GOOD.

Offering Support and Hope.

The National Alliance on Mental Illness of Santa Cruz County exists to educate, advocate and support those affected by mental illness, their families, friends and our community.

Millions of Americans face the day-to-day reality of living with mental illness. We get it. We've been there. We offer help and hope. NAMI embraces people living with mental illness and their families. We know that the path to recovery lies with individual, family and community education, peer and family support, and the promotion of public understanding. Through our free classes we educate families, providers and those living with mental illness. We offer support through our Warm Line and Support Groups. We advocate for better and increased access to services for people in our county.
