Programs of the agency in promoting Alternative medicine in the country, specifically Naturopathy

The Institute is promoting and advocating the use of traditional, alternative, preventive, and curative health care modalities that have been proven safe, effective and cost effective. Promotion and advocacy campaigns are undertaken through quadmedia as well as the provision of training on basic acupuncture in the different Department of Health-retained hospitals, and community-based training on herbal medicine preparation and acupressure in the different barangays and rural health units.
