INTRODUCING HEAD COACH CODY HAWKINS

After a national search, Idaho State University Director of Athletics Pauline Thiros has announced that Cody Hawkins has been named head coach of the Idaho State Football Program.

“Coach Hawkins exhibited in every way that he is the right person to lead Idaho State Football into the future. He is Idaho-grown, well-connected across our recruiting footprint, is the architect of a prolific scoring offense, and has the right values at the right time. I know Coach will offer our student-athletes what they need most to perform at their best. He is innovative and a culture builder. I am pleased to welcome Cody, his wife, Tianna, and their children Finley and Bowen to Pocatello and Idaho State University,” said Thiros.

Hawkins, an Idaho native, brings a wealth of experience to the position after spending the last six seasons at UC Davis in multiple roles. The previous three seasons as offensive coordinator, two as the wide receivers coach and one season as quality control. During his time with the Aggies, Hawkins helped lead the team to multiple FCS playoff appearances and a Big Sky Conference Championship in 2018. Hawkins had proven success while at UC Davis. Coordinating their offense, the Aggies averaged 35.91 points per game, 3rd in BSC in Total Offense. In 2022, Hawkins engineered an offense that produced the Big Sky’s leading rusher, passer, and 39.6 points scored average in Big Sky Conference play.

Hawkins has strong ties to the Gem State and made a name for himself while playing quarterback for Bishop Kelly High School in Boise in the mid-2000’s for the legendary Tim Brennan. During his high school career, Hawkins compiled a 40-0 record and won a state championship inside Holt Arena. He was named the Idaho Statesman State Player of the Year twice and in 2005, was named the Idaho Gatorade Player of the Year.

“I could not be more excited to help Pauline and President Satterlee create an amazing student-athlete experience here at Idaho State. Growing up in this great state, I have watched the Bengals for as long as I can remember. I have been in Holt Arena when it was rocking, and I look forward to building a program the Idaho State community, alumni, and fans are proud of. Tianna and I want to sincerely express how much it means to us to be moving home and have the opportunity to help this program honor its history and heritage by creating great memories and results, on and off the field,” said Hawkins.

Hawkins then moved on to the FBS level continuing his playing career with the Colorado Buffaloes. With the Buffs, Hawkins set school records for passing yards and passing touchdowns. He also earned multiple awards including the Kordell Stewart Career Achievement Award, the Eddie Crowder Award for outstanding leadership, and the Derek Singleton Award (leadership, enthusiasm, and dedication) on three separate occasions.

Hawkins continued to grow his coaching prowess as a graduate assistant coach at Ohio State University. In Columbus, he helped coach the wide receivers group and gained valuable offensive knowledge managing the Buckeye’s playbook, before heading to Los Angeles Valley College where he went 11-0 and won a state championship, and then UC Davis. In 2015 Hawkins was the Quarterback Coach and play caller for the United States Men’s National Team, helping them claim the title of 2015 IFAF World Champion.

“Coach Hawkins will lead our program with integrity, skill, and genuine enthusiasm. His vision to build our football program through a championship culture will inspire our team. Cody will be a great partner, leader and member of our Bengal community,” said Idaho State President Kevin Satterlee.

BENGAL BITES

- The Bengals only return 40 players on the roster from the 2022 season. Despite the low numbers, Coach Hawkins and his staff recruited a full 110 man roster for the 2023 season.

Calvin Pitcher joined the Bengals from Corona, California where he grew up and played for Centennial high school underneath Matt Logan. Calvin has a family of Father Cameron, Mother Amy and sister Amy. Calvin also has a brother Cameron who competed for the Bengals as a graduate transfer.

1. What brought you into the game of football: "My family, my dad played division II football at Washburn in Kansas. My brother played and as the younger sibling you always look at what the older brother is doing and I wanted to follow in his footsteps. Relating an anecdote of how the pitcher brothers came to play at ISU together," Cal remarks "he had an opportunity to play, he still had two years remaining and my dad floated the idea as a joke, I spoke with the coaches and they got him a spot on the team. It was so cool. In high school I was a freshman and he was a senior so I got to play with him a little but not much. Being able to practice together and have our family come see both of us was very cool."

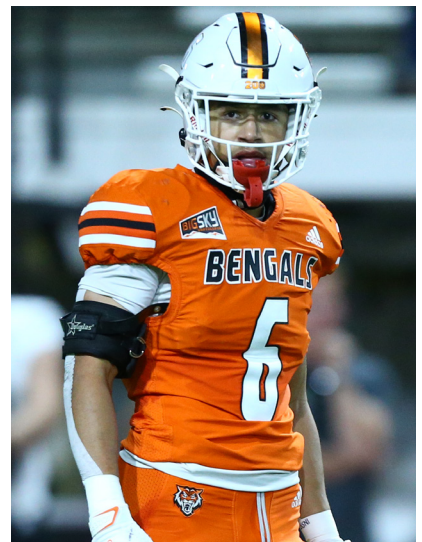

2. Fondest memory of playing career: "Freshman year winning the game against UC Davis. It was on my birthday, I got playing time as a freshman and we beat No. 7 ranked UC Davis at Home. Going into it I didn't expect to play. You have to come to work and I expected to come to the program and earn my spot eventually. I got to campus and found out that I could hit the field. I put in the work and started my sophomore year."

3. Do you have a mentor that sticks out: "I would say my brother. I think that he was a better football player than I was. He wasn't recruited enough and didn't get to DI out of high school like I did. He was a smarter player and to see him not be recognized as he should have I want to succeed for him, make it for the both of us."

4. What do you do in your free time: "I love video games, but since I've been in Idaho I've been trying to venture out a bit, I've started fishing and boating is a new adventure. Wake Surfing and I even went camping this summer. Always hang with friends but more and more outdoor activities."

5. Favorite Food: "I think I'm going to go with king crab legs or a cajun boil"

6. What piece of advice would you pass on to the next generation: "Be a good person, I think that's so overlooked, just show up and have a positive attitude to whatever it is I think goes such a long way."

COACH SPOTLIGHT

KOREY RUSH / DL COACH

Korey Rush joins the Bengals in 2023 as the defensive line coach. Rush, a Salt Lake City, UT native comes from a line of coaches as his father coaches for the Triple-A Salt Lake Bees ballclub. Rush played for the East High Leopards before getting recruited by the Nevada Wolfpack and spending his playing career in Reno from 2015-18 under Head Coach Jay Norvell

1. What brought you into the game of football – “I was more naturally inclined towards football. I tried baseball; it wasn’t bad but I was definitely better at football.” When asked how first base translated into the game of football Rush replied, “Not at all, while laughing.” “I have always had a passion for it, football has been a big deal in my family, my dad played it as well. As I got older football was a much bigger deal and I showed promise in it, which helped me grow to love the game.”

2. Fondest memory of playing career: “I love the day-to-day, being with my players and fellow coaches going at it day in and day out. Every one of my friends stems from football. A specific memory is probably when we beat UNLV at home my junior year, it was a fun game and I played pretty well.”

3. Do you have a mentor that sticks out: “Jeff Castillo was my defensive coordinator at Nevada. One of the best defensive coordinators for the last couple of decades. An amazing man, he taught me the schematics of defense, but more so how to inspire and lead men. He did a fantastic job and I learned a lot of my base knowledge from him. On the defensive line standpoint, Jason Kafusi is a huge mentor for me, an elite d line coach, how to convey messages and how to have a high standard while coaching in a way that the kids aren’t fearful of you. I’m really inspired to be like him.”

4. What do you do in your free time: “Just like to hang out. I’m fortunate, I have a core group of friends. I’m fortunate to only be a couple hours from Salt Lake. I can go see family and friends. I like to enjoy calm company.”

5. Favorite Food “I love all foods, but anything with Asian derivative is my favorite. I love sushi.”

6. What piece of advice would you pass on to the next generation? “Understand what it takes to be good in whatever you are trying to do. To be good in football carries over in anything you want to do; running a business, being a good father, etc. It comes down to attacking it every day and being process-oriented.”

HOLT ARENA RENNOVATION

In 1970 Idaho State University opened its doors to the first indoor collegiate football field in the country. Then named the ASISU Minidome, the name was later changed to Holt Arena to honor legendary coach and athletic director and now Big Sky Hall of Fame member Milton “Dubby” Holt.

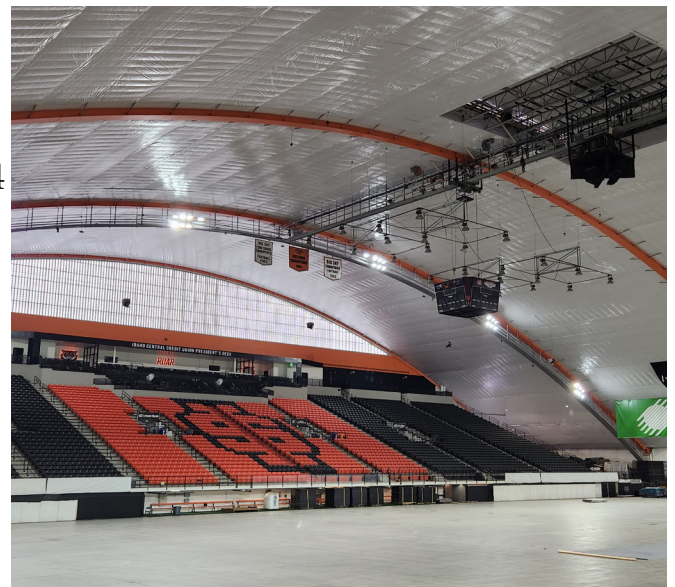

In 2021, the University announced a multi-million dollar renovation project to upgrade the facility and improve the fan experience. As renovations move forward on the north side with expediency, crews are working to remove Holt Arena’s old seats. Idaho State’s main priority is to complete the north side renovation project in time for home football games in the fall of 2022. A renovation on seating for the south side of the arena will occur in 2023.

The project has not only included new seats, but upgrades to the roof structure, improved seismic protection, Modernized technology in the building, a new presidents deck and increased availability of handicap and wheelchair access.

In 2023 The Bengals started construction on the southwest corner of the arena to add a new athletics film and study room that can also be used to host events inside of the arena.

Idaho Central Credit Union announced in 2023 a donation that will allow a new videoboard to be built on the west end of the arena for the 2024 season.

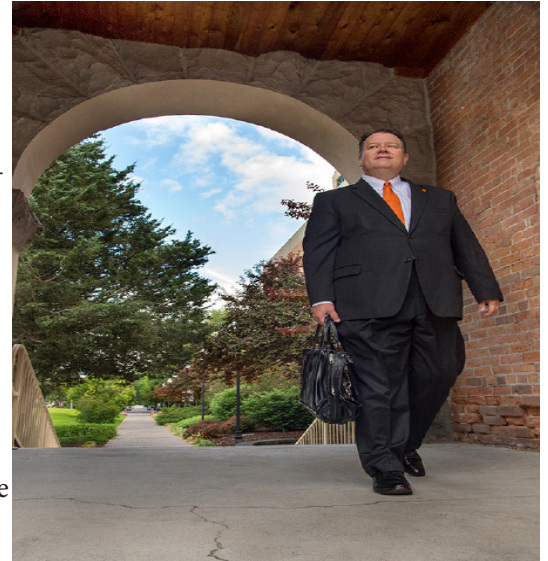

KEVIN SATTERLEE - IDAHO STATE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Kevin D. Satterlee became Idaho State University's 13th president in June 2018. Kevin is a native Idahoan from Priest River, Idaho. He has served Idaho's higher education system for over 20 years. Kevin has a passion for watching students transform their lives through their educational experiences. His favorite day of work for the last 20 years has always been the first day of school. Watching students begin a new year, with fresh hopes and the excitement for new opportunities, has never ceased to move and motivate Kevin.

Upon assuming the presidency, Kevin committed to faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of the University to always listen, be transparent and lead inclusively. As a natural problem-solver, the challenges facing Idaho State University, and higher education in general, do not phase Kevin. Rather, these challenges give Kevin the motivation and determination he needs to face them head-on.

Idaho State University's strengths are evident. As Idaho's leader in health science education, a strong partner of Idaho's National Laboratory, and a university where faculty and staff always put students first, there is an amazing story to tell. Kevin has been privileged to help share these stories with state leadership, community members and future students. One of his top priorities as president is to continue to build on and celebrate ISU's strengths, traditions and community culture.

In 2023, Satterlee announced he would retire at the end of the calendar year and a national search is currently underway.

PAULINE THIROS - ISU DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Pauline Semons Thiros is the Director of Athletics at Idaho State University and has enjoyed a successful 26-year-career as a coach, development professional and Director of Athletics. She started at Idaho State University as Assistant Volleyball Coach and Recruiting Coordinator in 1995, following a standout playing career which earned her All Big Sky Conference Honors. She received her Bachelor of Science in Health Care Administration from ISU in 1995, and her Master of Education in Athletic Administration in 1999. Her efforts on the court earned her an induction to the ISU Sports Hall of Fame in 2006.

In August of 2018 Pauline was named Interim Director of Athletics at Idaho State University, and achieved extraordinary results in that role. She advanced the Davis Field renovation project, successfully proposed a student fee increase to support athletic department initiatives, and built corporate partnerships to expand facilities, staffing and services for student athletes. Following a rigorous four-month national search which began in December of 2018, Thiros was named Director of Athletics at Idaho State University in March 2019. She is the first female Director of Athletics to be named at a Division I University in Idaho. She is currently the Chair of the Big Sky Conference Joint Athletics Committee, former Chair of the Big Sky Conference Olympic Sports Committee, and serves on the Big Sky Conference Eligibility Committee, Legislative Review Committee, Mental Health and Wellness Committee. She is the Big Sky Conference Administrator for NCAA Volleyball. In August of 2019 she was appointed to the prestigious NCAA Division I Women's Volleyball Committee. Thiros serves on the Board of Directors for Hoop Camp, a unified sports camp program offering participation opportunities for people of all ages with special needs.
