TEAM
SAN DIEGO STATE BASKETBALL

Steve Fisher has conducted one of the greatest turnarounds in college basketball history at San Diego State. He has taken a program that won an average of 2.8 wins from the 1982-83 to 1999-00 seasons to postseason play in two of the last three seasons.

STEVE FISHER

SOMETIMES THERE ARE NO ADJECTIVES. SOMETIMES THE PHRASES YOU DON'T DO JUSTICE. SOMETIMES YOU JUST STICK WITH THE BASIC FACTS AND LET THEM TELL THE STORY.

A five-win season followed by a 14-win season. A 14-win season followed by 21 wins, a conference championship and a trip to the NCAA Tournament. An NCAA Tournament appearance followed by a third-straight, 500 or better season, a second consecutive trip to the postseason and the first Division I postgame victory in school history.

IN THE SHORTEST SEASONS, STEVE FISHER HAS CHANGED THE OUTLOOK, FORTUNES AND EXPECTATIONS OF SAN DIEGO STATE BASKETBALL.

The Aztecs have been transformed from the ugly duckling that muddled through the first-ever Mountain West Conference campaign with an 0-14 record into a conference champion. It is a school that now regularly goes toe-to-toe with the west's best basketball programs on the court and in the recruiting wars. It may be the new program on the block but seriously rarely matters in the changing world of college athletics.

IT IS NOW STEVE FISHER'S PROGRAM.

The story only dates back to March of 1999, so referring to the "Steve Fisher Era" at San Diego State might be considered a bit premature. But with the Aztec success under the national championship coach, there is little doubt that San Diego State basketball has reached a new level.

FISHER AT SDSU

2000-2001 = 14-14 Overall/4-10 Mountain West

- San Diego State posts its second .500 or better season in the last 16 years.
- The 14 victories in the 2000-01 season equal the total number of wins the Aztecs posted in the 60 games prior to the season.
- The Sports Rating shows San Diego State is the eighth most improved team in the country, jumping from a possession rating of 268 to 143 in the final ratings.
- San Diego State enjoyed a 73-percent increase in home attendance over the previous season, the second largest jump nationally.
- The Aztecs broke notable losing streaks: five a 17-game overall losing streak, 12-game conference losing streak, 24-game conference road losing streak and a 30-game overall road losing streak.
- Recruiting class is ranked among the top 40, and produces The Sporting News Mountain West Conference Newcomer of the Year in Randy Hirsch.

2002-03 = 16-14 Overall/6-8 MWGNIT Second Round

- San Diego State returns to the postseason for the second consecutive season, making the first time since 1975 and 1976 that the Aztecs appeared in two straight national postseason tournaments.
- San Diego State claims the first victory in the national postseason tournament of its 32-year Division I era history with a win in the first round of the NIT. The Aztecs' last postseason victory came in 1968.
- The Aztecs have a school-record four players earn all-conference recognition as Tony Shand is named by the second team and Evan Stone, Mike Mitchell and Dwanell Moore earned honorable mention.
- For the third straight season, San Diego State's average home attendance jumps by more than 1,000, as SDSU averages a school-record 7,179 for home games. The three-year jump in average home attendance of 173.9 percent is tops in the nation.

1999-2000 = 5-23 Overall/0-14 Mountain West

- First year coach Steve Fisher installs a winning attitude and a belief that great things can happen at San Diego State.
- Fisher instantly gains the San Diego State program credibility and national attention. National media outlets such as ESPN, Los Angeles Times, Chicago Tribune and the Philadelphia Inquirer all do lengthy features on the hapless Aztec coach.

2001-02 = 21-12/7-7 MWC

- San Diego State advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in the school's 28-year Division I history and earned its first NCAA berth since 1983.
- The 21 victories were the second most in the school's Division I era and marked the third consecutive season the Aztecs improved their win total from the previous campaign.
- The Aztecs ended the season with a final RPI of 26, marking the second consecutive season under Fisher the SDSU jumped 100 positions from the previous season's final RPI.
- San Diego State made a school-record 22 live television appearances, including the first two national appearances in the program's history.

2003-2004 = 14-16 Overall/5-9 Mountain West

- San Diego State survived the loss of top center and the nation's 64th most difficult schedule to claim 14 victories making the fourth straight season SDSU has won at least 14 games.
- San Diego State's 61.4 record at Cox Pavilion marked the second best home winning percentage for an Aztec squad in the last 19 seasons (the 2001-02 team went 10-3 at home).
- San Diego State averaged a school-record 6,395 fans per conference home game.
- The Aztecs averaged 6,701 per contest and surpassed 100,000 in total home attendance for the second time in school history.
- Of San Diego State's 30 games in the 2003-04 season, 27 were selected either locally, regionally or nationally, a school record.

A keen eye for talent coupled with the ability to develop new athletic ability is one reason Steve Fisher's Men Play in the NBA.

Fisher has helped 54 student-athletes realize their professional dream of having their names called out and then making the walk to the podium on the world's biggest basketball stage - the NBA Draft.

In June, 2002, San Diego State's Randy Holcomb became the 54th Fisher coached player to be selected in the NBA Draft when the San Antonio Spurs made him their second round selection.

COX ARENA

The San Diego State basketball team has one of the finest on-campus basketball facilities in the country as its home court.

Cox Arena at Astor Bowl enters its seventh season as the home court for the San Diego State men's and women's basketball programs. A 13,414-seat facility that combines state-of-the-art technology with a fan-friendly and close-to-the-floor seating configuration. The arena has already hosted the 2001 NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament and the 2001 NCAA Women's Volleyball national championship. The Aztecs will again play host to the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament in 2006.

In addition, the facility is the premier concert venue in Southern California, as Elton John, Billy Joel, Britney Spears, Creed and Incubus have all recently graced the arena's stage.

GAME DAY AT COX ARENA

Game day at Cox Arena is a spectacle that every college basketball fan must see. Whether it's the Aztec pep band leading the S-D-U Fight Song, the cheerleaders leading the crowd into a frenzy, the dance team performing during timeouts, one thing is for sure: Cox Arena shakes with excitement every time San Diego State takes the floor.

From the booming introductions leading to a crescendo at tip-off, to the storming of the court following another big Aztec victory, game nights at Cox are special.

And no matter whether you are in the front row, in the middle of the wild student section, or at the top of the arena, four video display boards make every seat seem like the front row.

FINEST FACILITIES

SAN DIEGO STATE SPORTS DECK

Tony Gwynne Stadium

In place now on Montecima Mesa are equally some of the finest facilities in the United States and San Diego State certainly tops the charts on the west coast.

The department is now housed in the $30 million, 130,000 square-foot Astor Athletic Center. The new centerpiece of the department, which was dedicated in February of 2002, is located just across the street from Cox Arena and just east of Tony Gwynne Stadium.

On the south, the AAC is flanked by the new Sports Deck, where San Diego State's track and field team, along with both soccer squads, compete.

On the north side, it is connected to Prosser Gym, the home of Aztec volleyball.

The west side of the building opens onto three 100-yard practice fields. One of the fields is natural grass and two utilize field-turf, providing San Diego State daily options for its coaches.

All of SDSU's new facilities, including the athletics center, Cox Arena, Tony Gwynne Stadium and the Sports Deck, have opened since 1995. In the spring of 2005 the San Diego State softball and men's and women's tennis teams will open new facilities and plans are in the works for a brand new on-campus pool for the swimming and water polo teams.

The buildings are not just sparkling new, but they are already postseason tested. Cox Arena, the 15,400-seat basketball facility, has served as a site for the NCAA Men's Basketball Division I Championship (first and second rounds) as well as the NCAA Division I Women's Volleyball National Championship. The NCAA men's basketball tournament is scheduled to return to the facility in 2006.

The Sports Deck has already played host to the Mountain West Conference Track & Field Championships. Tony Gwynne Stadium also was the site of the MWC baseball tournament in 2001.

SDSU IN THE COMMUNITY

The athletic department and the San Diego State basketball program take pride in taking an active role in a number of community projects. Atec players volunteer their time to help support the community that supports San Diego State athletics.

In addition to visiting schools and hospitals, Atec players are always looking for additional ways to help serve the community. For example, the past two years senior Chris Wilson has organized a food drive in conjunction with a men's basketball game to help San Diego area residents in need.

SDSU ACADEMICS

The dual role of student and athlete can be a daunting challenge for many persons at the Division I level. Recognizing that academic challenge, the Student Athlete Academic Support Services program has been developed at San Diego State to assist all student-athletes in achieving academic excellence.

It is a source of pride within San Diego State athletics that the department has developed one of the most comprehensive academic support programs in the country.

Last Spring, four SDSU players, including both seniors in the 2004 class, took part in University commencement ceremonies, including Ben Wardrop (double major), Michael Malice (master's degree), Anick Serleson and Karlo Konevic (graduate honor magna cum laude).

WHY SDSU?

"Growing up in Riverside, my main focus in life was on family and school. As I was deciding on what college to choose, I wanted an institution with an excellent reputation and a basketball team that made me feel like they were my second family. I wanted to know that the program and school I chose was going to make me grow as a person, a basketball player and a student-athlete."

"My first official visit was to San Diego State and I knew immediately that this was the school for me. I felt that the coaching and support staff had my best interest at heart. I know I have made the right decision because the coaches have helped me grow as a basketball player and a respectable person in the community. I have become a well-balanced student-athlete."
—Marion Slaughter

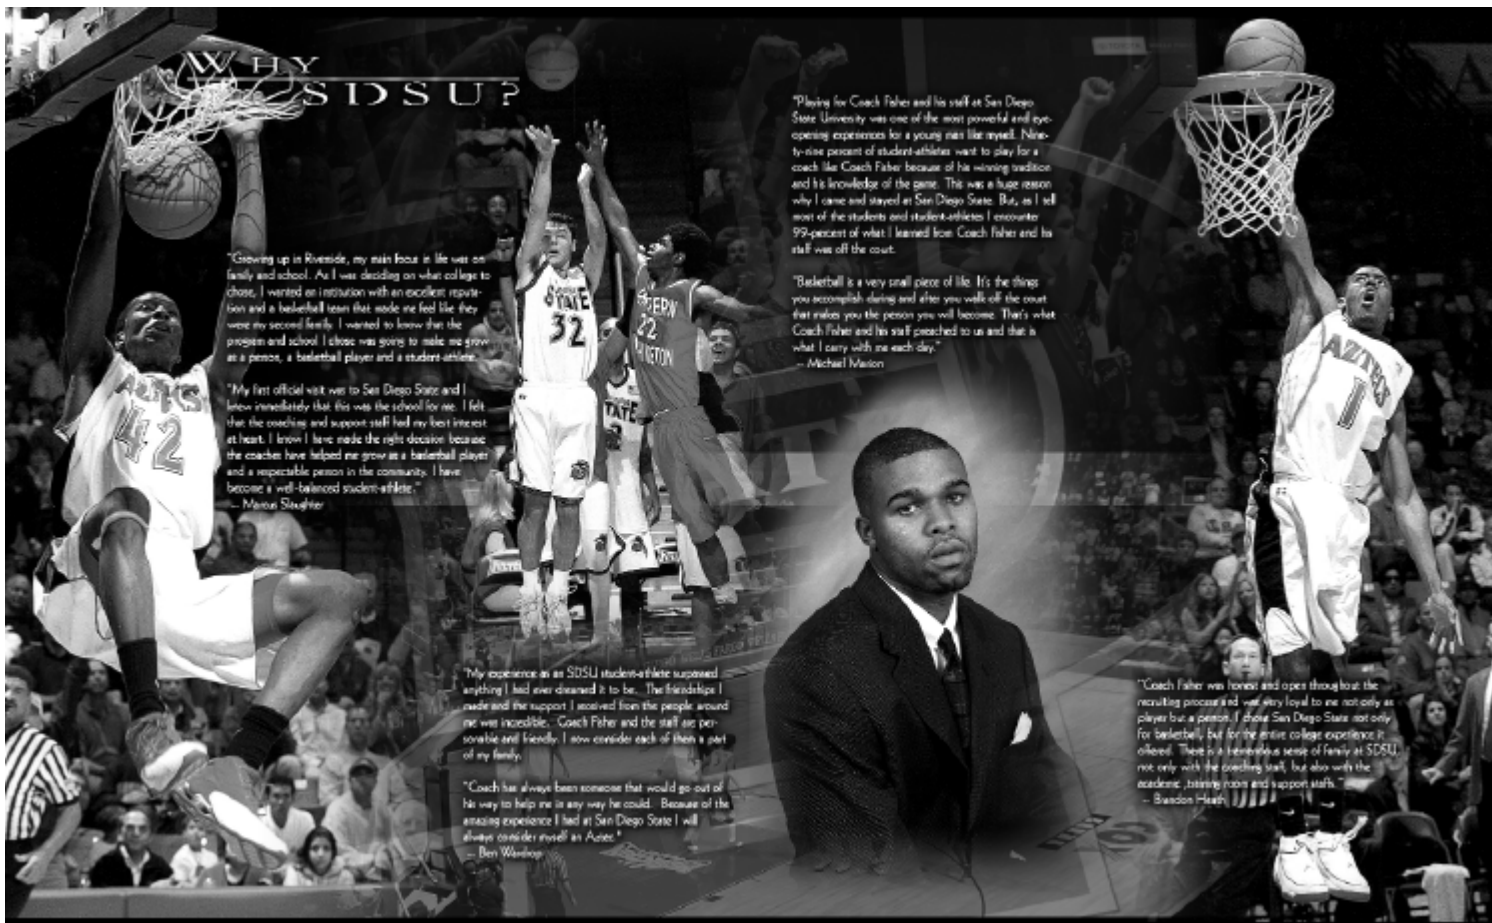

"My experience as an SDSU student-athlete surpassed anything I had ever dreamed it to be. The friendships I made and the support I received from the people around me was incredible. Coach Fisher and the staff are personable and friendly. I now consider each of them a part of my family."

"Coach has always been someone that would go out of his way to help me in any way he could. Because of the amazing experience I had at San Diego State I will always consider myself an Aztec."
—Ben Wainwright

"Playing for Coach Fisher and his staff at San Diego State University was one of the most powerful and eye-opening experiences for a young man like myself. Ninety-nine percent of student-athletes want to play for a coach like Coach Fisher because of his winning tradition and his knowledge of the game. This was a huge reason why I came and stayed at San Diego State. But, as I tell most of the students and student-athletes I encounter 99-percent of what I learned from Coach Fisher and his staff was off the court."

"Basketball is a very small piece of life. It's the things you accomplish during and after you walk off the court that makes you the person you will become. That's what Coach Fisher and his staff preached to us and that is what I carry with me each day."
—Michael Mason

"Coach Fisher was honest and open throughout the recruiting process and was very loyal to me not only as a player but a person. I chose San Diego State not only for basketball, but for the entire college experience it offered. There is a tremendous sense of family at SDSU, not only with the coaching staff, but also with the academic, training room and support staff."
—Brandon Heath

SDSU IS...

RENOWNED

San Diego State is known for its leading programs in education, business, social work, speech language and public administration, to name a few.

OPPORTUNITIES

Students at SDSU can choose from 75 undergraduate majors, 46 master's programs and 13 doctoral degree programs.

COMMUNITY

One in seven San Diegans work at a college. Degree attainment at SDSU.

DIVERSITY

SDSU ranks among the top 10 schools for racial and ethnic diversity.

RESEARCH

SDSU is among the top 200 schools for research expenditures.

Beginning its 108th student's year in fall 2004, San Diego State University can take pride in more than a century of achievement in education, research and service. With an enrollment of more than 33,000 students, SDSU has grown into the largest institution of higher education in the San Diego region and one of the largest in California.

Renowned for its academic excellence, the university is home to 75 leading programs in education, international business, social work, speech-language pathology, biology and public administration, to name just a few. Overall, San Diego State students can choose from 79 undergraduate majors, 47 master's programs and 14 doctoral degree programs.

One in seven San Diegans with a college degree attended SDSU, making San Diego State a primary educator of the region's work force, as well as a leader in expanding access to higher education. Committed to serving the needs of the San Diego region, SDSU ranks among the top universities nationwide in terms of ethnic and racial diversity among its student body, as well as the number of bachelor's degrees conferred upon students of color.

Intensely committed to pioneering research, San Diego State has achieved the prestigious Distinguished University Research designation. This is granted by the Carnegie Foundation to the top 6.7 percent of the nation's research-producing universities. Over the last three years, SDSU faculty and staff have attracted nearly $400 million in grants and contracts for research and program administration. SDSU was ranked among the top 100 public universities nationwide in research expenditures, and SDSU's research funding has doubled from a decade ago.

Private giving to San Diego State has also risen sharply in recent years, reaching a record $12.6 million in the 2001-2002 fiscal year.

SAN DIEGO

The Mountain West Conference was conceived on May 28, 1998 when the presidents of eight institutions - Air Force, Brigham Young, Colorado State, New Mexico, San Diego State, UNLV, Utah and Wyoming - met in Denver and decided to form the MWC. The conference officially commenced operation just a little over a year later on July 1, 1999.

Ironically, half of the Mountain West Conference schools were charter members of the Western Athletic Conference when it was founded in 1962. Utah, Brigham Young, New Mexico and Wyoming, Colorado State (1988) and San Diego State (1978) both competed as WAC members for at least two decades, while Air Force (1988) was also a long-standing member of its conference. UNLV was the most recent addition, joining the group in 1996.

The split from the former 16-team WAC means that the Mountain West Conference is no longer spread across nine states and five time zones.

The MWC, however, has managed to maintain its geographic diversity. Some of the most beautiful geography in the nation can be found within the conference's boundaries, including the unparalleled Rocky Mountain range, which borders four MWC schools (Utah, BYU, Air Force and Colorado State). The high plains of Wyoming (elevation 7,000 feet) contrast with the desert city of Las Vegas (the fastest growing metropolitan area in the West), the balmy weather and Pacific Ocean locale of San Diego State and the southwestern flavor of New Mexico.

The Mountain West Conference office is located in Colorado Springs, Colo., and is under the guidance of commissioner Craig Thompson. One of Thompson's first priorities was to secure a television contract for the conference. On Feb. 1, 1999, ESPN, Inc., and the Mountain West Conference announced a seven-year, $48 million agreement giving ESPN exclusive national television rights to MWC football and men's basketball.

Though in its infancy as a conference, the history of its members indicates that the fledgling Mountain West Conference will experience immediate national success.

Highlights through the MWC's first five years include three women's cross country national championships; participation in 15 bowl games; sending 16 of its men's basketball teams to postseason play in the last three years, including nine NCAA Tournament appearances; 12 berths in the NCAA Women's Basketball Tournament, including three "Sweet 16" appearances; sending five of eight men's golf teams to NCAAAs each of the last five years; and 14 NCAA Volleyball berths with two teams advancing to the Sweet 16 three of the last five years.

In addition to the 19 MWC-sponsored sports, programs like BYU, New Mexico and Utah have national titles in non-league sports, including two NCAA titles in 2004. BYU has laid claim to the 2004, 2001 and 1998 NCAA men's volleyball championships. New Mexico captured the '94 national championship in men's skiing. Utah has won a total of 21 national championships in the sports of women's gymnastics and skiing.
