WHAT IS THE COST OF LIVING INDEX?

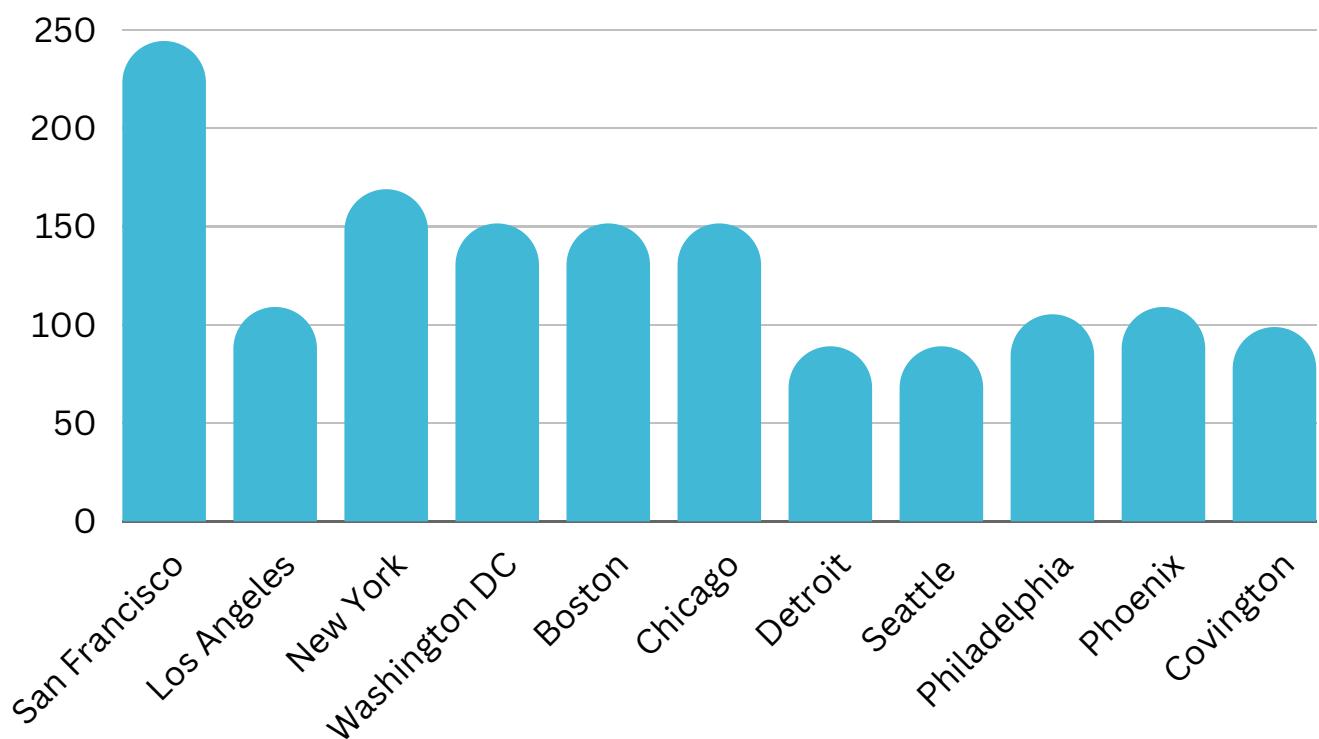

The cost of living index is a statistical tool used to measure the relative cost of goods and services in different geographic locations. It is typically calculated by comparing the prices of a basket of essential goods and services, such as food, housing, transportation, and healthcare, in different cities or regions. The cost of living index provides a useful way to compare the overall affordability of living in different locations, and it is often used by individuals, businesses, and policymakers to inform decisions about where to live, work, or invest. The index is typically expressed as a percentage, with 100 representing the average cost of living in a particular location. A cost of living index above 100 indicates a higher cost of living than the national average, while an index below 100 indicates a lower cost of living

West Regional Highlights

Continuing with the trend of the tech sector's downturn, cities with well-established tech hubs in the Western region have been experiencing a rise in vacancy rates. In February, San Francisco witnessed the highest vacancy rate in the region and the fifth highest nationwide, standing at 19.15%, which is a 2.25% increase from the previous year. The steepest increases in office vacancy rates, however, were observed in the Bay Area and Seattle, recording a rise of 2.77% and 3.26%, respectively.

Market	Feb-23 Listing Rate	YTD Sales Prices PSF	Total Vacancy
San Francisco	$67.25	$566	19.2%
Los Angeles	$42.70	$254	14.6%
Seattle	$38.63	$234	18.2%
National	$38.28	$232	16.5%
Phoenix	$27.38	$198	17.1%
Covington	$21.31	$140	5.3%

Midwestern Markets

Chicago and Minneapolis - St. Paul have consistently displayed sluggish office fundamentals in comparison to other top 25 markets nationwide. Both cities have been witnessing a surge in vacancy rates and listing rates, lagging behind the national average. As of February, the asking rent for office space in Chicago was $28.23 per square foot, which is $10.05 lower than the national average.

Market	Feb-23 Listing Rate	YTD Sales Prices PSF	Total Vacancy
Chicago	$28.23	$41	19.2%
Twin Cities	$26.05	$203	15.5%

INFORMATION PROVIDED BY

Northeastern Markets

According to a recent U.S. office market report, Manhattan has maintained its position as the market with the highest asking rent in the country, reaching $76.04 per square foot in February, a 0.39% increase from the previous month. This is significantly higher than the second-highest rate of $67.25 in San Francisco and the third-highest rate of $57.10 per square foot in the Bay Area. However, most Northeast markets reported asking rates below the national average of $38.28, with Philadelphia having the lowest at $31.24 per square foot. Meanwhile, office vacancy rates in the top Northeast markets mostly remained in the teens, with Brooklyn experiencing the highest rate at 18.6%. Manhattan recorded the fastest growth in vacancy rates in the region, rising by 2.87%.

Market	Feb-23 Listing Rate	YTD Sales Prices PSF	Total Vacancy
Manhattan	$76.04	$1,507	16%
Brooklyn	$44.22	$0	18.6%
Boston	$35.77	$605	9.8%
New Jersey	$33.63	$142	17%
Philadelphia	$31.24	$146	14.3%
