Copyright

All design and artwork is subject to copyright. This means they are to be used in accordance with the following conditions:

What you can do:

Store and print the resources for your own or teaching purposes. Reduce or enlarge the resources by means of digital printing or photocopying.

What you are not allowed to do:

Manipulate, build on or develop the resources in any way. Make them available for distribution or reproduce them for other people, including any information storage or online hosting system.

All of the free downloadable resources available on the Early Years website are original designs. Any similarity to any existing designs is purely coincidental and not intentional by any means. All of the resources are offered royalty-free to be used in accordance with the conditions above.

Early Years Resources cannot be held responsible for resources that have been adapted or manipulated in any way as to make them offensive or unlawful. Each resource has a security system in place to prevent modification - we cannot be responsible for incidents of this being overridden and digitally altered beyond our control.

Thank you for understanding our terms, we hope you find the products useful.

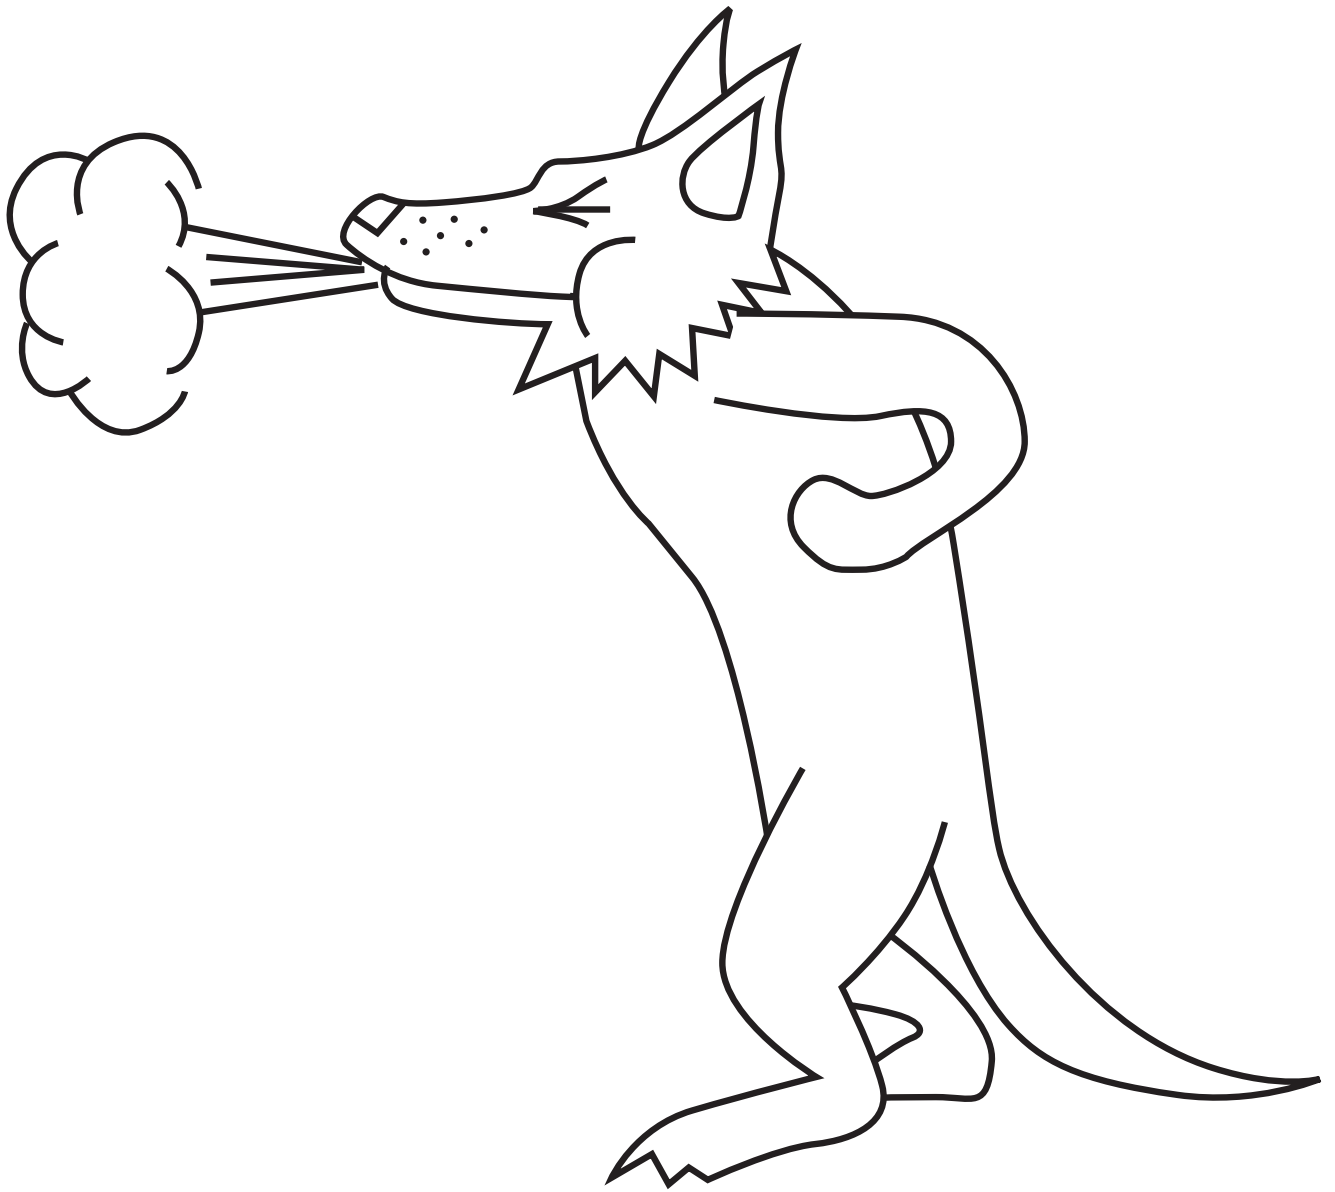

Don't forget to keep checking back on our website for more resources - we will continue to add new ones as and when we get chance. Also, don't forget to email us your suggestions for resources you would like to see available. This project can only be a success with your feedback!
