UNLV-San José State Post-Match Notes

San José State's unbeaten streak is now up to six matches. That's the program's longest since its stretch of eight straight results in 2009.

The team's winning streak is now at four matches, marking the program's longest winning streak since it won four straight on the 2017 campaign.

This mark's the program's first stretch of three-straight wins by a single goal since Oct. 5-12, 2012 (2-1 at CSU Bakersfield, 2-1 at UNLV, 1-0 vs. CSU Bakersfield).

SJSU has now earned a result in 11 of its last 13 matches (dating back to last season).

This marks the first year since the 2001 campaign that the Spartans have scored in each of their first eight matches to start a season.

San José State has now won two of its last three matches against UNLV.

Freshman goalkeeper Eric Waltz made his first collegiate appearance on Monday and earned both his first career win and first career shutout.
