

HERE FOR GOOD.

Putting lives back together.

Survivors of domestic violence (DV) face overwhelming challenges as they work to put their lives back together after traumatic events. Sacred Heart Community Service works with survivors to address both their physical and emotional well-being. In addition to addressing immediate safety and legal issues, the program provides opportunities for leadership development and community engagement, empowering survivors to use their strength and resilience to address the persistent problem of DV in our community. Services provided include direct service through case management, safety planning, restraining order assistance & accompaniment, support groups and healing through art classes.
