2024 H1 Report & Business Update

Performance Highlights

Elsight continued to refine its product fit for the global defence and Homeland Security markets, resulting in an 83% increase in revenue from H1/24 compared to H1/23.

Recurrent revenue increased significantly by 108% or $181K, an increase that is due in part to the increased orders in the defence industry. New Design-Win commercial customers were acquired in H1, including Lockheed Martin, the U.S. giant in the defence industry, ACSL, Japan's largest drone manufacturer, Aerodrome Group offering aerial intelligence to multiple industries and Event38 supplying drones for markets such as Oil&Gas inspections.

News Highlights:

- Lockheed Martin, the U.S. giant in the defence industry contracted with Elsieht to integrate the Halo platform to its Indago4 Quadcopter.
- ACSL, Japan's largest drone manufacturer, will use Elsieht's Halo in its drones for logistics. This was the first deal made by Elsieht's regional partner in Japan, Navicom.
- Event38 and AviSight announced the selection of Elsieht's Halo in its inspections of large Oil&Gas pipelines in the U.S.
- Co-founder & CTO, Roee Kashi, was elected to the GSMA Drone Interest Group, to lead innovation between mobile operators and uncrewed aerial vehicles.
- In July 2024, Elsieht received additional orders from the Israel Police that were part of the tender won in 2023. In addition, the Company began a pilot program with another defence organization using the Halo for a communications application unrelated to UAVs.

Elsight Limited (ASX: ELS) (Elsight or the Company), the carrier agnostic, AI-powered connectivity solutions company, is pleased to provide the following Business Update, outlining the Company's achievements over the first half of 2024.

Continued growth as Elsight increases its focus on defence industries

Thanks to the renewed focus on the defence market beginning in Q4/23, Elsight's sales have maintained their upswing, leading to an increased level of H1/24 revenue of 83% over H1/23. This continuous higher sales level verifies Halo's ideal product fit for the global defence & HLS markets in various geographies.

It's important to keep in mind that Elsight's expanded focus required greater marketing and sales investment to penetrate the defence market and requires time to show results due to much longer sale cycles in the typical government procurement timeframes. Starting in Q4/23 much of the revenue increase came from urgently needed defence and HLS orders marked by relatively reduced red tape. Now that Elsight is a recognized' known, and established defense supplier and the urgency has somewhat subsided, the red tape is back, and the procurement processes are longer. However, this is a mature market with a much higher sale consistency and revenue volume in comparison to the Company's traditional commercial drone delivery market which is still in its embryonic stages. Down the road, this should help Elsight in its rate of revenue increase and accuracy of revenue predictions and planning. In addition, despite operating with an extremely frugal marketing investment to maintain and increase the Company's exposure in the current commercial market.

The Half-Year Promising Results

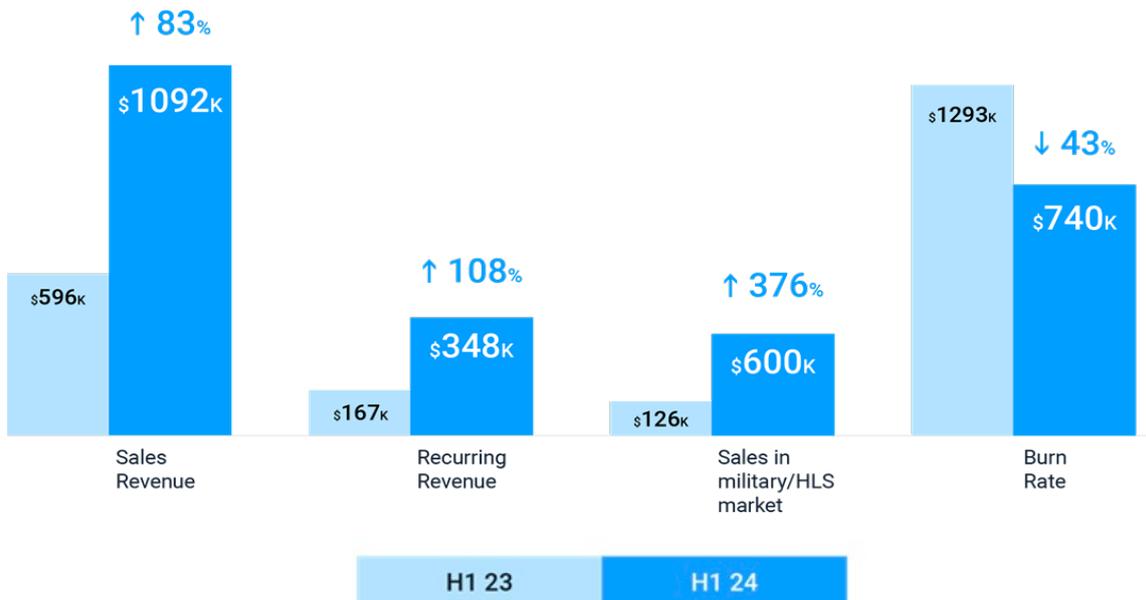

Table 1 This chart sets out the Half year results

For personal use only

Burn rate

Elsight's Burn Rate in H1/24 reached $740K, which is $554K or 43% lower than H1/23 reflecting the higher positive cash flow despite the increased marketing investment required for new market penetration (e.g. events, content and collateral creation, ABM strategies etc.).

Team expansion planned

In light of the increased government tenders and RFPs in the defence sector globally, Elsight's management decided that it is imperative to add two sales positions to enable the Company to obtain a greater portion of these opportunities. Therefore, two positions, one in EMEA sales, the other in project management, have been advertised.

Recurring revenue

Elsight's business model of recurring revenue is derived from customers' Halo usage (connectivity charges and our Allsight cloud option). In H1/24, there was a 108% increase to $348K over H1/23 ($167K), which is consistent with the increase in sales.

The US Army is looking to use robust connectivity technology for "remote combat"

The US Army is looking for technologies that use jam-resistant connectivity for its soldiers to be in less danger. They are evaluating the use of Robotic Combat Vehicles (RCVs) and acknowledge that the key part to the success of using robotic vehicles is the quality of the communications link. "It's our first robot system like this [that] we're actually going to keep. So, I'm not surprised that there's turbulence in the key technologies, including the radio comm link, which is foundational to the whole thing," said Army acquisition head Doug Bush.

Elsight Featured in Tier 1 Technology US-based Publication "Fast Company"

The technology focused magazine "Fast Company" recently featured Elsight as the key player in supporting the growth and success of the drone delivery services of Walmart. "Behind the scenes of Walmart's drone delivery service, however, are companies like Elsight, which DroneUp has been leaning on since 2022 to make sure its unmanned systems stay connected. Reliable communication is essential for mission completion," says John Vernon, CTO of DroneUp. "We can't have drones dropping out of the sky because they lose signal. Unlike a dropped video call, a lost connection during a drone flight could have serious consequences."

The Company's Design-Win partners are showing continued development, scale, and loyalty.

- Lockheed Martin, a new design-win partner and the U.S. giant in the defence industry contracted with Elsieht to integrate the Halo platform to its Indago4 Quadcopter.
- ACSL, a new design-win partner, and Japan's largest drone manufacturer, will use Elsieht's Halo in its drones for delivery logistics and deliveries, and selected Elsieht for the Halo's ability to manage over hilly terrain. This win was the first with a regional partner, Navicom, who has begun to manage the sales and support of Elsieht in parts of Asia.
- DroneUp, a world-leading U.S.-based drone delivery company serving the retail giant Walmart, accelerated its activities since the US Government passed a bill encouraging the growth of the commercial drone industry, particularly a section that mandates the FAA to develop a final rule for the operation of drones beyond the visual line of sight (BVLOS) in a little more than a year. In the wake of the FAA new decision, DroneUp announced its plans for major US expansion after FAA reauthorization boosts drone industry when Anthony Vittone, DroneUp's COO stated that "the authorization bill is probably one of the biggest things to help the advancement of drones into the national airspace, maybe even bigger than Part 107.
- Event38 and AviSight, a new design-win for Elsieht, Event38 a manufacturer of unmanned aerial vehicles in the US and its customer AviSight, a provider of critical infrastructure inspections, selected the Halo for more precise inspections of Oil&Gas pipelines throughout difficult terrain.
- In July 2024, Elsieht received additional orders from the Israel Police that were part of the tender won in 2023.
- In addition, the Company began a pilot program with another defence organization using the Halo for a communications application unrelated to UAVs.
- Long time partner, CENSYS Technologies, has received a significant waiver from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) that allows their drones to operate over people and moving vehicles without the need for visual observers. This approval marks a considerable advancement in the field of drone operations, particularly for Beyond Visual Line of Sight (BVLOS) applications.
- Poland-based partner, Farada, increased its Halo orders during H1/24, due to its increased activity in defence activities in the region.
- InfiniDrones of Canada, a relatively new drone manufacturer, purchased the Halo for several of their models serving a wide range of commercial applications.

The Dallas-Fort Worth "Battlefield" DroneUp Strategic Opportunity

In order to test how commercial drone operation will work at scale in crowded skies in the US, the FAA requires a location where it is possible to test this scenario with multiple operators from Walmart stores in the defined area. The Walmart stores in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area using 3 competing Drone Parcel Delivery providers working simultaneously in the same airspace is the perfect place to create these conditions.

One early key noticeable advantage of this real-life trial is Walmart's commitment to include drone delivery on their website as part of the normal product purchasing and delivery process.

This is in clear contrast to all other Walmart stores where to request a drone delivery, the customer must go out of the Walmart App and move to the DroneUp App, which dramatically restricts the volume of orders. The daily volume of deliveries is key to reducing the per-unit delivery cost to its target. The earlier "trials demonstrated we could offer customers delivery in minutes versus hours," Walmart's U.S. CEO, John Furner expressed. This operational shift towards the Dallas-Ft.

Worth area suggests that Walmart is aiming for greater efficiency and reliability as it simplifies its drone delivery process. To reciprocate with Walmart's decision, DroneUp has also just announced its strategic commercial decision to move its focus to this more profitable and challenging market where winner may take all. At the conclusion of this FAA monitored trial and based on the lessons studied - it is expected that the FAA will give greater rein and freedom to operate to this industry with a positive impact to both Walmart and Droneup, paving the way to a more efficient and profitable delivery operation.

Business risk disclosure

Material business risks that could affect future operational and financial growth of the Group are as follows:

Currency and Foreign Exchange Risk

There is a currency risk in relation to the value of financial instruments, possibly fluctuating due to changes in foreign exchange rates. This currency risk may arise when future commercial transactions and recognized assets and liabilities are denominated in a currency that is not the Company's functional currency.

The Company is also exposed to foreign exchange risk arising from various currency exposures primarily with respect to the US Dollar and the New Israeli Shekel. Any reasonable fluctuation in exchange rates is not expected to have a material impact on either profit or equity. However, the Company acknowledges that currency risk and/or foreign exchange risk remains a potential future risk for the Group, and the Company continually monitors this.

Competition in key markets

The industry in which the Group is involved is subject to domestic and international competition. Whilst the Group undertakes reasonable due diligence in business decisions and its operations, the Group has no influence or level of control over the activities of its competitors.

The Company has worked diligently on its product innovation to ensure that it remains as the market leader in BVLOS (Beyond Visual Line-Of-Sight) communication solutions (Products), and through its Design-Win program, has partnered with over 100 different drone and UAV manufacturers and service providers who are all using the Company's Products as their connectivity solution, in many cases embedding the Product in the design of the drone and proceeding to regulatory certification of their drone with the Product onboard.

The Company's technology (which comprises its Products) is protected by multiple patents, and ELS is constantly following potential competition to make sure that the Company stays ahead of the market. Additionally, the Company considers that its design-win concept of the Products provides significant protection against the Company's potential competition, as it makes it very hard to change critical components like ours once an entity has designed its solution around the Products, and in many cases, once an entity has gone through the long certifications process with the Products included in their own product. Furthermore, as part of our stickiness effort - the Company is providing the best professional support and speed of order delivery to its partnering customers who clearly recognize this.

Reliance on Key Personnel and Consultants

The Company's success largely depends on the core competencies of its directors, management and third-party consultants and their familiarization with, and ability to operate in, the telecommunications and related industries. The financial performance of the Company and the value of an investment in the Company party depend on the ability of the Company to retain these key personnel and consultants.

General Economic Conditions

The Company's operating and financial performance is influenced by a variety of general economic and business conditions including the level of inflation, interest rates and government fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies. Prolonged deterioration in general economic conditions, including an increase in interest rates, could be expected to have a corresponding adverse impact on the Company's operating and financial performance.

There were no significant changes in the state of affairs of the Group during this half year.

Based on our review, which is not an audit, we have not become aware of any matter that makes us believe that the half-year financial report of Elsight Limited is not in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 including:

- (a) giving a true and fair view of Group's financial position as at 30 June 2024 and of its performance for the half-year ended on that date; and

We are independent of the Group in accordance with the auditor independence requirements of the Corporations Act 2001 and the ethical requirements of the Accounting Professional and Ethical Standards Board's APES 110 Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including Independence Standards) (the Code) that are relevant to our audit of the annual financial report in Australia. Directors' Responsibility for the Half-Year Financial Report

The directors of the Elsie Limited are responsible for the preparation of the half-year financial report that gives a true and fair view in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards and the Corporations Act 2001 and for such internal control as the directors determine is necessary to enable the preparation of the half-year financial report that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

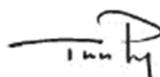

Auditor's Responsibility for the Review of the Financial Report

Our responsibility is to express a conclusion on the half-year financial report based on our review. We conducted our review in accordance with Auditing Standard on Review Engagements ASRE 2410 Review of a Financial Report Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity, in order to state whether, on the basis of the procedures described, we have become aware of any matter that makes us believe that the half-year financial report is not in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 including: giving a true and fair view of the Group's financial position as at 30 June 2024 and its performance for the half-year ended on that date; and complying with Accounting Standard AASB 134 Interim Financial Reporting and the Corporations Regulations 2001.

A review of a half-year financial report consists of making enquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards and consequently does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.
