THE RIGHT PLACE AT THE RIGHT TIME

25,000 SF R & D / OFFICE SPACE

Northrop Grumman’s new state-of-the-art facility at MaxQ@Kirtland is designed for space systems engineering and integrated mission operation services to Kirtland Air Force Base and other U.S. military customers. Working closely with Northrop Grumman to bring their vision to life, MaxQ@Kirtland completed this space in just under 11 months from design approval to full occupancy. This timeline was made possible thanks to MaxQ@Kirtland’s robust public/private partnerships, allowing the development to fast-track design reviews, planning, zoning and other requirements.

Troy Brashear, Vice President at Northrop Grumman stated that MaxQ@Kirtland is “one of the nation’s centers for aerospace. When you look at the infrastructure, the capabilities and the talented workforce in the area, it’s just such a prime spot to support our important customers.”
