor."

Afterward, an appreciative Harpring said, "I don't know why they did it. I guess they see something in me that they like. I think I'd appreciate my work ethic and that I always give 100 percent, and if I'm not shooting well, I'll try to help my team in other ways.

"It was a great farewell, almost like having my jersey retired."

Such accolades never would have been predicted for Harpring when he arrived at Georgia Tech in 1995.

The 6-8, 225-pounder was better known for his football skills at Atlanta's Marist School, receiving scholarship offers to play quarterback for several schools, including Northwestern and Wisconsin. He was lightly recruited in basketball until very late in his senior season, improving his stock and gaining the notice of Cremins as he led his high school team to the state title.

From the time he stepped onto the court at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, Harpring exceeded expectations, averaging 12.1 points and 6.2 rebounds a game while finishing a close second for the 1995 ACC Rookie of the Year award.

But that was only a glimpse of what was to come, because as a sophomore, Harpring blossomed into one of the nation's top players as he helped Tech reach the NCAA Sweet 16. On a team that featured sensational point guard Stephon Marbury, it was Harpring who was the most consistent force with his all-around skills, averaging 18.6 points and 8.1 rebounds a game while leading the team in three-point shooting.

Harpring's junior year wasn't as successful as his sophomore campaign as the undermanned Jackets limped to a 9-18 record. Through the frustration of Tech's first losing season since 1983, Harpring remained the ultimate warrior, and despite constant double-teams, he produced 19.0 points and 8.2 rebounds a game.

Many encouraged him to enter the NBA following that difficult season, but Harpring opted to stay the course.

"When I came to college, I never dreamed that I would have the chance to be a first-round draft pick," said Harpring, a two-time Academic All-American. "I came to Georgia Tech to get my degree and to prepare for a career after basketball."

"I love college basketball, and I didn't want to leave after a season like that. It was important to me to come back and help get Tech basketball back where it belongs."

The result was an outstanding senior season in which he earned numerous all-America awards, including first-team honors from Basketball America magazine as well as hoops guru Dick Vitale. While averaging 21.6 points and 9.4 rebounds a game, he joined Mark Price as the only Yellow Jackets to receive first-team all-ACC honors three times. After earning his degree in June of 1998, the Orlando Magic made him the 15th pick of the first round in the NBA draft.

He finished second in Tech history in both scoring and rebounding, coming within eight points of Rich Yunkus' school record of 2,232 career points. In addition, he finished among Tech's career leaders in virtually every statistical category, from assists to steals to blocked shots and of course, minutes played.

Even before that ACC Tournament salute, the Georgia Tech family paid tribute to Harpring, the consummate student-athlete, by retiring his No. 15 jersey prior to his final home game against Duke.

More importantly, Harpring helped Tech enjoy a winning season with a 19-14 mark and trip to the National Invitation Tournament, in which the Jackets advanced to the quarterfinals.

"I can't say enough about what Matt Harpring meant to Georgia Tech," said Cremins. "I'm really proud of him for coming back for his senior season, and I'm happy that he could go out on a winning note."

MAKING A POINT

From Mark Price to Javaris Crittenton,
Georgia Tech's point guard legacy has been evident in the NBA.

BY DENISE N. MALOOF

UCLA and Georgetown are known for their big men. Add Duke and Indiana's defense, Kentucky and North Carolina's overall excellence and you have some of the game's most enduring positional traditions, not to mention talent pools.

Georgia Tech's legacy to the college basketball world has been at the point, where many former standouts went on to ply their trade as NBA professionals.

It began as serendipity in 1982, when a little-known kid from Enid, Oklahoma decided to give the Atlantic Coast Conference's newest entry a try. What started with Mark Price has produced seven players who have garnered NBA credentials during the last decade, including three of Tech's ACC-record 10 rookie of the year award winners.

MARK PRICE (1983-86) is perhaps the most revered name in Georgia Tech basketball annals. He set the standard for Tech point guards, amassing more than 2,000 points, 500 assists and a Tech record 240 steals. He burst onto the scene in 1983 and became the first freshman to lead the venerable ACC in scoring. More importantly, he led the Tech program to national prominence, including the 1985 ACC title and NCAA Final Eight.

Drafted by the Dallas Mavericks, he was traded to Cleveland, where he became a favorite of former Cleveland and Atlanta coach Lenny Wilkens, plus a four-time NBA All-Star and a member of Dream Team II in 1994. Among Price's many statistical accomplishments is the top career free throw percentage in NBA history. He finished his career as Cleveland's all-time leader in assists and three-point field goals, and the Cavaliers honored him by retiring his jersey in 1999.

CRAIG NEAL (1987-88) was as outgoing as Price was subdued, but the two were great friends. Known as "Noodles," for his angular physique, Neal set the school assist record of 659 and notched an ACC-record 303 during his senior season, a mark that still stands today. His 19 assists in a game against Duke also still stands as the Georgia Tech record.

Neal was drafted by Portland and played parts of three seasons with the Trail Blazers, Miami and Denver, also logging time in the Continental Basketball Association. He is now an assistant coach at the University of New Mexico.

BRIAN OLIVER (1989) didn't always play point guard, but the popular shooter and member of Tech's "Lethal Weapon 3" trio was the bridge between the departure of Neal and arrival of Kenny Anderson. His versatility, toughness and leadership were his greatest assets.

An Atlanta native and second-round NBA draftee, Oliver played professionally in Italy after a brief NBA career that included a stint with the Atlanta Hawks as well as stops in Philadelphia and Washington and a tour in the CBA.

KENNY ANDERSON (1990-91) is one of those athletes whose first name is sufficient identification. Tech fans know him simply as, "Kenny," the New York school-boy wonder who led Tech, along with Lethal Weapon 3 mates Oliver and Dennis Scott, to the 1990 ACC title and Tech's sole Final Four berth. A left-handed passer, Anderson was almost automatic as the 1990 ACC rookie of the year and his match-ups against then-fellow freshman and Duke point guard Bobby Hurley made for Tech seasonal highlights.

Drafted by the New Jersey Nets after two seasons, Anderson was an NBA All-Star in 1992 and played 14 seasons.

TRAVIS BEST (1992-95) had the unenviable task of succeeding Anderson, but he lived up to it. He led Tech to a Sweet 16 berth as a freshman and scored 2,057 career points in four seasons, including 258 three pointers. He also broke Neal's career assist record with 692, played excellent defense and was a three-time all-ACC choice.

A first-round selection by Indiana in 1995, Best blossomed in the Pacers' backcourt, helping the team reach the 2000 NBA Finals, and now plays in Europe.

DREW BARRY (1993-96) is another guard not officially listed in Tech's point legacy, but, like Oliver, he functioned quite capably as a second point guard. Playing along side the more heralded Travis Best and Stephon Marbury, it was Barry who led the lead the league in assists for three straight seasons, only the third ACC player ever to do so. And it is Barry who is Tech's career assists leader with 724.

The second Barry to play for Tech following shooting guard Jon, Drew Barry was Seattle's second-round pick in the 1996 draft and played for the Supersonics, Golden State Warriors and Atlanta Hawks in the NBA.

STEPHON MARBURY (1996) was a one-year wonder, helping lead Tech to its first outright ACC regular-season title in 1996 and on to the NCAA Sweet 16. He led Tech in scoring with 18.9 points per game and won ACC Rookie of the Year and first-team all-conference honors. A Brooklyn native, he opted to turn pro after his freshman season and was the fourth pick in the 1996 draft. He is now playing for the New York Knicks.

"I thought there'd never be a more publicized guy than Kenny," said Marbury's coach, Bobby Cremins. "Stephon was the most explosive of all of them. He'd get up and dunk the hell out of the ball. Wasn't quite the ballhandler Kenny was. Wasn't quite the shooter Mark was, but he was tall, explosive, and the most physical."

JARRETT JACK (2002-05) wore the same number as his idol Marbury and Travis Best, and did them one better by guiding Georgia Tech to its second Final Four and a berth in the national championship game in 2004. Displaying great leadership and varied skills on the court, Jack became known as much for his devotion to the game with countless hours of film study and his knowledge of the basketball history. He was made the 22nd overall pick in the 2005 NBA draft and began his pro career with Portland.

"I hear people talk about different players, and here's a guy who led his team to the Final Four and was Most Outstanding Player of the regional. When they talk about the best players in the country . . . I know I'm biased, but how can this guy not be mentioned?," said head coach Paul Hewitt. "He's one of the best players in the country, flat out. He's a team player, he defends, he passes the ball, he works on his game, he's a good three-point shooter now. There's not a whole lot Jarrett Jack can't do."

JAVARIS CRITTENTON (2007) grew up a fan of the hometown Yellow Jackets and fulfilled his dream by leading Tech to 20 wins and the NCAA Tournament in 2007 before the NBA selected him 19th overall in its 2007 draft. Named third-team all-Atlantic Coast Conference, Crittenton led the Jackets in scoring (14.1 points per game) and assists (5.9 per game) while shooting 45 percent from the floor.

"We're always better when Javaris plays well," said head coach Paul Hewitt. "It's hard for me to think of somebody else who has as much responsibility as a freshman and is playing as well. No knock on the rest of our guys, but it's not like he's got a consistent 18-and-10 guy hanging around. This kid has led our team."

Mark Price • 1983

"Price probably means more to Georgia Tech than any other freshman in the country. We scouted Tech once and then played them in the Meadowlands. He had a hand in almost 85 percent of their scoring plays. That means he is either getting the steal or rebound to start the break, making the pass to set up the score or putting in the clutch shot." — Pat Kennedy, Iona Head Coach

Bruce Dalrymple • 1984

"Bruce Dalrymple has been extremely important to our success this season. I honestly don't think any other freshman in the conference has meant as much to their ballclub as Bruce has to ours. He scores. He rebounds. He plays excellent defense and he handles the basketball extremely well. And he plays the game with great intensity and a great attitude." — Bobby Cremins, Georgia Tech Head Coach

Duane Ferrell • 1985

"Ferrell, one of the most highly sought players in the country last year, has had the ups and downs of any freshman. But his scoring average is in double figures, and he has shown enough silk in his moves to the basket to leave people gasping at times." — John Feinstein, Washington Post

Tom Hammonds • 1986

"Freshmen aren't supposed to be this good, this polished. This essential. Even at Georgia Tech, where the Atlantic Coast Conference "Rookie of the Year" award has become a permanent fixture, freshmen aren't supposed to be so at home in the world of big time college basketball. But Tom Hammonds, Tech's prize catch, has taken to college ball like it was another pickup game in somebody's backyard back home in Crestview, Fla." — Chuck Thompson, Macon Telegraph-News

Dennis Scott • 1988

"First of all, he's not aware he's a freshman. Second of all, he's not aware of where the three-point line is. He plays so cool. Beyond the fact that he can shoot from the planet Pluto and not blink an eye, he seems to have great court awareness and he doesn't appear to be selfish." — Dale Brown, LSU Head Coach

Kenny Anderson • 1990

"He was the player for this tournament, and this March, and five years from now, when he is as big as any star in the NBA, it will be important that the country first took a good look at him when he was a freshman. When he was 18. There has not been anyone like him in college basketball since Magic and Bird. He is better than Isiah Thomas. Michael Jordan, miracle that he has become, was just not this kind of presence. Not this young." — Mike Lupica, The National

Martice Moore • 1993

"Martice has helped us. He's a good athlete. I know he's been a little inconsistent at times, but he's meant a lot to our team. I really felt he was one of the keys to our ACC championship." — Bobby Cremins, Georgia Tech Head Coach

Stephon Marbury • 1996

"What makes him so special as a point guard is his unique scoring ability. He has a strong body and he works hard on the defensive end . . . He wants the ball late in games. He's not afraid to take the tough shot." — Dick Vitale, ESPN

Ed Nelson • 2002

"He's gone from a guy who in high school could just get the ball and bully his way to the basket to understanding how important it is to screen and set his men up to get good post position." — Paul Hewitt, Georgia Tech Head Coach

Chris Bosh • 2003

"We had to gang-guard him. I think the best way to defend him, and we don't have this, is to have a veteran big guy who's a physical player. We had to trap him and do some different things to keep him off-balance." — Skip Prosser, Wake Forest Head Coach

Derrick Favors • 2010

"Derrick's got all the physical tools that anybody could want, and he is a highly skilled player. I do think we face him at the right time, as a young player." — Brian Gregory, Dayton Head Coach

Georgia Tech is home to 11 ACC "Rookie of the Year" award winners

Georgia Tech and the Atlantic Coast Conference "Rookie of the Year" award seem to go together as easily as peanut butter and jelly. The rookie award has certainly found a home in Atlanta. A Yellow Jacket freshman has won the award 11 times in the last 28 years.

The dominance began with an unprecedented streak of four straight rookie winners with Mark Price in 1983, Bruce Dalrymple in 1984, Duane Ferrell in 1985, and Tom Hammonds in 1986.

The all-America guard Price started the string in 1983, becoming the first freshman to lead the ACC in scoring with a 20.3 average. He bested NC State's Ernie Myers and Duke's Johnny Dawkins for the award.

One year later Dalrymple's all-around excellence made him Tech's second winner. Dalrymple averaged 13.6 points and 6.9 rebounds to edge UNC's Kenny Smith, Duke's Tommy Amaker and Maryland's Keith Gatlin.

Ferrell emerged as a high-flying small forward whose spectacular play kept Tech's streak alive in 1985. He averaged double figures throughout the season, but his average dropped to 9.1 after a knee injury in the ACC Tournament limited his play. Ferrell outdistanced Maryland's Derrick Lewis for the honor.

Hammonds burst onto the ACC scene in 1986 with the poise and presence of a veteran. The power forward ranked among the ACC leaders in field goal percentage while averaging 12.2 points and 6.4 rebounds per game. He won over a talented class, including North Carolina's Jeff Lebo and Duke's Danny Ferry.

After UNC's J.R. Reid broke the streak in 1987, Dennis Scott revived the tradition in 1988. Scott made a profound impact on Tech's fortunes when he led all ACC freshmen in scoring at 15.5 points and ranked 12th overall. He was also the ACC's most prolific three-point shooter. Scott's competition included Maryland's Brian Williams and NC State's Chris Corchiani.

Then Kenny Anderson dominated in 1990, not only capturing the ACC, but National "Freshman of the Year" honors as well. He set a standard that may never be broken by winning the ACC "Rookie of the Week" award 10 times. On Tech's Final Four team, Anderson averaged 20.6 points, 8.1 assists and 5.5 rebounds as he became just the second freshman in league history to make the all-ACC first-team.

Swingman Martice Moore added his name to the list with solid campaign in 1993 that helped Tech win an ACC title. Moore, who edged Maryland's Johnny Rhodes and Exree Hipp, averaged 10.5 points and 4.6 rebounds.

As Anderson had six years earlier, Stephon Marbury arrived at Tech as a highly-publicized and immensely talented point guard from New York City. And like Anderson, Marbury garnered first-team all-ACC honors along with the Rookie of the Year award, for which he outdistanced another freshman all-conference selection, UNC's Antawn Jamison. Marbury averaged 18.7 points a game and helped Tech capture its first outright ACC regular season title.

Ed Nelson and Chris Bosh captured the honor in consecutive years in 2002 and 2003. Nelson, a 6-8 forward, won in a close competition, establishing post presence on a small Tech squad against taller opponents nearly all season long, ranking 10th in the ACC with 6.8 rebounds per game. Bosh dominated the league's freshmen in 2003, leading the ACC overall in field goal percentage (56.0) and blocked shots (2.16) while ranking eighth in scoring (15.6) and second in rebounding (9.0).

The award returned to Tech's campus in 2010 when Derrick Favors, rated the nation's top high school player, fulfilled expectations by easily winning the honor, topping all the ACC freshmen in scoring, rebounding, field goal percentage and blocked shots.

ONE OF A KIND

Under Bobby Cremins, Georgia Tech went from doormat to perennial contender, a force to be reckoned with in a tradition-rich conference.

By Barry Jacobs

Bobby Cremins is one of a kind, as a coach and a person. And because of who he is, as much as what he did, Georgia Tech commands a prominent place in college basketball.

"We rely so much in recruiting on the tradition, on the success he's had in the past," says Paul Hewitt, his successor as coach of the Yellow Jackets. "He built the Georgia Tech tradition."

Cremins inherited a program that, while estimable under coach John "Whack" Hyder, made a single NCAA appearance prior to the young coach's arrival for the 1981-82 season. Cremins came to a school that, in its first two years of competition in the Atlantic Coast Conference in 1980 and 1981, notched a cumulative 12-41 record, 1-29 in league competition. Some Tech fans attended games wearing paper bags over their heads. A section of 2,000 seats at Alexander Memorial Coliseum often sat empty, purchased by fans at other schools so they could qualify for ACC Tournament tickets.

By the time Cremins stepped aside following the 2000 season, Tech had made 10 NCAA appearances, including nine straight from 1985 through 1993, and enjoyed a fearsome homecourt advantage at the Thrillerdome. The 1990 squad reached the Final Four for the first and only time in school history. The Jackets tied for first place in the ACC in '85 and finished alone atop the standings in 1996. They won a trio of ACC titles — in 1985, 1990 and 1993 — and posted 13 consecutive winning seasons and 15 in Cremins' 19 years on the job.

The program produced the ACC player of the year in '90 in Dennis Scott, eight rookies of the year in the 14 seasons from 1983 through 1996,

"HE IS MY ALL-TIME FAVORITE COACH IN ANY SPORT. HE IS UNPRETENTIOUS, PASSIONATE, HONEST AND CARING. HE WILL TELL YOU WHAT HE THINKS, AND HE USUALLY TELLS YOU IN PLAIN WORDS FULL OF FUN AND COMMON SENSE."

13 first team All-ACC selections, and a dozen first-round NBA draft choices.

In short, under Cremins' guidance Georgia Tech went from doormat to perennial contender, a force to be reckoned with in a tradition-rich conference. Perhaps no one in the 50-year history of ACC basketball ranks as a greater program builder.

"Bobby was a very good coach," Homer Rice, the retired Tech athletics director who hired Cremins, says. "He was a heck of a recruiter and one of the finest persons I ever worked with. He was always upbeat. He was a fighter."

Yet Cremins fought without rancor. He could be as animated and competitive as any of his coaching colleagues, leaping and gesturing along the sidelines throughout a game, trademark grey hair flopping wildly, but could go years without earning a technical foul.

Cremins could be painfully honest, particularly about his own shortcomings or those of his team. Following one particularly decisive road defeat, Cremins actually apologized. "It's a great league and I was embarrassed for the league," he said. "I was embarrassed for Georgia Tech. I was embarrassed for all my friends."

He could be stunningly mindless of appearance, as when he conducted a media teleconference from the comfort of a bathtub, the acoustics giving him away. He could be uncommonly casual, inviting movie stars and others into his locker room to chat immediately prior to a game.

Other coaches sagely revealed their technical expertise. Cremins, almost devoid of pretense, made little effort to impress listeners with his grasp of X's and O's. Sometimes he forgot the names of opposing players, or whether they were even in the game at key junctures.

Still, he was three times voted the ACC coach of the year (1983, 1985, 1996), a total exceeded only by two Hall of Fame coaches, North Carolina's Dean Smith and Duke's Mike Krzyzewski. Cremins brought his infectious grin and easily mimicked Bronx accent to Atlanta a year after Krzyzewski arrived at Duke and Jim Valvano landed at N.C. State.

"Everybody thought I was crazy," he says of his decision to leave a successful perch at Appalachian State in Boone, N.C., for a foundering program in a power league, "but I felt like the ACC was just a great conference. Tech was a great academic school, sometimes too hard. And then of course the city of Atlanta, Atlanta is a big-time city. I thought the job had a lot of things to offer."

So he became one of what he calls "the young guns" who soon transformed the balance of power in the ACC.

"To me, Tech became my American dream," Cremins says. "Coaching at Georgia Tech was me living the American dream. It was also a personal dream for me to coach in the league I played in. Coaching at Georgia Tech also fulfilled that."

Cremins had played guard at South Carolina, finishing in 1970, a year before the Gamecocks left the ACC. "I owe everything to Frank McGuire," Cremins says of his coach. "He gave me my start, he gave me my opportunity."

South Carolina was heavily favored to win the 1970 ACC title and advance to the Final Four. McGuire, who coached an undefeated UNC team to the 1957 NCAA championship, called the '70 USC squad his best ever. But the Gamecocks were stopped in the ACC Tournament final, defeated in overtime by N.C. State after the ball was stolen from Cremins. Only one team from each league was invited to the NAAs back then; South Carolina went nowhere.

"Not winning an ACC championship my senior year almost ruined my life," Cremins recalls. "Unfortunately, I still have nightmares about that. Not as bad as it used to be."

So when he built Tech's program to competitive status, going from cellar to title in four years, Cremins felt both satisfaction and relief. "That meant we had arrived," he says of the 1985 ACC Tournament championship. "Everbody said we couldn't beat North Carolina the third time (that season). It was right there in Atlanta. To me personally, one of the reasons I wanted to coach in the ACC was to win an ACC championship ring that I lost as a player..."

"In '85, when that game was over, that was the championship I lost. I'll always remember thinking about that. It took a lot of pain away for me."

Tech's transformation began with the arrival of a pair of key recruits, Brooklyn big man John Salley and Oklahoma guard Mark Price, who in 1983, aided by a short, experimental 3-pointer, became the first and only freshman to pace the ACC in scoring. "There were not a lot of expectations," Cremins remembers, "so anything we did was a positive. Obviously, getting Mark Price and John Salley, that's what started it all. Those two guys put us on the map."

The good times rolled with refreshing warmth, producing dais scenes at post-game press conferences where players draped arms around their coach's shoulders and teased him with little compunction. "It's more like an older brother-younger brother relationship," Salley said in 1985. "He's more than a coach."

The parade of exceptional players continued unabated — Bruce Dalrymple, Duane Ferrell, Tom Hammonds, Brian Oliver, Dennis Scott — as Cremins conjured talented groups of prep stars and gave them the freedom to learn and grow on the court.

The arrival of New York playmaker Kenny Anderson, perhaps the nation's top prospect, put the finishing touches on a 1989-90 squad that advanced to the Final Four.

"Kenny Anderson, we knew once he arrived on campus he was special," Cremins says. "Dennis had some weight problems the first two years, and he lost some weight and he was a different player. And Oliver was the heart and soul. You could just tell that those three guys on the court were really something. It was almost like you didn't have to coach."

The trio, dubbed "Lethal Weapon 3," accounted for 79 percent of Tech's scoring and became the first trio of 20-point scorers on one ACC team. Big men Johnny McNeil and Malcolm Mackey and reserve guard Karl Brown got the bulk of the playing time in a supportive role.

The Jackets finished 28-7, the most victories by a Tech squad. Scott led the ACC in scoring with a 27.7-point average, highest in 15 years. Anderson was the 1990 Rookie of the Year and the second freshman ever voted first-team all-ACC. Oliver was the MVP of the ACC Tournament.

"They're fun to watch play, unless you have to be on the other sideline," said Virginia's Terry Holland. Cremins and the Yellow Jackets visibly enjoyed the ride. "I just wish we could bottle it and save it," Oliver said of the experience.

The Jackets led UNLV, the eventual champs, by seven at halftime, but fell, 90-81 in the national semifinals. "I remember after the game I said, 'OK, we learned a lot,'" Cremins says. "We'll get back next year."

But Scott left a year early to enter the pro draft following the 1990 season. "That was a shocker," Cremins says. "Those things weren't happening too often during that time...It was something we weren't real prepared for, and we did slip."

Other talented players kept coming, even as Anderson left in '91 following his sophomore season. A group keyed by forward James Forrest and point guard Travis Best surprised everyone by winning the 1993 ACC title. Mackey, '93 Rookie of the Year Martice Moore, and Drew Barry were the other major components of the squad.

There were distractions, however. South Carolina was courting Cremins to return as its head coach. He vacillated for months. Tech got bounced in its NCAA opener by Southern University, coached by Ben Jobe, a former Cremins assistant. Shortly afterward Cremins announced he was going to his alma mater. Almost as quickly, he said he couldn't bear to abandon folks at Georgia Tech and did an about-face.

"The South Carolina thing, that personally knocked me out for a good three to four months," Cremins says. "That was the worst period of my life. That was my mid-life crisis."

Tech's run of nine straight NCAA bids ended in 1994. Another blow landed in 1995 when, despite a .500 record and fifth-place in a league that saw a four-way tie for first, the Jackets were snubbed by the NCAA Tournament selection committee.

Then, in a move that surprised Cremins, premier guard prospect Stephon Marbury committed to Georgia Tech. Once Marbury meshed in the backcourt with Drew Barry, they led a squad with sophomore forwards Matt Harpring and Mike Maddox and junior center Eddie Elisma to a first-place ACC finish and a berth in the 1996 ACC Tournament final. "We just got on a roll that was really, really fun," Cremins says.

The '96 Jackets returned to the NAAs for what proved the last time under Cremins, as again an early departure for the NBA, this time by Marbury after a single season, proved debilitating.

Untimely injury, another early departure by Dion Glover, and recruiting stumbles took their toll. "I said to myself one time, if we ever don't go to the Big Dance four straight years, then I need to take a hard look at what I'm doing," Cremins says. So, with a handful of games remaining in the 2000 season, he announced his retirement as Georgia Tech coach effective at year's end. A one-point loss in the ACC Tournament play-in game, accompanied by a standing ovation from the appreciative crowd, concluded a tenure that produced a 354-237 record, more victories at an ACC post than anyone except Smith and Krzyzewski.

"I think in my 28 years as a head coach, I have never met a more honorable opponent or great guy than Bobby Cremins," Krzyzewski, a fierce rival, says. "I love him and adore him. Look, I'm about to cry. He made me cry a lot."

Cremins, intent on leaving Tech "the right way," as he put it, moved to Hilton Head Island in South Carolina and kept his distance from Georgia Tech basketball. "When I left Tech, I wanted to cut all ties. I wanted Paul Hewitt to have his own program and get out of his way."

Removed from the limelight, Cremins spent more time with wife Carolyn, continued his avid reading, became a golfing regular, considered a few coaching offers, and stayed close to the game by getting involved in television broadcasting. "I do miss the action sometimes," he admits. This season he did color commentary on ACC and Southern Conference games for Fox Sports South, as well as a pair of studio shows, and a few broadcasts for Jefferson-Pilot.

"We have a life of leisure and luxury," Cremins says from his home. "We have a great life. I live on the Intracoastal Waterway. It's just a beautiful place. My wife and I are very happy here."

Meanwhile, almost as soon as Hewitt was hired Georgia Tech athletics director Dave Braine broached the idea of honoring Cremins. "The fact of the matter is, it's the right thing to do," says Hewitt, who thoroughly endorses the idea of naming the court at Alexander after his predecessor. "I guess it's a way for us to say thanks for all the things he did at Georgia Tech."

Cremins may have kept his distance, but Hewitt finds the former coach is always available and supportive when needed. "I can't tell you how much of a help he's been," Hewitt says. "That's the type of person he is."

That personal generosity, plus good staffs, a penchant for attracting outstanding players, and a gift of leadership helped Georgia Tech build the national profile it enjoys today.

Barry Jacobs has covered ACC basketball since 1976 and is the author of "Golden Glory: The First 50 Years of the ACC." Cremins has been the head basketball coach at the College of Charleston since 2006.

Your Father Away From Home

Nine wins over Kentucky and trips to the NCAA and NIT were only a small part of Whack Hyder's legacy

John "Whack" Hyder recalls a conversation back in 1955 with The Baron, Kentucky's legendary basketball coach Adolph Rupp, who was in town to face the Yellow Jackets on the Georgia Tech campus.

"Coach Rupp asked me if I would meet and talk with him after practice here," related Hyder, referring to tiny Heisman Gym, where the Jackets played their home games. "I said yes."

"When I showed up, he was surrounded by his team. He asked me two questions."

What's your aim in basketball?

What do you expect to accomplish in a gym like this?

Hyder said, "I told him my first aim was for our kids to lead a good moral life. Next I wanted them to graduate. And third, when it came time, I wanted them to concentrate on basketball."

"You can't do that," replied Rupp. "Boys aren't that way any more."

That same season, Hyder, the man of folksy, homespun philosophy, pulled two stunning upsets of number one ranked Kentucky, thus starting Hyder's reputation as a giant killer. Hyder lost to the fabled Rupp and his Kentucky team 16 times in his coaching career. That was no disgrace. Hyder won nine times. That was an unheard-of feat.

Born July 10, 1912 in Lula, Ga., Hyder was one of the best all-around athletes in Georgia Tech history, lettering in basketball, baseball, cross country and track. He also earned a freshman letter in football, the sport in which he received his scholarship to Georgia Tech because there were no basketball scholarships in those days.

After graduating from Georgia Tech in 1937, he signed a professional baseball contract and played three years in the New York Yankees farm system.

After a stint in the U.S. Navy during World War II, Hyder returned to Tech in 1946. He was hired as an assistant basketball coach by Director of Athletics William Alexander, the same man who had offered him a scholarship to Tech after watching him play basketball for Monroe A&M prep school.

Hyder was elevated from assistant to head coach prior to the 1951-52 season, and for 22 years, he guided the Yellow Jacket basketball fortunes. He retired on St. Valentine's Day in 1973. He won games and lost games, including the first NCAA appearance in school history in 1960 and two trips to the finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

Hyder was twice named SEC Coach of the Year, and he is a member of the Georgia Tech Hall of Fame and the State of Georgia Sports Hall of Fame.

Hyder compiled an overall record of 292-271 (.519) and was Tech's winningest basketball coach until surpassed in 1996 by Bobby Cremins. For the years in which his teams played in Alexander Memorial Coliseum, which opened in 1956-57, Hyder's record was 251-189 (.570).

But there was much more to Hyder than

"HE MADE ME FEEL LIKE A MEMBER OF THE FAMILY. HE TALKED MORE ABOUT THE IMPORTANCE OF A GOOD EDUCATION THAN HE DID ABOUT BASKETBALL. I FELT LIKE PLAYING FOR COACH HYDER WAS GOING TO BE A POSITIVE INFLUENCE ON MY LIFE. AND IT WAS."

ALL-AMERICA ROGER KAISER

coaching games.

"The thing about Coach Hyder," recalled one of his superstar players, Rich Yunkus, "is that he treated all his players as human beings and not as animals being led by the nose. He had a genuine concern for his players and he was proud. All but one of those who played for him the full four years graduated.

"Above all, he insisted upon an education and this he told every recruit."

Roger Kaiser, who played for Hyder from 1958-61 and became the first all-America in Tech history, concurred.

"He was my father away from home. I always respected him. I wanted to give him 100 percent effort, 100 percent of the time. He made me feel I was wanted and needed. He got his message across to the players, and he did without belittling anyone."

Kaiser, who won four NAIA national titles as a head coach, was a highly recruited prepster from Dale, Ind., who was headed for Vanderbilt or Indiana when he met Hyder and changed his plans.

"Coach Hyder was warm, empathetic," said Kaiser. "He made me feel like a member of the family. He talked more about the importance of a good education than he did about basketball. I felt like playing for Coach Hyder was going to be a positive influence on my life. And it was."

Long after he retired, Hyder remained active in the program, coordinating the annual Alumni Game.

"I consider Coach Hyder a close personal friend and a man I truly respect," said Cremins.

Upon Hyder's retirement following the 1972-73 season, at Whack Hyder Night given by friends and former players, he said, "All of you know me as Whack. But my name is Johnny and tonight I feel like my last name's Wooden.

"I'm not the greatest coach in the world, not by any stretch of the imagination, but I'm a very grateful and humble man tonight."

Kentucky Killer

Perhaps the most amazing statistic of Whack Hyder's tenure at Georgia Tech is his record against the powerful Kentucky teams coached by the Baron, Adolph Rupp.

From 1951, when he took over the Tech program, through 1964, when the Yellow Jackets left the Southeastern Conference, Hyder's teams posted a 9-16 record against the mighty Wildcats.

To put that in perspective, Hyder's nine victories against Kentucky were twice as many as any other SEC school during that period. The next best record was by Vanderbilt at 5-20. Three SEC schools—Georgia, Florida, and Mississippi—did not record a single victory against the Wildcats during that time, and four others had two or fewer wins.

Hyder's most famous win over the Wildcats was his first one, on Jan. 8, 1955, when a Tech team that would finish with a 12-13 record went into Memorial Coliseum and knocked off No. 1-ranked Kentucky, ending a 129-game home winning streak. That was the first of three victories over top-ranked Kentucky squads.

In 1963, Hyder again took his team to Lexington and downed the 'Cats in double overtime, becoming the first coach to defeat Rupp three times on his home court.

COACH HYDER is congratulated by Terry Randal I and others after a 71-52 win over Kentucky in 1958.

'HELLO, AL'

For 43 seasons, legendary radio voice Al Ciraldo made expressions like "Brothers and Sisters" and "the clock ticks" as much a part of Georgia Tech basketball as Buzz and Bobby Cremins.

Georgia Tech has lost a legend," said Tech Director of Athletics Dave Braine upon Ciraldo's death on Nov. 7, 1997 at the age of 76. "He was a legend in Georgia Tech athletics, just like Bobby Dodd."

Ciraldo retired from Tech's broadcast team in 1997, completing an on-air career that began in 1935 as play-by-play voice for the minor-league baseball Akron Yankees and spanned 62 years, the last 43 of them with Georgia Tech.

Ciraldo stepped down from play-by-play announcing prior to the 1992-93 season but served as host for Tech's pregame, halftime and postgame shows. He was recently elected to the Georgia Radio Hall of Fame and the Georgia Sports Hall of Fame

A 1948 graduate of the University of Florida with a degree in radio broadcasting, Ciraldo actually came to Atlanta in 1949 as the play-by-play announcer for the University of Georgia's basketball broadcasts at WGBE-Radio.

He joined the staff at WGST-Radio and broadcast his first Tech football game in 1954 against Tulane. His first Tech basketball game was against Sewanee that same year. Over the next 38 seasons, he called 416 football and 1,030 basketball games for the Rambling Wreck.

In 1984, Ciraldo moved with Tech from WGST to WCNN.

"Everyone knows how much Al Ciraldo's meant to Georgia Tech," said head basketball coach Bobby Cremins. "But he's meant so much to Bobby Cremins as well. As far as I'm concerned, he's a legend and a part of Georgia Tech that can never be replaced. The Al CiralDOS of his time only come around once in a lifetime."

Dr. Homer Rice, who retired in 1997 after 17 years as Tech's Director of Athletics, said of Ciraldo, "His deep-seated love for Georgia Tech was matched only by the affection of Georgia Tech and its fans, friends and alumni towards him."

Kim King, Ciraldo's longest radio partner as the two teamed on Tech football for 17 years, said "It will be hard to imagine Georgia Tech without Al Ciraldo in the radio booth. But I admired him more than as just a radio announcer. He was a unique individual who stood for old-fashioned values and virtues you don't see a lot of these days."

Thad Horton was his first partner in 1954, and during the 1960s, Pat Williams, future general manager of the Orlando Magic, worked with Ciraldo for two seasons.

THE AL CIRALDO FUND WAS ESTABLISHED TO BENEFIT ATHLETIC AND NON-ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIPS AT GEORGIA TECH, AS WELL AS THE CARLYLE FRASER HEART CENTER AT CRAWFORD LONG HOSPITAL.

Al Ciraldo, with his wife Ruth, daughter Barbara and Director of Athletics Dave Braine, was presented the "T" from the Tech Tower on Sept. 27, 1997.

The Voice of the Jackets

Henry F. McCamish, Jr., Basketball Complex

Georgia Tech's Alexander Memorial Coliseum, home to Yellow Jacket basketball for more than 50 years, is now part of a complex named for the 1950 Tech graduate and successful insurance and financial planning executive.

Blessed with excellent sightlines and more than 9,000 seats in an intimate setting, there is no better facility in the nation in which to see a game.

Dubbed "The Thrillerdome" as a tribute to the many dramatic finishes to games there in the Atlantic Coast Conference era, the Coliseum has undergone three major renovations since 1986. The last major project, completed in 1996, involved many structural changes designed to transform the historic arena into a modern, functional and comfortable facility with virtually every aspect of the interior and exterior upgraded.

Prior to the 2002-03 season, standing room areas for students were added on the floor of the Coliseum behind each basket, helping to create even more of a homecourt advantage for the Yellow Jackets, and more premium courtside seating was added on both sides of the court. New scoreboards were added, as well as new "Buzz Vision" video boards.

This year, work was completed in October for the Zelnak Center, a state-of-the-art practice facility for Tech's men's and women's teams, a 20,000-square-foot building that includes a theater for meetings and videotape review, and a modern weight room.

In the next few years, spurred by a lead donation in the name of insurance and financial executive Henry F. McCamish, Jr., Tech's home arena will undergo a dramatic renovation. Currently, the Henry F. McCamish, Jr., Basketball Complex is the area bounded by 10th Street, Fowler Street and Eighth Street and includes the Alexander Memorial Coliseum, the Zelnak Center practice facility, and the James K. Luck Building which houses the locker room facilities for both Tech basketball teams.

Since its opening on Nov. 30, 1956, the Coliseum has grown in capacity from less than 7,000 to more than 9,000. The venerable arena has hosted some of the best basketball played in the South. From Roger Kaiser's laser-like jump shot to Rich Yunkus' unstoppable scoring to the modern-day excitement of ACC battles, Alexander Memorial Coliseum has lived up to its nickname of "The Thrillerdome."

Alexander Memorial Coliseum also hosted the boxing venue for the 1996 Centennial Olympic Games and was a temporary home for the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 seasons. A nine-month, $13-million re-creation began immediately following the 1994-95 season and was completed in January of 1996.

The project involved, first of all, lowering the floor by four feet to allow for increased courtside seating and improved sightlines. The tunnel entrance was rerouted from midcourt with the teams now entering the floor from a tunnel at the southeast corner of the court, which includes an elevator to the Tech locker room area.

Many of the former bench seats were converted to chairbacks, and air conditioning was installed for the first time through a gift from the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games (ACOG) and York Air Conditioning. New scoreboards were installed, and improvements to the lighting and sound systems also enhanced the facility.

Twelve luxury suites were added at the top of the Coliseum along the south side, with the possibility of adding 12 additional suites at a later date. Each suite seats 14 people.

Perhaps the most drastic change occurred on the concourse level, where a much wider and more plush walkway provides for improved restrooms, concessions and merchandise outlets as well as creating a place to showcase Georgia Tech's basketball heritage.

The outside appearance of the Coliseum also changed dramatically, using a brick exterior with large bay windows, but the familiar domed roof remains clearly visible.

The architecture firm of Smallwood, Reynolds, Stewart and Stewart was responsible for the design, while Hardin Construction was the construction manager.

Alexander Memorial Coliseum underwent a $3 million renovation prior to the 1986-87 season that dramatically changed the appearance and capacity of the 'Dome'. The renovation was the first of such magnitude since the facility opened for the 1956-57 season.

This first renovation of the Coliseum saw the addition of 2,150 seats, boosting seating capacity to over 9,000. The seats were made possible by the addition of seven rows of chairback seats around the rim of the Coliseum. The additional seats were built in the area where a walkway around the rim previously existed. A 15-foot wide corridor was added to the outside, which was glass-enclosed with access via portals into each of the aisles.

Two new banks of lights were added on either side of the court to increase the lighting to national television network standards.

The expansion and improvement of facilities continued prior to the 1987-88 season when the James K. Luck Building, located adjacent to the Coliseum, was dedicated. The two-story Luck Building features spacious locker rooms, offices and training rooms for both the men's and women's basketball programs.

In another renovation completed prior to the 1989-90 season, the Coliseum added nearly 700 new seats, including courtside box seats in the end zones and on the North side of the court, and seating for individuals and media on the tunnel side. This project filled in areas on the floor level which previously were empty, and allowed Tech fans to sit closer to the court.

While Alexander Memorial Coliseum has changed its look in the last two decades, Tech's winning ways at home have remained the same. Since 1981-82, Tech has posted an impressive 285-79 record. Against non-league foes, the Jackets have lost only eight times in 158 games since 1981-82. In the 50-year history of the Coliseum, Tech has a 523-179 mark.

The Coliseum was completed in September, 1956, at a cost of approximately $1.6 million. It was built as a tribute to the late William Alexander, Tech's third athletics director and football coach from 1920-1944. Alexander wanted to provide Tech with a physical training center for all students, but he died in April, 1950, before seeing the project completed.

The architect for the building was Tech Associates of Atlanta. Structural engineers were Morris, Boehmig and Tindel; electrical engineer was Charles F. Howe; mechanical engineers were Donald F. Lindstrom and Associates; and the general contractor was the Mion Construction Company, Inc., all of Atlanta.

The structure is circular in design with a diameter of 270 feet. Thirty-two steel ribs support the curved dome structure which weighs approximately 862 tons and covers an area of 71,500 square feet. In 1983, the roofing was replaced by two layers of material which easily expands and contracts with changes in temperature and a copper topping at a cost of $270,000.

Zelnak Center

Brand new practice facility is state-of-the-art with weight room and meeting facilities

With an eye toward helping Georgia Tech's basketball teams with their practice scheduling and provide better resources for skill development, the Yellow Jackets now have a 20,000-square-foot basketball practice facility called the Zelnak Center.

Spurred by a lead gift from Steve and Judy Zelnak, the facility was built at a cost of $5 million and will be open in time for the beginning of pre-season practice in October. Zelnak is chairman, president and chief executive officer of Martin Marietta Materials in Raleigh, N.C., and a current member of the Georgia Tech Advisory Board.

The Zelnak Center is connected to the southeast side of Alexander Memorial Coliseum and includes one full-size court with eight baskets, a 24-seat theater for video instruction and the 2,500-square-foot Robert A. Anclien Strength and Conditioning Center. Heery International was the architect for the project, and Gay Construction Company of Atlanta was the contractor.

"This practice facility is going to help us in so many ways, primarily academically, because we won't have to schedule practice times at so many odd hours. I can't begin to tell you how much it will help our players in skill development, and also in terms of recruiting, being able to bring players and parents in to see how this facility can help them develop."

HEAD COACH PAUL HEWITT

James K. Luck Building

Tech's locker room facility offers plenty of comfort and amenities

The James K. Luck Building, a two-story complex located adjacent to Alexander Memorial Coliseum, provides the Yellow Jackets ample space and comfort before, during and after games and practices.

The Luck Building, which opened in 1987, houses a spacious locker room with a lounge area, weight room, training room and offices for the Tech coaching staff.

Tech's locker room, located on the second floor, is constantly being updated and redecorated, maintaining one of the nation's premier facilities. The first floor houses the dressing room for Tech's women.

The NBA's Atlanta Hawks also used the facility when they played a portion of their schedule at Alexander Memorial Coliseum during the 1997-98 and 1998-99 seasons.

Georgia Tech's Class of 1961 led the building efforts in conjunction with the celebration of its 25th anniversary. Tech contributed $100,000 to the Luck Building, which cost a little more than $1 million initially.

The building is named after Jim Luck, the late Georgia Tech assistant director of athletics who originally spearheaded the construction of the facility. Luck, a Tech graduate and a member of the Institute's Sports Hall of Fame, was an assistant football coach for 22 year and served as head baseball coach for 20 years before spending the final years of his Tech career in athletic administration.

"We're Back at the Thrillerdome"

Alexander Memorial Coliseum wasn't always called the Thrillerdome, but a succession of tight games during the 1983-84 season led Tech radio announcer Brad Nessler to coin the phrase during a broadcast.

Alexander Memorial Coliseum, Georgia Tech's home basketball arena, hasn't always been called "The Thrillerdome."

In fact, in a poll of Atlantic Coast Conference players in 1981, the squat, round arena was picked as the least intimidating court in the ACC. But in the Jan. 3, 1987, Eastern Basketball magazine, Ron Morris wrote, "Now Tech's opponents dread playing in this noise box. It didn't take long for Tech students to get ACC basketball fever, and now it's at a pitch."

The transformation began during the 1983-84 season. That was the year radio announcer Brad Nessler called the Coliseum "The Thrillerdome."

In Alexander Memorial Coliseum that year the Yellow Jackets were 13-1, including a 5-1 mark against conference opponents. Five of those ACC games were decided in the final seconds of play, four of them on the last play of the game. One game went to double overtime and another was Tech's first triple-overtime contest in history.

Nessler began calling Alexander Memorial Coliseum "The Thrillerdome" when the Yellow Jackets upended 19th-ranked Virginia 72-71 in that triple overtime game in January, 1984.

Even after John Salley hit two free throws with 59 seconds left in the third overtime to give Tech a four-point lead, head coach Bobby Cremins, the

"TECH HAD WON ITS FIRST ACC GAME OVER WAKE FOREST BY A COUPLE OF POINTS AND DURING NEARLY EVERY GAME, OUR PLAY-BY-PLAY ANNOUNCER, AL CIRALDO, WAS SAYING, 'BROTHERS AND SISTERS, WE'VE GOT ANOTHER THRILLER BREWING. THEN WE HAD THE VIRGINIA GAME AND THAT'S STILL THE BEST BASKETBALL GAME I'VE EVER BEEN AROUND OR BROADCAST. ALEXANDER MEMORIAL COLISEUM WAS TOO MANY WORDS TO SAY ALL THE TIME, AND EVERYBODY IN THE PLACE WAS GOING CRAZY. SO WE CAME BACK FROM A BREAK IN THE SECOND OVERTIME OF THAT GAME AND I SAID, 'WE'RE BACK AT THE THRILLERDOME ...'"

BRAD NESSLER, FORMER COLOR ANALYST FOR GEORGIA TECH RADIO

Yellow Jackets and the 6,645 fans in attendance had to hold their collective breath as the Cavaliers nearly won the game. With 36 seconds on the clock, Rick Carlisle made a three-point field goal to cut Tech's lead to one. After Tech made a turnover, Virginia's Othell Wilson launched the potential game-winning jump shot from the corner, but it banged off the back rim at the buzzer.

Both teams blew opportunities to put the game away before they struggled into the third overtime. Tech had a 10-point lead in the second half, but couldn't hold it. The Cavaliers led 60-55 in the second overtime, but Tech came back and sent the contest to the third extra period when Yvon Joseph sank two free throws to tie the game 63-63.

"It looked like a destiny-type game," Cremins said.

The first conference clash in Alexander that season was against eighth-ranked Wake Forest. An hour and 15 minutes before the game the line at the student gate was two blocks long and hundreds of fans were turned away. Still, spectators were seated three abreast in the aisles and three deep along the ramp behind the top row.

"I saw the line before the game," Cremins said, "and I apologized to those who didn't get in. I started to go out and tell them that the game was on TV if they couldn't get in."

An "emotionally charged audience" of 7,411 watched Tech upset the Demon Deacons when Scott Petway buried a 15-foot jump shot with :03 remaining in regulation to give Tech a 68-66 win.

A few nights after their win over Virginia, the Yellow Jackets slipped by Clemson, 59-52 in "The Thrillerdome." Anthony Byrd came off the bench to break a 50-50 tie with about three minutes left in the game, and then he, Bruce Dalrymple and Mark Price each hit two free throws to sew up the win.

Tech's only loss in Alexander came against Duke in the Jackets' next home game. With the score tied at 68-68, Tech held the ball for 43 seconds trying to set up the game-winning shot. But with six seconds remaining in the game, Duke's David Henderson stole a pass and drove the length of the floor. Salley committed a blocking foul while Henderson attempted a three-footer. With 0:00 showing on the game clock, Henderson missed his first free throw attempt but made the second to give Duke a 69-68 win.

More reasons to call Alexander "The Thrillerdome" came in front of 7,012 fans in Tech's next home game, a double-overtime win over ninth-ranked Maryland.

Tech held the Terrapins scoreless over the last 6:01 of regulation and came back from a 13-point deficit to force the game into overtime. With eight seconds to play in the second extra period, Price passed to Salley who connected on a layup and was fouled by Maryland's Herman Veal.

The Terps called two timeouts to try to ice Salley, but he hit the free throw and gave Tech a three-point lead. Maryland's Keith Gatlin scored on a layup with four seconds remaining, but Dalrymple simply hugged the ball as time ran out.

"That game really solidified us calling it the Thrillerdome," said Nessler. "We thought the dome was going to fall in or be raised by all the noise."

Many more games since have been spiced by electrifying finishes: Dennis Scott's buzzer-beating three-pointers against DePaul in 1988 and North Carolina in 1989, and a 1993 victory over top-ranked Duke that ended a 23-game winning streak for the defending national champions.

Still, those five hotly contested conference games in 1983-84 are why Alexander Memorial Coliseum is now called "The Thrillerdome."

Through the Years

A brief look at how Alexander Memorial Coliseum has evolved in pictures and milestones

Nov. 30, 1956: In the first game at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, Tech falls to Duke, 71-61.

Dec. 5, 1956: Tech records its first win in its new building, 67-64 over Murray State.

Jan. 30, 1961: Tech upsets No. 1-ranked Kentucky, 62-60.

Jan. 15, 1970: Rich Yunkus scores school-record 47 points against Furman

Dec. 29, 1979: Tech hosts first Atlantic Coast Conference game at Alexander, falling to NC State, 73-62.

Feb. 9, 1980: Jackets defeat Virginia and Ralph Sampson, 62-61, for first ACC win.

Jan. 23, 1984: Tech defeats Virginia, 72-71, in triple overtime and radio color analyst Brad Nessler first uses the name, "Thrillerdome."

November, 1986: First major renovation completed prior to the season. Addition of 2,150 seats raises capacity to 9,500. Seats made possible by the addition of seven rows of chairback seats around the rim where a walkway previously existed. A glass-enclosed corridor was added outside, providing access to the seating areas via portals.

November, 1987: James K. Luck Building completed adjacent to the Coliseum, housing new locker room complex for the Rambling Wreck as well as media room and Whack Hyder Room.

November, 1989: Addition of 700 seats, including courtside box seats, filling in areas on the floor level which previously were empty. Capacity is now just over 10,000.

Mar. 1, 1989: Hosting North Carolina at AMC for the first time since 1981, Dennis Scott steals inbound pass and hits three-pointer on game's final play for a 76-74 win.

Jan. 10, 1993: Jackets defeat No. 1-ranked Duke, 80-79, ending the Blue Devils' 23-game winning streak.

November, 1995 - January, 1996: Tech plays its first five home games at The Omni while Alexander Memorial Coliseum is under renovation

Jan. 20, 1996: The recreated Alexander Memorial Coliseum is christened with a 90-70 victory over Virginia. The nine-month, $13-million project involved a four-foot lowering of the floor, addition of 12 luxury suites, an expanded concourse, a new brick and glass exterior, and the installation of air conditioning.

July, 1996: Alexander Memorial Coliseum is the site of the boxing venue for the 1996 Centennial Olympic Games.

1997-98 and 1998-99: As they had before the Omni was built in the early 1970s, NBA's Atlanta Hawks play home games at Alexander Memorial Coliseum while Philips Arena is under construction.

2000-01: The Yellow Jackets begin the Paul Hewitt era at Alexander Memorial Coliseum with three home victories over nationally-ranked teams

2001-02: Additional student seating is added on the floor behind each basket to create more of a homecourt advantage.

Feb. 12, 2006: Tech wins its 500th game in the Thrillerdome over NC State.

April, 2009: Ground is broken for a new team practice facility which is called the Zelnak Center, which will open in October, 2009.

Sept. 9, 2009: The University System of Georgia Board of Regents approves the name Henry F. McCamish, Jr., Basketball Complex for the site which includes Alexander Memorial Coliseum, the Luck Building and the Zelnak Center.

BIRTH OF TECH BASKETBALL

Yellow Jackets' Early Teams Called Many Places Home

Georgia Tech made its intercollegiate basketball debut on Feb. 17, 1906 when, after playing several games in a local amateur league, a matchup was arranged between the Georgia School of Technology, as the Institute was known then, and Auburn University.

The site of the contest was the Peachtree Auditorium and according to the Atlanta Constitution, "a large crowd was present in the auditorium to witness the first struggle between college teams for the supremacy of basketball tossing."

Auburn, under coach Mike Donahue, entered the game as the favorite after beating the Atlanta Athletic Club, 27-18, a week earlier. Tech, on the other hand, had played together only in the Atlanta Basketball League, a circuit in which team members competed to stay in shape for the football and baseball seasons. The lineup for the Yellow Jackets featured the team's captain, Wert, at left forward, Baker at right forward, Sutcliff at left guard and Fosterling at right guard. The center was 6-2 Ed Lafitte, who would go on to pitch professionally for the Detroit Tigers.

The experience of the Auburn team proved to be the difference as The Constitution reported, "In the first 20 minutes of play, Tech made the game interesting for the team from Alabama, but even with the advantage of knowledge of the floor, could not score more than half the points scored by the visitors, this period of playing ending 12 to 6 for Auburn.

"In the second half, Auburn had everything her own way. Tech was unable to score and confined her efforts to limit the points made by their opponents. Auburn scored 14 points making the final 26 to 6."

Baker led Tech in scoring in that first game as he tossed in a pair of field goals while Wert had two points on two free throws. Lafitte was held scoreless, while the guards in that era were strictly defenders.

Despite that initial setback, Tech scheduled two more games that season, both against the University of Georgia, another newcomer to the sport. The Yellow Jackets were victorious in both games against their arch-rival, winning on Mar. 10 in Athens by the score of 27-13, then capturing the return engagement two weeks later, 12-11, in an overtime game at the Peachtree Auditorium.

Heisman Adds Hoops

It was nearly three years before Tech competed in an intercollegiate game again, this time under the guidance of a full-time coach as the legendary John Heisman added basketball to his duties as football and baseball coach.

Still without an on-campus gymnasium, arrangements were made for Tech to play its home games at the St. Nicholas Rink on Ponce de Leon Avenue, a facility that would provide ample room not only for basketball, but for the big dance that would follow each game. Unfortunately, a cold snap swept into the Atlanta area just days before the scheduled opener against Mercer University, forcing Tech to search for an alternative to the unheated rink.

Despite short notice, Tech secured the use of the Cable Piano Company Hall on Broad Street near the Piedmont Hotel. On Jan. 9, 1909, a "goodly crowd" paid 25 cents for admission to the ballroom turned gymnasium to see the Jackets defeat Mercer, 28-8.

Tech's lack of experience after the three-year layoff quickly became apparent as the Rambling Wreck lost its five remaining games to veteran squads from Georgia, Auburn, Tulane and the Atlanta Athletic Club. Still, the season was considered a step in the right direction and plans were made for the following year. The 1909-10 season never materialized, however, as the lack of an adequate playing facility again proved too great an obstacle and the sport was dropped.

First Games On Campus At Crystal Palace

The Athletic Association took a major step toward reviving the game in 1912 with the allocation of $500 to transform the old campus foundry on Cherry Street near Third Street (later the site of the Dean of Students Building) into a basketball arena.

The remodeling involved the plastering of walls, removal of existing obstacles and installation of screens to protect the many windows as well as the addition of a new 25-foot ceiling and the installation of 18 80-power incandescent lights to illuminate the 100' x 50' playing court. Though the cost of the renovation eventually reached $800, on Feb. 23, 1912, the Crystal Palace was ready for play as the Athletic Association sponsored an intraclass basketball doubleheader and free postgame dance. The combination proved popular among the student body and was continued for the next few weeks, setting the stage for varsity competition in 1913.

On Feb. 8, 1913, the Rambling Wreck played its first game ever on campus as Clemson visited the Crystal Palace. Unfortunately, the inaugural intercollegiate game in the Crystal Palace was a disappointing one as the visiting Tigers won, 26-22.

Tech would not win its first game in the EARLY TEAMS like this 1908-09 unit had no on-campus facility in which to play.

GEORGIA TECH'S 1923-24 team (left) was coached by William Alexander. THE HEISMAN GYM (center) was the home of Georgia Tech basketball I through the 1955-56 season. DWIGHT KEITH coached the above right Tech squad to an 11-6 mark in 1944-45.

Crystal Palace until the following season when it defeated Vanderbilt on the way to a 6-2 record. Despite the success of the 1914 team, the program received another setback as the sport was discontinued for financial reasons, again leaving one of the South's athletic powers without a basketball team.

In 1919-20, basketball returned for good as coach William Alexander, the man for whom Alexander Memorial Coliseum is named, organized a team for intercollegiate competition. The Rambling Wreck was again without an on-campus facility suitable for the sport and thus had to make use of any available court. During the 1919-20 season, Tech played four times at the City Auditorium, once at the Atlanta Athletic Club on Auburn Avenue, and once at the YMCA on Luckie Street before playing its last 10 games on the road.

Tech continued to be primarily a road team for the next four seasons, playing no more than six games in any one season on its adopted home floor at the City Auditorium. Joe Bean replaced Alexander as the coach for the 1920-21 season, but after a 4-10 record, Alexander returned to the helm for the next three campaigns. During this time, an on-campus gymnasium was discussed with plans drawn for a facility on Third Street between Techwood and Williams, the current location of Towers and Glenn dormitories. The cost was considered prohibitive, and the Athletic Association elected instead to increase the seating capacity of Grant Field so as to realize additional revenue for a better gym in the future.

Temporary Gym Proves Too Temporary

In November of 1924, a "temporary" wooden gymnasium was erected at the corner of Third Street and Techwood Drive beside Grant Field (the current location of the Edge Center), providing a 2,500-seat structure with a 90' x 50' playing court. After a disappointing 1-6 home record in 1924-25 under new head coach Harold Hansen, the Rambling Wreck established itself on the new floor, winning 29 of its next 37 games as Roy Mundorf took over as head coach for the 1926-27 season. The "Temporary Gym" proved to be all too appropriately named because in the summer of 1931, the building was destroyed by fire, again leaving the Tech basketball program homeless.

With the nation in the midst of the Depression and money for a new facility lacking, Tech had no choice but to move its home games back to the City Auditorium, where it played the next four seasons until the facility was closed for reconstruction.

President Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal recovery program provided salvation for the Tech program as the Civil Works Administration's construction of a new Naval Armory on the former site of the Temporary Gym provided an 1,150-seat facility that allowed the Yellow Jackets to finally settle on campus.

Given the limited seating capacity, admission to games at the Naval Armory was limited to Tech students and faculty, and the Rambling Wreck made the most of the home court advantage. After losing the opening game of the 1935-36 season, Tech compiled a three-year mark of 22-2 on the Armory floor, winning its last 19 games in a row, including perfect slates of 6-0 in 1936-37 and 10-0 in 1937-38.

The 1936-37 Tech squad, captained by future head coach John "Whack" Hyder, posted a 10-0 record in the Southeastern Conference, which was formed in 1932-33 with Georgia Tech as a charter member. The following year, Mundorf's squad marched to its first SEC title with an 18-2 overall record and a 12-2 conference mark.

Heisman Gym Hosts South's First TV Game

In the meantime, appropriations from the Board of Regents as well as another New Deal agency, the Works Progress Administration, allowed work to begin on the Heisman Gymnasium, which was located on Third Street (now Bobby Dodd Way) adjacent to the North Stands of Grant Field until it was razed in 1995.

Designed by the Georgia Tech Architectural Department, the building opened for the 1938-39 season as the first completely reinforced concrete structure on the campus.

With a capacity of just 1,800, admission was again limited almost exclusively to students and faculty, and over the course of 18 seasons in the gym, the Yellow Jackets were a difficult team to beat on their home floor. In an era in which Tech was just 72-151 (.323) away from home, the Jackets sported a home record of 98-61 (.616) at Heisman Gym.

Dwight Keith coached the program for three seasons from 1943-46, including a 14-4 record in 1943-44 and an 11-6 mark in 1944-45. Roy McArthur took over for the 1946-47 season and compiled a 57-72 mark in five seasons before giving way in 1951 to Hyder, who would guide the program for the next 22 seasons.

The Heisman Gym has a place in history as the site of the first intercollegiate basketball game to be televised in the South as WSB-TV broadcast Tech's 81-45 win over Tennessee-Chattanooga on Dec. 11, 1948, just two-and-a-half months after television was introduced to the region. The entire home schedule was broadcast that season, and fans who were unable to obtain a ticket to see the game live could go next door to the Naval Armory and view the contest on one of the many television sets set up for that purpose. Also for the first time, Tech's entire home slate was broadcast by radio.
